"(2) NO COMPARABLE TREATMENT REQUIRED.—Any different treatment provided under this section for institutionalized spouses shall not require such treatment for other individuals.

"(3) DOES NOT AFFECT CERTAIN DETERMINATIONS.—Except as this section specifically provides, this section does not apply to—

"(A) the determination of what constitutes income or resources; or

"(B) the methodology and standards for determining and evaluating income and resources.

"(b) RULES FOR TREATMENT OF INCOME.—

"(1) SEPARATE TREATMENT OF INCOME.—During any month in which an institutionalized spouse is in the institution, except as provided in paragraph (2), no income of the community spouse shall be deemed available to the institutionalized spouse.

"(2) ATTRIBUTION OF INCOME.—In determining the income of an institutionalized spouse or community spouse for purposes of the post-eligibility income determination described in subsection (d), except as otherwise provided in this section and regardless of any State laws relating to community property or the division of marital property, the following rules apply:

"(A) NON-TRUST PROPERTY.—Subject to subparagraphs (C) and (D), in the case of income not from a trust, unless the instrument providing the income otherwise specifically provides—

"(i) if payment of income is made solely in the name of the institutionalized spouse or the community spouse, the income shall be considered available only to that respective spouse;

"(ii) if payment of income is made in the names of the institutionalized spouse and the community spouse, ½ of the income shall be considered available to each of them; and

"(II) if payment of income is made to both the institutionalized spouse and the community spouse, ½ of the income shall be considered available to each of them, and

"(III) if payment of income is made to the institutionalized spouse or the community spouse, or both, and to another person or persons, the income shall be considered available to each spouse in proportion to the spouse's interest (or, if payment is made with respect to both spouses and no such interest is specified, ½ of the joint interest shall be considered available to each spouse).

"(C) PROPERTY WITH NO INSTRUMENT.—In the case of income not from a trust in which there is no instrument establishing ownership, subject to subparagraph (D), ½ of the income shall be considered to be available to the institutionalized spouse and ½ to the community spouse.

"(D) REBUTTING OWNERSHIP.—The rules of subparagraphs (A) and (C) are superseded to the extent that an institutionalized spouse can establish, by a preponderance of the evidence, that the ownership interests in income are other than as provided under such subparagraphs.

"(c) RULES FOR TREATMENT OF RESOURCES.—

"(1) COMPUTATION OF SPOUSAL SHARE AT TIME OF INSTITUTIONALIZATION.—

"(A) TOTAL JOINT RESOURCES.—There shall be computed (as of the beginning of the first continuous period of institutionalization (beginning on or after September 30, 1989) of the institutionalized spouse)—

"(B) ASSESSMENT.—At the request of an institutionalized spouse or community spouse, at the beginning of the first continuous period of institutionalization (beginning on or after September 30, 1989) of the institutionalized spouse and upon the receipt of relevant documentation of resources, the State shall promptly assess and document the total value described in subparagraph (A)(i) and shall provide a copy of such assessment and documentation to each spouse and shall retain a copy of the assessment for use under this section. If the request is not part of an application for medical assistance under a medicaid plan approved under this title, the State may, at its option as a condition of providing the assessment, require payment of a fee not exceeding the reasonable expenses of providing and documenting the assessment. At the time of providing the copy of the assessment, the State shall include a notice indicating that the spouse will have a right to a fair hearing under subsection (e)(2).

"(2) ATTRIBUTION OF RESOURCES AT TIME OF INITIAL ELIGIBILITY DETERMINATION.—In determining the resources of an institutionalized spouse at the time of application for benefits under a medicaid plan approved under this title, regardless of any State laws relating to community property or the division of marital property—

"(A) except as provided in subparagraph (B), all the resources held by either the institutionalized spouse, community spouse, or both, shall be considered to be available to the institutionalized spouse; and

"(B) resources shall be considered to be available to an institutionalized spouse, but only to the extent that the amount of such resources exceeds the amount computed under subsection (f)(2)(A) (as of the time of application for benefits).

"(3) ASSIGNMENT OF SUPPORT RIGHTS.—The institutionalized spouse shall not be ineligible by reason of resources determined under paragraph (2) to be available for the cost of care where—

"(A) the institutionalized spouse has assigned to the State any rights to support from the community spouse;

"(B) the institutionalized spouse lacks the ability to execute an assignment due to physical or mental impairment but the State has the right to bring a support proceeding against a community spouse without such assignment; or

"(C) the State determines that denial of eligibility would work an undue hardship.

"(4) SEPARATE TREATMENT OF RESOURCES AFTER ELIGIBILITY FOR BENEFITS ESTABLISHED.—During the continuous period in which an institutionalized spouse is in an institution and after the month in which an institutionalized spouse is determined to be eligible for benefits under a medicaid plan approved under this title, no resources of the community spouse shall be deemed available to the institutionalized spouse.

"(A) A personal needs allowance (described in paragraph (2)(A)), in an amount not less than the amount specified in paragraph (2)(B).

"(3) COMMUNITY SPOUSE MONTHLY INCOME ALLOWANCE DEFINED.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of this section (except as provided in subparagraph (B)), the community spouse monthly income allowance for a community spouse is an amount by which—

"(ii) the amount of monthly income otherwise available to the community spouse (determined without regard to such an allowance).

"(B) COURT ORDERED SUPPORT.—If a court has entered an order against an institutionalized spouse for monthly income for the support of the community spouse, the community spouse monthly income allowance for the spouse shall be not less than the amount of the monthly income so ordered.

"(B) the standard utility allowance (used by the State under section 5(e) of the Food Stamp Act of 1977) or, if the State does not use such an allowance, the spouse's actual utility expenses, exceeds 30 percent of the amount described in paragraph (4)(A)(i), except that, in the case of a condominium or cooperative, for which a maintenance charge is included under subparagraph (A), any allowance under subparagraph (B) shall be reduced to the extent the maintenance charge includes utility expenses.

"(6) INCURRED EXPENSES.—For purposes of this section, with respect to the post-eligibility treatment of income of individuals who are institutionalized or who would otherwise require institutionalization but for the provision of home or community-based services, there shall be disregarded reparation payments made by the Federal Republic of Germany and, there shall be taken into account amounts for incurred expenses for medical or remedial care that are not subject to payment by a third party, including—

"(A) medicare and other health insurance premiums, deductibles, or coinsurance; and

"(2) FAIR HEARING.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—If either the institutionalized spouse or the community spouse is dissatisfied with a determination of—

"(i) the community spouse monthly income allowance;

"(ii) the amount of monthly income otherwise available to the community spouse (as applied under subsection (d)(2)(B)); such spouse is entitled to a fair hearing with respect to such determination if an application for benefits under a medicaid plan approved under this title has been made on behalf of the institutionalized spouse. Any such hearing respecting the determination of the community spouse resource allowance shall be held within 30 days of the date of the request for the hearing.

"(B) REVISION OF MINIMUM MONTHLY MAINTENANCE NEEDS ALLOWANCE.—If either such spouse establishes that the community spouse needs income, above the level otherwise provided by the minimum monthly maintenance needs allowance, due to exceptional circumstances resulting in significant financial duress, there shall be substituted, for the minimum monthly maintenance needs allowance in subsection (d)(2)(A), an amount adequate to provide such additional income as is necessary.

"(C) REVISION OF COMMUNITY SPOUSE RESOURCE ALLOWANCE.—If either such spouse establishes that the community spouse resource allowance (in relation to the amount of income generated by such an allowance) is inadequate to raise the community spouse's income to the minimum monthly maintenance needs allowance, there shall be substituted, for the community spouse resource allowance under subsection (f)(2), an amount adequate to provide such a minimum monthly maintenance needs allowance.

"(f) PERMITTING TRANSFER OF RESOURCES TO COMMUNITY SPOUSE.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—An institutionalized spouse may transfer an amount equal to the community spouse resource allowance (as determined under paragraph (2)), but only to the extent the resources of the institutionalized spouse are transferred to, or for the sole benefit of, the community spouse. "(B) ADJUSTMENTS.—

"(i) CARRYOVER OF ALLOTMENT PERMITTED.—If the amount of obligations entered into under this part with a State for quarters in a fiscal year is less than the amount of the obligation allotment under this section to the State for the fiscal year, the amount of the difference shall be added to the amount of the State obligation allotment otherwise provided under this section for the succeeding fiscal year.

"(ii) REDUCTION FOR POST-ENACTMENT NEW OBLIGATIONS UNDER TITLE XIX IN FISCAL YEAR 1996.—The amount of the obligation allotment otherwise provided under this section for fiscal year 1996 for a State shall be reduced by the amount of the obligations entered into with respect to the State under section 1903(a) after the date of the enactment of this title.

"(3) AGGREGATE LIMIT ON NEW OBLIGATION AUTHORITY.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of this subsection, subject to subparagraph (C), the aggregate limit on new obligation authority, for a fiscal year, is the pool amount under subsection (b) for the fiscal year, divided by the payout adjustment factor (described in subparagraph (B)) for the fiscal year.

"(i) for fiscal year 1996 is .950;

"(ii) for fiscal year 1997 is .986; and

"(iii) for a subsequent fiscal year is .998.

"(C) TRANSITIONAL ADJUSTMENT FOR PRE-ENACTMENT-OBLIGATION OUTLAYS.—In order to account for pre-enactment-obligation outlays described in paragraph (4)(C)(iv), in determining the aggregate limit on new obligation authority under subparagraph (A) for fiscal year 1996, the pool amount for such fiscal year is equal to—

"(i) the pool amount for such year; reduced by

The total of such amounts shall equal the dollar amount specified in paragraph (3)(C)(ii).

"(2) an amount equal to the Federal medical assistance percentage of the total amount expended during such quarter for medically-related services (as defined in section 2112(d)(2)); plus

"(3) an amount equal to—

"(A) 90 percent of the amounts expended during such quarter for the design, development, and installation of information systems and for providing incentives to promote the enforcement of medical support orders, plus

"(B) 75 percent of the amounts expended during such quarter for medical personnel, administrative support of medical personnel, operation and maintenance of information systems, modification of information systems, quality assurance activities, utilization review, medical and peer review, anti-fraud activities, independent evaluations, coordination of benefits, and meeting reporting requirements under this title, plus

"(C) 50 percent of so much of the remainder of the amounts expended during such quarter as are expended by the State in the administration of the State plan.

"(b) PAYMENT PROCESS.—

"(1) QUARTERLY ESTIMATES.—Prior to the beginning of each quarter, the Secretary shall estimate the amount to which a State will be entitled under subsection (a) for such quarter, such estimates to be based on (A) a report filed by the State containing its estimate of the total sum to be expended in such quarter in accordance with the provisions of such subsections, and stating the amount appropriated or made available by the State and its political subdivisions for such expenditures in such quarter, and if such amount is less than the State's proportionate share of the total sum of such estimated expenditures, the source or sources from which the difference is expected to be derived, and (B) such other investigation as the Secretary may find necessary.

"(2) PAYMENT.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall then pay to the State, in such installments as the Secretary may determine and in accordance with section 6503(a) of title 31, United States Code, the amount so estimated, reduced or increased to the extent of any overpayment or underpayment which the Secretary determines was made under this section (or section 1903) to such State for any prior quarter and with respect to which adjustment has not already been made under this subsection (or under section 1903(d)).

"(B) TREATMENT AS OVERPAYMENTS.—Expenditures for which payments were made to the State under subsection (a) shall be treated as an overpayment to the extent that the State or local agency administering such plan has been reimbursed for such expenditures by a third party pursuant to the provisions of its plan in compliance with section 2135.

"(C) RECOVERY OF OVERPAYMENTS.—For purposes of this subsection, when an overpayment is discovered, which was made by a State to a person or other entity, the State shall have a period of 60 days in which to recover or attempt to recover such overpayment before adjustment is made in the Federal payment to such State on account of such overpayment. Except as otherwise provided in subparagraph (D), the adjustment in the Federal payment shall be made at the end of the 60 days, whether or not recovery was made.

"(D) NO ADJUSTMENT FOR UNCOLLECTABLES.—In any case where the State is unable to recover a debt which represents an overpayment (or any portion thereof) made to a person or other entity on account of such debt having been discharged in bankruptcy or otherwise being uncollectable, no adjustment shall be made in the Federal payment to such State on account of such overpayment (or portion thereof).

"(3) FEDERAL SHARE OF RECOVERIES.—The pro rata share to which the United States is equitably entitled, as determined by the Secretary, of the net amount recovered during any quarter by the State or any political subdivision thereof with respect to medical assistance furnished under the State plan shall be considered an overpayment to be adjusted under this subsection.

"(4) TIMING OF OBLIGATION OF FUNDS.—Upon the making of any estimate by the Secretary under this subsection, any appropriations available for payments under this section shall be deemed obligated.

"(5) DISALLOWANCES.—In any case in which the Secretary estimates that there has been an overpayment under this section to a State on the basis of a claim by such State that has been disallowed by the Secretary under section 1116(d), and such State disputes such disallowance, the amount of the Federal payment in controversy shall, at the option of the State, be retained by such State or recovered by the Secretary pending a final determination with respect to such payment amount. If such final determination is to the effect that any amount was properly disallowed, and the State chose to retain payment of the amount in controversy, the Secretary shall offset, from any subsequent payments made to such State under this title, an amount equal to the proper amount of the disallowance plus interest on such amount disallowed for the period beginning on the date such amount was disallowed and ending on the date of such final determination at a rate (determined by the Secretary) based on the average of the bond equivalent of the weekly 90-day treasury bill auction rates during such period.

"(B) EXCEPTION.—For purposes of this title only, for Alaska, the State percentage is that percentage which bears the same ratio to 45 percent as the square of the adjusted per capita income of such State bears to the square of the per capita income of the continental United States. "(1) GENERAL LIMITATIONS.—

"(A) REDUCTION IN MEDICAL ASSISTANCE EXPENDITURES.—Notwithstanding the previous provisions of this section, for purposes of determining the amount to be paid to a State (as defined in paragraph (5)(D)) under this section for quarters in any fiscal year, the total amount expended during such fiscal year as medical assistance under the medicaid plan (as determined without regard to this subsection) shall be reduced by the sum of any revenues received by the State (or by a unit of local government in the State) during the fiscal year—

"(i) from provider-related donations (as defined in paragraph (2)(A)), other than—

"(I) bona fide provider-related donations (as defined in paragraph (2)(B)), and

"(II) donations described in paragraph (2)(C);

"(ii) from health care related taxes (as defined in paragraph (3)(A)), other than broad-based health care related taxes (as defined in paragraph (3)(B)); or

"(iii) from a broad-based health care related tax, if there is in effect a hold harmless provision (described in paragraph (4)) with respect to the tax.

"(B) REDUCTION IN ADMINISTRATIVE EXPENDITURES.—Notwithstanding the previous provisions of this section, for purposes of determining the amount to be paid to a State under this section for all quarters in a Federal fiscal year (beginning with fiscal year 1996), the total amount expended during the fiscal year for administrative expenditures under the medicaid plan (as determined without regard to this subsection) shall be reduced by the sum of any revenues received by the State (or by a unit of local government in the State) during such quarters from donations described in paragraph (2)(C), to the extent the amount of such donations exceeds 10 percent of the amounts expended under the medicaid plan approved under this title during the fiscal year for purposes described in subsection (a)(3).

"(2) PROVIDER-RELATED DONATIONS.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of this subsection, the term 'provider-related donation' means any donation or other voluntary payment (whether in cash or in kind) made (directly or indirectly) to a State or unit of local government by—

"(iii) an entity providing goods or services under the State plan for which payment is made to the State under subsection (a)(3).

"(B) BONA FIDE PROVIDER-RELATED DONATIONS.—For purposes of paragraph (1)(A)(i)(I), the term 'bona fide provider-related donation' means a provider-related donation that has no direct or indirect relationship (as determined by the Secretary) to payments made under this title to that provider, to providers furnishing the same class of items and services as that provider, or to any related entity, as established by the State to the satisfaction of the Secretary. The Secretary may by regulation specify types of provider-related donations described in the previous sentence that will be considered to be bona fide provider-related donations.

"(C) DONATIONS DESCRIBED.—For purposes of paragraph (1)(A)(i)(II), donations described in this subparagraph are funds expended by a hospital, clinic, or similar entity for the direct cost (including costs of training and of preparing and distributing outreach materials) of State or local agency personnel who are stationed at the hospital, clinic, or entity to determine the eligibility of individuals for medical assistance under a medicaid plan approved under this title and to provide outreach services to eligible or potentially eligible individuals.

"(3) HEALTH CARE RELATED TAXES.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of this subsection, the term 'health care related tax' means a tax (as defined in paragraph (5)(F)) that—

"(i) is related to health care items or services, or to the provision of, the authority to provide, or payment for, such items or services; or

"(ii) is not limited to such items or services but provides for treatment of individuals or entities that are providing or paying for such items or services that is different from the treatment provided to other individuals or entities.

In applying clause (i), a tax is considered to relate to health care items or services if at least 85 percent of the burden of such tax falls on health care providers.

"(B) BROAD-BASED HEALTH CARE RELATED TAX.—For purposes of this subsection, the term 'broad-based health care related tax' means a health care related tax which is imposed with respect to a class of health care items or services (as described in paragraph (5)(A)) or with respect to providers of such items or services and which, except as provided in subparagraphs (D) and (E)—

"(III) in the case of a tax based on revenues or receipts with respect to a class of items or services (or providers of items or services) the tax is imposed at a uniform rate for all items and services (or providers of such items or services) in the class on all the gross revenues or receipts, or net operating revenues, relating to the provision of all such items or services (or all such providers) in the State (or, in the case of a tax imposed by a unit of local government within the State, in the area over which the unit has jurisdiction); or

"(IV) in the case of any other tax, the State establishes to the satisfaction of the Secretary that the tax is imposed uniformly.

"(ii) DETERMINATION OF NONUNIFORMITY.—Subject to subparagraphs (D) and (E), a tax imposed with respect to a class of health care items and services is not considered to be imposed uniformly if the tax provides for any credits, exclusions, or deductions which have as their purpose or effect the return to providers of all or a portion of the tax paid in a manner that is inconsistent with subclauses (I) and (II) of subparagraph (E)(ii) or provides for a hold harmless provision described in paragraph (4).

"(D) EXCEPTIONS TO NONUNIFORMITY DETERMINATIONS.—A tax imposed with respect to a class of health care items and services is considered to be imposed uniformly—

"(i) notwithstanding that the tax is not imposed with respect to items or services (or the providers thereof) for which payment is made under a medicaid plan approved under this title or title XVIII; or

"(ii) in the case of a tax described in subparagraph (C)(i)(III), notwithstanding that the tax provides for exclusion (in whole or in part) of revenues or receipts from a medicaid plan approved under this title or title XVIII.

"(E) WAIVER APPLICATION FOR TREATMENTS AS BROAD-BASED TAX.—

"(i) IN GENERAL.—A State may submit an application to the Secretary requesting that the Secretary treat a tax as a broad-based health care related tax, notwithstanding that the tax does not apply to all health care items or services in class (or all providers of such items and services), provides for a credit, deduction, or exclusion, is not applied uniformly, or otherwise does not meet the requirements of subparagraph (B) or (C). Permissible waivers may include exemptions for rural or sole-community providers.

"(ii) WAIVER APPROVAL REQUIREMENTS.—The Secretary shall approve such an application if the State establishes to the satisfaction of the Secretary that—

"(I) the net impact of the tax and associated expenditures under the medicaid plan approved under this title as proposed by the State is generally redistributive in nature; and

"(II) the amount of the tax is not directly correlated to payments under such plan for items or services with respect to which the tax is imposed.

"(iii) DETERMINATION OF REDISTRIBUTIVE NATURE.—In determining whether a tax for which a waiver is sought is generally redistributive in nature, the Secretary shall, if requested by the State—

"(I) compare the tax to a tax that meets any of the uniformity requirements of subparagraphs (C) or (D); and

"(II) consider in the aggregate all classes (or providers) of health care items or services that are subject to the same tax.

"(iv) TERM OF WAIVER.—A tax for which the Secretary has approved an application for waiver shall not be subject to the requirements of a further waiver application solely because a change in the rate of tax.

"(F) TREATMENT OF MANAGED CARE PREMIUMS.—No tax on the payment or receipt of premiums or similar periodic payments to health maintenance organizations or health care insurers shall be treated as a health care related tax unless and until the Secretary, after consultation with the States pursuant to section 5(c) of the Medicaid Voluntary Contribution and Provider-Specific Tax Amendments of 1991, adopts a final regulation specifically subjecting such taxes, or any of such taxes, to the provisions of this subsection.

"(4) HOLD HARMLESS DETERMINATION.—For purposes of paragraph (1)(A)(iii), there is in effect a hold harmless provision with respect to a broad-based health care related tax imposed with respect to a class of items or services if the Secretary determines that any of the following applies:

"(A) The State or other unit of government imposing the tax provides (directly or indirectly) for a payment (other than under a medicaid plan approved under this title) to taxpayers and the amount of such payment is positively correlated either to the amount of such tax or to the difference between the amount of the tax and the amount of payment under the medicaid plan.

"(B) All or any portion of the payment made under this title to the taxpayer varies based only upon the amount of the total tax paid.

"(C) The State or other unit of government imposing the tax provides (directly or indirectly) for any payment, offset, or waiver that guarantees to hold taxpayers harmless for any portion of the costs of the tax.

Notwithstanding the provisions of this paragraph, no hold harmless shall be found to be in effect with respect to a tax enacted or extended prior to October 1, 1995, because of the existence in the State of a program of financial aid or of tax credits for recipients of health care items or services from providers that are subject to an otherwise valid health care related tax.

"(B) REDUCTION IN ALLOTMENT IF EXPENDITURE LIMIT NOT MET.—In the event a State fails to expend State funds in an amount required by subparagraph (A) for a fiscal year, the outlay allotment described in section 2121(c)(6) for such year shall be reduced by an amount which bears the same ratio to such outlay allotment as the State funds expended in such fiscal year bears to the amount required by subparagraph (A).

"(C) ADJUSTED BASE YEAR STATE EXPENDITURES.—For purposes of this paragraph, the term 'adjusted base year State expenditures' means—

(or of a political subdivision thereof) responsible for the licensing of health care practitioners (or any peer review organization or private accreditation entity reviewing the services provided by health care practitioners) or entities:

''(A) Any adverse action taken by such licensing authority as a result of the proceeding, including any revocation or suspension of a license (and the length of any such suspension), reprimand, censure, or probation.

"SEC. 2134. STATE MEDICAID FRAUD CONTROL UNITS.

''(a) IN GENERAL.—Each medicaid plan shall provide for a State medicaid fraud control unit that effectively carries out the functions and requirements described in such subsection, unless the State demonstrates to the satisfaction of the Secretary that the effective operation of such a unit in the State would not be cost-effective because minimal fraud exists in connection with the provision of covered services to eligible individuals under the plan, and that beneficiaries under the plan will be protected from abuse and neglect in connection with the provision of medical assistance under the plan without the existence of such a unit.

''(b) UNITS DESCRIBED.—For purposes of this section, the term 'State medicaid fraud control unit' means a single identifiable entity of the State government which meets the following requirements:

''(1) ORGANIZATION.—The entity—

''(A) is a unit of the office of the State Attorney General or of another department of State government which possesses statewide authority to prosecute individuals for criminal violations;

''(B) is in a State the constitution of which does not provide for the criminal prosecution of individuals by a statewide authority and has formal procedures that—

''(i) assure its referral of suspected criminal violations relating to the program under this title to the appropriate authority or authorities in the State for prosecution, and

''(ii) assure its assistance of, and coordination with, such authority or authorities in such prosecutions; or

''(C) has a formal working relationship with the office of the State Attorney General and has formal procedures (including procedures for its referral of suspected criminal violations to such office) which provide effective coordination of activities between the entity and such office with respect to the detection, investigation, and prosecution of suspected criminal violations relating to the program under this title.

''(2) INDEPENDENCE.—The entity is separate and distinct from any State agency that has principal responsibilities for administering or supervising the administration of the medicaid plan.

''(3) FUNCTION.—The entity's function is conducting a statewide program for the investigation and prosecution of violations of all applicable State laws regarding any and all aspects of fraud in connection with any aspect of the provision of medical assistance and the activities of providers of such assistance under the medicaid plan.

''(4) REVIEW OF COMPLAINTS.—The entity has procedures for reviewing complaints of the abuse and neglect of patients of health care facilities which receive payments under the medicaid plan approved under this title, and, where appropriate, for acting upon such complaints under the criminal laws of the State or for referring them to other State agencies for action.

''(5) OVERPAYMENTS.—

''(A) IN GENERAL.—The entity provides for the collection, or referral for collection to a single State agency, of overpayments that are made under the medicaid plan to health care providers and that are discovered by the entity in carrying out its activities.

''(B) TREATMENT OF CERTAIN OVERPAYMENTS.—If an overpayment is the direct result of the failure of the provider (or the provider's billing agent) to adhere to a change in the State's billing instructions, the entity may recover the overpayment only if the entity demonstrates that the provider (or the provider's billing agent) received reasonable written or electronic notice of the change in the billing instructions before the submission of the claims on which the overpayment is based.

''(6) PERSONNEL.—The entity employs such auditors, attorneys, investigators, and other necessary personnel and is organized in such a manner as is necessary to promote the effective and efficient conduct of the entity's activities.

"SEC. 2135. RECOVERIES FROM THIRD PARTIES AND OTHERS.

''(a) THIRD PARTY LIABILITY.—Each medicaid plan shall provide for reasonable steps—

''(1) to ascertain the legal liability of third parties to pay for care and services available under the plan, including the collection of sufficient information to enable States to pursue claims against third parties; and

''(2) to seek reimbursement for medical assistance provided to the extent legal liability is established if the amount expected to be recovered exceeds the costs of the recovery.

''(b) BENEFICIARY PROTECTION.—

''(1) IN GENERAL.—Each medicaid plan shall provide that in the case of a person furnishing services under the plan for which a third party may be liable for payment—

''(A) the person may not seek to collect from the individual (or financially responsible relative) payment of an amount for the service more than could be collected under the plan in the absence of such third party liability; and

''(B) may not refuse to furnish services to such an individual because of a third party's potential liability for payment for the service.

''(2) PENALTY.—A medicaid plan may provide for a reduction of any payment amount otherwise due with respect to a person who furnishes services under the plan in an amount equal to up to 3 times the amount of any payment sought to be collected by that person in violation of paragraph (1)(A).

''(c) GENERAL LIABILITY.—The State shall prohibit any health insurer, including a group health plan as defined in section 607 of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, a service benefit plan, or a health maintenance organization, in enrolling an individual or in making any payments for benefits to the individual or on the individual's behalf, from taking into account that the individual is eligible for or is provided medical assistance under a medicaid plan for any State.

''(d) ACQUISITION OF RIGHTS OF BENEFICIARIES.—To the extent that payment has been made under a medicaid plan in any case where a third party has a legal liability to make payment for such assistance, the State shall have in effect laws under which, to the extent that payment has been made under the plan for health care items or services furnished to an individual, the State is considered to have acquired the rights of such individual to payment by any other party for such health care items or services.

''(e) ASSIGNMENT OF MEDICAL SUPPORT RIGHTS.—The medicaid plan shall provide for mandatory assignment of rights of payment for medical support and other medical care owed to recipients in accordance with section 2136.

''(f) REQUIRED LAWS RELATING TO MEDICAL CHILD SUPPORT.—

''(1) IN GENERAL.— Each State with a medicaid plan shall have in effect the following laws:

''(A) A law that prohibits an insurer from denying enrollment of a child under the health coverage of the child's parent on the ground that—

''(i) the child was born out of wedlock;

"(ii) the child is not claimed as a dependent on the parent's Federal income tax return; or

"(iii) the child does not reside with the parent or in the insurer's service area.

"(B) In any case in which a parent is required by a court or administrative order to provide health coverage for a child and the parent is eligible for family health coverage through an insurer, a law that requires such insurer—

"(i) to permit such parent to enroll under such family coverage any such child who is otherwise eligible for such coverage (without regard to any enrollment season restrictions);

"(ii) if such a parent is enrolled but fails to make application to obtain coverage of such child, to enroll such child under such family coverage upon application by the child's other parent or by the State agency administering the program under this title or part D of title IV; and

"(iii) not to disenroll, or eliminate coverage of, such a child unless the insurer is provided satisfactory written evidence that—

"(I) such court or administrative order is no longer in effect, or

"(II) the child is or will be enrolled in comparable health coverage through another insurer which will take effect not later than the effective date of such disenrollment.

"(C) In any case in which a parent is required by a court or administrative order to provide health coverage for a child and the parent is eligible for family health coverage through an employer doing business in the State, a law that requires such employer—

"(i) to permit such parent to enroll under such family coverage any such child who is otherwise eligible for such coverage (without regard to any enrollment season restrictions);

"(ii) if such a parent is enrolled but fails to make application to obtain coverage of such child, to enroll such child under such family coverage upon application by the child's other parent or by the State agency administering the program under this title or part D of title IV; and

"(iii) not to disenroll, or eliminate coverage of, any such child unless—

"(I) the employer is provided satisfactory written evidence that such court or administrative order is no longer in effect, or the child is or will be enrolled in comparable health coverage which will take effect not later than the effective date of such disenrollment, or

"(II) the employer has eliminated family health coverage for all of its employees; and

"(iv) to withhold from such employee's compensation the employee's share (if any) of premiums for health coverage (except that the amount so withheld may not exceed the maximum amount permitted to be withheld under section 303(b) of the Consumer Credit Protection Act), and to pay such share of premiums to the insurer, except that the Secretary may provide by regulation for appropriate circumstances under which an employer may withhold less than such employee's share of such premiums.

"(D) A law that prohibits an insurer from imposing requirements on a State agency, which has been assigned the rights of an individual eligible for medical assistance under a medicaid plan approved under this title and covered for health benefits from the insurer, that are different from requirements applicable to an agent or assignee of any other individual so covered.

"(E) A law that requires an insurer, in any case in which a child has health coverage through the insurer of a noncustodial parent—

"(i) to provide such information to the custodial parent as may be necessary for the child to obtain benefits through such coverage;

"(ii) to permit the custodial parent (or provider, with the custodial parent's approval) to submit claims for covered services without the approval of the noncustodial parent; and

"(iii) to make payment on claims submitted in accordance with clause (ii) directly to such custodial parent, the provider, or the State agency.

"(F) A law that permits the State agency under the medicaid plan approved under this title to garnish the wages, salary, or other employment income of, and requires withholding amounts from State tax refunds to, any person who—

"(i) is required by court or administrative order to provide coverage of the costs of health services to a child who is eligible for medical assistance under a medicaid plan approved under this title;

"(ii) has received payment from a third party for the costs of such services to such child; but

"(iii) has not used such payments to reimburse, as appropriate, either the other parent or guardian of such child or the provider of such services, to the extent necessary to reimburse the State agency for expenditures for such costs under its plan under this title, but any claims for current or past-due child support shall take priority over any such claims for the costs of such services.

"(2) DEFINITION.—For purposes of this subsection, the term 'insurer' includes a group health plan, as defined in section 607(1) of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, a health maintenance organization, and an entity offering a service benefit plan.

"(g) ESTATE RECOVERIES AND LIENS PERMITTED.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in paragraph (2), a State may take such actions as it considers appropriate to adjust or recover from the individual or the individual's estate any amounts paid as medical assistance to or on behalf of the individual under the medicaid plan, including through the imposition of liens against the property or estate of the individual.

"(2) NO LIEN ON HOMES OR FAMILY FARMS.—For purposes of paragraph (1), a State may not impose a lien on the principal residence (within the meaning of section 1034 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986) of moderate value or the family farm owned by the individual as a condition of the spouse of the individual receiving nursing facility or other long term care benefits under its medicaid plan.

"SEC. 2136. ASSIGNMENT OF RIGHTS OF PAYMENT.

"(a) IN GENERAL.—For the purpose of assisting in the collection of medical support payments and other payments for medical care owed to recipients of medical assistance under the medicaid plan, each medicaid plan shall—

"(1) provide that, as a condition of eligibility for medical assistance under the plan to an individual who has the legal capacity to execute an assignment for himself, the individual is required—

"(A) to assign the State any rights, of the individual or of any other person who is eligible for medical assistance under the plan and on whose behalf the individual has the legal authority to execute an assignment of such rights, to support (specified as support for the purpose of medical care by a court or administrative order) and to payment for medical care from any third party,

"(B) to cooperate with the State (i) in establishing the paternity of such person (referred to in subparagraph (A)) if the person is a child born out of wedlock, and (ii) in obtaining support and payments (described in subparagraph (A)) for himself and for such person, unless (in either case) the individual is a pregnant woman or the individual is found to have good cause for refusing to cooperate as determined by the State, and

"(C) to cooperate with the State in identifying, and providing information to assist the State in pursuing, any third party who may be liable to pay for care and services available under the plan, unless such individual has good cause for refusing to cooperate as determined by the State; and

"(2) provide for entering into cooperative arrangements, including financial arrangements, with any appropriate agency of any State (including, with respect to the enforcement and collection of rights of payment for medical care by or through a parent, with a State's agency established or designated under section 454(3)) and with appropriate courts and law enforcement officials, to assist the agency or agencies administering the plan with respect to—

"(A) the enforcement and collection of rights to support or payment assigned under this section, and

"(B) any other matters of common concern.

"(b) USE OF AMOUNTS COLLECTED.—Such part of any amount collected by the State under an assignment made under the provisions of this section shall be retained by the State as is necessary to reimburse it for medical assistance payments made on behalf of an individual with respect to whom such assignment was executed (with appropriate reimbursement of the Federal Government to the extent of its participation in the financing of such medical assistance), and the remainder of such amount collected shall be paid to such individual.

"(c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, subsection (b) shall be effective on and after January 1, 1996.

"(1) IN GENERAL.—Subject to the succeeding provisions of this subsection, an amendment to medicaid plan shall take effect on one or more effective dates specified in the amendment.

"(2) AMENDMENTS RELATING TO ELIGIBILITY OR BENEFITS.—Except as provided in paragraph (4):

"(A) NOTICE REQUIREMENT.—Any plan amendment that eliminates or restricts eligibility or benefits under the plan may not take effect unless the State certifies that it has provided prior or contemporaneous public notice of the change, in a form and manner provided under applicable State law.

"(B) TIMELY TRANSMITTAL.—Any plan amendment that eliminates or restricts eligibility or benefits under the plan shall not be effective for longer than a 60-day period unless the amendment has been transmitted to the Secretary before the end of such period.

"(3) OTHER AMENDMENTS.—Subject to paragraph (4), any plan amendment that is not described in paragraph (2) that becomes effective in a State fiscal year may not remain in effect after the end of such fiscal year (or, if later, the end of the 90-day period on which it becomes effective) unless the amendment has been transmitted to the Secretary.

"(4) EXCEPTION.—The requirements of paragraphs (2) and (3) shall not apply to a plan amendment that is submitted on a timely basis pursuant to a court order or an order of the Secretary.

"SEC. 2153. SANCTIONS FOR SUBSTANTIAL NONCOMPLIANCE.

"(a) PROMPT REVIEW OF PLAN SUBMITTALS.—The Secretary shall promptly review medicaid plans and plan amendments submitted under this part to determine if they substantially comply with the requirements of this title.

"(b) DETERMINATIONS OF SUBSTANTIAL NONCOMPLIANCE.—

"(1) AT TIME OF PLAN OR AMENDMENT SUBMITTAL.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—If the Secretary, during the 30-day period beginning on the date of submittal of a medicaid plan or plan amendment—

"(i) determines that the plan or amendment substantially violates (within the meaning of subsection (c)) a requirement of this title; and

"(ii) provides written notice of such determination to the State, the Secretary shall issue an order specifying that the plan or amendment, insofar as it is in substantial violation of such a requirement, shall not be effective, except as provided in subsection (c), beginning at the end of a period of not less than 30 days (or 120 days in the case of the initial submission of the medicaid plan) specified in the order beginning on the date of the notice of the determination.

"(B) EXTENSION OF TIME PERIODS.—The time periods specified in subparagraph (A) may be extended by written agreement of the Secretary and the State involved.

"(2) VIOLATIONS IN ADMINISTRATION OF PLAN.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—If the Secretary determines, after reasonable notice and opportunity for a hearing for the State, that in the administration of a medicaid plan there is a substantial violation of a requirement of this title, the Secretary shall provide the State with written notice of the determination and with an order to remedy such violation. Such an order shall become effective prospectively, as specified in the order, after the date of receipt of such written notice. Such an order may include the withholding of funds, consistent with subsection (f), for parts of the medicaid plan affected by such violation, until the Secretary is satisfied that the violation has been corrected.

"(B) EFFECTIVENESS.—If the Secretary issues an order under paragraph (1), the order shall become effective, except as provided in subsection (c), beginning at the end of a period (of not less than 30 days) specified in the order beginning on the date of the notice of the determination to the State.

"(C) TIMELINESS OF DETERMINATIONS RELATING TO REPORT-BASED COMPLIANCE.—The Secretary shall make determinations under this paragraph respecting violations relating to information contained in an annual report under section 2102, an independent evaluation under section 2103, or an audit report under section 2131 not later than 30 days after the date of transmittal of the report or evaluation to the Secretary.

"(3) CONSULTATION WITH STATE.—Before making a determination adverse to a State under this section, the Secretary shall (within any time periods provided under this section)—

"(A) reasonably consult with the State involved;

"(B) offer the State a reasonable opportunity to clarify the submission and submit further information to substantiate compliance with the requirements of this title; and

"(C) reasonably consider any such clarifications and information submitted.

"(4) JUSTIFICATION OF ANY INCONSISTENCIES IN DETERMINATIONS.—If the Secretary makes a determination under this section that is, in whole or in part, inconsistent with any previous determination issued by the Secretary under this title, the Secretary shall include in the determination a detailed explanation and justification for any such difference.

"(5) SUBSTANTIAL VIOLATION DEFINED.—For purposes of this title, a medicaid plan (or amendment to such a plan) or the administration of the medicaid plan is considered to 'substantially violate' a requirement of this title if a provision of the plan or amendment (or an omission from the plan or amendment) or the administration of the plan—

"(A) is material and substantial in nature and effect; and

"(B) is inconsistent with an express requirement of this title.

A failure to meet a strategic objective or performance goal (as described in section 2101) shall not be considered to substantially violate a requirement of this title.

"(c) STATE RESPONSE TO ORDERS.—

"(1) STATE RESPONSE BY REVISING PLAN.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—Insofar as an order under subsection (b)(1) relates to a substantial violation by a medicaid plan or plan amendment, a State may respond (before the date the order becomes effective) to such an order by submitting a written revision of the plan or plan amendment to substantially comply with the requirements of this part.

"(B) REVIEW OF REVISION.—In the case of submission of such a revision, the Secretary shall promptly review the submission and shall withhold any action on the order during the period of such review.

"(C) SECRETARIAL RESPONSE.—The revision shall be considered to have corrected the deficiency (and the order rescinded insofar as it relates to such deficiency) unless the Secretary determines and notifies the State in writing, within 15 days after the date the Secretary receives the revision, that the plan or amendment, as proposed to be revised, still substantially violates a requirement of this title. In such case the State may respond by seeking reconsideration or a hearing under paragraph (2).

"(D) REVISION RETROACTIVE.—If the revision provides for substantial compliance, the revision may be treated, at the option of the State, as being effective either as of the effective date of the provision to which it relates or such later date as the State and Secretary may agree.

"(2) STATE RESPONSE BY SEEKING RECONSIDERATION OR AN ADMINISTRATIVE HEARING.—A State may respond to an order under subsection (b) by filing a request with the Secretary for—

"(A) a reconsideration of the determination, pursuant to subsection (d)(1); or

"(B) a review of the determination through an administrative hearing, pursuant to subsection (d)(2).

In such case, the order shall not take effect before the completion of the reconsideration or hearing.

"(3) STATE RESPONSE BY CORRECTIVE ACTION PLAN.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—In the case of an order described in subsection (b)(2) that relates to a substantial violation in the administration of the medicaid plan, a State may respond to such an order by submitting a corrective action plan with the Secretary to correct deficiencies in the administration of the plan which are the subject of the order.

"(B) REVIEW OF CORRECTIVE ACTION PLAN.—In such case, the Secretary shall withhold any action on the order for a period (not to exceed 30 days) during which the Secretary reviews the corrective action plan.

"(C) SECRETARIAL RESPONSE.—The corrective action plan shall be considered to have corrected the deficiency (and the order rescinded insofar as it relates to such deficiency) unless the Secretary determines and notifies the State in writing, within 15 days after the date the Secretary receives the corrective action plan, that the State's administration of the medicaid plan, as proposed to be corrected in the plan, will still substantially violate a requirement of this title. In such case the State may respond by seeking reconsideration or a hearing under paragraph (2).

"(4) STATE RESPONSE BY WITHDRAWAL OF PLAN AMENDMENT; FAILURE TO RESPOND.—Insofar as an order relates to a substantial violation in a plan amendment submitted, a State may respond to such an order by withdrawing the plan amendment and the medicaid plan shall be treated as though the amendment had not been made.

"(d) ADMINISTRATIVE REVIEW AND HEARING.—

"(1) RECONSIDERATION.—Within 30 days after the date of receipt of a request under subsection (b)(2)(A), the Secretary shall notify the State of the time and place at which a hearing will be held for the purpose of reconsidering the Secretary's determination. The hearing shall be held not less than 20 days nor more than 60 days after the date notice of the hearing is furnished to the State, unless the Secretary and the State agree in writing to holding the hearing at another time. The Secretary shall affirm, modify, or reverse the original determination within 60 days of the conclusion of the hearing.

"(2) ADMINISTRATIVE HEARING.—Within 30 days after the date of receipt of a request under subsection (b)(2)(B), an administrative law judge shall schedule a hearing for the purpose of reviewing the Secretary's determination. The hearing shall be held not less than 20 days nor more than 60 days after the date notice of the hearing is furnished to the State, unless the Secretary and the State agree in writing to holding the hearing at another time. The administrative law judge shall affirm, modify, or reverse the determination within 60 days of the conclusion of the hearing.

"(e) JUDICIAL REVIEW.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—A State which is dissatisfied with a final determination made by the Secretary under subsection (d)(1) or a final determination of an administrative law judge under subsection (d)(2) may, within 60 days after it has been notified of such determination, file with the United States court of appeals for the circuit in which the State is located a petition for review of such determination. A copy of the petition shall be forthwith transmitted by the clerk of the court to the Secretary and, in the case of a determination under subsection (d)(2), to the administrative law judge involved. The Secretary (or judge involved) thereupon shall file in the court the record of the proceedings on which the final determination was based, as provided in section 2112 of title 28, United States Code.

"(2) STANDARD FOR REVIEW.—The findings of fact by the Secretary or administrative law judge, if supported by substantial evidence, shall be conclusive, but the court, for good cause shown, may remand the case to the Secretary or judge to take further evidence, and the Secretary or judge may thereupon make new or modified findings of fact and may modify a previous determination, and shall certify to the court the transcript and record of the further proceedings. Such new or modified findings of fact shall likewise be conclusive if supported by substantial evidence.

"(3) JURISDICTION OF APPELLATE COURT.—The court shall have jurisdiction to affirm the action of the Secretary or judge or to set it aside, in whole or in part. The judgment of the court shall be subject to review by the Supreme Court of the United States upon certiorari or certification as provided in section 1254 of title 28, United States Code.

"(f) WITHHOLDING OF FUNDS.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—Any order under this section relating to the withholding of funds shall be effective not earlier than the effective date of the order and shall only relate to the portions of a medicaid plan or administration thereof which substantially violate a requirement of this title. In the case of a failure to meet a set-aside requirement under section 2112, any withholding shall only apply to the extent of such failure.

"(2) SUSPENSION OF WITHHOLDING.—The Secretary may suspend withholding of funds under paragraph (1) during the period reconsideration or administrative and judicial review is pending under subsection (d) or (e).

"(3) RESTORATION OF FUNDS.—Any funds withheld under this subsection under an order shall be immediately restored to a State—

"(A) to the extent and at the time the order is—

"(i) modified or withdrawn by the Secretary upon reconsideration,

"(ii) modified or reversed by an administrative law judge, or

"(iii) set aside (in whole or in part) by an appellate court; or

"(B) when the Secretary determines that the deficiency which was the basis for the order is corrected;

"(C) when the Secretary determines that violation which was the basis for the order is resolved or the amendment which was the basis for the order is withdrawn; or

"(D) at any time upon the initiative of the Secretary.

"SEC. 2154. SECRETARIAL AUTHORITY.

"(a) NEGOTIATED AGREEMENT AND DISPUTE RESOLUTION.—

"(1) NEGOTIATIONS.—Nothing in this part shall be construed as preventing the Secretary and a State from at any time negotiating a satisfactory resolution to any dispute concerning the approval of a medicaid plan (or amendments to a medicaid plan) or the compliance of a medicaid plan (including its administration) with requirements of this title.

"(2) COOPERATION.—The Secretary shall act in a cooperative manner with the States in carrying out this title. In the event of a dispute between a State and the Secretary, the Secretary shall, whenever practicable, engage in informal dispute resolution activities in lieu of formal enforcement or sanctions under section 2153.

"(b) LIMITATIONS ON DELEGATION OF DECISION-MAKING AUTHORITY.—The Secretary may not delegate (other than to the Administrator of the Health Care Financing Administration) the authority to make determinations or reconsiderations respecting the approval of medicaid plans (or amendments to such plans) or the compliance of a medicaid plan (including its administration) with requirements of this title. Such Administrator may not further delegate such authority to any individual, including any regional official of such Administration.

"(c) REQUIRING FORMAL RULEMAKING FOR CHANGES IN SECRETARIAL ADMINISTRATION.—The Secretary shall carry out the administration of the program under this title only through a prospective formal rulemaking process, including issuing notices of proposed rule making, publishing proposed rules or modifications to rules in the Federal Register, and soliciting public comment.

"(4) EFFECT ON EXISTING AGREEMENTS.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—In the case of a rebate agreement in effect between a State and a manufacturer on the date of the enactment of title IV of the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1990, such agreement, for the initial agreement period specified therein, shall be considered to be a rebate agreement in effect under this section with respect to that State, if the State agrees to report to the Secretary any rebates paid pursuant to the agreement and such agreement provides for a minimum aggregate rebate of 10 percent of the sum of the amounts determined under subparagraph (B) for all of the manufacturer's drugs paid for by the State under the agreement. If, after the initial agreement period, the State establishes to the satisfaction of the Secretary that an agreement in effect on the date of the enactment of title IV of the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1990 provides for rebates that are at least as large as the rebates otherwise required under this section, and the State agrees to report any rebates under the agreement to the Secretary, the agreement shall be considered to be a rebate agreement in compliance with the section for the renewal periods of such agreement.

"(B) AMOUNT DETERMINED.—The amount determined under this subparagraph with respect to a manufacturer's drug paid for by a State under an agreement described in the first sentence of subparagraph (A) is an amount equal to the product of—

"(i) the average manufacturer's price for such drug; and

"(ii) the number of dosage units of such drug paid for by the State under such agreement.

"(5) LIMITATION ON PRICES OF DRUGS PURCHASED BY COVERED ENTITIES.—

"(A) AGREEMENT WITH SECRETARY.—A manufacturer meets the requirements of this paragraph if the manufacturer has entered into an agreement with the Secretary that meets the requirements of section 340B of the Public Health Service Act with respect to covered outpatient drugs purchased by a covered entity on or after the first day of the first month that begins after the date of the enactment of title VI of the Veterans Health Care Act of 1992.

"(B) COVERED ENTITY DEFINED.—In this subsection, the term 'covered entity' means an entity described in section 340B(a)(4) of the Public Health Service Act.

"(C) ESTABLISHMENT OF ALTERNATIVE MECHANISM TO ENSURE AGAINST DUPLICATE DISCOUNTS OR REBATES.—If the Secretary does not establish a mechanism under section 340B(a)(5)(A) of the Public Health Service Act within 12 months of the date of the enactment of such section, the following requirements shall apply:

"(i) Each covered entity shall inform the single State agency under this title when it is seeking reimbursement from the medicaid plan for medical assistance with respect to a unit of any covered outpatient drug which is subject to an agreement under section 340B(a) of such Act.

"(ii) Each such single State agency shall provide a means by which a covered entity shall indicate on any drug reimbursement claims form (or format, where electronic claims management is used) that a unit of the drug that is the subject of the form is subject to an agreement under section 340B of such Act, and not submit to any manufacturer a claim for a rebate payment under subsection (b) with respect to such a drug.

"(D) EFFECT OF SUBSEQUENT AMENDMENTS.—In determining whether an agreement under subparagraph (A) meets the requirements of section 340B of the Public Health Service Act, the Secretary shall not take into account any amendments to such section that are enacted after the enactment of title VI of the Veterans Health Care Act of 1992.

"(E) DETERMINATION OF COMPLIANCE.—A manufacturer is deemed to meet the requirements of this paragraph if the manufacturer establishes to the satisfaction of the Secretary that the manufacturer would comply (and has offered to comply) with the provisions of section 340B of the Public Health Service Act (as in effect immediately after the enactment title VI of the Veterans Health Care Act of 1992, and would have entered into an agreement under such section (as such section was in effect at such time), but for a legislative change in such section after such enactment.

"(6) REQUIREMENTS RELATING TO MASTER AGREEMENTS FOR DRUGS PROCURED BY DEPARTMENT OF VETERANS AFFAIRS AND CERTAIN OTHER FEDERAL AGENCIES.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—A manufacturer meets the requirements of this paragraph if the manufacturer complies with the provisions of section 8126 of title 38, United States Code, including the requirement of entering into a master agreement with the Secretary of Veterans Affairs under such section.

"(B) EFFECT OF SUBSEQUENT AMENDMENTS.—In determining whether a master agreement described in subparagraph (A) meets the requirements of section 8126 of title 38, United States Code, the Secretary shall not take into account any amendments to such section that are enacted after the enactment of title VI of the Veterans Health Care Act of 1992.

"(C) DETERMINATION OF COMPLIANCE.—A manufacturer is deemed to meet the requirements of this paragraph if the manufacturer establishes to the satisfaction of the Secretary that the manufacturer would comply (and has offered to comply) with the provisions of section 8126 of title 38, United States Code (as in effect immediately after the enactment of title VI of the Veterans Health Care Act of 1992) and would have entered into an agreement under such section (as such section was in effect at such time), but for a legislative change in such section after such enactment.

"(b) TERMS OF REBATE AGREEMENT.—

"(1) PERIODIC REBATES.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—A rebate agreement under this subsection shall require the manufacturer to provide, to each medicaid plan approved under this title, a rebate for a rebate period in an amount specified in subsection (c) for covered outpatient drugs of the manufacturer dispensed after December 31, 1990, for which payment was made under the medicaid plan for such period. Such rebate shall be paid by the manufacturer not later than 30 days after the date of receipt of the information described in paragraph (2) for the period involved.

"(B) OFFSET AGAINST MEDICAL ASSISTANCE.—Amounts received by a State under this section (or under an agreement authorized by the Secretary under subsection (a)(1) or an agreement described in subsection (a)(4)) in any quarter shall be considered to be a reduction in the amount expended under the medicaid plan in the quarter for medical assistance for purposes of this title.

"(2) STATE PROVISION OF INFORMATION.—

"(A) STATE RESPONSIBILITY.—Each State agency under this title shall report to each manufacturer not later than 60 days after the end of each rebate period and in a form consistent with a standard reporting format established by the Secretary, information on the total number of units of each dosage form and strength and package size of each covered outpatient drug dispensed after December 31, 1990, for which payment was made under the plan for the period, and shall promptly transmit a copy of such report to the Secretary.

"(B) AUDITS.—A manufacturer may audit the information provided (or required to be provided) under subparagraph (A). Adjustments to rebates shall be made to the extent that information indicates that utilization was greater or less than the amount previously specified.

"(3) MANUFACTURER PROVISION OF PRICE INFORMATION.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—Each manufacturer with an agreement in effect under this section shall report to the Secretary—

"(i) not later than 30 days after the last day of each rebate period under the agreement (beginning on or after January 1, 1991), on the average manufacturer price (as defined in subsection (j)(1)) and, for single source drugs and innovator multiple source drugs, the manufacturer's best price (as defined in subsection (c)(1)(C)) for each covered outpatient drug for the rebate period under the agreement; and

"(ii) not later than 30 days after the date of entering into an agreement under this section on the average manufacturer price (as defined in subsection (j)(1)) as of October 1, 1990, for each of the manufacturer's covered outpatient drugs.

"(B) VERIFICATION SURVEYS OF AVERAGE MANUFACTURER PRICE.—The Secretary may survey wholesalers and manufacturers that directly distribute their covered outpatient drugs, when necessary, to verify manufacturer prices reported under subparagraph (A). The Secretary may impose a civil monetary penalty in an amount not to exceed $10,000 on a wholesaler, manufacturer, or direct seller, if the wholesaler, manufacturer, or direct seller of a covered outpatient drug refuses a request for information by the Secretary in connection with a survey under this subparagraph. The provisions of section 1128A (other than subsections (a) (with respect to amounts of penalties or additional assessments) and (b)) shall apply to a civil money penalty under this subparagraph in the same manner as such provisions apply to a penalty or proceeding under section 1128A(a).

"(C) PENALTIES.—

"(i) FAILURE TO PROVIDE TIMELY INFORMATION.—In the case of a manufacturer with an agreement under this section that fails to provide information required under subparagraph (A) on a timely basis, the amount of the penalty shall be $10,000 for each day in which such information has not been provided and such amount shall be paid to the Treasury. If such information is not reported within 90 days of the deadline imposed, the agreement shall be suspended for services furnished after the end of such 90-day period and until the date such information is reported (but in no case shall such suspension be for a period of less than 30 days).

"(ii) FALSE INFORMATION.—Any manufacturer with an agreement under this section, or a wholesaler or direct seller, that knowingly provides false information under subparagraph (A) or (B) is subject to a civil money penalty in an amount not to exceed $100,000 for each item of false information. Any such civil money penalty shall be in addition to other penalties as may be prescribed by law. The provisions of section 1128A (other than subsections (a) and (b)) shall apply to a civil money penalty under this subparagraph in the same manner as such provisions apply to a penalty or proceeding under section 1128A(a).

"(D) CONFIDENTIALITY OF INFORMATION.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, information disclosed by manufacturers or wholesalers under this paragraph or under an agreement with the Secretary of Veterans Affairs described in subsection (a)(6)(A)(ii) is confidential and shall not be disclosed by the Secretary or the Secretary of Veterans Affairs or a State agency (or contractor therewith) in a form which discloses the identity of a specific manufacturer or wholesaler or the prices charged for drugs by such manufacturer or wholesaler, except—

"(i) as the Secretary determines to be necessary to carry out this section;

"(ii) to permit the Comptroller General to review the information provided; and

"(iii) to permit the Director of the Congressional Budget Office to review the information provided.

"(4) LENGTH OF AGREEMENT.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—A rebate agreement shall be effective for an initial period of not less than 1 year and shall be automatically renewed for a period of not less than 1 year unless terminated under subparagraph (B).

"(B) TERMINATION.—

"(i) BY THE SECRETARY.—The Secretary may provide for termination of a rebate agreement for violation of the requirements of the agreement or other good cause shown. Such termination shall not be effective earlier than 60 days after the date of notice of such termination. The Secretary shall provide, upon request, a manufacturer with a hearing concerning such a termination, but such hearing shall not delay the effective date of the termination. Failure of a State to provide any advance notice of such a termination as required by regulation shall not affect the State's right to terminate coverage of the drugs affected by such termination as of the effective date of such termination.

"(ii) BY A MANUFACTURER.—A manufacturer may terminate a rebate agreement under this section for any reason. Any such termination shall not be effective until the calendar quarter beginning at least 60 days after the date the manufacturer provides notice to the Secretary.

"(iii) EFFECTIVENESS OF TERMINATION.—Any termination under this subparagraph shall not affect rebates due under the agreement before the effective date of its termination.

"(iv) NOTICE TO STATES.—In the case of a termination under this subparagraph, the Secretary shall provide notice of such termination to the States within not less than 30 days before the effective date of such termination.

"(v) APPLICATION TO TERMINATIONS OF OTHER AGREEMENTS.—The provisions of this subparagraph shall apply to the terminations of agreements described in section 340B(a)(1) of the Public Health Service Act and master agreements described in section 8126(a) of title 38, United States Code.

"(C) DELAY BEFORE REENTRY.—In the case of any rebate agreement with a manufacturer under this section which is terminated, another such agreement with the manufacturer (or a successor manufacturer) may not be entered into until a period of 1 calendar quarter has elapsed since the date of the termination, unless the Secretary finds good cause for an earlier reinstatement of such an agreement.

"(5) SETTLEMENT OF DISPUTES.—

"(A) SECRETARY.—The Secretary shall have the authority to resolve, settle, and compromise disputes regarding the amounts of rebates owed under this section.

"(B) STATE.—Each State, with respect to covered outpatient drugs paid for under the State's medicaid plan, shall have authority, independent of the Secretary' authority under subparagraph (A), to resolve, settle, and compromise disputes regarding the amounts of rebates owed under this section. Any such action shall be deemed to comply with the requirements of this title, and such covered outpatient drugs shall be eligible for payment under the medicaid plan approved under this title.

"(C) AMOUNT OF REBATE.—The Secretary shall limit the amount of the rebate payable in any case in which the Secretary determines that, because of unusual circumstances or questionable data, the provisions of subsection (c) result in a rebate amount that is inequitable or otherwise inconsistent with the purposes of this section.

"(c) DETERMINATION OF AMOUNT OF REBATE.—

"(1) BASIC REBATE FOR SINGLE SOURCE DRUGS AND INNOVATOR MULTIPLE SOURCE DRUGS.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in paragraph (2), the amount of the rebate specified in this subsection for a rebate period (as defined in subsection (j)(8)) with respect to each dosage form and strength of a single source drug or an innovator multiple source drug shall be equal to the product of—

"(i) the total number of units of each dosage form and strength paid for under the medicaid plan in the rebate period (as reported by the State); and

"(ii) subject to subparagraph (B)(ii), the greater of—

"(I) the difference between the average manufacturer price and the best price (as defined in subparagraph (C)) for the dosage form and strength of the drug, or

"(II) the minimum rebate percentage (specified in subparagraph (B)(i)) of such average manufacturer price, of or the rebate period.

"(B) MINIMUM REBATE PERCENTAGE.—For purposes of subparagraph (A)(ii)(II), the minimum rebate percentage for rebate periods beginning after December 31, 1995, is 15.1 percent.

"(C) BEST PRICE DEFINED.—For purposes of this section:

"(i) IN GENERAL.—The term 'best price' means, with respect to a single source drug or innovator multiple source drug of a manufacturer, the lowest price available from the manufacturer during the rebate period to any wholesaler, retailer, provider, health maintenance organization, nonprofit entity, or governmental entity within the United States, excluding—

"(I) any prices charged on or after October 1, 1992, to the Indian Health Service, the Department of Veterans Affairs, a State home receiving funds under section 1741 of title 38, United States Code, the Department of Defense, the Public Health Service, or a covered entity described in subsection (a)(5)(B);

"(II) any prices charged under the Federal Supply Schedule of the General Services Administration;

"(III) any prices used under a State pharmaceutical assistance program; and

"(IV) any depot prices and single award contract prices, as defined by the Secretary, of any agency of the Federal Government.

"(ii) SPECIAL RULES.—The term 'best price'—

"(I) shall be inclusive of cash discounts, free goods that are contingent on any purchase requirement, volume discounts, and rebates (other than rebates under this section);

"(II) shall be determined without regard to special packaging, labeling, or identifiers on the dosage form or product or package; and

"(III) shall not take into account prices that are merely nominal in amount.

"(2) ADDITIONAL REBATE FOR SINGLE SOURCE AND INNOVATOR MULTIPLE SOURCE DRUGS.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—The amount of the rebate specified in this subsection for a rebate period, with respect to each dosage form and strength of a single source drug or an innovator multiple source drug, shall be increased by an amount equal to the product of—

"(i) the total number of units of such dosage form and strength dispensed after December 31, 1990, for which payment was made under the medicaid plan for the rebate period; and

"(ii) the amount (if any) by which—

"(I) the average manufacturer price for the dosage form and strength of the drug for the period, exceeds

"(II) the average manufacturer price for such dosage form and strength for the calendar quarter beginning July 1, 1990 (without regard to whether or not the drug has been sold or transferred to an entity, including a division or subsidiary of the manufacturer, after the first day of such quarter), increased by the percentage by which the consumer price index for all urban consumers (United States city average) for the month before the month in which the rebate period begins exceeds such index for September 1990.

"(B) TREATMENT OF SUBSEQUENTLY APPROVED DRUGS.—In the case of a covered outpatient drug approved by the Food and Drug Administration after October 1, 1990, clause (ii)(II) of subparagraph (A) shall be applied by substituting 'the first full calendar quarter after the day on which the drug was first marketed' for 'the calendar quarter beginning July 1, 1990' and 'the month prior to the first month of the first full calendar quarter after the day on which the drug was first marketed' for 'September 1990'.

"(3) REBATE FOR OTHER DRUGS.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—The amount of the rebate paid to a State for a rebate period with respect to each dosage form and strength of covered outpatient drugs (other than single source drugs and innovator multiple source drugs) shall be equal to the product of—

"(i) the applicable percentage (as described in subparagraph (B)) of the average manufacturer price for the dosage form and strength for the rebate period; and

"(ii) the total number of units of such dosage form and strength dispensed after December 31, 1990, for which payment was made under the medicaid plan for the rebate period.

"(B) APPLICABLE PERCENTAGE DEFINED.—For purposes of subparagraph (A)(i), the 'applicable percentage' is 11 percent.

"(4) REBATE LIMITED TO AMOUNT OF STATE PAYMENT IF DRUG PRIMARILY DISPENSED TO NURSING FACILITY PATIENTS.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—Upon request of the manufacturer of a covered outpatient drug, the Secretary shall limit, in accordance with subparagraph (B), the amount of the rebate under this subsection with respect to a dosage form and strength of such drug if the majority of the estimated number of units of such dosage form and strength that are subject to rebates under this section were dispensed to inpatients of nursing facilities.

"(B) AMOUNT OF REBATE.—In the case of a covered outpatient drug subject to subparagraph (A), the amount of the rebate specified in this subsection for a rebate period, with respect to each dosage form and strength of such drug, shall not exceed the amount paid under the medicaid plan with respect to such dosage form and strength of the drug in the rebate period (without consideration of any dispensing fees paid).

"(5) SUPPLEMENTAL REBATES PROHIBITED.—No rebates shall be required to be paid by manufacturers with respect to covered outpatient drugs furnished to individuals in any State that provides for the collection of such rebates in excess of the rebate amount payable under this section.

"(d) LIMITATIONS ON COVERAGE OF DRUGS.—

"(1) PERMISSIBLE RESTRICTIONS.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—A State may subject to prior authorization any covered outpatient drug. Any such prior authorization program shall comply with the requirements of paragraph (5).

"(B) ADDITIONAL RESTRICTIONS.—A State may exclude or otherwise restrict coverage of a covered outpatient drug if—

"(i) the drug is contained in the list referred to in paragraph (2);

"(ii) the drug is subject to such restrictions pursuant to an agreement between a manufacturer and a State authorized by the Secretary under subsection (a)(1) or in effect pursuant to subsection (a)(4); or

"(iii) the State has excluded coverage of the drug from its formulary established in accordance with paragraph (4).

"(2) LIST OF DRUGS SUBJECT TO RESTRICTION.—The following drugs or classes of drugs, or their medical uses, may be excluded from coverage or otherwise restricted:

"(A) Agents when used for anorexia, weight loss, or weight gain.

"(B) Agents when used to promote fertility.

"(C) Agents when used for cosmetic purposes or hair growth.

"(J) Benzodiazepines.

"(3) ADDITIONS TO DRUG LISTINGS.—The Secretary shall, by regulation, periodically add to the list of drugs or classes of drugs described in paragraph (2), or their medical uses, which the Secretary has determined to be subject to clinical abuse or inappropriate use.

"(4) REQUIREMENTS FOR FORMULARIES.—A State may establish a formulary if the formulary meets the following requirements:

"(A) The formulary is developed by a committee consisting of physicians, pharmacists, and other appropriate individuals appointed by the Governor of the State (or, at the option of the State, the State's drug use review board established under subsection (f)(3)).

"(B) Except as provided in subparagraph (C), the formulary includes the covered outpatient drugs of any manufacturer which has entered into and complies with an agreement under subsection (a) (other than any drug excluded from coverage or otherwise restricted under paragraph (2)).

"(C) A covered outpatient drug may be excluded with respect to the treatment of a specific disease or condition for an identified population (if any) only if, based on the drug's labeling (or, in the case of a drug the prescribed use of which is not approved under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act but is a medically accepted indication, based on information from the appropriate compendia described in subsection (j)(6)), the excluded drug does not have a significant, clinically meaningful therapeutic advantage in terms of safety, effectiveness, or clinical outcome of such treatment for such population over other drugs included in the formulary and there is a written explanation (available to the public) of the basis for the exclusion.

"(D) The medicaid plan permits coverage of a drug excluded from the formulary (other than any drug excluded from coverage or otherwise restricted under paragraph (2)) pursuant to a prior authorization program that is consistent with paragraph (5).

"(E) The formulary meets such other requirements as the Secretary may impose in order to achieve program savings consistent with protecting the health of program beneficiaries.

A prior authorization program established by a State under paragraph (5) is not a formulary subject to the requirements of this paragraph.

"(5) REQUIREMENTS OF PRIOR AUTHORIZATION PROGRAMS.—A medicaid plan approved under this title may require, as a condition of coverage or payment for a covered outpatient drug for which Federal financial participation is available in accordance with this section, with respect to drugs dispensed on or after July 1, 1991, the approval of the drug before its dispensing for any medically accepted indication (as defined in subsection (j)(6)) only if the system providing for such approval—

"(A) provides response by telephone or other telecommunication device within 24 hours of a request for prior authorization; and

"(B) except with respect to the drugs on the list referred to in paragraph (2), provides for the dispensing of at least 72-hour supply of a covered outpatient prescription drug in an emergency situation (as defined by the Secretary).

"(6) OTHER PERMISSIBLE RESTRICTIONS.—A State may impose limitations, with respect to all such drugs in a therapeutic class, on the minimum or maximum quantities per prescription or on the number of refills, if such limitations are necessary to discourage waste, and may address instances of fraud or abuse by individuals in any manner authorized under this Act.

"(e) ESTABLISHMENT OF UPPER PAYMENT LIMITS.—The Health Care Financing Administration shall establish a Federal upper reimbursement limit for each multiple source drug for which the FDA has rated three or more products therapeutically and pharmaceutically equivalent, regardless of whether all such additional formulations are rated as such and shall use only such formulations when determining any such upper limit.

"(f) DRUG USE REVIEW.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—A State participating in the medicaid rebate agreement may provide for a drug use review program to educate physicians and pharmacists to identify and reduce the frequency of patterns of fraud, abuse, gross overuse, or inappropriate or medically unnecessary care, among physicians, pharmacists, and patients, or associated with specific drugs or groups of drugs, as well as potential and actual severe adverse reactions to drugs.

"(2) APPLICATION OF STATE STANDARDS.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in subparagraph (B), a State with a drug use review program under this subsection shall establish and operate the program under such standards as it may establish.

"(B) DATA ON DRUG USE.—The program shall assess data on drug use against predetermined standards, consistent with—

"(i) compendia which shall consist of—

"(I) American Hospital Formulary Service Drug Information,

"(II) United States Pharmacopeia-Drug Information,

"(III) the DRUGDEX Information System, and

"(IV) American Medical Association Drug Evaluations; and

"(ii) the peer-reviewed medical literature.

"(g) ELECTRONIC CLAIMS MANAGEMENT.—In accordance with chapter 35 of title 44, United States Code (relating to coordination of Federal information policy), the Secretary shall encourage each State to establish, as its principal means of processing claims for covered outpatient drugs under its medicaid plan, a point-of-sale electronic claims management system, for the purpose of performing on-line, real time eligibility verifications, claims data capture, adjudication of claims, and assisting pharmacists (and other authorized persons) in applying for and receiving payment.

"(h) ANNUAL REPORT.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—Not later than May 1 of each year, the Secretary shall transmit to the Committee on Finance of the Senate and the Committee on Commerce of the House of Representatives a report on the operation of this section in the preceding fiscal year.

"(B) a hospital or nursing facility that dispenses covered outpatient drugs using a drug formulary system and bills the State no more than the hospital's purchasing costs for covered outpatient drugs.

"(2) CONSTRUCTION IN DETERMINING BEST PRICE.—Nothing in paragraph (1) shall be construed as excluding amounts paid by the entities described in such paragraph for covered outpatient drugs from the determination of the best price (as defined in subsection (c)(1)(C)) for such drugs.

"(j) DEFINITIONS.—For purposes of this section:

"(1) AVERAGE MANUFACTURER PRICE.—The term 'average manufacturer price' means, with respect to a covered outpatient drug of a manufacturer for a rebate period, the average price paid to the manufacturer for the drug in the United States by wholesalers for drugs distributed to the retail pharmacy class of trade, after deducting customary prompt pay discounts.

"(2) COVERED OUTPATIENT DRUG.—Subject to the exceptions in paragraph (3), the term 'covered outpatient drug' means—

"(B) a biological product, other than a vaccine which—

"(i) may only be dispensed upon prescription,

"(ii) is licensed under section 351 of the Public Health Service Act, and

"(3) LIMITING DEFINITION.—The term 'covered outpatient drug' does not include any drug, biological product, or insulin provided as part of, or as incident to and in the same setting as, any of the following (and for which payment may be made under this title as part of payment for the following and not as direct reimbursement for the drug):

"(G) Other laboratory and x-ray services.

"(H) Renal dialysis services.

Such term also does not include any such drug or product for which a National Drug Code number is not required by the Food and Drug Administration or a drug or biological used for a medical indication which is not a medically accepted indication. Any drug, biological product, or insulin excluded from the definition of such term as a result of this paragraph shall be treated as a covered outpatient drug for purposes of determining the best price (as defined in subsection (c)(1)(C)) for such drug, biological product, or insulin.

"(B) EXCEPTION.—Subparagraph (A)(i)(II) shall not apply if the Food and Drug Administration changes by regulation the requirement that, for purposes of the publication described in subparagraph (A)(i)(I), in order for drug products to be rated as therapeutically equivalent, they must be pharmaceutically equivalent and bioequivalent, as defined in subparagraph (C).

"(C) SPECIAL RULES.—For purposes of this paragraph—

"(i) drug products are pharmaceutically equivalent if the products contain identical amounts of the same active drug ingredient in the same dosage form and meet compendial or other applicable standards of strength, quality, purity, and identity;

"(ii) drugs are bioequivalent if they do not present a known or potential bioequivalence problem, or, if they do present such a problem, they are shown to meet an appropriate standard of bioequivalence; and except that not more than 15 percent of the grant may be used for administrative purposes.

"(B) in any manner that such State used amounts received under part A or F of this title, as such parts were in effect before October 1, 1995;

"(2) AUTHORITY TO RESERVE CERTAIN AMOUNTS FOR ASSISTANCE.—A State may reserve amounts paid to the State under this part for any fiscal year for the purpose of providing, without fiscal year limitation, assistance under the State program operated under this part. In the case of amounts paid to the State that are set aside in accordance with section 418(a), the State may reserve such amounts for any fiscal year only for the purpose of providing without fiscal year limitation child care assistance under this part.

"(3) AUTHORITY TO OPERATE EMPLOYMENT PLACEMENT PROGRAM.—A State to which a grant is made under this section may use a portion of the grant to make payments (or provide job placement vouchers) to State-approved public and private job placement agencies that provide employment placement services to individuals who receive assistance under the State program funded under this part.

"(4) TRANSFERABILITY OF GRANT AMOUNTS.—A State may use up to 30 percent of amounts received from a grant under this part for a fiscal year to carry out State activities under the Child Care and Development Block Grant Act of 1990 (42 U.S.C. 9858 et seq.) (relating to child care block grants).

"(c) TIMING OF PAYMENTS.—The Secretary shall pay each grant payable to a State under this section in quarterly installments.

"(d) FEDERAL LOAN FUND FOR STATE WELFARE PROGRAMS.—

"(1) ESTABLISHMENT.—There is hereby established in the Treasury of the United States a revolving loan fund which shall be known as the 'Federal Loan Fund for State Welfare Programs' (hereafter for purposes of this section referred to as the 'fund').

"(C) MAXIMUM LOAN.—The cumulative amount of any loans made to a State under subparagraph (A) during fiscal years 1996 through 2000 shall not exceed 10 percent of the State family assistance grant under subsection (a)(2) for a fiscal year.

"(D) LOAN-ELIGIBLE STATE.—For purposes of subparagraph (A), a loan-eligible State is a State which has not had a penalty described in section 407(a)(1) imposed against it at any time prior to the loan being made.

"(5) LIMITATION ON USE OF LOAN.—A State shall use a loan received under this subsection only for any purpose for which grant amounts received by the State under subsection (a) may be used including—

"(A) welfare anti-fraud activities; and

"(B) the provision of assistance under the State program to Indian families that have moved from the service area of an Indian tribe with a tribal family assistance plan approved under section 414.

"(e) SPECIAL RULE FOR INDIAN TRIBES THAT RECEIVED JOBS Funds.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall pay to each eligible Indian tribe for each of fiscal years 1996, 1997, 1998, 1999, and 2000 a grant in an amount equal to the amount received by such Indian tribe in fiscal year 1994 under section 482(i) (as in effect during such fiscal year) for the purpose of operating a program to make work activities available to members of the Indian tribe.

"(2) ELIGIBLE INDIAN TRIBE.—For purposes of paragraph (1), the term 'eligible Indian tribe' means an Indian tribe or Alaska Native organization that conducted a job opportunities and basic skills training program in fiscal year 1995 under section 482(i) (as in effect during such fiscal year).

"(2) ALLOCATION FORMULA; BONUS FUND.—

"(A) ALLOCATION FORMULA.—

"(i) IN GENERAL.—Not later than September 30, 1996, the Secretary of Health and Human Services shall develop and publish in the Federal Register a formula for allocating amounts in the job placement performance bonus fund to States based on the number of families that received assistance under a State program funded under this part in the preceding fiscal year that became ineligible for assistance under the State program as a result of unsubsidized employment during such year.

"(ii) FACTORS TO CONSIDER.—In developing the allocation formula under clause (i), the Secretary shall—

"(I) provide a greater financial bonus for individuals in families described in clause (i) who remain employed for greater periods of time or are at greater risk of long-term welfare dependency; and

"(II) take into account the unemployment conditions of each State or geographic area.

"(B) JOB PLACEMENT PERFORMANCE BONUS FUND.—

"(i) IN GENERAL.—The amount in the job placement performance bonus fund for a fiscal year shall be an amount equal to the applicable percentage of the amount appropriated under section 403(a)(2)(A)(i) for such fiscal year.

"(ii) APPLICABLE PERCENTAGE.—For purposes of clause (i)(I), the applicable percentage shall be determined in accordance with the following table:

"(3) COMPUTATION OF GRANT.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—Subject to subparagraph (B), the Secretary of the Treasury shall pay to each eligible State in a fiscal year an amount equal to the Federal medical assistance percentage for such State for such fiscal year (as defined in section 2122(c)) of so much of the expenditures by the State in such year under the State program funded under this part as exceed the historic State expenditures for such State.

"(B) LIMITATION.—The total amount paid to a State under subparagraph (A) for any fiscal year shall not exceed an amount equal to 20 percent of the annual amount determined for such State under the State program funded under this part (without regard to this subsection) for such fiscal year.

"(C) METHOD OF COMPUTATION, PAYMENT, AND RECONCILIATION.—

"(i) METHOD OF COMPUTATION.—The method of computing and paying such amounts shall be as follows:

"(I) The Secretary of Health and Human Services shall estimate the amount to be paid to the State for each quarter under the provisions of subparagraph (A), such estimate to be based on a report filed by the State containing its estimate of the total sum to be expended in such quarter and such other information as the Secretary may find necessary.

"(II) The Secretary of Health and Human Services shall then certify to the Secretary of the Treasury the amount so estimated by the Secretary of Health and Human Services.

"(ii) METHOD OF PAYMENT.—The Secretary of the Treasury shall thereupon, through the Fiscal Service of the Department of the Treasury and prior to audit or settlement by the General Accounting Office, pay to the State, at the time or times fixed by the Secretary of Health and Human Services, the amount so certified.

"(iii) METHOD OF RECONCILIATION.—If at the end of each fiscal year, the Secretary of Health and Human Services finds that a State which received amounts from the Fund in such fiscal year did not meet the maintenance of effort requirement under paragraph (5)(B) for such fiscal year, the Secretary shall reduce the State family assistance grant for such State for the succeeding fiscal year by such amounts.

"(4) USE OF GRANT.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—An eligible State may use the grant—

"(i) in any manner that is reasonably calculated to accomplish the purpose of this part; or

"(ii) in any manner that such State used amounts received under part A or F of this title, as such parts were in effect before October 1, 1995.

"(B) REFUND OF UNUSED PORTION.—Any amount of a grant under this subsection not used during the fiscal year shall be returned to the Fund.

"(5) ELIGIBLE STATE.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of this subsection, a State is an eligible State with respect to a fiscal year, if—

"(i)(I) the average rate of total unemployment in such State (seasonally adjusted) for the period consisting of the most recent 3 months for which data for all States are published equals or exceeds 6.5 percent, and

"(II) the average rate of total unemployment in such State (seasonally adjusted) for the 3-month period equals or exceeds 110 percent of such average rate for either (or both) of the corresponding 3-month periods ending in the 2 preceding calendar years; and

"(ii) has met the maintenance of effort requirement under subparagraph (B) for the State program funded under this part for the fiscal year.

"(B) MAINTENANCE OF EFFORT.—The maintenance of effort requirement for any State under this subparagraph for any fiscal year is the expenditure of an amount at least equal to 100 percent of the level of historic State expenditures for such State (as determined under subsection (a)(5)).

"(6) ANNUAL REPORTS.—The Secretary of the Treasury shall annually report to the Congress on the status of the Fund.

"SEC. 404. MANDATORY WORK REQUIREMENTS.

"(a) PARTICIPATION RATE REQUIREMENTS.—A State to which a grant is made under section 403 for a fiscal year shall achieve the minimum participation rate specified in the following tables for the fiscal year with respect to—

"(1) all families receiving assistance under the State program funded under this part:

"If the fiscal year is:	The minimum participation rate for all families is:
1996	25
1997	30
1998	35
1999	40
2000 or thereafter	50;

and

"(2) with respect to 2-parent families receiving such assistance:

"If the fiscal year is:	The minimum participation rate is:
1996	60
1997 or 1998	75
1999 or thereafter	90.

"(b) CALCULATION OF PARTICIPATION RATES.—

"(1) FOR ALL FAMILIES.—

"(A) AVERAGE MONTHLY RATE.—For purposes of subsection (a)(1), the participation rate for all families of a State for a fiscal year is the average of the participation rates for all families of the State for each month in the fiscal year.

"(B) MONTHLY PARTICIPATION RATES.—The participation rate of a State for all families of the State for a month, expressed as a percentage, is—

"(i) the sum of—

"(I) the number of all families receiving assistance under the State program funded under this part that include an adult who is engaged in work for the month;

"(II) the number of all families receiving assistance under the State program funded under this part that are subject in such month to a penalty described in paragraph (1)(A) or (2)(A) of subsection (d) but have not been subject to such penalty for more than 3 months within the preceding 12-month period (whether or not consecutive); and

"(III) the number of all families that received assistance under the State program under this part during the previous 6-month period that have become ineligible to receive assistance during such period because of employment and which include an adult who is employed for the month; divided by

"(ii) the total number of all families receiving assistance under the State program funded under this part during the month that include an adult receiving assistance.

"(2) 2-PARENT FAMILIES.—

"(A) AVERAGE MONTHLY RATE.—For purposes of subsection (a)(2), the participation rate for 2-parent families of a State for a fiscal year is the average of the participation rates for 2-parent families of the State for each month in the fiscal year.

"(B) MONTHLY PARTICIPATION RATES.—The participation rate of a State for 2-parent families of the State for a month, expressed as a percentage, is—

"(i) the total number of 2-parent families described in paragraph (1)(B)(i); divided by

"(ii) the total number of 2-parent families receiving assistance under the State program funded under this part during the month that include an adult.

"(3) PRO RATA REDUCTION OF PARTICIPATION RATE DUE TO CASELOAD REDUCTIONS NOT REQUIRED BY FEDERAL LAW.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall prescribe regulations for reducing the minimum participation rate otherwise required by this section for a fiscal year by the number of percentage points equal to the number of percentage points (if any) by which—

"(i) the number of families receiving assistance during the fiscal year under the State program funded under this part is less than

"(ii) the number of families that received aid under the State plan approved under part A of this title (as in effect before October 1, 1995) during the fiscal year immediately preceding such effective date.

The minimum participation rate shall not be reduced to the extent that the Secretary determines that the reduction in the number of families receiving such assistance is required by Federal law.

"(B) ELIGIBILITY CHANGES NOT COUNTED.—The regulations described in subparagraph (A) shall not take into account families that are diverted from a State program funded under this part as a result of differences in eligibility criteria under a State program funded under this part and eligibility criteria under such State's plan under the aid to families with dependent children program, as such plan was in effect on the day before the date of the enactment of the Work Opportunity Act of 1995.

"(4) STATE OPTION TO INCLUDE INDIVIDUALS RECEIVING ASSISTANCE UNDER A TRIBAL FAMILY ASSISTANCE PLAN.—For purposes of paragraphs (1)(B) and (2)(B), a State may, at its option, include families receiving assistance under a tribal family assistance plan approved under section 414. For purposes of the previous sentence, an individual who receives assistance under a tribal family assistance plan approved under section 414 shall be treated as being engaged in work if the individual is participating in work under standards that are comparable to State standards for being engaged in work.

"(5) STATE OPTION FOR PARTICIPATION REQUIREMENT EXEMPTIONS.—For any fiscal year, a State may, at its option, not require an individual who is the parent or caretaker relative of a minor child who is less than 12 months of age to engage in work and may exclude such an individual from the determination of the minimum participation rate specified for such fiscal year in subsection (a).

"(c) ENGAGED IN WORK.—

"(1) ALL FAMILIES.—For purposes of subsection (b)(1)(B)(i)(I), an adult is engaged in work for a month in a fiscal year if the adult is participating in work for at least the minimum average number of hours per week specified in the following table during the month, not fewer than 20 hours per week of which are attributable to a work activity:

"If the month is in fiscal year:	The minimum average number of hours per week is:
1996	20
1997	20
1998	20
1999	25
2000	30
2001	30
2002	35
2003 or thereafter	35.

"(2) 2-PARENT FAMILIES.—For purposes of subsection (b)(2)(A), an adult is engaged in work for a month in a fiscal year if the adult is participating in work for at least 35 hours per week during the month, not fewer than 30 hours per week of which are attributable to work activities described in paragraph (3).

"(3) DEFINITION OF WORK ACTIVITIES.—For purposes of this subsection, the term 'work activities' means—

"(A) unsubsidized employment;

"(B) subsidized employment;

"(C) on-the-job training;

"(D) community service programs;

"(E) job search (only for the first 4 weeks in which an individual is required to participate in work activities under this section); and

"(F) vocational educational training (not to exceed 12 months with respect to any individual).

"(4) LIMITATION ON VOCATIONAL EDUCATION ACTIVITIES COUNTED AS WORK.—For purposes of determining monthly participation rates under paragraphs (1)(B)(i)(I) and (2)(B)(i) of subsection (b), not more than 25 percent of adults in all families and in 2-parent families determined to be engaged in work in the State for a month may meet the work activity requirement through participation in vocational educational training.

"(d) PENALTIES AGAINST INDIVIDUALS.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in paragraph (2), if an adult in a family receiving assistance under the State program funded under this part refuses to engage in work required under subsection (c)(1) or (c)(2), a State to which a grant is made under section 403 shall—

"(A) reduce the amount of assistance otherwise payable to the family pro rata (or more, at the option of the State) with respect to any period during a month in which the adult so refuses; or subject to such good cause and other exceptions as the State may establish.

"(B) terminate such assistance,

"(2) EXCEPTION.—Notwithstanding paragraph (1), a State may not reduce or terminate assistance under the State program based on a refusal of an adult to work if such adult is a single custodial parent caring for a child age 5 or under and has a demonstrated inability (as determined by the State) to obtain needed child care, for one or more of the following reasons:

"(A) Unavailability of appropriate child care within a reasonable distance of the individual's home or work site.

"(B) Unavailability or unsuitability of informal child care by a relative or under other arrangements.

"(C) Unavailability of appropriate and affordable formal child care arrangements.

"(e) NONDISPLACEMENT IN WORK ACTIVITIES.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—Subject to paragraph (2), an adult in a family receiving assistance under this part may fill a vacant employment position in order to engage in a work activity described in subsection (c)(3).

"(2) NO FILLING OF CERTAIN VACANCIES.—No adult in a work activity described in subsection (c)(3) shall be employed or assigned—

"(A) when any other individual is on layoff from the same or any substantially equivalent job; or

"(B) when the employer has terminated the employment of any regular employee or otherwise caused an involuntary reduction of its workforce in order to fill the vacancy so created with an adult described in paragraph (1).

"(3) NO PREEMPTION.—Nothing in this subsection shall preempt or supersede any provision of State or local law that provides greater protection for employees from displacement.

"(f) SENSE OF THE CONGRESS.—It is the sense of the Congress that in complying with this section, each State that operates a program funded under this part is encouraged to assign the highest priority to requiring adults in 2-parent families and adults in single-parent families that include older preschool or school-age children to be engaged in work activities.

"(g) ENCOURAGEMENT TO PROVIDE CHILD CARE SERVICES.—An individual participating in a State community service program may be treated as being engaged in work under subsection (c) if such individual provides child care services to other individuals participating in the community service program in the manner, and for the period of time each week, determined appropriate by the State.

"SEC. 405. REQUIREMENTS AND LIMITATIONS.

"(a) STATE REQUIRED TO ENTER INTO A PERSONAL RESPONSIBILITY CONTRACT WITH EACH FAMILY RECEIVING ASSISTANCE.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—Each State to which a grant is made under section 403 shall require each family receiving assistance under the State program funded under this part to enter into—

"(A) a personal responsibility contract (as developed by the State) with the State; or

"(B) a limited benefit plan.

"(2) PERSONAL RESPONSIBILITY CONTRACT.—For purposes of this subsection, the term 'personal responsibility contract' means a binding contract between the State and each family receiving assistance under the State program funded under this part that—

"(A) outlines the steps each family and the State will take to get the family off of welfare and to become self-sufficient;

"(B) specifies a negotiated time-limited period of eligibility for receipt of assistance that is consistent with unique family circumstances and is based on a reasonable plan to facilitate the transition of the family to self-sufficiency;

"(C) provides that the family will automatically enter into a limited benefit plan if the family is out of compliance with the personal responsibility contract; and

"(D) provides that the contract shall be invalid if the State agency fails to comply with the contract.

"(3) LIMITED BENEFIT PLAN.—For purposes of this subsection, the term 'limited benefit plan' means a plan which provides for a reduced level of assistance and later termination of assistance to a family that has entered into the plan in accordance with a schedule to be determined by the State.

"(4) ASSESSMENT.—The State agency shall provide, through a case manager, an initial and thorough assessment of the skills, prior work experience, and employability of each parent for use in developing and negotiating a personal responsibility contract.

"(5) DISPUTE RESOLUTION.—The State agency described in section 402(a)(7) shall establish a dispute resolution procedure for disputes related to participation in the personal responsibility contract that provides the opportunity for a hearing.

"(b) NO ASSISTANCE FOR MORE THAN 5 YEARS.—

"(1) MINOR CHILD EXCEPTION.—If an individual received assistance under the State program operated under this part as a minor child in a needy family, any period during which such individual's family received assistance shall not be counted for purposes of applying the limitation described in paragraph (1) to an application for assistance under such program by such individual as the head of a household of a needy family with minor children.

"(2) HARDSHIP EXCEPTION.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—The State may exempt a family from the application of paragraph (1) by reason of hardship.

"(B) LIMITATION.—The number of families with respect to which an exemption made by a State under subparagraph (A) is in effect for a fiscal year shall not exceed 20 percent of the average monthly number of families to which the State is providing assistance under the program operated under this part.

"(c) DENIAL OF ASSISTANCE FOR 10 YEARS TO A PERSON FOUND TO HAVE FRAUDULENTLY MISREPRESENTED RESIDENCE IN ORDER TO OBTAIN ASSISTANCE IN 2 OR MORE STATES.—An individual shall not be considered an eligible individual for the purposes of this part during the 10-year period that begins on the date the individual is convicted in Federal or State court of having made a fraudulent statement or representation with respect to the place of residence of the individual in order to receive assistance simultaneously from 2 or more States under programs that are funded under this title, title XXI, or the Food Stamp Act of 1977, or benefits in 2 or more States under the supplemental security income program under title XVI.

"(d) DENIAL OF ASSISTANCE FOR FUGITIVE FELONS AND PROBATION AND PAROLE VIOLATORS.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—An individual shall not be considered an eligible individual for the purposes of this part if such individual is—

"(A) fleeing to avoid prosecution, or custody or confinement after conviction, under the laws of the place from which the individual flees, for a crime, or an attempt to commit a crime, which is a felony under the laws of the place from which the individual flees, or which, in the case of the State of New Jersey, is a high misdemeanor under the laws of such State; or

"(B) violating a condition of probation or parole imposed under Federal or State law.

"(2) EXCHANGE OF INFORMATION WITH LAW ENFORCEMENT AGENCIES.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, a State shall furnish any Federal, State, or local law enforcement officer, upon the request of the officer, with the current address, Social Security number, and photograph (if applicable) of any recipient of assistance under this part, if the officer furnishes the agency with the name of the recipient and notifies the agency that—

"(A) such recipient—

"(i) is described in subparagraph (A) or (B) of paragraph (1); or

"(ii) has information that is necessary for the officer to conduct the officer's official duties; and

"(B) the location or apprehension of the recipient is within such officer's official duties.

"(e) STATE OPTION TO REQUIRE ASSIGNMENT OF SUPPORT.—At the option of the State, a State to which a grant is made under section 403 may provide that an individual applying for or receiving assistance under the State program funded under this part shall be required to assign to the State any rights to support from any other person the individual may have in such individual's own behalf or in behalf of any other family member for whom the individual is applying for or receiving assistance.

"(f) DENIAL OF ASSISTANCE FOR ABSENT CHILD.—Each State to which a grant is made under section 403—

"(1) may not use any part of the grant to provide assistance to a family with respect to any minor child who has been, or is expected by the caretaker relative in the family to be, absent from the home for a period of 45 consecutive days or, at the option of the State, such period of not less than 30 and not more than 90 consecutive days as the State may provide for in the State plan;

"(2) at the option of the State, may establish such good cause exceptions to paragraph (1) as the State considers appropriate if such exceptions are provided for in the State plan; and

"(3) shall provide that a caretaker relative shall not be considered an eligible individual for purposes of this part if the caretaker relative fails to notify the State agency of an absence of a minor child from the home for the period specified in or provided for under paragraph (1), by the end of the 5-day period that begins on the date that it becomes clear to the caretaker relative that the minor child will be absent for the period so specified or provided for in paragraph (1).

"SEC. 406. PROMOTING RESPONSIBLE PARENTING.

"(a) FINDINGS.—The Congress makes the following findings:

"(1) Marriage is the foundation of a successful society.

"(2) Marriage is an essential institution of a successful society which promotes the interests of children.

"(3) Promotion of responsible fatherhood and motherhood is integral to successful child rearing and the wellbeing of children.

"(4) In 1992, only 54 percent of single-parent families with children had a child support order established and, of that 54 percent, only about one half received the full amount due. Of the cases enforced through the public child support enforcement system, only 18 percent of the caseload has a collection.

"(5) The number of individuals receiving aid to families with dependent children (hereafter in this subsection referred to as 'AFDC') has more than tripled since 1965. More than two-thirds of these recipients are children. Eighty-nine percent of children receiving AFDC benefits now live in homes in which no father is present.

"(I) was 3,300,000 in 1965;

"(II) was 6,200,000 in 1970;

"(III) was 7,400,000 in 1980; and

"(IV) was 9,300,000 in 1992.

"(ii) While the number of children receiving AFDC benefits increased nearly threefold between 1965 and 1992, the total number of children in the United States aged 0 to 18 has declined by 5.5 percent.

"(B) The Department of Health and Human Services has estimated that 12,000,000 children will receive AFDC benefits within 10 years.

"(C) The increase in the number of children receiving public assistance is closely related to the increase in births to unmarried women. Between 1970 and 1991, the percentage of live births to unmarried women increased nearly threefold, from 10.7 percent to 29.5 percent.

"(6) The increase of out-of-wedlock pregnancies and births is well documented as follows:

"(A) It is estimated that the rate of nonmarital teen pregnancy rose 23 percent from 54 pregnancies per 1,000 unmarried teenagers in 1976 to 66.7 pregnancies in 1991. The overall rate of nonmarital pregnancy rose 14 percent from 90.8 pregnancies per 1,000 unmarried women in 1980 to 103 in both 1991 and 1992. In contrast, the overall pregnancy rate for married couples decreased 7.3 percent between 1980 and 1991, from 126.9 pregnancies per 1,000 married women in 1980 to 117.6 pregnancies in 1991.

"(B) The total of all out-of-wedlock births between 1970 and 1991 has risen from 10.7 percent to 29.5 percent and if the current trend continues, 50 percent of all births by the year 2015 will be out-of-wedlock.

"(7) The negative consequences of an out-of-wedlock birth on the mother, the child, the family, and society are well documented as follows:

"(A) Young women 17 and under who give birth outside of marriage are more likely to go on public assistance and to spend more years on welfare once enrolled. These combined effects of 'younger and longer' increase total AFDC costs per household by 25 percent to 30 percent for 17-year olds.

"(B) Children born out-of-wedlock have a substantially higher risk of being born at a very low or moderately low birth weight.

"(C) Children born out-of-wedlock are more likely to experience low verbal cognitive attainment, as well as more child abuse, and neglect.

"(D) Children born out-of-wedlock were more likely to have lower cognitive scores, lower educational aspirations, and a greater likelihood of becoming teenage parents themselves.

"(E) Being born out-of-wedlock significantly reduces the chances of the child growing up to have an intact marriage.

"(F) Children born out-of-wedlock are 3 times more likely to be on welfare when they grow up.

"(8) Currently 35 percent of children in single-parent homes were born out-of-wedlock, nearly the same percentage as that of children in single-parent homes whose parents are divorced (37 percent). While many parents find themselves, through divorce or tragic circumstances beyond their control, facing the difficult task of raising children alone, nevertheless, the negative consequences of raising children in single-parent homes are well documented as follows:

"(A) Only 9 percent of married-couple families with children under 18 years of age have income below the national poverty level. In contrast, 46 percent of female-headed households with children under 18 years of age are below the national poverty level.

"(B) Among single-parent families, nearly ½ of the mothers who never married received AFDC while only ⅕ of divorced mothers received AFDC.

"(C) Children born into families receiving welfare assistance are 3 times more likely to be on welfare when they reach adulthood than children not born into families receiving welfare.

"(E) The younger the single parent mother, the less likely she is to finish high school.

"(F) Young women who have children before finishing high school are more likely to receive welfare assistance for a longer period of time.

"(G) Between 1985 and 1990, the public cost of births to teenage mothers under the aid to families with dependent children program, the food stamp program, and the medicaid program has been estimated at $120,000,000,000.

"(H) The absence of a father in the life of a child has a negative effect on school performance and peer adjustment.

"(I) Children of teenage single parents have lower cognitive scores, lower educational aspirations, and a greater likelihood of becoming teenage parents themselves.

"(J) Children of single-parent homes are 3 times more likely to fail and repeat a year in grade school than are children from intact two-parent families.

"(K) Children from single-parent homes are almost 4 times more likely to be expelled or suspended from school.

"(L) Neighborhoods with larger percentages of youth aged 12 through 20 and areas with higher percentages of single-parent households have higher rates of violent crime.

"(M) Of those youth held for criminal offenses within the State juvenile justice system, only 29.8 percent lived primarily in a home with both parents. In contrast to these incarcerated youth, 73.9 percent of the 62,800,000 children in the Nation's resident population were living with both parents.

"(9) Therefore, in light of this demonstration of the crisis in our Nation, it is the sense of the Congress that prevention of out-of-wedlock pregnancy and reduction in out-of-wedlock birth are very important Government interests and the policy contained in provisions of this title is intended to address the crisis.

"(b) REQUIREMENT THAT TEENAGE PARENTS LIVE IN ADULT-SUPERVISED SETTINGS.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—If the depreciation deduction allowable under this section to any taxpayer with respect to any property is determined under the income forecast method or any similar method—

"(A) in determining the amount of the depreciation deduction under such method, the estimated income from the property shall include all income earned in connection with the property before the close of the 10th taxable year following the taxable year in which the property was placed in service,

"(B) the adjusted basis of the property shall only include amounts with respect to which the requirements of section 461(h) are satisfied,

"(C) the depreciation deduction under such method for the 10th taxable year beginning after the taxable year in which the property was placed in service shall be equal to the adjusted basis of such property as of the beginning of such 10th taxable year, and

"(D) such taxpayer shall pay (or be entitled to receive) interest computed under the look-back method of paragraph (2) for any recomputation year.

"(2) LOOK-BACK METHOD.—The interest computed under the look-back method of this paragraph for any recomputation year shall be determined by—

"(A) first determining the depreciation deductions under this section with respect to such property which would have been allowable for prior taxable years if the determination of the amounts so allowable had been made on the basis of the sum of the following (instead of the estimated income with respect to such property)—

"(i) the actual income from such property for periods before the close of the recomputation year, and

"(ii) an estimate of the future income with respect to such property for periods after the recomputation year,

"(B) second, determining (solely for purposes of computing such interest) the overpayment or underpayment of tax for each such prior taxable year which would result solely from the application of subparagraph (A), and

"(C) then using the adjusted overpayment rate (as defined in section 460(b)(7)), compounded daily, on the overpayment or underpayment determined under subparagraph (B).

For purposes of the preceding sentence, any cost incurred after the property is placed in service (which is not treated as a separate property under paragraph (5)) shall be taken into account by discounting (using the Federal mid-term rate determined under section 1274(d) as of the time such cost is incurred) such cost to its value as of the date the property is placed in service. The taxpayer may elect with respect to any property to have the preceding sentence not apply to such property.

"(A) CERTAIN COSTS TREATED AS SEPARATE PROPERTY.—For purposes of this subsection, the following costs shall be treated as separate properties:

"(i) Any costs incurred with respect to any property after the 10th taxable year beginning after the taxable year in which the property was placed in service.

"(B) SYNDICATION INCOME FROM TELEVISION SERIES.—In the case of property which is an episode in a television series, income from syndicating such series shall not be required to be taken into account under this subsection before the earlier of—

"(i) the 4th taxable year beginning after the date the first episode in such series is placed in service, or

"(ii) the earliest taxable year in which the taxpayer has an arrangement relating to the future syndication of such series.

"(C) COLLECTION OF INTEREST.—For purposes of subtitle F (other than sections 6654 and 6655), any interest required to be paid by the taxpayer under paragraph (1) for any recomputation year shall be treated as an increase in the tax imposed by this chapter for such year.

(1) to acquire appropriate housing for Department of State personnel stationed abroad and for the acquisition of other facilities, in locations in which the United States has a diplomatic mission; and

(b) RETROACTIVE PAY PROHIBITED.—No pay forfeited in accordance with subsection (a) may be paid retroactively.

SEC. 13004. SENSE OF THE SENATE ON CONTINUED HUMAN RIGHTS VIOLATIONS IN THE FORMER YUGOSLAVIA.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Senate makes the following findings:

(1) Human rights violations and atrocities continue unabated in the former Yugoslavia.

(2) The Assistant Secretary of State for Human Rights recently reported that starting in mid-September and intensifying between October 6 and October 12, 1995 many thousands of Bosnian Muslims and Croats in Northwest Bosnia were systematically forced from their homes by paramilitary units, local police and in some instances, Bosnian Serb Army officials and soldiers.

(3) Despite the October 12, 1995 cease-fire which went into effect by agreement of the warring parties in the former Yugoslavia, Bosnian Serbs continue to conduct a brutal campaign to expel non-Serb civilians who remain in Northwest Bosnia, and are subjecting non-Serbs to untold horror—murder, rape, robbery and other violence.

(4) Horrible examples of "ethnic cleansing" persist in Northwest Bosnia. Some 6,000 refugees recently reached Zenica and reported that nearly 2,000 family members from this group are still unaccounted for.

(5) The United Nations spokesman in Zagreb reported that many refugees have been given only a few minutes to leave their homes and that "girls as young as 17 are reported to have been taken into wooded areas and raped". Elderly, sick and very young refugees have been driven to remote areas and forced to walk long distances on unsafe roads and cross rivers without bridges.

(6) The War Crimes Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia has collected volumes of evidence of atrocities, including the establishment of death camps, mass executions and systematic campaigns of rape and terror. This War Crimes Tribunal has already issued 43 indictments on the basis of this evidence.

(7) The Assistant Secretary of State for Human Rights has described the eyewitness accounts as "prima facia evidence of war crimes which, if confirmed, could very well lead to further indictments by the War Crimes Tribunal".

(8) The United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees estimates that more than 22,000 Muslims and Croats have been forced from their homes since mid-September in Bosnian Serb controlled areas.

(9) In opening the Dodd Center Symposium on the topic of "50 Years After Nuremburg" on October 16, 1995, President Clinton cited the "excellent progress" of the War Crimes Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia and said, "Those accused of war crimes, crimes against humanity and genocide must be brought to justice. They must be tried and, if found guilty, they must be held accountable.".

(10) President Clinton also observed on October 16, 1995, "some people are concerned that pursuing peace in Bosnia and prosecuting war criminals are incompatible goals. But I believe they are wrong. There must be peace for justice to prevail, but there must be justice when peace prevails".

(b) SENSE OF THE SENATE.—It is the sense of the Senate that—

(1) the Senate condemns the systematic human rights abuses against the people of Bosnia and Herzegovina.

(2) with peace talks scheduled to begin in the United States on October 31, 1995, these new reports of Serbian atrocities are of grave concern to all Americans.

(3) the Bosnian Serb leadership should immediately halt these atrocities, fully account for the missing, and allow those who have been separated to return to their families.

(4) the International Red Cross, United Nations agencies and human rights organizations should be granted full and complete access to all locations throughout Bosnia and Herzegovina.

(5) the Bosnian Serb leadership should fully cooperate to facilitate the complete investigation of the above allegations so that those responsible may be held accountable under international treaties, conventions, obligations and law.

(6) the United States should continue to support the work of the War Crimes Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia.

(7) "ethnic cleansing" by any faction, group, leader, or government is unjustified, immoral and illegal and all perpetrators of war crimes, crimes against humanity, genocide and other human rights violations in the former Yugoslavia must be held accountable.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES—Monday, October 30, 1995

The House met at 12:30 p.m. and was called to order by the Speaker pro tempore [Mr. EVERETT].

DESIGNATION OF SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

WASHINGTON, DC,
October 30, 1995.

I hereby designate the Honorable TERRY EVERETT to act as Speaker pro tempore on this day.

NEWT GINGRICH,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

MORNING BUSINESS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the order of the House of May 12, 1995, the Chair will now recognize Members from lists submitted by the majority and minority leaders for morning hour debates. The Chair will alternate recognition between the parties, with each party limited to not to exceed 30 minutes, and each Member except the majority and minority leader limited to not to exceed 5 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from California [Mr. HORN] for 5 minutes.

THE UNITED STATES SHOULD STAY OUT OF THE BAFFLING BOSNIAN CONFLICT

Mr. HORN. Mr. Speaker, it is the time in a Presidential term when, whether Republican or Democrat, Presidents and their advisers begin to think about major feats that might be accomplished in foreign affairs. Sometimes, there are achievements. Often, it is mostly symbolism. It is much easier than staying in town and relating to Congress.

Some Presidents have seen themselves as Franklin Roosevelt, with cape flying, standing on the bridge of a naval vessel in the North Atlantic. Others have seen themselves as Winston Churchill, the lone voice alerting the world to the rising power of Adolf Hitler and the danger to all Europe in the mid-1930's.

Sometimes our Presidents are right, but sometimes they are very, very wrong.

If I were to give advice to our current President, I would ask him to read the brilliant memoir of General Colin Powell. The General provides some very wise advice in "My American Journey." At page 291 he says:

> What I saw from my perch in the Pentagon was America sticking its hand into a thousand-year-old hornet's nest with the expectation that our mere presence might pacify the hornets.

In 1991, when "well-meaning Americans thought we should do something in Bosnia," General Powell remembered "the shattered bodies of Marines at the Beirut airport," and he argued "for caution."

At pages 291 and 292, he comments:

> Foreign policy cannot be paralyzed by the prospect of casualties. But lives must not be risked until we can face a parent or a spouse or a child with a clear answer to the question of why a member of that family had to die. To provide a "symbol" or a "presence".

The General added, "is not good enough."

Those are wise words.

Where is the defined mission of American forces in Bosnia? Many of us have argued for years—under two Presidents of the United States, one of each party—for lifting the arms embargo and letting the Bosnians fight for their own freedom. That has not been done.

Our executive and legislative energies should be on the major problems we have. The major problem where the American interest is directly affected is the world's remaining superpower, which is the Soviet Union, now the former Soviet states, now Russia. That is the country that should occupy our interest in relation to NATO, in relation to ties to the West in the years ahead. if we fail in that, all else we do will be for naught.

At page 577, General Powell says:

> No American President could defend to the American people the heavy sacrifice of lives it would cost to resolve this baffling conflict, the Bosnian baffling conflict. Nor could a President likely sustain long-term involvement necessary to keep the protagonists from going at each other's throats all over again at the first opportunity.
> American GI's are not toy soldiers,

Powell observed,

We have to ask, where is the American interest? What are our objectives? What are our tactics? Are they worth endangering American lives?

Mr. Speaker, I say it is not worth endangering American lives, even though we can all grieve for the tragedies we see in the former Yugoslavia, in Bosnia. But when Bosnians are willing to pretend to be Serbs and Croatians are willing to pretend to be Serbs and Bosnians and Serbs pretending to be Croatians and Bosnians, it would be rather confusing to send American troops into that chaotic situation. And we must not do it.

Mr. Speaker, the article of Charles Krauthammer this last Friday in the Washington Post entitled "Clinton's Folly" also provides quite a bit of wisdom on this subject.

Mr. Speaker, I include the article for the RECORD, as follows:

CLINTON'S FOLLY

(By Charles Krauthammer)

The first law of peacekeeping is that when you have real peace, you don't need peacekeepers. When both parties are in military equilibrium and have no intention of fighting each other—Israel and Egypt, for example—peacekeepers are nice to have around but they are mere window dressing.

The second law of peacekeeping is that were there is no peace, sending peacekeepers is a disaster. When the parties remained unreconciled—as in Beirut and Somalia, for example—peacekeepers simply become targets.

The third law of peacekeeping is that Americans make the best targets. If you are unhappy with the imposed peace, there is nothing like blowing up 241 Marines or killing 18 U.S. Army Rangers to make your point. Killing Americans is a faster way to victory than killing your traditional enemy.

From which follows one of the rare absolutes in foreign policy: Never send peacekeepers—and certainly never send American peacekeepers—to police a continuing, unsettled war. Yet President Clinton long ago committed the United States to sending 25,000 peacekeeping troops to police a Bosnian peace.

He made this offer in his usual foreign policy way: unreflective offhandedness in the service of expediency. And now, as a Bosnian agreement of sorts approaches, his bluff is about to be called. Must the country go along with his folly?

If in the coming peace talks at an Air Force base in Dayton, Ohio, Richard Holbrooke can manage to get the Serbs, the Croats and the Bosnians to agree to a real peace—one they will be satisfied with and truly respect—that would be wonderful. But why would we need Americans to police such a peace? Such a peace could be policed by Fijians or Pakistanis or Canadians wearing U.N. blue helmets or some other multinational attire.

Why are the Bosnians demanding American ground troops instead? Because none of the three vengeful, irredentist parties expects anything resembling a real peace. They are not even pretending. Croatia, for example, announced just Tuesday that if it does not get Eastern Slavonia it will go to war with Serbia at the end of November to get it.

At Dayton, the parties may grudgingly sign on to a "peace" that all know will amount to a limited, temporary cessation of hostilities—a hiatus long enough to allow the quick interposition of heavily armed NATO and American ground troops. And then what?

☐ This symbol represents the time of day during the House proceedings, e.g., ☐ 1407 is 2:07 p.m.

Matter set in this typeface indicates words inserted or appended, rather than spoken, by a Member of the House on the floor.

And the, insanely, we have made ourselves parties to the conflict. There will be no avoiding it.

Whom are we going to fight? Congress asked administration spokesmen at hearings last week. The administration answer: just rogue elements of the different militias who might violate the agreements their political leaders had signed. But if any of the three parties sent regular troops against us, we would presumably just give up and get out.

As if giving up and getting out can be accomplished without needless casualties, self-inflicted humiliation and grave tensions with allies who might be left behind. And as if the job of housebreaking overambitious "rogue" militias is the job of the U.S. Army and not of the Balkan parties' own political and military leadership.

And what kind of neutrality—the one indispensable for any peacekeepers—are we bringing to the conflict? Our sympathies for the Bosnian government side are pretty obvious, particularly to the Serbs who have been on the receiving end of NATO air strikes and U.S. Navy cruise missiles. Even more absurd, the administration intends to simultaneously "peace-keep" and arm and train the Muslims.

Let's be clear: U.S. troops will be in Bosnia not to peacekeep but to protect the Bosnian government side. Our job will be to serve as human tripwires for the Bosnians. If Serbs or Croats move against the Bosnians, they will henceforth have to roll over the bodies of Americans first—and risk involving the United States even more heavily on the side of the Sarajevo government.

Bosnia is about to see the transformation of an impotent UNPROFOR (U.N. Protection Force) into a heavily armed USPROFOR (U.S. protection force). And the administration knows it. Secretary of Defense William Perry boasts that our force in Bosnia will be "the meanest dog in town." But real peacekeepers are not supposed to be mean dogs. Real peacekeepers, like the ones in Sinai or Cyprus, are warm puppies. Their job is to carry binoculars and smile and reassure everyone. You send heavily armed infantry when you are going to protect and enforce.

It is hard to think of a greater folly than trying to enforce a peace among unreconciled Balkan enemies. It is a folly that Clinton's fitful meanderings on Bosnia have backed us into, a folly that must be firmly rejected now before it is too late.

PARTIAL-BIRTH ABORTION BAN ACT A BAD IDEA

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the Speaker's announced policy of May 12, 1995, the gentlewoman from Colorado [Mrs. SCHROEDER] is recognized during morning business for 5 minutes.

Mrs. SCHROEDER. Mr. Speaker, it is with great sorrow that I take the floor today to talk about this issue of partial-birth abortions. There really is no such medical term, and I think it is terribly unfortunate this House is going to be dealing with a bill on that this week.

I think one of the reasons it is coming up is because Members do not understand childbearing and birth. We all got here the same way, but it is absolutely amazing how little we understand about the birth process.

Let me say, first of all, in 1920, 800 women in this country died for every 100,000 live births. There were all sorts of risks in having children. In 1990, that came down from 800 to 8. That is something we are very proud of, the great strides we made in safe motherhood.

But this Congress, because of playing politics with this issue and trying to think of 30-second ads and all sorts of distortions we can run against people on this issue, is about to start turning back the clock on safe motherhood.

Let me talk a little bit about late abortions and what a nightmare they are. When we look at the number nationwide, there are fewer than 600 abortions a year in this country done in the final term, fewer than 600 in this huge country. So just a handful of people are affected. Maybe that is why it is so easy to politically target them. But as I have been talking to my colleagues about this bill, I find there are all sorts of things that they do not really understand. So let me talk a bit about what doctors say the reason for these abortions are.

First, we can find that sometimes a woman's health deteriorates very rapidly, and this is the only thing that can be done to save the life of the mother. There are things like severe heart disease or kidney failure or rapidly advancing cancer. Those are some instances where it is, unfortunately, the awful, awful, awful decision of the mother's life or continuing on.

The second is even more grisly to talk about, and those are the discovery of fetal anomalies that are inconsistent with life.

What am I talking about there? I am talking about a child that has no kidneys or a fetus that they find only has one chamber in the heart or that it has large amounts of brain tissue missing or the brain is on the outside or it does not have a head. All of these conditions are inconsistent with life. Again, we cannot usually determine these until late in the pregnancy because sonograms are not that accurate until the fetus is larger.

So when we have either of those alternatives, medical officials and families are faced with some of the most gut-wrenching decisions any American could ever be faced with.

When I have talked to people about this bill, they come up with all sorts of questions about why can they not.

Well, you cannot do a caesarean because you have to cut through the muscle wall. The muscle does not thin out until 36 weeks, so you really are seriously damaging the woman's ability to have future children. You cannot do a dilation because the cervix just is programmed not to dilate until about 36 weeks, and so it is a very long, long, long and painful process that may go on to 4 or 5 days. And if the child dies in utero, it starts to disintegrate and can become a great life threat to the mother because she will lose her ability to clot and bleeding and other things.

These are the serious things this House will be tampering with if we start telling doctors what they can and cannot do. I hope Members really look at this and say this is not our role as Members of Congress.

RESTORING EARNED INCOME TAX CREDIT TO ORIGINAL INTENT

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the Speaker's announced policy of May 12, 1995, the gentleman from California [Mr. KIM] is recognized during morning business for 5 minutes.

Mr. KIM. Mr. Speaker, today I want to talk about the so-called EITC, [earned income tax credit]. I hope that my folks from California are listening to me this morning.

I did not know anything about EITC until I joined Congress. I was busy running my own business, trying to support my family. I did not know what the EITC is. I know welfare. I know food stamps. I know a little bit about Medicare and Medicaid, but EITC, what does it do? That is what I would like to talk about this morning.

Before I do, last week, this House passed the 1996 budget reconciliation bill. The bill was historic. It contains the spending cuts necessary to balance the budget by the year 2002, 7 years. During this process, we have been hearing all kinds of misrepresentation, all kinds of distortion, sometimes flatout lies. Let me give some examples.

They say we are cutting Medicare, when we are actually allowing Medicare spending to grow by $80 billion a year.

They say we are cutting Medicaid, when we are actually allowing Medicaid spending to grow by $30 billion a year.

They say we are cutting school lunches, when our plan increases spending on school lunches by over $1 billion over the next 5 years.

What we are trying to do is slow down the growth of out-of-control spending. We have been spending and spending, and it has become out of control.

But the biggest distortion, the biggest misrepresentation, is on the EITC. Let me talk about it this morning for a couple of minutes.

What is the EITC? It was passed back in 1975. It is called earned income tax credit.

What does it do? Well, the Government tries to help those people who work but do not earn enough money to support their families, children. Therefore, the Government helps them.

If you make less than $26,000 a year, with kids, then the Government will match up to 36 percent of a person's income with a tax credit. In other words, as I said earlier, if you work full time but you cannot support your family, then Government supports you.

How many people know about this EITC? I bet not that many.

What is wrong with this program? Nothing. I think it is an excellent idea. I would rather see that we help the people who work every day than just give free handouts to folks who are not working. The free Government handouts, why would anyone try to work?

It is an excellent program. We support it. Republicans support it. Democrats support it. I think it is a pretty good idea.

What is wrong with it? The program has gone out of control. It is way out of control. Why? Because we keep adding more and more provisions, adding some other language, trying to add more people in it, gradually expanding it and expanding it. This EITC program, as a result, becomes out of control.

The original intent was to help those folks who have a family, children. But what happened? Now, anybody, even though you do not have a family, can get EITC credit. Look at this chart in here. It used to be sort of flat, about this time. About that time, we changed the laws so that anybody can claim, even if you are single, even if you do not have any family.

It went up. It has gone up a thousand percent. The cost has gone up a thousand percent. The cost has gone up a thousand percent in the last 10 years, totally out of control. That is what is wrong with it. It is not the program itself. It just has gone out of control.

Why? Because waste and fraud in EITC had grown faster than the program itself. This is really a shame. IRS says that 1 million EITC recipients are illegally receiving this. One million people should not receive a penny of it. GAO says 40 percent of EITC recipients are illegally receiving more money than they deserve, more money, more than they are entitled to. That is what is wrong with this. That is why it has gone up a thousand percent.

The waste and fraud in the program has gotten so bad that IRS lately had to stop issuing electronic tax refunds because of EITC fraud schemes.

Mr. Speaker, I will continue tomorrow.

FEDERAL-TERRITORIAL RELATIONS

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. EVERETT). Under the Speaker's announced policy of May 12, 1995, the gentleman from Guam [Mr. UNDERWOOD] is recognized during morning business for 5 minutes.

Mr. UNDERWOOD. Mr. Speaker, as a Delegate to Congress representing the people of Guam, a great deal of my work here in Washington revolves around the Federal-territorial relationship and how that relationship impacts on our island.

On October 17, a joint hearing was held by the Subcommittee on Native American and Insular Affairs and the Subcommittee on Western Hemisphere to discuss the political status plebiscite held in Puerto Rico last year. While Guam was not the focus of the hearing, any talk of political status change is of great interest to our island due to our own efforts to improve our own relationship through the establishment of a Commonwealth of Guam. Any talk in Congress of improving the relationship between the territories and the Federal Government has to be viewed as constructive. It is far more damaging to have the Congress be oblivious to the desires of the territories. While the discussion on Puerto Rico is dominated by the statehood question, no such statehood option is realistically being offered to the smaller territories such as Guam, the U.S. Virgin Islands, and American Samoa.

This means any discussion of reinventing government, political devolution to the states is not being considered seriously for the small territories, and the small territories must take their own steps to get involved in the debate.

The issue for Guam, then, is that if statehood is not a viable option for the foreseeable future, what can we do within the framework of the Constitution to improve on this political relationship? We have proposed a commonwealth document, which I introduced earlier this year as H.R. 1056, the Guam Commonwealth Act, that describes our vision of a new commonwealth based on the consent of the governed.

The Guam Commonwealth Act is a roadmap for the Federal Government to navigate the many issues that are important to Guam. It addresses everything from self-determination for the indigenous people of Guam to telecommunications, air rights, and shipping. It is as much an economic blueprint for the future as it is a political blueprint.

The United States has a tremendous national interest in Guam, and likewise, Guam has an equally important interest in this political relationship.

It has not always been a balanced relationship. What has motivated the Federal interest more than anything else has been Guam's military value to the United States. This continues to be the bottom line for many Federal decisions. But lately, this Federal interest has taken some bizarre twists and turns since the end of the cold war.

The 1995 Defense Base Closure and Realignment Commission recommended that severe cutbacks on Guam that include closing our ship repair facility and our fleet and industrial supply center. We stand to lose more jobs per capita than any other American community hit by BRAC 95. And yet, the Department of Defense is now in the awkward position of renegotiating the Status of Forces Agreement with Japan, an agreement that includes the bases on Okinawa where the American presence is under fire by the local community.

These events send mixed signals to the people of Guam. They say on one hand that the military chooses to leave Guam to save a few bucks, and chooses to give the benefits of forward deployment in our region to other foreign communities where their presence is not welcomed. We, on Guam, meanwhile, will have to find a way to restructure our economy and take care of those Federal employees at the SRF and supply center on Guam while the military finds a way to keep the SRF at Yokosuka operating and the bases at Okinawa open. The message seems to be that Guam is American, therefore, no special effort needs to be expended by the military for the privilege of using our island.

This week, the Lieutenant Governor of Guam, the Honorable Madeleine Bordallo, is in Washington to meet with Defense and Navy officials to discuss the transition issues for the facilities to be closed on Guam. It is unfortunate that we must continue to go to great lengths to persuade the Navy what should be obvious to everyone—that Guam is their best insurance policy for an American military presence in Asia, and that the people of Guam are watching with great interest their handling of all the BRAC-related closure issues on our island.

The Federal-territorial relationship is strained—now is a very good time for the military, which has a vested interest in this relationship, to cooperate with the Government of Guam on the base closure transition. Now is a good time for the administration to exert an effort to complete the discussions on the Guam Commonwealth. And now is a good time for Congress to consider how it is going to deal with the small insular territories as it considers a political status process for Puerto Rico.

As I said earlier, any discussion of political status and the territories is good. Any discussion of Okinawa and the Japanese bases has to be good for Guam too. I hope that those in the White House and the Pentagon who are supposed to be paying attention to these issues are making the right connections between all these issues. I would hope so, because otherwise, it would seem to us that these Federal policies are being made in a very shortsighted manner.

Now is a good time for the administration to exert an effort to complete the negotiations on the Commonwealth, and now is a good time for Congress to consider how it is going to deal with the small, insular territories as it considers a political process for Puerto Rico.

NOW IS THE TIME TO ACT ON LOBBY REFORM AND GIFT BAN

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the Speaker's announced policy of May 12, 1995, the gentleman from Texas [Mr. DOGGETT] is recognized during morning business for 5 minutes.

Mr. DOGGETT. Mr. Speaker, today is the time for this House to act on lobby reform and a gift ban for Members of this House. It is not only today that I have offered those remarks, because today we take up the legislative branch appropriations bill, but it, in fact, was the first day of this session that many of us urged the House to reform itself in an attempt to pass lobby and gift ban reform on January 4 from this very spot, and yet the next day, Speaker NEWT GINGRICH had this to say of the effort. He described it as "an astonishingly narrow and self-destructive act."

With that background, we proceeded once again in the spring to attempt to reform this House and the way it handles itself both with regard to lobbies and with regard to gift bans. The Speaker responded again in a preadjournment news conference, saying, "We have not had the mental energy and the time this summer to do anything about this issue of ethics and gift ban and lobby reform."

Apparently the Speaker has still not been able to muster the mental energy. Apparently he still suffers from great mental fatigue, because although the Senate referred to this Speaker's podium on July 26 a lobby reform act, reforming and rewriting the legislation that had not been significantly reformed since the year of my birth, 1946, that bill has been sitting and is sitting at this very moment at the Speaker's rostrum from July 26 to today, July, August, September, October.

That is, indeed, super fatigue, I suppose. I would not think that it takes a considerable amount of mental energy to simply be able to go through the act of referring the bill to a committee so that it could be studied. But Speaker GINGRICH, perhaps referring back to his suggestion that reform was a self-destructive act, has not been able to muster the energy to even refer the bill.

It is little wonder then that Gerald Seib, writing in the Wall Street Journal this past month, had this to say, "The new Republican leaders of Congress have flat out blown it this year in one area, cleaning up the political system." Then he refers to Senator JOHN MCCAIN, who played such a significant role in the 98 to zero victory for lobby and gift-ban reform over in the U.S. Senate, where there is still a little bipartisanship when it comes to cleaning up the place. He says the signals that the House will not get to the gift ban this year makes Senator MCCAIN worry that his Republican House colleagues may have developed a tin ear that will prevent them from making reforms that are in their own political interest in the long run. "I detect over there a kind of heady environment that maybe is not as sensitive to public opinion as you would think."

Indeed, that is what has happened here, because our Republican colleagues, rather than join us in a bipartisan effort to clean up this House when they had an opportunity to do that on January 4, voted "no" against gift-ban reform. When they had an opportunity to do that on June 20, on a vote on this floor, they voted "no" against gift-ban reform of the very type of character that their colleagues in the Senate would vote to approve unanimously only 1 week later. On June 22, a third time, they voted "no" when the issue was gift-ban and lobby reform, and then on September 6, you would think after Speaker GINGRICH and his colleagues had had significant time to rest up over the August recess, no, they voted "no" consistently again one more time against gift-ban and lobby reform.

So it was that last Wednesday, on October 25, many of us thought there would finally be an opportunity to address this issue once again, when the legislative branch appropriations was here on the floor of the House. But instead, the Republican leadership jerked that bill off the floor, afraid that real reform might occur. What did we get instead of an opportunity to vote on the issue of gift-ban and lobby reform? We got a press conference on Friday which represented simply more hem, hedge, and haw when it came to reforming this House, the possibility that there might be action by November 16, but the suggestion that they did not want to adopt what the Senate had done on a bipartisan basis; they wanted to strengthen the bill.

How do they proposed to strengthen it? Well, they are considering an exemption for the golf caucus. That is their form of strengthening. I suggest that strengthening by exemption is the equivalent to the leadership by example we have seen when it comes to cleaning up this House. We have had, instead, the same timekeeper on that kind of reform that the House Ethics Committee has used with reference to the ethical complaints against the Speaker: Wait, wait, wait.

RECESS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 12, rule I, the Chair declares the House in recess until 2 p.m. today.

Accordingly (at 12 o'clock and 57 minutes p.m.), the House stood in recess until 2 p.m.

AFTER RECESS

The recess having expired, the House was called to order by the Speaker pro tempore [Mr. EVERETT] at 2 p.m.

PRAYER

All of us, wherever we are, join together in our petitions and place before You, O God, that which burdens our hearts or gladdens our souls. As you have promised to hear our words and heed our voices, we make known in our prayers that which encourages us or troubles us, those feelings that we withhold from all else. We pray, O God, that You would so free us by Your grace and by Your pardon that we will reflect Your light and serve our neighbor and our Nation with a renewed commitment to justice for every person. For all Your good gifts and for the marvel and majesty of each new day, we offer these words of petition and thanksgiving. Amen.

THE JOURNAL

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair has examined the Journal of the last day's proceedings and announces to the House his approval thereof.

Pursuant to clause 1, rule I, the Journal stands approved.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from North Carolina [Mr. BALLENGER] come forward and lead the House in the Pledge of Allegiance.

Mr. BALLENGER led the Pledge of Allegiance as follows:

> I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

BALANCING THE BUDGET FOR OUR CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN

(Mrs. SMITH of Washington asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mrs. SMITH of Washington. Mr. Speaker, keeping promises is what it is all about, no more excuses, no more Washington gimmicks. It is time to do the right thing for America's future. Balancing the budget; that is what we have to do.

Just a few days ago we took an historic step by taking a vote to balance the budget. Unlike the past, when Americans were treated to empty promises and broken commitments, we are delivering.

A balanced budget is more than an accounting gimmick. It is about the future of my grandchildren and my colleagues' grandchildren, and it is about lower interest rates, it is about lower car loans, and it is about removing the crushing debt from our children and grandchildren.

Alan Greenspan said it best. He said, "Families' real incomes and purchasing power would be significantly improved; they would look forward to their children doing better than they," and that is what it is all about.

Mr. Speaker, when we balance the budget, we are securing the future of our children and grandchildren, and that is what families of America sent us here to do.

TAXPAYER-FUNDED POLITICAL ADVOCACY

(Mr. BALLENGER asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. BALLENGER. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in strong support of the latest effort to keep the Republican's promise to the American people to end business as usual in Washington. Specifically, I am referring to the Istook-McIntosh-Ehrlich amendment, which would put an end to taxpayer-subsidized lobbying. Currently, over $39 billion is distributed to nearly 40,000 groups in the form of Federal grants. These funds are distributed under the guise of assisting charities. What these grants really amount to, however, is a taxpayer-funded subsidy to engage in political activity, otherwise known as welfare for lobbyists. Let me present an example of a politically active grantee and the amount that group receives.

The National Council of Senior Citizens receives nearly $73 million—96 percent of its funds—from taxpayers. What do they do with that money? Well, let me quote from their latest progress report, issued January 1995, in which the National Council of Senior Citizens explicitly states that it "vigorously lobbies the Congress, public officials and other organizations engaged in legislative debate."

Mr. Speaker, I would like to see this group, and all of the other groups who exploit their status as nonprofit organizations, to use their grants for their intended purpose to help those in need. The National Council of Senior Citizens could do much more to assist seniors if they would devote all of their time and money walking the halls of nursing homes, rather than walking the Halls of Congress.

WE SHOULD NOT INTERFERE WITH DELICATE NEGOTIATIONS REGARDING PEACE IN BOSNIA TODAY

(Mr. RICHARDSON asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. RICHARDSON. Mr. Speaker, today we will be taking up a resolution dealing with troops in Bosnia. This is highly premature and irresponsible, to be dealing with such a sensitive issue a day before the President is convening a session in Dayton, OH, among the warring parties in Bosnia to construct a peace agreement. We should not be dealing with this issue at a time when negotiations tomorrow will determine whether there will be a peace agreement or not.

Mr. Speaker, the administration deserves credit for coming forth with a peace plan that has brought a partition of this area that appears to be supported by the Serbs, by the Croatians, and by the Moslems. We should not interfere with this very sensitive process, and this legislation should be taken off the Calendar for today.

IT IS TIME FOR THE PRESIDENT TO SIGN A REAL BALANCED BUDGET

(Mr. JONES of North Carolina asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. JONES of North Carolina. Mr. Speaker, it is almost impossible to keep track of where Bill Clinton stands on balancing the budget.

In 1992, candidate Clinton said he would present a 5-year plan to balance the budget.

In his book "Putting People First," candidate Clinton said that the deficit could be cut in half in 4 years.

This year President Clinton has said that the budget could be balanced in 10 years, in 9 years, in 8 years, and, now, 7 years.

Everyone knows that Bill Clinton has been AWOL on the budget. He says one thing one day, another thing another day. Not even leaders in his own party can predict with any degree of accuracy what Bill Clinton will do or say.

Mr. Speaker, the time for excuses and double-talk are over. It is time for the President to show courage and leadership and sign a real balanced budget.

PUTTING GROUND FORCES INTO BOSNIA WOULD BE A WASTE OF AMERICAN LIVES

(Mr. TAYLOR of Mississippi asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. TAYLOR of Mississippi. Mr. Speaker, I wish my friend from New Mexico was right because the House, as my colleagues know, has not scheduled a vote on Bosnia.

Mr. Speaker, a week and 1 day ago I was visiting the troops in what was Yugoslavia and what now is Macedonia. They expressed concern over the introduction of ground forces into Bosnia.

In addition to all the other reasons not to put ground forces into Bosnia, it seems that from about December 1 until April 1, from 10 o'clock at night until 6 in the morning, the fog is so bad that smart weapons do not work. So we are putting troops in harm's way with no clear-cut purpose where there are three serial killers, one who has killed 15, one who has killed 10, and one who has killed 5. That is a waste of American lives.

Mr. Speaker, it is our job to vote on this issue. Give this Congress the vote. Let us fulfill our constitutional responsibilities.

THE REPUBLICANS ARE DELIVERING ON THE PROMISES THEY MADE

(Mrs. SEASTRAND asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Mrs. SEASTRAND. Mr. Speaker, one of the definitive marks of the modern Republican Party is that we believe taxes are too high and that they should be cut. Since the beginning of this Congress, Republicans have put those beliefs into reality and soon they will become law.

For generations, public policy has been based on the premise that government could better redistribute wealth and resources in the economy. People who believed in free markets were written off as economic relics.

Well, the game is up and a generation of economic policy making has literally blown up in the faces of the liberals who created it. We have a massive, but ineffective government and a $5 trillion national debt. The American people are demanding changes and Republicans are delivering on the promises we made last year to shrink the Federal Government, and, we will not back away from our promise to cut taxes for American families and small businesses.

REMOVAL OF NAME OF MEMBERS AS COSPONSOR OF H.R. 1745

Mr. TORKILDSEN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that my name be removed as a cosponsor of H.R. 1745.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Massachusetts?

There was no objection.

AMENDING IMMIGRATION AND NATIONALITY ACT TO UPDATE CLASSIFICATION OF CHILDREN IN U.S. IMMIGRATION LAWS

Mr. SMITH of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the Committee on the Judiciary be discharged from further consideration of the Senate bill (S. 457) to amend the Immigration and Nationality Act to update references in the classification of children for purposes of U.S. immigration laws, and ask for its immediate consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Texas?

Mr. GEKAS. Reserving the right to object, Mr. Speaker, I would ask the gentleman from Texas if he would mind explaining the contents of the legislation briefly or lengthily.

Mr. SMITH of Texas. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. GEKAS. I yield to the gentleman from Texas.

Mr. SMITH of Texas. Mr. Speaker, S. 457 amends the immigration laws to change the term "legitimate child" to a "child born in wedlock," as well as change the term "illegitimate child" to "a child born out of wedlock." This change in terminology does not provide a substantive change in the immigration laws. However, while technical, the change will help to facilitate the adoptions of foreign national children by American couples.

Mr. GEKAS. Continuing my reservation of objection, Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Texas [Mr. SMITH] for explaining the content of the bill, and for a brief expansion of his remarks I want him to know, and our colleagues, as he would know, the history of this legislation.

Mr. Speaker, the Senate had already passed something, actually had been in contact with us earlier on it, and that was the consequences then of what happened over in the Senate. We here in the House would have to go through a lengthier procedure in order to arrive at the same final tunnel, so we are simply acceding to the Senate version at this time.

Mr. Speaker, the measure we are here considering changes language dealing with children in the Immigration and Nationality Act and has enormous impact in the area of international child adoption. Passage of this legislation is one of those small but incredibly important successes in improving government for the citizens of the United States in which we must take pride. Its effect will be felt nationwide.

As noted, S. 457, sponsored in the other body by our former House colleague, Senator Paul Simon of Illinois, is a carbon copy of a bill, H.R. 1204, which I sponsored here in the 104th Congress. The language of H.R. 1204 has been considered and approved in the House by the Judiciary Subcommittee on Immigration and Claims, chaired by Mr. LAMAR SMITH of Texas, and by the full Committee on the Judiciary, Chaired by Mr. HYDE of Illinois, as part of H.R. 2202, the "Immigration in the National Interest Act of 1995" and is awaiting floor action. However, because the Senate acted first on their measure we are obliged to take up S. 457 as the most expeditious route to getting the measure signed into law by the President. This member has no pride of authorship problem, no concerns about credit. My main concern is that we make the changes embodied in the bill as quickly as possible so that families involved in international adoptions will have some relief from the problems they have heretofore encountered. Consideration of the House bill at this time would require referral back to the Senate, possibly adding months of required parliamentary action before achieving the language changes needed, months of unnecessary agony for the families and children we seek to help.

Let me explain to my colleagues in the House just what the language of S. 457/H.R. 1204 does. International adoption has become a very popular method for those individuals who must use the adoption route. However, for the thousands of Americans who pursue them every year (about 15 percent of total U.S. adoptions) international adoptions can be very complicated.

Current U.S. law regarding international adoptions is in a state of some confusion. Our law requires that a child be certified as an "orphan" in order to be eligible for adoption by an American and for an immigrant visa to the United States. This orphan certification can be accomplished in one of two ways: proof that both parents are dead or an irrevocable release for adoption and emigration by a "sole parent". Under U.S. law, a sole parent is defined as the mother of an "illegitimate child". But many countries have stopped using the term "illegitimate" and "legitimate" and instead use "born out of wedlock" and "born in wedlock". Since children born out of wedlock are regarded as legitimate in many countries, and under U.S. law a legitimate child is not eligible for orphan classification based solely on the mother's release (unless the father has died), a problem of definitions occurs which has ground to a halt international adoptions by U.S. families.

The simple solution to this problem is to substitute in the section of the INS Act that defines "child" for immigration purposes the terms "legitimate child" and "illegitimate child" with "child born in wedlock" and "child born out of wedlock". With this change, we can ensure that Americans will be able to proceed with international adoptions that meet the legal definitions of both the host country and the United States.

I have attached a May 31, 1995 letter from the Department of State and the Immigration and Naturalization Service—DOJ—which indicates their strong support for this change. And, in a June 8, 1995, letter to Ms. Mary Thomas, Romanian Children's Connection, Alexandria, Virginia, from Maura Harty, Managing Director, Office of Overseas Citizens Services, U.S. Department of State, Ms. Harty states.

As you may also know, the Department of State has included in its Consular efficiency legislation proposal of 1995 a request for an amendment to section 101(b) of the Immigration and Nationality Act. This change will prevent U.S. citizens from being disadvantaged by the increasing worldwide trend to declare all children legitimate, regardless of whether born in or out of wedlock. We anticipate this change will relieve the problem at its source.

Additionally, the attached letter from Wendy R. Sherman, Assistant Secretary, Legislative Affairs, U.S. Department of State, to the Honorable Charles E. Grassley, United States Senator, illuminates further on the need for the changes made by S. 457/H.R. 1204 with specific mention that the amendment "should not adversely affect the rights of natural fathers."

Mr. Speaker, I commend the House of Representatives and the other body for its passage of this measure and encourage the President to quickly sign this correction into law.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE,
Washington, DC, May 31, 1995.

Hon. GEORGE W. GEKAS,
House of Representatives,
Washington, DC.

DEAR MR. GEKAS: We are pleased to learn of your sponsorship through House Bill 1204 of a "technical correction" to the Immigration and Nationality Act (INA).

This bill would amend the INA by substituting "a child born out of wedlock" for current language which describes a child as "legitimate" or "illegitimate" under the Act. The substituted terminology will permit a foreign child released unequivocally for adoption to qualify for an immigrant visa.

We are writing to let you know that this legislation has the unqualified support of both the Immigration and Naturalization Service and the Department of State. We hope that it is enacted in the very near future. Thank you for your assistance.

DORIS MEISSNER,
Commissioner Immigration and Naturalization Service, Department of Justice.

MARY A. RYAN,
Assistant Secretary Bureau of Consular Affairs, Department of State.

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF STATE,

Hon. CHARLES E. GRASSLEY,
Washington, DC.

DEAR SENATOR GRASSLEY: You have asked whether legislative proposal S. 457 would adversely affect the rights of a foreign child's natural father in the context of an adoption. This proposal would amend Sections 101(b)(1) and (b)(2) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (INA), 8 U.S.C. 1101(b)(1) and (b)(2), by replacing the words "legitimate child" with "child born in wedlock" and "Illegitimate child" with "child born out of wedlock."

INA Sections 101(b)(1) and (b)(2) define the terms "child" and "parent", thereby establishing the conditions that must be met in order for an individual to qualify for U.S. immigration benefits on the basis of a parent-child relationship with a U.S. citizen. Specifically, subsections 101(b)(1)(E) and (F) set forth the three definitions of "child" that by virtue of which a foreign child adopted by U.S. citizen parents may qualify for an immigrant visa. One of these definitions, in subsection 101(b)(1)(F), requires that the child be irrevocably released for adoption by the sole or surviving parent. The use of this provision has been particularly important in the context of private adoptions, where a child is released for adoption to a specified family.

As the statute is currently drafted, however, all parents of legitimate children are considered to be a "parent" for INA purposes. In recent years, many countries from which U.S. citizens adopt children have eliminated the distinction between legitimate and illegitimate children, making all children born within that jurisdiction legitimate by action of law. A child born in such a country cannot be considered to have a "sole parent," even if the child was born out of wedlock and even if the child's father has disappeared completely.

A child's ability to qualify for an immigrant visa under the "sole parent" provision has thus come to depend in many instances on where the child happens to have been born rather than on the nature of the child's relationship with his or her natural parents. In countries where all children are "legitimate," a private placement adoption becomes extremely difficult. The child may be issued an immigrant visa only under one of the other two definitions in INA section 101(b)(1): the child must either be abandoned unconditionally by the mother, usually to an orphanage (Subsection 101(b)(1)(F)), or the adopting U.S. parents must complete the adoption in the foreign country and reside in the country with the adopted child for two full years (Subsection. 101(b)(1)(E)). It seems pointless to put adopting parents through such protracted procedures simply because under local law the child is considered "legitimate" even though its parents were never married and its father has played no role in its life. In a different country where on the same facts the child would be "illegitimate," an immigrant visa could be issued relatively easily under the "sole parent" provision of INA Section 101(b)(1)(F).

While the proposed amendment will, therefore, facilitate private adoptions in countries where all children are considered "legitimate," it should not adversely affect the rights of natural fathers. Rather it will restore flexibility to the visa process and permit adoption and visa decisions to be made on the basis of all relevant facts, rather than predetermined by the happenstance of whether local law regards the child as "legitimate" or "illegitimate." The interests of the natural father will be protected in a variety of ways. First, as is already the case with "illegitimate" children, the "sole parent" provision will not be available in the case of a children born out of wedlock unless the father has "disappeared or abandoned or deserted the child or . . . has in writing irrevocably released the child for emigration and adoption." (INA Section 101(b)(2).) The consular officer will have to apply this standard in deciding whether the required visa can be issued under the "sole parent" provision. In addition, the INA contemplates that U.S. parents adopting a foreign child will either adopt the child abroad or comply with preadoption requirements and then adopt the child in the United States. Under either scenario, the foreign country's adoption and/or emigration procedures will presumably ensure that any rights of the natural father under foreign law are respected.

I hope this information is useful to you, and that you will support early consideration of the legislation.

Sincerely,

WENDY R. SHERMAN,
Assistant Secretary,
Legislative Affairs.

(4) The District shall require any nongovernmental entity authorized to construct, develop, and operate National Children's Island to establish an escrow fund, post a surety bond, provide a letter of credit or otherwise provide such security for the benefit of the National Park Service, substantially equivalent to that specified in paragraph 11 of the legend on the plat, to serve as the sole source of funding for restoration of the recreation park to a condition suitable for National Park Service purposes (namely, the removal of all buildings and grading, seeding and landscaping of the recreation park) upon reversion of the property. If, on the date which is two years from the date of reversion of the property, the National Park Service has not commenced restoration or is not diligently proceeding with such restoration, any amount in the escrow fund shall be distributed to such nongovernmental entity.

SEC. 4. PROVISIONS RELATING TO LANDS TRANSFERRED AND EASEMENTS GRANTED.

(c) REQUIRED APPROVALS.—Before construction commences, the final design plans for the recreation park and playground, and all related structures, including bridges and roads, are subject to the review and approval of the National Capital Planning Commission and of the District of Columbia in accordance with the Children's Island Development Plan Act of 1993 (D.C. Act 10–110). The District of Columbia shall carry out its review of this project in full compliance with all applicable provisions of the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969.

SEC. 5. EFFECT OF PROPERTY TRANSFER.

(a) EFFECT OF PROPERTY TRANSFER.—Upon the transfer of the Islands to the District pursuant to this Act:

(1) The Transfer of Jurisdiction concerning the Islands from the National Park Service to the District dated February 1993, as set out on the plat map recorded in the Office of the Surveyor of the District as S.O. 92–252 and as approved by the Council of the District by Resolution 10–91, shall become null and void and of no further force and effect, except for the references in this Act to paragraphs 3 and 11 of the legend on the plat.

(2) The Islands shall no longer be considered to be part of Anacostia Park and shall not be considered to be within the park system of the District; therefore, the provisions of section 2 of the Act entitled "An Act to vest in the Commissioners of the District of Columbia control of street parking in said District", approved July 1, 1898 (ch. 543, 30 Stat. 570; D.C. Code 8–104), shall not apply to the Islands, and the District shall have exclusive charge and control over the Islands and easements transferred.

(3) The Islands shall cease to be a reservation, park, or public grounds of the United States for the purposes of the Act of August 24, 1912 (ch. 355, 37 Stat. 444; 40 U.S.C. 68; 8–128 D.C. Code).

(b) USE OF CERTAIN LANDS FOR PARKING AND OTHER PURPOSES.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the District is hereby authorized to grant via appropriate instrument to a nongovernmental individual or entity any and all of its rights to use the lands currently being leased by the United States to the District pursuant to the District of Columbia Stadium Act of 1957 (Public Law 85–300, September 7, 1957, 71 Stat. 619) for parking facilities (and necessary informational kiosk, ticketing booth, and security) as the Mayor of the District in his discretion may determine necessary or appropriate in connection with or in support of National Children's Island.

SEC. 6. SAVINGS PROVISIONS.

No provision of this Act shall be construed—

(1) as an express or implied endorsement or approval by the Congress of any such construction, development, or operation of National Children's Island;

(2) except as provided in section 5, to exempt the recreational park and playground from the laws of the United States or the District, including laws relating to the environment, health, and safety; or

(3) to prevent additional conditions on the National Children's Island development or operation to mitigate adverse impacts on adjacent residential neighborhoods and park lands and the Anacostia River.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Utah [Mr. HANSEN] will be recognized for 20 minutes, and the gentleman from New Mexico [Mr. RICHARDSON] will be recognized for 20 minutes.

Mr. HANSEN. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of H.R. 1508, the National Children's Island Act of 1995, introduced by Delegate ELEANOR HOLMES NORTON of the District of Columbia.

Mr. Speaker, this is a good bill, which transfers title of the manmade Kingman and Heritage Islands in the Anacostia River, from the United States to the District of Columbia, for the purpose of establishing a cultural, educational, and family-oriented theme park. While this is not the normal manner of transferring land between the Federal Government and the District, I support this title transfer because it offers the best chance for the National Children's Island Foundation to realize their vision. It has been my experience that Federal agencies do not handle either land exchanges or transfers in a very efficient manner. For that very reason, we are currently working on legislation in my subcommittee to make the administrative process more efficient.

The project which this legislation helps facilitate offers important economic opportunity to the District of Columbia. It has been estimated that development of National Children's Island will create over 1,700 full and part-time jobs and generate $8.9 million in annual sales tax revenue. This bill represents a tremendous opportunity to develop a project on lands which are currently being used to dump construction rubble.

As always, Ms. NORTON has done a good job of working with her various constituencies on this legislation and I believe that the bill, as amended, addresses the concerns of all interested parties, except those looking for an excuse to stop the project. Therefore, I commend the bill to my colleagues and ask for their support for H.R. 1508.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. RICHARDSON. Mr. Speaker, I yield 4 minutes to the gentlewoman from the District of Columbia, ELEANOR HOLMES NORTON, the distinguished author of this bill, who has worked very hard and fashioned this bill with the chairman today.

Ms. NORTON. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding time to me.

Mr. Speaker, may I express my sincere appreciation to Chairman JIM HANSEN of the Subcommittee on National Parks, Forests, and Lands, Subcommittee Ranking Member BILL RICHARDSON, Resources Committee Chairman DON YOUNG, and Ranking Member GEORGE MILLER for moving this bill through the Resources Committee in an expeditious manner. On April 6, 1995, I introduced H.R. 1508, the National Children's Island Act of 1995, at the request of the District of Columbia. This bipartisan bill calls for the transfer of Heritage and a portion of Kingman Islands, currently an artificial landfill and dumpsite, from the National Park Service to the District for the purposes of creating a cultural, educational, and family-oriented park. This is the essential initial step in a process that, by law, will require other local and Federal review steps before the project proceeds.

The District is pressing this legislation at this time of local financial crisis. The park will create 1700 new full and part-time jobs, 51.1 percent of which will go to District residents. Likewise, the park will generate approximately $8.9 million in annual sales tax revenues, and earmark a share of its revenues for educational grants, scholarships and other programs for District youth and businesses.

The city council approved this project by a vote of 11 to 1. The project is fully privately funded with no cost to the District or the Federal Governments. As a result of improvements made in committee, a Federal level environmental impact statement in compliance with the National Environmental Policy Act will be conducted with review and approval by the National Capitol Planning Commission.

Again, I thank the Resources Committee for its bipartisan leadership in bringing this bill to the floor today, and urge all Members of the House to support the bill.

Mr. RICHARDSON. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, H.R. 1508 is a complicated measure that shows that land transfers are not simple matters. Numerous changes and refinements were made to the bill in an attempt to deal with the concerns of the many parties to this legislation. I want to commend the chairman and the gentlewoman from the District of Columbia [Ms. NORTON] for arriving at what I consider to be a suitable compromise.

There is still some concern about this bill within the local community, but I do think that what the bill now has, through the compromise worked out by the chairman and the gentlewoman, is to make sure that there is local input, community input throughout this process on the zoning permitting actions of the District government.

The amendment in the nature of a substitute adopted by the committee incorporates several of the amendments that I wanted to see included in the bill. We should be careful about negating previous agreements and making moot a current court order, both of which this legislation does.

However, the bill's requirement for approval of the development plans by the National Capital Planning Commission and the preparation of a Federal EIS by the D.C. government does go a long way in protecting the public interest. I would note that the gentlewoman from the District of Columbia [Ms. NORTON], who represents the area in question, wants to see this legislation move forward. She has worked very hard on this. She has put forth some constructive proposals to develop this land as a recreational area for children and the general public.

This property is currently used as a leaf and stump dumping site. Given this history and present use. I want to make sure that we pass this bill, give the District government the opportunity to manage the site, subject to some of the constructive safeguards in the bill protecting the public interest.

I urge strong support for this legislation, and once again commend the gentlewoman from District of Columbia [Ms. NORTON], who represents zealously the interests of her constituents, and my good friend, most of the time, the gentleman from Utah [Mr. HANSEN].

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of H.R. 1508, the National Children's Island Act. Ms. ELEANOR HOLMES NORTON, the Delegate from the District of Columbia and the author of this legislation, is to be commended for her strong advocacy of this project. Her role in shepherding this legislation through the 104th Congress shows the importance of skillful advocacy in behalf of worthwhile legislation.

The act is of significance for three reasons. First, it is a splendid example of how the Republicans of the 104th Congress are working together with the District of Columbia to make our Nation's Capital a more attractive place to live, work, and visit. This act transfers property from the National Park Service to the District of Columbia. This transfer has the effect of making the city the lead agency for the development of this property. This is the way Congress should relate to the city. It is not prudent for Congress to be deeply involved in the details of the development of Children's Island. The city, working together with the private sector, is fully capable of bringing this project to a timely and successful completion.

This project is also significant because of the way Congress has handled it internally. This legislation deals with the transfer of National Park Service property. It is entirely proper that the Resources Committee had primary jurisdiction over H.R. 1508. I want to commend the work of both the Subcommittee on National Parks, Forests, and Lands under the able leadership of Mr. HANSEN and the full Resources Committee under the able leadership of Mr. YOUNG. Their outstanding work made it possible for the Government Reform and Oversight Committee to waive jurisdiction over this bill. By waiving jurisdiction, this project will be able to go forward in a timely manner without any prejudice to the Federal interest. I would also like to point out that in past Congresses the former District of Columbia Committee examined this issue. I have found no opposition to this legislation among members of the former Committee.

Finally, I think it is fitting that we pass this legislation and enable this project on the first day of the White House Conference on Travel and Tourism. This conference points to the importance of the tourist industry for our Nation generally and our capital region specifically. Tourism is crucial to the economic well being of the entire Washington Metropolitan Area. Tourism is the number one private sector employer in the District of Columbia and is second only to the Government itself as an employer. As the Federal Government continues to shrink it is vital that we do what we can in both the Congress and the executive branch to boost the region's economic development in areas outside Government. The Republicans of the 104th Congress working with Democrats in Congress and the city have already taken significant steps to strengthen tourism as a regional industry. We approved legislation which enabled the city to proceed with the new MCI Center at Gallery Place and to plan for a new convention center. The Children's Island project is another example of the positive partnership we are establishing. Once again, I want to commend the able leadership Ms. NORTON has shown on this project.

Mr. RICHARDSON. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. HANSEN. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. EVERETT). The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Utah [Mr. HANSEN] that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 1508, as amended.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended, the bill, as amended, was passed.

TECHNICAL CORRECTIONS IN COASTAL BARRIER RESOURCES SYSTEM MAP

Mr. TORKILDSEN. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 2005, to direct the Secretary of the Interior to make technical corrections in maps relating to the Coastal Barrier Resources System.

H.R. 2005

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. CORRECTION TO MAP.

(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of the Interior shall, before the end of the 30-day period beginning on the date of the enactment of this Act, make such corrections to the map described in subsection (b) as are necessary—

(1) to move on that map the eastern boundary of the excluded area covering Ocean Beach, Seaview, Ocean Bay Park, and part of Point O'Woods to the western boundary of the Sunken Forest Preserve; and

(2) to ensure that on that map the depiction of areas as "otherwise protected areas" does not include any area that is owned by the Point O'Woods Association (a privately held corporation under the laws of the State of New York).

(b) MAP DESCRIBED.—The map described in this subsection is the map that is included in a set of maps entitled "Coastal Barrier Resources System", dated October 24, 1990, that relates to the unit of the Coastal Barrier Resources System entitled Fire Island Unit NY-59P.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. TORKILDSEN] will be recognized for 20 minutes, and the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. STUDDS] will be recognized for 20 minutes.

Mr. TORKILDSEN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, before I begin, I would like to applaud the work of my colleague, the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. STUDDS], who has announced he will not be seeking another term in this Chamber. He has done great work for both the environment and to advocate for the interests of those who make their living in the fishing industry. We all appreciate what he has done, and I know we are going to miss him here, but wish him well in his future endeavors.

Mr. Speaker, I support H.R. 2005, which makes a technical correction to the Coastal Barrier Resources Act by removing an incorrectly mapped portion of unit NY-59P from the Coastal Barrier Resources System.

When unit NY-59P was created, a portion of privately owned land was incorrectly mapped as being part of an adjacent otherwise protected area, the Fire Island National Seashore. This 88-acre tract is owned by a private homeowner association, the Point O' Woods Association, and has never been a part of the National Seashore.

This noncontroversial legislation is supported by both the Fire Island National Seashore and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

I urge my colleagues to support this bill.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. STUDDS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I promise not to consume much time. I want to thank my colleague, the gentleman from Massachusetts, for his very kind words. Perhaps now that the Commonwealth of Massachusetts totally controls the floor, we should call up the Boston Harbor Islands National Park. I would also like to ask the gentleman where he got this tie.

Mr. TORKILDSEN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. STUDDS. I yield to the gentleman from Massachusetts.

Mr. TORKILDSEN. My fiance picked it out.

Mr. STUDDS. See? It is very nice.

Mr. Speaker, everything the gentleman said, at least about this bill is correct. It is a thing we should do. It is precisely the kind of correction that is in order. We strongly support it.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. TORKILDSEN. Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from New York [Mr. FORBES].

Mr. FORBES. Mr. Speaker, I would like to join my colleague, the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. TORKILDSEN], in saluting our distinguished colleague, the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. STUDDS]. It is a rare opportunity to salute somebody who has been such a champion, particularly for the fishing industry in particular, and I join my colleague in regret at losing a distinguished Member from this body at the conclusion of his term.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of H.R. 2005. This legislation became necessary, and while I certainly wholeheartedly embraced the coastal barrier resources systems map legislation that was enacted in 1990, there was a need to made this technical correction.

In 1990, the legislation codified a map that designated open space in Point of Woods as covered under the Coastal Barrier Resources Act of 1982, and the Coastal Barrier Improvement Act of 1990, and inadvertently excluded Point of Woods from the national flood insurance program and restricted Federal development assistance.

The Coastal Barrier Resources Act was designed to prevent the development of undeveloped segments of the coastal barrier. A good act, as I have previously stated is designed: The Point of Woods community of 160 acres, with 140 homes, a hotel, a store, a firehouse, a church, community activity buildings, and tennis courts. The area affected by the legislation is 80 acres, with 22 houses and plots under development.

In 1991, 1992, and 1993 Fire Island suffered brutal damage in three major east coastal storms. These storms destroyed many homes on Fire Island, but because of good planning, Point of Woods only lost two homes. For many years Point of Woods has discouraged beach front home construction. It has moved homes back from the ocean front when possible, and bulldozed sand to build dunes.

After the storms, Mr. Speaker, Point of Woods developed a unique plan, together with our local town of Brookhaven and Federal flood administrators of the Federal Emergency Management Agency, to move from the beach up to 17 homes and to permit rebuilding of the dunes for the future protection of the community.

As they were about to relocate the homes, Point of Woods residents learned that half of the homes were included in the Coastal Barrier Improvement Act, making them ineligible for flood insurance for new construction or for the relocated houses.

The result is that 30 years of thoughtful community land use planning will not proceed without this technical correction. Home builders and mortgage lenders have said that they would not offer loans for construction, and they would not make that opportunity available without flood insurance, which is prohibited under the technical aspects of the bill previously passed in 1990.

Point of Woods never received notice of the mapping process, and were not able to make the corrections at the time the legislation passed. This much-needed legislation will correct the mapping error that designated private property on Fire Island as an otherwise protected area on the coastal barrier resources system map of the Fire Island National Seashore.

The coastal barriers' resources system boundaries cannot be adjusted without congressional approval, and I appreciate the Committee on Resources taking up this legislation and my colleagues embracing these technical corrections. I urge its adoption.

Mr. LAZIO of New York. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to express my strong support of H.R. 2005, which will correct a mapping error which designated the private community of Point O' Woods on Fire Island as an "otherwise protected area" on the Coastal Barrier Resources System map.

In 1990, the Coastal Barrier Resources Act was amended and during the mapping, half of the Point O' Woods community was inadvertently grouped together with a federally owned wildlife preserve adjacent to Point O' Woods.

These otherwise protected areas on this map are areas within the Coastal Barrier Resources System units that include national wildlife refuges, national parks and seashores, State parks and conservation lands owned by private organizations. The inclusion of the Point O' Woods property in otherwise protected land prohibits the issuance of flood insurance, which is so vital to these homeowners. It also restricts the availability of Federal development assistance. These units boundaries must be adjusted by congressional approval.

This was an oversight by the Government that Congress seeks to correct and will benefit the homeowners of Point O' Woods. Though this particular affected area lies in New York's First Congressional District, I share the representation of the Fire Island with my colleague, Mr. FORBES, and congratulate him on his efforts to correct this unfortunate mistake by the Government. I urge the rest of my colleagues to support H.R. 2005.

Mr. TORKILDSEN. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. TORKILDSEN] that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 2005.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the bill was passed.

CONVEYANCE OF NATIONAL MARINE FISHERIES SERVICE LABORATORY AT GLOUCESTER, MA

Mr. TORKILDSEN. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 1358) to require the Secretary of Commerce to convey to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts the National Marine Fisheries Service laboratory located on Emerson Avenue in Gloucester, MA, as amended.

H.R. 1358

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

(a) CONVEYANCE REQUIRED.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of Commerce shall convey to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, all right, title, and interest of the United States in and to the property comprising the National Marine Fisheries Service laboratory located on Emerson Avenue in Gloucester, Massachusetts.

(2) TERMS.—A conveyance of property under paragraph (1) shall be made—

(A) without payment of consideration; and

(B) subject to the terms and conditions specified under subsections (b) and (c).

(b) CONDITIONS FOR TRANSFER.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—As a condition of any conveyance of property under this section, the Commonwealth of Massachusetts shall assume full responsibility for maintenance of the property for as long as the Commonwealth retains the rights and title to that property.

(2) CONTINUED USE OF PROPERTY BY NMFS.—The Secretary may enter into a memorandum of understanding with the Commonwealth of Massachusetts under which the National Marine Fisheries Service is authorized to occupy existing laboratory space on the property conveyed under this section, if—

(A) the term of the memorandum of understanding is for a period of not longer than 5 years beginning on the date of enactment of this Act; and

(B) the square footage of the space to be occupied by the National Marine Fisheries Service does not conflict with the needs of, and is agreeable to, the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

(c) REVERSIONARY INTEREST.—All right, title, and interest in and to all property and interests conveyed under this section shall revert to the United States on the date on which the Commonwealth of Massachusetts uses any of the property for any purpose other than the Commonwealth of Massachusetts Division of Marine Fisheries resource management program.

(d) RESTRICTION.—Amounts provided by the South Essex Sewage District may not be used by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts to transfer existing activities to, or conduct activities at, property conveyed under this section.

The Chair, recognizes the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. TORKILDSEN].

Mr. TORKILDSEN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, H.R. 1358 is noncontroversial legislation to transfer the National Marine Fisheries Service Laboratory in Gloucester, MA, to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. This legislation has been worked out on both sides of the aisle, and has the support of Governor Weld and the administration.

The National Marine Fisheries Service Laboratory in Gloucester has been an important component of the fishing community in New England, since its construction in 1968. Due to the National Marine Fisheries Service restructuring, many of the duties performed at the lab have been transferred to other labs along the coast. It was believed the Gloucester lab would shut its doors forever. However, I worked closely with State officials to ensure the lab would remain open. The Commonwealth was looking for space for their new State fisheries lab and the Gloucester lab was a good match.

The Commonwealth has formed an academic consortium with the University of Massachusetts and Salem State College to investigate the many challenges the fishing community faces. Specifically, the consortium will focus on the manufacturing of value-added seafood products from underutilized species such as Atlantic mackerel, herring, whiting, and dogfish.

Currently, Georges Bank is closed to fishing for valuable groundfish such as haddock, cod, and flounder. Fishing families are facing the extra burden of trying to make ends meet in a time when they cannot fish. However, all is not lost. There is an abundance of underutilized species which do not currently have a market. The consortium will maximize the resources at the lab to investigate new products made from these underutilized species. These value-added products will enable New England fishing families to work while the haddock, cod, and flounder stocks have time to recover. The new lab will continue to be an important component of the New England fishing community.

This legislation requires the Commonwealth of Massachusetts to conduct fisheries research; otherwise, the laboratory will revert back to the control of the Federal taxpayers.

As I previously stated, this legislation has been worked out on both sides of the aisle, and the administration supports this transfer.

I urge my colleagues to support this legislation, and I look forward to its passage today.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. STUDDS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, believe it or not, the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. TORKILDSEN] has said all there is to be said on this subject. This is a bill which the House passed in essentially this form in the last Congress. We should continue to pass it, and hope that the other body recognizes the wisdom of it. I commend the gentleman for doing it.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of the bill.

Is has been almost 3 years since the Commonwealth of Massachusetts first approached me about the possibility of taking over the operations of the Gloucester lab. The Division of Marine Fisheries' lab was to be closed and the Commonwealth was in search of a new facility. The Gloucester lab, which had been slated for closure by NMFS for several years seemed a perfect fit. Legislation was introduced and passed by the House to transfer the title of the property, but it never became law, forcing the bill to be reintroduced this year.

This legislation is modeled after the multitude of hatchery transfer bills that have been considered by the House in the past. The Commonwealth will assume title to the property and responsibility for all improvements and modifications to the facility. The interests of the Federal Government are protected by a reversionary clause that requires the property to revert to Federal ownership should it no longer be used for a fishery lab. The Division of Marine Fisheries has also agreed to provide office and lab space to NMFS scientists as needed. This is a win-win situation for Massachusetts and the National Marine Fisheries Service, and I urge Members to support it today.

Mr. SAXTON. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of H.R. 1358, introduced by our distinguished colleague from Massachusetts, Congressman PETER TORKILDSEN.

This legislation will convey all right, title, and interest to the National Marine Fisheries Service Laboratory in Gloucester to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

The Federal Government acquired this land from the city of Gloucester over 60 years ago for $1. It has now been classified as surplus Federal property, and the National Marine Fisheries Service will soon transfer its few remaining scientists from that facility.

Instead of closing this laboratory, however, the Commonwealth of Massachusetts has indicated its desire to move its Division of Marine Fisheries to Gloucester and to undertake shellfish and water quality testing, striped bass and northern shrimp management, sea sampling, and field biological studies. In fact, the Commonwealth has testified that the Gloucester laboratory is ideally suited for its marine fishery programs.

This bill is an important partnership with the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, and its marine fisheries program will benefit many Americans. Furthermore, the property will revert back to the Federal Government if the Commonwealth attempts to use the facilities for any other purpose.

It is my understanding that both the Clinton administration and the Commonwealth of Massachusetts strongly support H.R. 1358. I urge an "aye" vote on the bill, and I compliment PETER TORKILDSEN for his outstanding leadership in this matter.

Mr. STUDDS. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Massachusetts

[Mr. TORKILDSEN] that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 1358, as amended.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the bill, as amended, was passed.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. TORKILDSEN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on H.R. 1508, H.R. 2005, and H.R. 1358.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Massachusetts?

There was no objection.

(b) GOALS AND ACCOUNTABILITY.—In making grants under this section, the Secretary shall take such actions as may be necessary to ensure that—

(1) assistance provided under this section is used to facilitate and encourage innovative homeownership opportunities through the provision of self-help housing, under which the homeowner contributes a significant amount of sweat equity toward the construction of the new dwelling;

(2) assistance provided under this section for land acquisition and infrastructure development results in the development of not less than 5,000 new dwellings;

(3) the dwellings constructed in connection with assistance provided under this section are quality dwellings that comply with local building and safety codes and standards and are available at prices below the prevailing market prices;

(5) activities to develop housing assisted pursuant to this section involve community participation similar to the homeownership program carried out by Habitat for Humanity International, in which volunteers assist in the construction of dwellings; and

(6) dwellings are developed in connection with assistance under this section on a geographically diverse basis, which includes areas having high housing costs, rural areas, and areas underserved by other homeownership opportunities that are populated by low-income families unable to otherwise afford housing.

If, at any time, the Secretary determines that the goals under this subsection cannot be met by providing assistance in accordance with the terms of this section, the Secretary shall immediately notify the applicable Committees in writing of such determination and any proposed changes for such goals or this section.

(c) ALLOCATION.—Of any amounts available for grants under this section—

For purposes of this paragraph, any interest, fees, and other earnings of the fund shall be excluded from the amount of the grant.

(2) EFFECT.—After such close-out, no grantee organization or consortia, or its affiliates, may be required to comply with any provision of this section or the grant agreement or to account to the Secretary for use of grant amounts.

"(c) Eligible Borrowers.—A loan guaranteed under this section may be made to a nonprofit organization, an agency or body of any State government or political subdivision thereof, or a private entity.

"(d) Eligible Housing.—A loan may be guaranteed under this section only if the loan is used for the development costs of housing and related facilities (as such terms are defined in section 515(e)) that—

"(1) consists of 5 or more adequate dwellings;

"(2) is available for occupancy only by low or moderate income families or persons, whose incomes at the time of initial occupancy do not exceed 115 percent of the median income of the area, as determined by the Secretary;

"(3) will remain available as provided in paragraph (2), according to such binding commitments as the Secretary may require, for the period of the original term of the loan guaranteed, unless the housing is acquired by foreclosure (or instrument in lieu of foreclosure) or the Secretary waives the applicability of such requirement for the loan only after determining, based on objective information, that—

"(A) there is no longer a need for low- and moderate-income housing in the market area in which the housing is located;

"(B) housing opportunities for low-income households and minorities will not be reduced as a result of the waiver; and

"(C) additional Federal assistance will not be necessary as a result of the waiver; and

"(4) is located in a rural area.

"(e) Eligible Lenders.—

"(1) Requirement.—A loan may be guaranteed under this section only if the loan is made by a lender that the Secretary determines—

"(A) meets the qualifications, and has been approved by the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development, to make loans for multifamily housing that are to be insured under the National Housing Act;

"(B) meets the qualifications, and has been approved by the Federal National Mortgage Association and the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation, to make loans for multifamily housing that are to be sold to such corporations; or

"(C) meets any qualifications that the Secretary may, by regulation, establish for participation of lenders in the loan guarantee program under this section.

"(2) Eligibility list and annual audit.—The Secretary shall establish a list of eligible lenders and shall annually conduct an audit of each lender included in the list for purposes of determining whether such lender continues to be an eligible lender.

"(f) Loan Terms.—Each loan guaranteed pursuant to this section shall—

"(1) provide for complete amortization by periodic payments to be made for a term not to exceed 40 years;

"(2) involve a rate of interest agreed upon by the borrower and the lender that does not exceed the maximum allowable rate established by the Secretary for purposes of this section and is fixed over the term of the loan;

"(3) involve a principal obligation (including initial service charges, appraisal, inspection, and other fees as the Secretary may approve) not to exceed—

"(A) in the case of a borrower that is a nonprofit organization or an agency or body of any State or local government, 97 percent of the development costs of the housing and related facilities or the value of the housing and facilities, whichever is less;

"(B) in the case of a borrower that is a for-profit entity not referred to in subparagraph (A), 90 percent of the development costs of the housing and related facilities or the value of the housing and facilities, whichever is less; and

"(C) in the case of any borrower, for such part of the property as may be attributable to dwelling use, the applicable maximum per unit dollar amount limitations under section 207(c) of the National Housing Act;

"(4) be secured by a first mortgage on the housing and related facilities for which the loan is made, or otherwise, as the Secretary may determine necessary to ensure repayment of the obligation; and

"(5) for at least 20 percent of the loans made under this section, the Secretary shall provide the borrower with assistance in the form of credits pursuant to section 521(a)(1)(B) to the extent necessary to reduce the rate of interest under paragraph (2) to the applicable Federal rate, as such term is used in section 42(i)(2)(D) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986.

"(g) Guarantee Fee.—At the time of issuance of a loan guaranteed under this section, the Secretary may collect from the lender a fee equal to not more than 1 percent of the principal obligation of the loan.

"(h) Authority for Lenders To Issue Certificates of Guarantee.—The Secretary may authorize certain eligible lenders to determine whether a loan meets the requirements for guarantee under this section and, subject to the availability of authority to enter into guarantees under this section, execute a firm commitment for a guarantee binding upon the Secretary and issue a certificate of guarantee evidencing a guarantee, without review and approval by the Secretary of the specific loan. The Secretary may establish standards for approving eligible lenders for a delegation of authority under this subsection.

"(i) Payment Under Guarantee.—

"(1) Notice of default.—In the event of default by the borrower on a loan guaranteed under this section, the holder of the guarantee certificate for the loan shall provide written notice of the default to the Secretary.

"(2) Foreclosure.—After receiving notice under paragraph (1) and providing written notice of action under this paragraph to the Secretary, the holder of the guarantee certificate for the loan may initiate foreclosure proceedings for the loan in a court of competent jurisdiction, in accordance with regulations issued by the Secretary, to obtain possession of the security property. After the court issues a final order authorizing foreclosure on the property, the holder of the certificate shall be entitled to payment by the Secretary under the guarantee (in the amount provided under subsection (b)) upon (A) conveyance to the Secretary of title to the security property, (B) submission to the Secretary of a claim for payment under the guarantee, and (C) assignment to the Secretary of all the claims of the holder of the guarantee against the borrower or others arising out of the loan transaction or foreclosure proceedings, except claims released with the consent of the Secretary.

"(3) Assignment by secretary.—After receiving notice under paragraph (1), the Secretary may accept assignment of the loan if the Secretary determines that the assignment is in the best interests of the United States. Assignment of a loan under this paragraph shall include conveyance to the Secretary of title to the security property, assignment to the Secretary of all rights and interests arising under the loan, and assignment to the Secretary of all claims against the borrower or others arising out of the loan transaction. Upon assignment of a loan under this paragraph, the holder of a guarantee certificate for the loan shall be entitled to payment by the Secretary under the guarantee (in the amount provided under subsection (b)).

"(4) Requirements.—Before any payment under a guarantee is made under paragraph (2) or (3), the holder of the guarantee certificate shall exhaust all reasonable possibilities of collection on the loan guaranteed. Upon payment, in whole or in part, to the holder, the note or judgment evidencing the debt shall be assigned to the United States and the holder shall have no further claim against the borrower or the United States. The Secretary shall then take such action to collect as the Secretary determines appropriate.

"(1) Indemnification.—If the Secretary determines that a loan guaranteed by an eligible lender pursuant to delegation of authority under subsection (h) was not originated in accordance with the requirements under this section and the Secretary pays a claim under the guarantee for the loan, the Secretary may require the eligible lender authorized under subsection (h) to issue the guarantee certificate for the loan—

"(A) to indemnify the Secretary for the loss, if the payment under the guarantee was made within a reasonable period specified by the Secretary; or

"(B) to indemnify the Secretary for the loss regardless of when payment under the guarantee was made, if the Secretary determines that fraud or misrepresentation was involved in connection with the origination of the loan.

"(2) Termination of authority to issue guarantees.—The Secretary may cancel a delegation of authority under subsection (h) to an eligible lender if the Secretary determines that the lender has violated the requirements and procedures for guaranteed loans under this section or for other good cause. Any such cancellation shall be made by giving notice to the eligible lender and shall take effect upon receipt of the notice by the mortgagee or at a later date, as the Secretary may provide. A decision by the Secretary to cancel a delegation shall be final and conclusive and shall not be subject to judicial review.

"(k) Refinancing.—Any loan guaranteed under this section may be refinanced and extended in accordance with terms and conditions that the Secretary shall prescribe, but in no event for an additional amount or term that exceeds the limitations under subsection (f).

"(l) Nonassumption.—The borrower under a loan that is guaranteed under this section and under which any portion of the principal obligation or interest remains outstanding may not be relieved of liability with respect to the loan, notwithstanding the transfer of property for which the loan was made.

"(m) Geographical Targeting.—

"(1) Study.—The Secretary shall provide for an independent entity to conduct a study to determine the extent to which borrowers in the United States will utilize loan guarantees under this section, the rural areas in the United States in which borrowers can best utilize and most need loans guaranteed under this section, and the rural areas in the United States in which housing of the type eligible for a loan guarantee under this section is most needed by low- and moderate-income families. The Secretary shall require the independent entity conducting the study to submit a report to the Secretary and to the Congress describing the results of the study not later than the expiration of the 90-day period beginning on the date of the enactment of the Homesteading and Neighborhood Restoration Act of 1995.

"(2) Targeting.—In providing loan guarantees under this section, the Secretary shall establish standards to target and give priority to rural areas in which borrowers can best utilize and most need loans guaranteed under this section, as determined by the Secretary based on the results of the study under paragraph (1) and any other information the Secretary considers appropriate.

"(n) Inapplicability of Credit-Elsewhere Test.—Section 501(c) shall not apply to guarantees, or loans guaranteed, under this section.

"(o) Tenant Protections.—The Secretary shall establish standards for the treatment of tenants of housing developed using amounts from a loan guaranteed under this section, which shall incorporate, to the extent applicable, existing standards applicable to tenants of housing developed with loans made under section 515. Such standards shall include standards for fair housing and equal opportunity, lease and grievance procedures, and tenant appeals of adverse actions.

"(p) Housing Standards.—The standards established under section 515(m) for housing and related facilities assisted under section 515 shall apply to housing and related facilities the development costs of which are financed in whole or in part with a loan guaranteed under this section.

"(q) Limitation on Commitments To Guarantee Loans.—

"(1) Requirement of appropriations for cost subsidy.—The authority of the Secretary to enter into commitments to guarantee loans under this section, and to guarantee loans, shall be effective for each fiscal year only to the extent that appropriations of budget authority to cover the costs (as such term is defined in section 502 of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974) of the guarantees are made in advance for such fiscal year.

"(2) Annual limitation on amount of loan guarantees.—In fiscal year 1996, the Secretary may enter into commitments to guarantee loans under this section only to the extent that the costs of the guarantees entered into in such fiscal year do not exceed $1,000,000.

"(r) Report.—

"(1) In general.—The Secretary shall submit a report to the Congress, not later than the expiration of the 2-year period beginning on the date of the enactment of the Homesteading and Neighborhood Restoration Act of 1995, describing the program under this section for guaranteeing loans.

"(2) Contents.—The report shall—

"(A) describe the types of borrowers providing housing with loans guaranteed under this section, the areas served by the housing provided and the geographical distribution of the housing, the levels of income of the residents of the housing, the number of dwelling units provided, the extent to which borrowers under such loans have obtained other financial assistance for development costs of housing provided with the loans, and the extent to which borrowers under such loans have used low-income housing tax credits provided under section 42 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 in connection with the housing provided with the loans;

"(B) analyze the financial viability of the housing provided with loans guaranteed under this section and the need for project-based rental assistance for such housing;

"(C) include any recommendations of the Secretary for expanding or improving the program under this section for guaranteeing loans; and

"(D) include any other information regarding the program for guaranteeing loans under this section that the Secretary considers appropriate.

"(1) The term 'development cost' has the meaning given the term in section 515(e).

"(2) The term 'eligible lender' means a lender determined by the Secretary to meet the requirements of subparagraph (A), (B), (C), or (D) of subsection (e)(1).

"(3) The terms 'housing' and 'related facilities' have the meanings given such terms in section 515(e).

"(t) Authorization of Appropriations.—There is authorized to be appropriated for fiscal year 1996 $1,000,000 for costs (as such term is defined in section 502 of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974) of loan guarantees made under this section.

"(u) Termination Date.—A loan may not be guaranteed under this section after September 30, 1996.".

(b) Effect of Authorizing Legislation.—The enactment of this section shall be considered the enactment of authorizing legislation referred to in the 3d undesignated paragraph under the head "Rural Housing and Community Development Service—rural housing insurance fund program account" in title III of the Agriculture, Rural Development, Food and Drug Administration, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 1996 (Public Law 104-37; 109 Stat. 299 et seq.; approved October 21, 1995).

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from New York [Mr. Lazio] and the gentleman from Texas [Mr. Gonzales] will each be recognized for 20 minutes.

Mr. LAZIO of New York. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself 3 minutes.

Mr. Speaker, these are contentious times on Capitol Hill. The need to balance the Federal budget, the need to return accountability to Government and the need to provide better services to the American taxpayers all weigh very heavily on the minds of Members of this House.

In the midst of this, however, we have before us today a tremendous example of how Government can work well, how Government can provide a service without a big bureaucracy or huge Federal subsidies.

H.R. 1691, the Homesteading and Neighborhood Restoration Act of 1995, signals an important change for Government's role in housing.

Despite the success groups like Habitat for Humanity International have had, these initiatives are often hampered by the high costs of acquiring land and providing infrastructure.

H.R. 1691 provides a one-time grant of $50 million for land acquisition and infrastructure development so that Habitat and other national and regional organizations who performed similar types of homeownership programs can be more effective. This funding comes from reprogramming unused HUD funds, resulting in no increased cost to the Government or the deficit.

By allocating 50 percent of the funds to Habitat for Humanity, we acknowledge the fine work this organization has done by providing 30,000 homes to low-income people since its founding in 1976.

Clearly, Government has a role in housing. But ultimately, success depends on the involvement of local communities—neighbors helping neighbors—to make our efforts in Congress work.

There is a lot of talk in Washington right now about where we will go with housing legislation and what will happen to HUD. Habitat, with minimal management overhead and strong partnerships with communities nationwide, is providing quality housing and solid homes for tens of thousands of people. This is a model of how Government and the private sector can work together.

H.R. 1691 also reauthorizes the Section 515 housing program under the Rural Housing and Community Development Service of the Department of Agriculture. The legislation addresses some of the concerns we faced about the program's operation during the 103d Congress and also heralds a change for this program by providing for a loan guarantee demonstration program, sponsored by my very distinguished colleague and vice chairman of the Housing Subcommittee, Congressman BEREUTER. I believe this demonstration will show how Federal dollars can be used more effectively to leverage private dollars. In essence, getting more housing bang for every taxpayer buck.

H.R. 1691 has very broad bi-partisan support from Speaker GINGRICH, HUD Secretary Cisneros—both of whom testified before the Housing Subcommittee on May 25, 1995—and former President Jimmy Carter. When the subcommittee marked up H.R. 1691 it received strong support from both Republicans and Democrats.

Before I finish, I would like to make a personal statement about Habitat for Humanity. Last year I had the opportunity to join my neighbors on Long Island to build the first Habitat for Humanity home in Babylon, NY. I encourage Members of the House to get involved in the work of this fine organization, both by passing this bill and by working with Habitat in their own districts.

Mr. Speaker, I include for the RECORD the following documents regarding the Homesteading and Neighborhood Restoration Act of 1995.

SECTION-BY-SECTION ANALYSIS

Section 2. Assistance for Habitat for Humanity and Other Self Help Housing Providers.

The Secretary of Housing and Urban Development is authorized to provide $50 million in grants for land acquisition and infrastructure extensions and developments for self help homeownership opportunities. Fifty percent (50%) of funds are allocated to Habitat and the remainder with other national and regional organizations (or consortia) that perform similar type homeownership programs. Besides Habitat, each organization will be required to express their interest, within six months of enactment, to the HUD Secretary and enter into agreements to provide a reasonable amount of new dwellings (at least 30), consistent with the costs and economic conditions of the area. The HUD Secretary is required to ensure geographic diversity and that each organization leverages other funds, including private or public sources.

Payments to Habitat will be split with 50% up-front, followed by a second 50% payment after Habitat certifies and the HUD Secretary confirms that it has met the terms of the grant agreement. Other organizations that receive in excess of $8 million will be required, similar to Habitat, to certify and confirm that the terms of the grant agreement were met before the remaining funds (50%) are allotted. All other organizations will receive a one-time payment.

The funds will come from unused program amounts from existing HUD accounts and build at least 5,000 new dwellings.

Section 3. Extension of Multifamily Rural Housing Loan Program.

The rural multifamily housing loan program, authorized under Sec. 515 of the Housing Act of 1949 is extended through FY 1996. The accompanying non-profit set aside is also extended through FY 1996. Additionally, reforms, originally included in the 103rd House-passed H.R. 3838 as follows: (1) limits ownership transferability of Sec. 515 multifamily developments to circumstances where the transfer is in the best interest of the tenants; (2) prohibits equity loans unless the USDA Secretary determines that other incentives are not adequate to provide a fair return, to prevent payment, or to prevent displacement of tenants; (3) requires location and allocation of Sec. 515 projects with the greatest need in terms of county poverty, substandard housing and lack of affordable housing rates; and, (4) repeals prohibitions related to remote rural areas, areas without essential services, or certain geographic locations.

Additionally, this section authorizes a rural multifamily loan guarantee program, through FY 1996, where the USDA Secretary guarantees a Sec. 515 loan made by a lender, which would serve families up to 115% of median area income with a loan-to-value ration of 90% (97% for non-profit groups). Eligible lenders are HUD-, Fannie Mae-, Freddi Mac- or USDA-approved mortgagees. The loans may be amortized up to 40 years; 20% of loans would be provided credits to "buy down" the rate of interest to the applicable Federal rate (approximately 7%). Guarantee fees are limited to 1%.

In the event of loan guarantee defaults, the lender notifies the USDA Secretary and then initiates foreclosure procedures. Payment of a claim is made upon assignment of the program where the lender has made all reasonable efforts of collection. In cases where the lender has originated a Sec. 515 loan improperly, the USDA Secretary may require indemnification and/or cancel a lender's authority to issue certificates of guarantee.

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF HOUSING
Washington, DC, February 22, 1995.

Hon. RICK LAZIO,
Chairman, Subcommittee on Housing and Community Development, Washington, DC.

DEAR MR. CHAIRMAN: This weekend I joined Millard Fuller, President of Habitat for Humanity International, for the dedication of their new headquarters in Americus, Georgia and the dedication of the 200th home they have built in Sumpter County, part of a plan to eliminate all sub-standard housing in Sumpter County by the year 2000. I have long had great admiration for Habitat's unique work as a builder not only of homes, but of strong, dignified communities and individuals. I am writing to apprise you of their current plans and to request you to consider making available $50 million to assist them.

Since its founding in 1976 Habitat has used a creative combination of private sector donations, homeowner sweat equity and volunteer service to create over 35,000 homes for low income persons worldwide. The Habitat model of building with, not for, low income homeowners has created homeownership opportunities for thousands of low income families in the United States.

Through volunteer labor, management expertise, and tax-deductible donations of money and materials, Habitat builds and rehabilitates homes with the help of homeowners. Houses are sold at no profit to partner families, and no-interest mortgages are issued over a fixed period. Costs for the homes differ relative to location, land, labor and materials.

Habitat has never requested government funds for construction of new houses, renovation or repair of existing houses, or the general operating expenses of projects. However, Habitat has identified a need for government assistance with land acquisition and infrastructure development costs because these costs are seldom available on a donated basis. Moreover, acquisition funds would permit the purchase of land where it makes sense, not where it happens to be donated. Provision of acquisition funds would be "recycled". Habitat would require homeowners to repay the grants over time and create a fund for additional land acquisition, thereby creating new homeownership opportunities for additional low income families.

This is a unique opportunity to leverage federal dollars to provide thousands of low income homes nationwide and to build on volunteer efforts. For every $10,000 provided for land acquisition costs, Habitat will obtain donations and volunteer assistance to construct a single-family home. Therefore, this $50 million would lead to the construction of 5,000 new affordable homes and homeowners.

Some may argue that Habitat could use HOME and CDBG funds for land acquisition and infrastructure development. Habitat has tried this, successfully in some cases, however it has been problematic. Habitat is unique in that it has 1,125 affiliates that are primarily staffed by volunteers. Therefore, they often do not have the capacity to apply for HOME and CDBG funds. Providing this grant would hold Habitat for Humanity International accountable for equitable distribution nationwide.

Mr. Chairman, providing federal funds in this way would enable this vital private initiative to proceed at a more rapid pace. We are not asking to be partners in housing construction, but in making land resources available so that this private initiative can function more efficiently.

I would greatly appreciate your consideration of the appropriate vehicle to provide $50 million to Habitat for land acquisition/infrastructure development.

Sincerely,

HENRY G. CISNEROS.

Hon. RICK LAZIO,
Chair, Housing and Community Opportunity Subcommittee, Banking and Financial Services Committee, U.S. House of Representatives, Washington, DC.

It is not possible for me to testify in the proposed hearing before your committee relative to the proposal for Habitat For Humanity International to receive a grant to establish a revolving loan fund to be used to secure land and infrastructure in all fifty states. However, I wish to express my support for this concept which will allow Habitat to increase greatly our unique service to families who otherwise could not experience the American dream of owning a home. This approach will insure and increase the diversity of partnerships of individuals and groups from the private, the non-profit and the public sectors of our society for support in the now over 1,100 cities and communities in the United States where Habitat is building homes with low income persons.

I continue my personal commitment to Habitat For Humanity International and its mission to make it possible for all persons to have a simple, decent home. My experiences in Habitat have been very positive and fulfilling. Thousands of Americans who would not otherwise have this experience now own homes, with all the positive benefits, both for themselves and for society as a whole. One major reality is the large number of persons in all parts of our country who qualify for the Habitat program and cannot participate until the Habitat capacity can increase. This proposed grant for land and infrastructure will increase the capacity in ways which are consistent with "the Habitat Way."

Thank you for your leadership role in facilitating the achievement of these goals we hold for our society.

Sincerely,

JIMMY CARTER.

NATIONAL RURAL HOUSING COALITION,
Washington, DC, October 27, 1995.

Hon. RICK LAZIO,
Chairman, Subcommittee on Housing and Community Opportunity, Committee on Banking and Financial Services, U.S. House of Representatives, Washington, DC.

DEAR MR. CHAIRMAN: I am writing to you to indicate our support for H.R. 1691, the Homesteading and Neighborhood Restoration Act of 1995.

We support passage of HR 1691 because of the provisions of the bill related to rural rental housing. HR 1691 extends the section 515 rural rental housing program which is the only federal program providing rental housing to rural low income families and the elderly.

In addition, the legislation contains important provisions which will improve program operations by better targeting funds, preventing abuses, limiting uses of funds for refinancing, and clarifying the law regarding equity loans. These provisions will ensure that limited federal funds are used in the best, most appropriate manner to provide assistance to rural households needing decent housing.

Extension of section 515 authority is particularly important because of a limitation in HR 1976, the Fiscal Year 1996 Agriculture Appropriations Act. This legislation bars the use of funds appropriations for section 515 for new construction until enactment of authorization legislation. So, without passage of HR 1691, there will be no new rental housing construction in rural areas through section 515.

Thank you for your leadership on this important issue.

Sincerely yours,

ROBERT A. RAPOZA.

NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF
HOME BUILDERS,
Washington, DC, October 27, 1995.

Hon. RICK LAZIO,
Subcommittee on Housing and Community Opportunity, Committee on Banking and Financial Services, Washington, DC.

DEAR CHAIRMAN LAZIO: On behalf of the 185,000 member firms of the National Association of Home Builders, as you recall, we supported the Homesteading and Neighborhood Restoration Act, HR 1691, in your Subcommittee. We are pleased to support passage of this bill on Monday, October 30, under suspension of the rules.

The rural multifamily housing loan program authorization, Section 515, expired at the end of fiscal year 1994, and this bill would extend the program authority through the end of fiscal year 1996. Funds for this program were appropriated last year and currently are being expended by the Department of Agriculture.

Additionally, the legislation authorizes the Secretary of HUD to provide $50 million to expand self-help homeownership opportunities. NAHB supports this as one of many approaches available to increase homeownership.

Best regards,

JAMES R. IRVINE.

Mr. LAZIO of New York. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to my distinguished colleague, the gentleman from Nebraska [Mr. BEREUTER].

Mr. BEREUTER. Mr. Speaker, this Member is pleased to rise in support of H.R. 1691, the Homesteading and Neighborhood Restoration Act. This Member would like to thank the distinguished gentleman from Iowa [Mr. LEACH], the chairman of the House Banking Committee, and the distinguished gentleman from Texas [Mr. GONZALEZ], the ranking member of the House Banking Committee, for bringing this measure to the House floor. This Member also extends his special appreciation to the gentleman from New York [Mr. LAZIO], the chairman of the Banking Subcommittee on Housing, and the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. KENNEDY], for their support for this legislation.

This Member is pleased to be here today supporting legislation which contains the authorization of a program this Member has proposed to provide multifamily housing loan guarantees in rural areas.

On Tuesday, January 4, 1995, this Member reintroduced legislation to authorize a demonstration program for a new Federal loan guarantee program for the construction of multi-family rental housing units in small cities, towns, and rural areas. The text of that legislation (H.R. 66) has been incorporated into the Homesteading and Neighborhood Restoration Act of 1995.

The language in this measure is in effect identical to this Member's legislation which was passed by the House in the 103d Congress as part of H.R. 3838, the Housing and Community Development Act of 1994—passed July 22, 1994. This legislation would have created a demonstration program for a new Federal loan guarantee program for the construction of multifamily rental housing units. Because H.R. 3838 died when the Senate failed to act on it in the last hours of the 103d Congress, this Member reintroduced legislation to authorize the loan guarantee program in the 104th Congress.

Currently, the only Federal program allowing development of this type of housing is the Rural Housing and Community Development Service's—formerly the Farmers Home Administration—Section 515 program, a direct loan program which has, unfortunately, been plagued with problems. Because Federal funds become more scarce every year, the direct loan program is almost certain to shrink. Therefore, this Member saw the need for a new approach that would cost taxpayers less but still provide equal or greater housing opportunity in rural areas. The new program will be known as the Section 515 Loan Guarantee Program.

Mr. Speaker, this bill has two or three major parts to it.

The one I am most interested in speaking about today has been made reference to by the gentleman from New York [Mr. LAZIO], and it is the loan guaranty program called the 515 Loan Guarantee Program. It has been a part of the Farmers Home Administration, now renamed a component of the United States Department of Agriculture.

We have had a direct loan program, the 515 Program, for multifamily rental housing. This legislation will make some reforms in that program, and we intend, I am sure, to try to do further work in the 515 direct loan program next year.

However, Mr. Speaker, the initiative on which I am pleased to have the support of my colleagues is an effort to establish a 2-year demonstration 515 Loan Guarantee Program, for 25 projects per year.

At this point this Member is not advocating that this demonstration program replace the existing program, but only augment it, at a lower cost, in order to provide adequate rental housing opportunities for a segment of America's population living in smaller communities. The demonstration program will provide a Federal guarantee on loans made to eligible persons by private lenders. In fiscal year 1996 25 new developments will be guaranteed by the Rural Housing and Community Development Service. Developers will bring 10 percent of the cost of the project to the table, and private lenders will make loans for the balance. The lenders will be given a 100 percent Federal guarantee on the loans they make. Unlike the current 515 program, where the full costs are borne by the Federal Government, the only costs to the Federal Government under the 515 Loan Guarantee Program will be for administrative costs and potential defaults. It should be noted that this program is based on the recent experience with the very successful FmHA 502 Middle Income Loan Guarantee Program for home ownership. That program, which this Member first proposed, has a default rate of only 2.33 percent with over 41,000 units financed since 1991.

Also, this Member asks you to note that, with bipartisan support on the Appropriations Committee, H.R. 1976, the fiscal year 1996 Agriculture Appropriations bill, which was signed by the President on October 21, 1995, appropriates $1 million in credit subsidy for the Section 515 loan guarantee demonstration program. Therefore, the program can move forward as soon as it is authorized, but the appropriation will be recaptured if the demonstration is not authorized in fiscal 1995.

This Member is convinced by experience that loan guarantee programs for housing are typically a much more effective use of scare Federal dollars than existing programs. As budgets are slashed, this type of program promises to continue to make Federal assistance available for housing development in America's non-metropolitan cities.

Again, Mr. Speaker, this Member supports H.R. 2491 and asks that his colleagues also vote in support of this legislation.

Mr. GONZALEZ. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, first and above all, I want to thank my distinguished colleague, the gentleman from Nebraska [Mr. BEREUTER] for his kind words and his very, very tremendous contribution in this respect, in housing, and on the committee.

Mr. Speaker, the bill before us is simple enough: it provides $25 million to the Habitat for Humanity organization and sets aside another $25 million that similar self-help housing groups can compete for. In addition, the bill reauthorizes certain rural rental housing programs, as was provided for in H.R. 3838, the housing bill that the House passed overwhelmingly last year, but which was stopped by the failure of the other body to act.

The idea of self-help housing is not new; community roof raising and barn-raising is as old as this country. What is new is the adaptation of these old community building ideas for our time—which is what Habitat for Humanity and other organizations do. And they are successful, not only in building new houses for an affordable price, but in rehabilitating old houses and making them available for an affordable price. The secret is very simple: donated materials and volunteer labor. In my own community of San Antonio, Habitat has built 81 new homes in the space of 16 years—one about every two months. This is an important contribution, and a significant effort toward meeting one of our greatest needs, which is affordable housing. This bill would enhance the much-needed efforts of community building groups like Habitat.

But there is considerable irony here. In the past decade or so, the country has lost about 1 million affordable housing units. And, the same Republicans who a few weeks ago voted to save $30 million or so by killing the Resolution Trust Corporation's very successful affordable housing program 3 months earlier than it would have died anyway, are in this bill claiming a commitment to affordable housing.

And there is further irony: Republicans have bitterly complained over the proliferation of small programs, and so they have insisted on creating vast block grants. In fact one of the earliest block grants was in the area of urban renewal, which was a Nixon-era innovation. But here we are, with a bill that creates a brand-new small program. Certainly it is worthy, but the irony of the block grant party's support for this tiny program is rich indeed.

Of course if we were to talk about housing funding in general, the fact is that this bill would authorize a program that provides about $1,000 for every $1 million that the Republicans are cutting from the Nation's housing programs. It is a pitifully small gesture. Yes, it's worthy, and yes, I support this bill because it is at least a recognition that this country's housing needs cannot be met even by the best of completely unaided volunteer efforts. But, I submit that if you subtract $1 million from housing, and then put in $1,000 to replace it, no one can believe that we will end up with more housing at the end of the day.

And, if you consider all the cuts in medical care, the cuts in education, the cuts in all kinds of programs that help the poor, the irony is complete: a possible $1 million per State, to address the problems that will be created by the cuts in the thousands of millions.

But, I am happy to see this small gesture toward decency and community responsibility. I am happy to see this encouragement of those who want to help, and who are doing their best to provide that help. I am glad to see this effort to expand the efforts of the volunteers who help people build their own housing, efforts that are clearly in keeping with the quintessential American spirit of community. This legislation will make a difference in a much needed direction; it is a good thing to do, and it deserves our support.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. LAZIO of New York. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself 30 seconds.

Mr. Speaker, this is truly a historic vote in the true sense of the word. This is the first time Habitat for Humanity will receive approval for Federal funding, and again it is for infrastructure; it is for the most difficult type of funding, frankly, for Habitat for Humanity to be able to get in terms of contributions and charitable donations. This is everything that we talk about. It is leveraging, it is private/public partnerships, it is people working with people, it is getting self-help housing off the ground, and it is true value for the American taxpayers.

We are going to be in a position where we can provide not just a rental apartment, but a house per family for as little as $6,000, and this will be replicated throughout America with geographic diversity.

I thank the distinguished gentleman from Texas [Mr. GONZALEZ] for working with me and rounding off the edges of this bill; it has gone so smoothly, and again, I would like to express my appreciation for my distinguished colleague from Nebraska [Mr. BEREUTER] for all of his hard work on the 515 program.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from New York [Mr. LAZIO] that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 1691, as amended.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the bill, as amended, was passed.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

SENSE OF HOUSE RELATING TO DEPLOYMENT OF ARMED FORCES IN BOSNIA AND HERZEGOVINA

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and agree to the resolution (H. Res. 247) expressing the sense of the House of Representatives relating to the deployment of United States Armed Forces on the ground in the territory of the Republic of Bosnia and Herzegovina to enforce a peace agreement.

H. RES. 247

Resolved, That it is the sense of the House of Representatives that—

(1) in the negotiation of any peace agreement between the parties to the conflict in the Republic of Bosnia and Herzegovina, there should not be a presumption, and it should not be considered to be a prerequisite to the successful conclusion of such a negotiation, that enforcement of such an agreement will involve deployment of United States Armed Forces on the ground in the territory of the Republic of Bosnia and Herzegovina; and

(2) no United States Armed Forces should be deployed on the ground in the territory of the Republic of Bosnia and Herzagovina to enforce a peace agreement until the Congress has approved such a deployment.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from New York [Mr. GILMAN] will be recognized for 20 minutes, and the gentleman from Indiana [Mr. HAMILTON] will be recognized for 20 minutes.

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself 2 minutes.

Mr. Speaker, we are here today to consider a resolution offered by the gentleman from Indiana [Mr. BUYER] and the gentleman from Pennsylvania

[Mr. MCHALE] expressing the sense of the House regarding President Clinton's announced plan to deploy up to 25,000 of our United States Armed Forces personnel to Bosnia to enforce a peace agreement that may be negotiated among the parties to the conflict.

The negotiators are to meet in Dayton, OH, beginning 2 days from now, and we have been told that they may reach a peace agreement in as little as a week or two.

The problem, from our point of view as elected representatives of the American people, is that we have been told that United States personnel may begin deploying to Bosnia as soon as 96 hours after a peace agreement is reached. Ninety-six hours is not enough time for the Congress to examine the peace agreement and decide a matter as important as whether United States forces should go to Bosnia to enforce it.

So, let us be clear: those who urge us not to pass this resolution today are really urging that the Congress not act at all.

In my opinion, it would be irresponsible for us not to act. The resolution before us does not take a position on the ultimate question whether United States forces should be deployed to Bosnia. Rather, it seeks only to preserve the prerogatives of the Congress in this matter.

This, I believe, accurately reflects the sentiment of the Congress. We are not isolationists, as proponents of sending United States forces to Bosnia have argued. We are prepared to carefully consider a request from the President—but we want to ask some hard questions about the costs, the nature of the mission, the risk to our forces, the rules of engagement, and the likelihood of success.

But we will not write any blank check, and we will not sit on our hands while the President alone decides matters of war and peace. That is why we have brought this resolution to the floor, and that is why I urge my colleagues to give it their enthusiastic support.

Mr. HAMILTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Michigan [Mr. BONIOR].

Mr. BONIOR. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Indiana [Mr. HAMILTON] for yielding time to me.

Mr. Speaker, in this past week, major newspapers in this country have detailed, once again, the brutal atrocities in Bosnia.

In Srebrenica, 6,000 Moslems were lined up and shot by the Bosnian Serb Army. The Bosnian Serbs tried to cover up their crimes by scattering the corpses and disintegrating them with acid.

But the details of such brutality would not stay hidden. Who can forget the faces of these children herded into refugee camps?

Who can forget the stories of Banja Luka—where Bosnian Serb soldiers went door to door in search of Moslems?

In a disturbing reminder of Nazism, the Serbs forced Moslems to wear white arm bands. White strips were painted on their houses. People were systematically expelled. Many of them were beaten and robbed. The women were raped and thousands of boys and men are still missing.

That is what is at stake in Bosnia today.

Will the bloodshed continue, or will we act to put a stop to it?

These are just the latest atrocities committed during the past 3 years of terror in Bosnia.

Mr. Speaker, we have turned our backs for too long.

We should defeat this resolution today because it sends the wrong message at the wrong time.

On Wednesday of this week, in the city of Dayton, OH, the leaders of Croatia, Serbia, and Bosnia will work with Americans, Russians, and Europeans to try to bring a lasting peace.

This is a historic opportunity to bring an end to the bloodshed.

We shouldn't prejudge their work.

We must show that we will not turn our eyes from what has happened.

I believe this resolution is a mistake.

It was announced at the last minute on Friday. It was put on the suspension calendar.

It is a travesty to debate a resolution that will mean life or death for millions of people in just 40 short minutes.

Mr. Speaker, I am opposed to this resolution.

But whatever we do on this resolution today, we must send a strong signal that the American people will not close our eyes to the slaughter of innocent people.

We must support a peace process that can bring the killing to an end.

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. MCHALE].

Mr. MCHALE. Mr. Speaker, after a speech such as that, just delivered by my friend, the gentleman from Michigan [Mr. BONIOR], so strongly condemning the Serbs, how can we plausibly claim neutrality? The gentleman from Michigan makes my point.

In his introduction to the Constitution and National Security, former Secretary of State Edmund Muskie wrote:

> The initial decision to commit U.S. troops abroad in the face of imminent hostilities is often the most critical decision of all. If that decision is ill-advised, it can rarely be reversed quickly. That's the nightmare about a bad policy decision: Other bad decisions are almost sure to follow in due course. When this happens, and when American casualties begin to mount, it is extraordinarily difficult for either the President or the Congress to extricate our fighting men.
> Some people urge Congress to absent itself from the process, so the President can execute policies more effectively.
> These prescriptions amount to an abandonment of constitutional control over warmaking. These notions presume that combat forces can solve the problem for which they were dispatched. But what if the decision to use force is not well-conceived to begin with? What if the problem is not amenable to a solution by U.S. combat units in the field?
> The best way to avoid such national tragedies is to avoid the first momentous lapse in judgment.

Mr. Speaker, I believe that the President's decision to deploy 25,000 American ground forces for a 1-year period of time at a cost of $1.2 billion in order to carry out the completely inconsistent mission of training and equipping just one combatant party while pleading neutrality to the other is a potentially tragic misjudgment. Military forces should not be used merely to establish a diplomatic presence or to accomplish tactical missions unrelated to a clearly defined and achievable strategic purpose.

Did we learn nothing from the deaths of our Marines in Lebanon and the loss of our soldiers in Somalia? That is the issue before the House today.

Secretary Perry has said that the U.S. ground forces would be the meanest dog on the block.

In closing, Mr. Speaker, I would respond with the words of Thomas Jefferson who once said, "We have one effective check on the dog of war, by transferring the power of letting him loose from the Executive to the Legislative body."

I urge an affirmative vote on the resolution.

Mr. HAMILTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. MURTHA].

Mr. MURTHA. Mr. Speaker, could I ask the gentleman from New York [Mr. GILMAN], the chairman of the committee, what effect does this have on the law?

Mr. GILMAN. If the gentleman will yield, the effect is that it is a sense of Congress resolution.

Mr. MURTHA. It has no effect at all.

Mr. GILMAN. It just expresses the House feeling about an important measure.

Mr. MURTHA. I understand. But I wanted to make sure.

What I am concerned about, Mr. Chairman, is the possibility of the people who are negotiating after 4 years, and I have been to Bosnia 5 times and I know the Chairman has been over there.

I am concerned they may misunderstand us trying to actually resolve this situation by all at once sending the wrong kind of message.

There is no question that in a sense of Congress, we are saying that American troops ought to be authorized before they are sent.

We are not cutting off funds. We are not doing anything to stop the deployment of troops. We are just saying that a sense of Congress is not to count on it. That is what we are saying.

Mr. GILMAN. If the gentleman would further yield, the second paragraph in the resolution really speaks for all of us, that no U.S. Armed Forces should be deployed on the ground in a territory of the Republic of Bosnia and Herzegovina to enforce a peace agreement until the Congress has approved such a deployment.

To answer the gentleman's question, there is no mandate or no prohibition, but it is a sense of the Congress asking the President to come to us for approval.

Mr. MURTHA. The reason that I asked the gentleman the question is because of my concern of mixed signals that we could be sending. I think all of us have the same mission. All of us want to stop the fighting. All of us want to contain the fighting.

When I was in Bosnia just a few weeks ago, the people were so happy that the fighting had stopped, the fact that they could continue their lives in some sort of normalcy. I just did not want there to be any mistake by the negotiators that we were actually doing something that would prohibit the U.S. troops. I have a great concern myself about U.S. troops being deployed and at this point would not agree until I saw what the agreement is, and I think we should all take that situation.

I think the President should ask for authorization. But I wanted to make sure that the negotiators did not misunderstand that this is only a sense of Congress and that we have a concern about stopping the fighting, and this does not prohibit in any way American troops from being deployed if the President finally decides to deploy troops.

Mr. GILMAN. If the gentleman would further yield, I thank him for underscoring the position of the House with regard to this measure.

Mr. MURTHA. It is a sense of Congress resolution, it has no effect in law, and I would ask the Members to vote against it in order not to confuse the negotiators and reduce our ability to have an impact on settling this peaceably.

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Indiana [Mr. BUYER], one of the sponsors of the measure.

Mr. BUYER. I thank the gentleman from New York for yielding me the time.

Mr. Speaker, leave no doubt that the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. McHALE] and I in a bipartisan effort support the peace process with regard to Bosnia and Herzegovina.

The United States has a key role to play in brokering these talks and providing the leadership not only in NATO, but what we should be doing is providing our air power, sea power, our air lift and sea lift along with our logistical support in the Balkans. That is the role we can play.

There are 3 reasons why I oppose the administration's assumption there can be no peace in the Balkans without U.S. ground troops.

No. 1. The President's premature commitment of United States ground troops to Bosnia without knowing the circumstances surrounding that deployment is ill-conceived and dangerous.

No. 2. It is wrong to send United States ground troops into Bosnia as peacekeepers when there is no peace to keep. This is the lesson of Lebanon and Somalia.

No. 3. History has shown that no long-term military commitment is sustainable without the support of the American people. The Congress as representatives of the people must speak on the issue before troops are deployed.

The gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. MURTHA] asked some very good questions. The message of this House resolution to the leaders of the warring parties when they sit down to negotiate this peace at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base is the syllogism for peace should not be based on the presence of U.S. ground troops to implement whatever agreement is reached. They should focus on the real reasons as to why they are killing each other. Once those are resolved, they will begin to focus on the real reasons of peace.

If United States troops are deployed, do not get the image that 25,000 United States troops will be going to Bosnia with flowers in their M-16's, when in the kill zone peacekeeping looks a lot like combat.

That is why the Secretary of Defense said to us the U.S. troops will be going as combatants to implement an agreement and make peace. U.S. troops will become targets because they have lost the protection of neutrality.

To those that say that this undermines the peace process, it is extremely important that the United States, this Congress, the people's voice, go on the record so we send the correct message to the warring parties to negotiate a peace so that they will stop killing each other.

Support this resolution.

Mr. HAMILTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Connecticut [Mr. GEJDENSON].

Mr. GEJDENSON. Mr. Speaker, the statement by the gentleman from New York [Mr. GILMAN], the chairman of the full committee, is instructive.

The gentleman from New York [Mr. GILMAN] was concerned that there would only be 96 hours before a peace agreement were to be achieved and that would not give Congress enough time to act.

Ninety-six hours seems like eternity compared to the time we are getting to consider this resolution laid before the House on Friday when most Members were already back in their districts, 20 minutes of debate equally divided. That is a thoughtful foreign policy debate on the floor. Are we fearful the President will be successful in this peace process?

We were told air power was not going to work. Many of the geniuses in this House got up, "You can't win this war with air power," on both sides of the aisle.

Air power has taken this war to a turn that has brought them to the peace process. The President almost single-handedly has marched forward with that policy and that we now see the potential for an end of mass graves.

I ask the gentleman from New York [Mr. GILMAN], why are we in such a rush that without hearings, without a committee markup, without notice to the Members of the House, that we have to vote on this with 20 minutes of debate? Twenty minutes of debate on whether or not years of effort by the United States, thousands of civilians having died will come to an end.

We have a situation here where 2 weeks in a row resolutions that reserve more time for consideration unless there is some political motive are not given the time for Members of this Congress to examine the resolutions and to debate them in committee.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. EVERETT). The time of the gentleman from Connecticut [Mr. GEJDENSON] has expired.

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the gentleman be granted another minute so that we can respond.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Does the gentleman yield time? The Chair has divided the time equally between the two parties. Is there an additional request for time?

Mr. COX of California. Mr. Speaker, I believe that a good point was just made by my colleague from the other side of the aisle. This is an important issue.

I ask unanimous consent that an additional 60 minutes of time be devoted to this topic to be divided equally on either side.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from California?

Mr. HAMILTON. Mr. Speaker, I reserve the right to object.

Mr. COX of California. If the gentleman will yield, my object here is to extend the time so that we debate it for a full hour. That is 20 additional minutes.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from California?

Mr. HOYER. Mr. Speaker, reserving the right to object, under my reservation, let me say that what the gentleman requests is that we have additional time today. Very frankly I learned about this at about noontime today. I want to make it clear that I am opposed to this resolution and believe it is not timely. Having said that, the gentleman asked for unanimous consent to extend——

Mr. SOLOMON. He wants an extension of 20 minutes. Do you object to that or not?

Mr. HOYER. Further reserving the right to object, I understand that, if we want to extend it to 60 minutes.

I think I am going to raise a legitimate point with the gentleman from California. If somebody is going to object, then I cannot speak any longer.

Mr. COX of California. If the gentleman would yield for a moment, to clarify the point, the reason that we are here on the floor now without hearings, without any further opportunity beyond the hearings we have already had, and we have had hearings in our committee, the President and the administration are going to, in Ohio, within 48 hours commit or begin possibly to commit ground troops.

We want to make sure before they go into those negotiations that we are on record saying do this only with congressional authorization.

It is important that we act tonight. Else we will abdicate. But because it is such an important point, I thought I would ask for an additional 10 minutes on either side, and I would repeat my unanimous-consent request.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from California?

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I object.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Objection is heard.

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Wisconsin [Mr. ROTH].

Mr. ROTH. I thank the gentleman for yielding me the time.

Mr. Speaker, if Congress is going to be there at the crash landing, then Congress ought to be there at the takeoff.

We have experience in Lebanon and Somalia. We also have experience in Vietnam. The very people today who say, no, Congress should not have a voice in it are the very people who in the 1960's and the 1970's were screaming we should get out of Vietnam. Let us think before we get involved.

It is easy to get involved in a war, but it is awfully difficult to extricate yourself.

When the Secretary of State was up here on Capitol Hill before the Committee on International Relations and Chairman GILMAN did such a fine job on that day last April, he said before we put troops into any country, there are four criteria.

What are those four criteria? First of all, you had to have a clear mission. Do you have a clear mission in Bosnia? Do you know what we are supposed to be doing in Bosnia?

The second criteria is that a reasonable chance of success. Who could say we are going to have a reasonable chance of success in Bosnia? They have had three peace agreements so far. Every one has meant nothing.

The third criteria is that support of the American people and a way to sustain that support.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. ROTH. I ask the gentleman from New York if I could have at least 30 more seconds, because I think it is important to go over these 4 points.

Mr. GILMAN. I regret that we do not have additional time at this time. We have too many speakers. If we have additional time at the end of the debate, I will be pleased to yield the gentleman additional time.

Mr. HAMILTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Maryland [Mr. HOYER].

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. HOYER. Mr. Speaker, parliamentary inquiry. Before I take the 3 minutes, can I make a unanimous-consent request? Is that in order?

Mr. HOYER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent, and this is the point I wanted to make, that this debate which is an important debate for us to have, but it is an important debate to have with notice to Members in time to reflect and frankly time to hear from the public, that we delay this debate and set aside 2 hours for debate on this resolution, that it be open for at least one amendment, 1 week from tomorrow.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Maryland?

Mr. BUNNING of Kentucky. Mr. Speaker, I object.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Maryland [Mr. HOYER] for 3 minutes.

Mr. HOYER. Mr. Speaker, the American public again sent us all here to reflect and to be responsible. There was much discussion about that last week.

This is probably as serious a foreign policy issue as confronts the United States of America that will be discussed in terms of topography and all of those things, and that is important to do. "Anybody who moved or screamed was killed. Genocide goes on unabated in the midst of Europe."

The President of the United States and others are trying to bring that to a close. It is difficult to do. I have not, as most of you know, agreed with the President's policies and have, in fact, opposed his policies and supported very strongly the unilateral lifting of the arms embargo. That issue was deserving of serious debate, and it received it. It had extensive hearings and was debated over months of time before we voted on it.

On this noon, I received notice that we were going to debate this resolution on the floor of the House. Fully debate it? No. Under suspension of the rules? Suspension of the rules is designed for the most part for those issues of little dispute and of general agreement. This issue is not one of those. This is a shameful, irresponsible, precipitous action to be proposed in this, the House of the people.

I suggest to my friend from New York, my good friend, that if we were in 1938 or 1939 or 1940 and we were to tell Franklin Roosevelt to not lend lease, "Do not give any aid and comfort to the British, for after all we may get involved," ladies and gentlemen of this House, this is one of the most serious issues that we confront.

I disagree with some of my colleagues. Indeed, the chairman of the committee or the ranking member of the committee and I have seriously disagreed on Bosnian policy. But what we do not disagree on is that we ought to give this considered and thoughtful debate and effort.

The American public expects no less of us, and indeed, my friends, the world expects much more of us. If we are the leaders of the free world, as I believe we are, I would hope that we would reject this resolution at this time.

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1½ minutes to the gentleman from New York [Mr. SOLOMON], the chairman of our Committee on Rules.

Mr. SOLOMON. Mr. Speaker, let me say this is the first resolution. There will be another much tougher than this.

You know, I have been, I guess, editorialized as one of the toughest hawks in this Chamber over the last 18 years. I am going to tell you, when I stand up here in support of this resolution and in total opposition to sending troops into Bosnia, you know that there is something wrong, because I am concerned about it.

Once again, this administration stands on the verge of putting young men and women in harms' way in this Balkan conflict in which America does not have a vital national interest. This time it may be real, and this is why we in Congress should do everything we can to stop this ill-advised, poorly defined mission, Mr. Speaker, America's children should only be deployed in zones of conflict when and if vital American national interests are at stake, and until this administration, this has always been U.S. foreign policy for all Presidents of this country.

Among other things, our policy has been to come to the defense of sovereign democratic allies that come under external military aggression: That means invaded by a foreign country. Members, Bosnia does not meet this test. It is essentially a civil war, a conflict.

Mr. Speaker, as heartwrenching as those pictures were, as this tragedy has been, and as despicable as the Serb aggression has been, this conflict does not justify putting one single American soldier in combat. Mr. Speaker, the answer to this conflict is not U.S. ground troops. The answer is the same as it has always been, lift the embargo and let them defend themselves. They have already shown they can do it, and that is what we ought to be doing here today. The next resolution will show that.

Mr. HAMILTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. TORRICELLI].

Mr. TORRICELLI. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time.

Mr. Speaker, as Bosnian, Croat and Serbian leaders gather around the conference table, there will be one seat for the United States of America, one seat, because we should be speaking with one voice, and only the President of the United States in those discussions can represent this country. That is not indeed to say what the outcome should be.

There is a time and a place when the President of the United States will come to this body with his judgment and express to us what commitments were made on behalf of our country. This resolution today is an entirely different matter. It prejudges what the President of the United States might say. It is an attempt of force our will to that table in those negotiations as if we were two countries, two people, with two different concepts of how to deal with the crisis.

My friends, I understand when we disagree on Medicare, I understand we have different ideas on the budget, I understand we have different concepts about all manner of domestic policy. But this is different. This is the President of the United States attempting to deal with a crisis which could at some point engulf Europe, just cause unspeakable deaths, 200,000 casualties, a massive loss of life, a test of the Western alliance.

At this moment, can we not indeed as one country allow this President, on behalf of all of our people, to at least attempt a settlement and then return to this Congress, where we have a right to insist upon passing judgment upon what commitments he might make for our country? At that time, I cannot say that I would not stand with you and ask questions about his judgment. But at this moment, as these people gather, let him do his will as one President of one people.

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Kentucky [Mr. BUNNING].

Mr. BUNNING of Kentucky. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of the resolution.

Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of the resolution H. 247, and in opposition to any attempt to send American forces into Bosnia without the authorization of the U.S. Congress. The American people do not support this adventure and their will should not be thwarted.

The history of the Balkans is gory enough for Hollywood to make movies about until the second coming. The Region is torn by religious and territorial rivalries that span the centuries and one injustice has been answered by another. The United States should not presume to interject itself into this morass.

Many seem to have forgotten that this area has not historically been a unified country which has suddenly come apart. Bosnia has been part of many of the great empires of Eurasia which have come and gone over the centuries. Each time that it has changed hands there has been bloodshed involved.

The region is so well known for its savagery that as long ago as the 15th Century the Ottoman Turks recruited soldiers from that area because of their ferocity. It is folly indeed to think that we will save the Balkans by putting 20,000 young American lives at risk.

The lesson to be learned from previous so-called peacekeeping missions is that the troops are not needed if there is truly peace and that they cannot keep the peace if it does not already exist. Did we learn nothing from our ill-advised adventure in Somalia? Did we learn nothing from the mission to Beirut?

Mr. Speaker, the President likes to claim that this is a NATO problem and if we do not act NATO's credibility will collapse. What nonsense!

The last time I checked NATO was a defensive alliance designed to protect the member states from attack by a non-member, specifically, the now defunct Soviet Union. NATO was not designed to act as Europe's policeman. NATO is supposed to be a shield for Western Europe, not a sword to be used unprovoked, regardless of the beneficent intent.

We should not be a party to this misuse of the alliance. We entered into the NATO alliance for our mutual defense and not one member state is at risk because of the horrors in Bosnia.

What has happened in Bosnia is indeed a human tragedy but it is not a NATO problem and it is not a U.S. problem. It is a problem that the people who live there must solve for themselves. If France and England have determined that they have a vital interest in this war and choose to send their soldiers into Bosnia that is their business. It is not ours.

We need to remind Mr. Clinton that even though the Constitution makes him the Commander in Chief of our Military Forces, the Constitution reserves the right to Congress for committing our people to military action. Article 1 of the Constitution firmly places power in the hands of the Congress when it comes to declaring war, raising, supporting and regulating the military forces of this Nation. This resolution simply reminds him that we must be consulted before American forces are put at risk.

My colleagues, we must support the resolution and let Mr. Clinton know that we will not quietly sit by while he sends out troops on an ill-advised adventure.

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1½ minutes to the gentleman from Nebraska [Mr. BEREUTER], a senior member of our Committee on International Relations.

Mr. BEREUTER. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of this resolution and emphasize that this Member is deeply troubled by a number of aspects of the proposed troop deployment that is being proposed today. Let me use President Clinton's own words to emphasize my concern.

I rise in support of the resolution. It is important that Congress express its view at this time, because the plan that is presented by the Administration as it has been described to committees of this Congress is tragically flawed in many respects, and we need to make it precisely clear now that we are not on board. We are not on board on this tragically flawed plan.

The Congress should have a role in discussion of this important issue. Let me give you two major examples of why it is flawed. The one proposal is that we train and arm the Bosnian Federation. That violates the cardinal rule of peacekeeping or peace enforcement. You cannot be anything other than neutral if you expect to implement that peace enforcement policy.

The second problem is that we have been given a specific period of time when our peace enforcement is to be pulled out, 12 months hence. Maybe they are going to change that time period. But an exit strategy, which is admittedly all-important, as the President himself said at the United Nations, must be strategically linked. It must be linked to strategic objectives not to a time certain.

I cannot imagine, as a former infantry officer, putting our troops in harm's way when we are both involved in arming one side while we are also supposed to be neutral or peace enforcers. It is important for Congress to express its view on this issue at this time.

We want the Congress of the United States involved in this issue before American troops are deployed. We want to be involved in the composition of this plan.

In the President's 1993 speech to the United Nations—delivered only days after the loss of United States lives at that infamous ambush in Mogadishu—President Clinton laid out several basic criteria that he claimed would be the standard for future U.S. peacekeeping activities. The criteria set forth by the President included: "Does the proposed mission have clear objectives?" "Can an end point be identified for those who will be asked to participate?" "How much will the mission cost?" In addition, a later criteria was wisely added—Is it in the U.S. national interest?

At the time that President Clinton made that speech, it seemed to this Member he had laid out pretty sensible criteria. What has troubled me, and what has troubled a great many in this body, is that these criteria seem to have been addressed in only the most superficial manner.

There are a great many defects in the administrative plans to involve American land forces in Bosnia.

First, look at the question of whether the proposed mission has clear objectives. As Secretary of State Christopher has made clear, our mission is to enforce an end of the hostilities that have plagued Bosnia for centuries. It is proposed that we are going to interject ourselves between heavily armed factions that seem incapable of living in peace. Presumably we are to serve as neutral honest brokers to prevent the three sides from killing one another. Again, this is a peace enforcement mission, not peacekeeping.

But Defense Secretary Perry has testified that we will be prepared to train Bosnian forces and try to bring about arms control if the Bosnian state is to exist after the year of NATO occupation is over. In contrast to the peace enforcement mission—which presumably is not designed to take sides—the arming and training of Bosnian Moslem or Bosnian federation forces is taking sides. Arming the Bosnian federation is not the act of a neutral. I understand the desire to level the playing field, but one can hardly expect the Bosnian Serbs to quietly sit back while their peacekeepers are arming their enemy.

This Member would also say, as a former infantry officer, that it is almost inconceivable to me that rules of engagement can be crafted that will permit us to act as a neutral peace enforcer at the same time that we are arming one specific faction.

It is this type of fuzzy logic and contradictory objectives that can lead to mission creep and, regrettably, the unnecessary loss of American lives.

Now, second, let me turn to the notion of a proper exit strategy—again, one of the fundamental criteria laid out for any United States peacekeeping operation in the President's speech to the United Nations.

This body has been told the exit strategy is to withdraw in a year. But this commitment is not linked to strategic objectives; nor is it linked to any tangible political results. Indeed, it seems that the only criteria in this exit strategy is the belief that 1 year is the extreme outer limit of American tolerance. The administration may be right about that, but it is entirely beside the point.

In moments of candor it has been suggested to be by some of NATO's leading planners and operations people that this 1-year peace enforcement mission will at best provide the region with a brief, NATO-enforced respite during which time the Serbs and Croatians fine-tune plans for the ultimate dismemberment of Bosnia. Then, as soon as United States and other NATO forces depart, war returns and the final vestiges of Bosnia are dismembered.

This Member must tell his colleagues that there is no reason to take comfort in a mission that lacks specified strategic objectives, and is likely at best to buy a year of tenuous and imperfect peace. Unfortunately, American, British, French, other allied lives surely will be lost in the process. This Member, for one, cannot justify this inevitable loss of life.

Last, Mr. Speaker, this Member just does not see the clear U.S. national interest in deploying tens of thousands of American troops to Bosnia. Pointing to our role as an international leader and the critical role importance of preserving NATO seems to me to miss the point. If our pre-announced goal is to stay in Bosnia for no more than 1 year, then are we to be world leader only for a year? Does it serve our reputation to briefly restore order and then permit the violent dismemberment of Bosnia as soon as we depart?

This Member is concerned about the damage to U.S. prestige that could be done by the Congress failing to support the President on such an important foreign policy decision, but I must tell you that this administration went out of its way to avoid consulting with the Congress. It has avoided consulting with Congress because the Clinton administration is fully aware that Congress does not support the proposed adventurism. And I must say that it is the Clinton administration, and not Congress, that threatens deep damage to U.S. international prestige by launching a tragic failure.

It is for these and numerous other reasons, Mr. Speaker, that this Member supports their resolution.

Mr. HAMILTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Missouri [Mr. GEPHARDT], the distinguished minority leader.

Mr. GEPHARDT. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to urge my colleagues to defeat this resolution, which will only make it harder for America to achieve a real and lasting peace in worn-torn Bosnia—a peace that may finally be within our grasp.

Mr. Speaker, none of us wants to see American troops in Bosnia without the prior approval of this body. None of us wants to see America's children sent to Bosnia without a peace agreement that has the full commitment of all parties, and minimizes the risks to our forces. If we are ultimately confronted with that choice, then this Congress—the branch of our Government that is closest to the people of this country—must have a role in deciding and authorizing America's course.

That is why I have no trouble supporting the second part of this resolution. But the first part would do something much different, and much more dangerous, than affirming Congress' rightful role.

On the eve of delicate negotiations in Ohio, this resolution would say to the Serbs and the Moslems: Our negotiations do not have the support of the Congress, or the country. Take their words with a grain of salt. And we stand ready to revoke their promises before they are even made or before they are even discussed in the Congress.

How can we possibly tie America's hands at the very moment when peace is within reach?

If we try to weigh our negotiators down with terms and conditions before they even negotiate, we jeopardize what must be our ultimate goal in Bosnia:

To finally stop the death and destruction. To end what have been the worst atrocities since World War II itself. To stand up for peace throughout Europe, which has always been in America's best interests.

To second guess the peace process would be more than wrong—it would endanger any hope of a solution to this international tragedy. And it simply is not necessary. The President has already committed himself to consulting Congress, and seeking our support for any U.S. role in securing peace.

This is the wrong resolution, and the wrong time to pass it.

I urge Members to vote no, so that peace talks can at least proceed, without the damaging baggage this kind of bill would be.

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. SMITH], a senior member of our Committee on International Relations.

Mr. SMITH of New Jersey. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of the bipartisan resolution before the House which succinctly encapsulates the concerns of many in this Congress that deployment of United States troops to the former Yugoslavia is a presumed option in the quiver of United States negotiators. Before United States troops are committed to such a mission, the President must make his case to the American people and Congress.

Last August, the President decided to launch a United States peace initiative which was prompted by the sudden shifts caused by the Croatian military gains and by NATO bombing.

Let me remind my colleagues that it was not until Congress overwhelmingly and along bipartisan lines voted to lift the arms embargo on Bosnia that President Clinton finally began to engage on the crisis in the former Yugoslavia. Mr. Clinton vetoed that bill, depriving the Bosnians of the ability to defend themselves.

In recent weeks this same administration which has vacillated for nearly 3 years over what United States interests were at stake in Bosnia is now prepared to send some 25,000 troops to a country to enforce the peace that has yet to be written.

Mr. Speaker, I am particularly troubled by the comments by key members of the administration that all but promise that U.S. troops deployed to Bosnia would be home within a year. Such claims raise suspicions that the administration's full-court press for a peace settlement is indeed being driven by an electoral timetable. They also reveal the limits of the White House's commitment to its own plan even before it is fully negotiated. Assuming that the sides are able to reach a peace agreement, which is far from certain, the process of consolidating peace in Bosnia will take years, not months, to complete.

This is not a partisan debate. There are skeptics on both sides of the aisle.

Mr. Speaker, it is incumbent upon the President to make a persuasive case to the American people and to Congress, which clearly defines the mission, mandate, and modalities for a force which would be placed in harm's way. Ambiguity, as former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger has noted, is dangerous and, in the end, self-defeating. The deployment of American troops to Bosnia, as he correctly points out, is a fateful decision requiring a full national debate led by the President. "As a first step, the administration must answer these threshold questions: What exactly is the peacekeeping force supposed to protect? And how do we measure success?" Kissinger has asked.

In fact, Mr. Speaker, I have cosponsored legislation, H.R. 2550, which would prohibit the use of DOD funds for placing ground troops in Bosnia for peacekeeping or peace implementation. The President has not made his case for deployment. And, considering proximity talks and negotiations begin on Wednesday, the White House and Clinton's negotiators need to clearly understand that they must not presume the deployment of U.S. troops is politically sustainable.

Prudence, Mr. Speaker, dictated, deliberate and timely consideration of such fundamental points before a commitment of U.S. troops can or should be made. Thorough review and deliberation is prerequisite, rather than rushing into a decision that cannot be sustained over a period of time.

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to yield 1 minute to the gentleman from California [Mr. ROHRABACHER], a member of the Committee on International Relations.

Mr. ROHRABACHER. Mr. Speaker, the people of this country should know that the debate on this issue was limited by an objection from the other side, and the reason we cannot wait for a week to discuss this for 2 hours is because the President of the United States at this moment may be in the process of preparing to send young Americans into the meat grinder of the Balkans. We need to discuss this tonight. We need to discuss this in depth, and we are prevented from doing so by the other side of the aisle.

American policy has been directed by a foreign policy elite that has failed time and time again in the last 3 years. The screams of horror coming from the Balkans have been met with deaf ears in our own State Department and by our own policy makers. They have failed. There has been a moral equivalency to the victims and the aggressors. They pleaded with us, "Please, lift the arms embargo, so we can defend ourselves." That policy that we have followed has been a failure, and now they plan to send American lives.

Mr. Speaker, we have to got to stop the deployment of American troops in the Balkans, and stop the sacrifice of young Americans on the alter of globalism.

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Ohio [Mr. CHABOT], a member of the Committee on International Relations.

Mr. CHABOT. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of the resolution. As the Clinton administration makes its final preparations for the Bosnia talks set to begin on Wednesday, it is of paramount importance that the President gets a strong message from the Congress that the American people do not support the commitment of United States ground troops in Bosnia. A strong bipartisan vote of approval for this resolution will send that message.

This resolution is an important first step, but I emphasize first step Mr. Speaker, I and my colleagues on both sides of the aisle intend to take up binding legislation that will exercise Congress' power of the purse by prohibiting the use of funds for this dangerous and ill-conceived idea.

Put American lives at risk on the ground in the middle of the bloody mess in Bosnia? Have we not learned anything from Vietnam, from Lebanon, from Somalia?

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to yield 1½ minutes to the gentleman from Missouri [Mr. SKELTON].

Mr. SKELTON. Mr. Speaker, I appreciate the gentleman yielding this time.

Mr. Speaker, I want to make it clear, I do hope at the right time to help the President in his Commander-in-Chief duties. But this issue, as it comes before us now, is a fuzzy issue, and, of course, if I were to write this less resolution, I would write it a bit differently. But we have before us a proposal for the NATO forces to participate in so-called peacekeeping in Bosnia and Herzegovina, and the United States forces would be part of it. I thoroughly agree that the Congress of the United States should be part of this decision, and I hope we can have a full and fair debate at the time.

But as we look at it as of this moment, there are so many unanswered questions, I feel I must vote for this resolution. We must look forward as we ask these questions, what will the agreement say? What is our mission to be as troops? Will they be peacekeepers or peacemakers? What will the rules of engagement be? When can we say we have a successful mission? Will the peacekeepers, if we are as peacekeepers, be evenhanded to enforce the peace against both the Serbs and the Muslims? Will the rules of engagement apply to both? And the most serious unanswered question, Mr. Speaker, that I have in my own mind, is whether at the same time we are there as peacekeepers, we will also be having American troops training, equipping, and arming the Muslims?

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, in order to grant our colleagues the opportunity to more fully debate this important measure, I ask unanimous consent that the time for debate on this measure be extended by an additional 20 minutes, to be equally divided between the proponents and opponents of this measure.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. EVERETT). Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from New York?

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I object.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Objection is heard.

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Maine [Mr. LONGLEY].

Mr. LONGLEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise as a Member who has voted not just once, but twice to support the administration's policy in Bosnia. But I have to stand in support of the resolution that is on the floor today.

Mr. Speaker, Congress has a major oversight responsibility in this area, and I have a grave concern over the two assumptions that we have built into our policy. First, it assumes the use of American forces going into the negotiations, as is spelled out in the resolution. Second, it assumes that we will take a partisan role in support of the Bosnians and the Croats, in training and equipping their forces, when I believe it is our objective and should be to remain neutral in the conflict.

Mr. Speaker, I think that the resolution is very constructive. It does not dictate anything to the administration other than that in the negotiation of any peace agreement, it should not be considered a presumption that implementation of such an agreement will include the deployment of U.S. Armed Forces.

Mr. HAMILTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself the balance on my time.

Mr. HAMILTON. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to the resolution. The first point I want to make relates to process. I think all of us in this Chamber would agree that this is an important, serious foreign policy question. No hearings were held on this resolution, no committee consideration took place, the administration was not given a chance to state its case before Members, no amendments are in order, the resolution was placed on the suspension calendar without consulting the minority, which is a direct violation of the majority's conference rules, and no opportunity has been given to assess the impact of this resolution on the peace talks that are scheduled to begin on Wednesday.

Now, I understand that they on the other side have made a request for 20 additional minutes, and I appreciate that, but I really do not think that that makes right the process that has been followed here.

We have done this now for 2 weeks in a row on important foreign policy questions. Let me say again that I think it demands the role of the House of Representatives in its role in making American foreign policy by the quick and cursory way in which this matter has been handled today. Most Members were not advised of it until Friday afternoon, some not until this morning.

I am told that Secretary Christopher tried three times from the Middle East this weekend to talk to the Speaker, and the National Security Advisor, Mr. Lake, also tried. I am not aware that those phone calls were returned.

So much for process. Let me say a word about substance. I agree that the Congress should vote on the question of whether to send United States ground troops to Bosnia to implement an agreement among the parties to the conflict, and ideally that vote should be an authorization vote. But no one should mistake that statement with what this resolution says.

This resolution raises a serious constitutional problem. It is one thing to say that the House of Representatives should vote on authorization before the President commits troops to Bosnia. I agree with that statement. But that is not what this resolution says. This resolution says that no United States Armed Forces should be deployed on the ground in the territory of the Republic of Bosnia and Herzegovina to enforce a peace agreement until the Congress has approved such a deployment. That resolution says no United States troops should be sent to Bosnia until the Congress approves it, and that is a very different statement.

What we do by that statement is prevent the President from acting as a commander-in-chief, and, when you do that, you raise very grave constitutional issues. If this were simply a statement that we should approve whether to send United States ground troops to Bosnia to implement an agreement, I would agree with it.

Now, there are other reasons to vote against the resolution. It is premature. There is no peace agreement. The resolution presumes to speak about the result of that agreement.

We cannot decide today whether it is wise or whether it is foolish to send United States troops to enforce a Bosnia peace agreement, because there is no peace agreement. That is no request from the President.

This resolution sends the wrong signal to the negotiators to end this terrible war. My friends, we put the Secretary of State into the field to negotiate. We put the Assistant Secretary of European Affairs in the field to negotiate. We applaud what they have accomplished in these least few days. They tell us today, and I quote Secretary Christopher, "This resolution could be seen by the parties and the world as an indication that the House will not support an ultimate peace agreement." The chief negotiator, Mr. Holbrook, says that this resolution is extremely unhelpful and we come along and pass this resolution and undercut our negotiators at a very sensitive time. The Secretary of State says that this resolution is potentially dangerous.

They are the ones that have been negotiating. They are the ones in the field. They are the ones trying to speak for the American national interests. And we just come in and undercut it, by their words. I do not think that is a wise thing for the Congress of the United States to do.

Mr. Speaker, I think this resolution does not pay any attention to reality. It says that we will address the presumption of the parties to the negotiations. How can we do that? We say in the resolution that there shall not be a presumption. These parties come to the table with a presumption. They have already stated the presumption. How can we in the U.S. Congress tell the negotiating parties, when we are the negotiating party, how can we tell them what kind of presumptions they must have before they come to the table? The Congress has no power to do that.

These are clearly matters beyond the purview of the House. We do not have the power to tell them what their presumptions are. That is precisely what the resolution does. The Members of this body cannot tell the negotiators from Bosnia and from Croatia and from Serbia what they should presume. But that is precisely what we try to do in this resolution. We certainly cannot determine what are our perquisites to a successful negotiation.

Mr. Speaker, this administration has worked very hard in the last few months to end this war in Bosnia, and I urge a vote against the resolution.

Mr. BURTON of Indiana. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the time for debate on this measure be extended by an additional 20 minutes, to be equally divided by the proponents and opponents of this resolution.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I object.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Objection is heard.

Mr. BURTON of Indiana. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that debate on this resolution be extended by 5 minutes on each side.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I continue to object.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Objection is heard.

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. EWING].

Mr. EWING. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding me time.

Mr. Speaker, I would have to say that if we sit quietly by while this action takes place, then it will be too late for this Congress to be heard on this issue. Now is the time for us to express our frustration with sending troops to Bosnia, not after an agreement has been made by the President. Then it will be too late. So today and this resolution is absolutely the time to do it.

The American people do not want troops in Bosnia. If the President wants to send them there, I suggest he come to this body and to this Congress and get approval before he tries to do it. Let us not forget the message and the lesson of Vietnam.

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from California [Mr. CUNNINGHAM].

Mr. CUNNINGHAM. Mr. Speaker, we were told about the process. In 48 hours the President is going to ask our troops to go to war. Yes, any process to tell the President that we disagree should be moved up. A lengthy debate should follow. But take a look at our record in Somalia, in Haiti, in the bombing of Somalia and Bosnia, just recently. The lasting effect is zero. We killed Americans and we spent billions of dollars.

Mr. Speaker, this is going to cost us $1 to $5 billion. The President will come back and ask for an emergency supplemental. Is it wise? Well, this is Afghanistan with trees. General MacKenzie said he would not touch it with a 10-foot pole. Today, the French President said plan on a 20-year American occupation. Twenty years. Are we ready to make that commitment when we are trying to take care of our own house in this country?

Mr. Speaker, I advise a yes vote on this resolution.

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as she may consume to the gentlewoman from Kansas [Mrs. MEYERS].

Mrs. MEYERS of Kansas. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of this resolution. There are serious questions about this possible deployment that must be answered before any leader can in good conscience allow young American men and women to be sent in harm's way.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of this resolution. Congress should vote before 20,000 to 25,000 American ground troops are sent to Bosnia. There are serious questions about this possible deployment that must be answered before any American leader can, in good conscience, allow young American men and women to be sent in harm's way. Unfortunately, the Clinton administration has not answered those questions.

The administration has not articulated a coherent strategy for our deployment, or expressed what the objective of such a deployment would be. A date on a calendar is not an exit strategy. Secretary Perry and General Shalikashvili have stated our mission would be accomplished in a year. That would make sense if our mission were simply to occupy a patch of territory in Bosnia for a year and then leave. We have to know what changes in Bosnia our troops are supposed to accomplish. We would then have to consider whether it is indeed within the realm of possibility that our forces could accomplish that mission and consider how long it would probably take.

We cannot even get agreement from within the administration as to where our troops would be deployed. Secretaries Perry and Christopher, and General Shalikashvili, testified before Congress earlier this month saying that our forces would patrol the buffer zone between the Croat-Bosnian Federation and the Bosnian Serb Republic in order to keep the opposing armies separated. This weekend, Ambassador Holbrooke said that our forces would be stationed on Bosnia's international borders. We need to have this information, if only to be assured that the administration knows what its plans are itself, and it is not merely drifting into a quagmire.

We must pass this resolution, and then Congress must insist on having its vote on this deployment before it actually takes place.

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1½ minutes to the gentleman from California [Mr. COX].

Mr. COX of California. The resolution before us, Mr. Speaker, is clear and unambiguous. The President should not unilaterally commit 25,000 United States ground troops to Bosnia without congressional approval. Congressional approval for sending U.S. troops into war is no mere formality. It is not a constitutional question, it is a question of whether we want our troops to succeed. It is a question of whether we want the military mission to succeed. It is a question of whether they deserve the support of the American people before rather than in the middle or after. It is a question of protecting our constitutional process under which the Congress, not the President, presumes to commit billions of dollars in U.S. funds to support such an operation.

Mr. Speaker, there is no peace to support. We are sending our troops into the middle. Right now we all know the situation on the ground in northwest Bosnia. There is nothing that distinguishes this, the 35th cease-fire, from the 34th or the 36th. And when this one breaks down the only military mission of our troops, purported neutrals, will be to get shot at just as it was in Lebanon. The Clinton doctrine now emerging is that we will commit U.S. troops to protect the gains of a military aggressor.

Yes, Mr. Speaker, those were the pictures that we saw, naked military aggression committed by such as Slobodan Milosevic. Now we are told it is wise to trust Milosevic's signature on a piece of paper and U.S. troops will risk their lives to plot his gains and his conquests for a precise period of 1 year, following which he will be free to advance.

U.S. troops should not be committed cavalierly. The question is, Should U.S. troops be committed by the President without congressional approval? If we believe the answer to that question is no, vote for this resolution. Vote for this resolution to require congressional authorization.

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. GEKAS].

Mr. GEKAS. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of the resolution.

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Indiana [Mr. BURTON], a senior member of our Committee on International Relations.

Mr. BURTON of Indiana. Mr. Speaker, there is a full court press by this administration to put young Americans in harm's way in Bosnia, 25,000 of them. No matter that the American people do not want us involved.

Does the President remember what happened in Beirut when 235 Marines were blown apart because they were sitting ducks? Does the President remember the body of a young American, naked and being dragged through the streets of Somalia? And today the problems are just as bad in Somalia as they were back then.

I would just say to the President, if he were here, this a grave mistake. The people of the United States, through their elected representatives, have said clearly do not send our troops into harm's way in Bosnia. It is not in our national interest. Mr. President, listen to the people of this country. Do not send our troops into harm's way. It is going to be a tragic mistake.

Mr. President, you demonstrated against Vietnam and you are about to put us in another situation in another part of the world that is not in our national interest. Do not make this mistake. A lot of young people are going to die. The Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff has said very clearly there are going to be casualties, there are going to be deaths. It need not happen, Mr. President.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. EVERETT). All Members are reminded to address their remarks to the Chair and not the President.

Mrs. FOWLER. Mr. Speaker, as a cosponsor of this resolution, I rise today in strong support.

The measure we are considering states clearly that there should be no presumption by any of the parties to the Bosnian peace negotiations that United States troops should be deployed to Bosnia to participate in peacekeeping operations without congressional consent.

I am strongly opposed to the deployment of United States ground troops to Bosnia. I believe there are ways that our Nation can and should help end the bloodshed there. Indeed, we have already played a major military and diplomatic role, and we will soon be hosting peace negotiations. The United States ought to continue to provide air, sea, intelligence, and logistical support to NATO forces in Bosnia. This is a significant contribution.

But the fact of the matter is that none of the combatants view the United States as a neutral party, which is essential to playing an effective peacekeeping role. The administration is attempting to put our forces on the ground under much the same circumstances that our Marines found themselves in Lebanon in 1983. We should have learned from that tragic experience.

Even if we are not targeted because of someone's belief that we are biased, I can easily see one or more of the combatants staging attacks on U.S. personnel designed to look like another party was responsible. They know that the United States has the ability to impose serious damage on any perceived aggressor. They will target our troops in the hope of drawing us into striking hard at one of their adversaries. In Bosnia today this is not even a matter of slipping undetected past enemy lines to launch a false attack; as Canadian Gen. Lewis MacKenzie, the former commander of UNPROFOR, told the National Security Committee in hearings this month, it is more likely to be accomplished by simple bribery.

Mr. Speaker, the President must know that the Congress has grave reservations about the deployment of our troops to Bosnia. It is my strong hope that this vote will succeed in focusing his attention on the level of concern that resides in the Congress and lead him to rethink his policies.

Mr. LANTOS. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strongest opposition to this ill-conceived and flawed resolution. I wish to outline for may colleagues the reasons for my strong opposition.

A FLAWED PROCESS FOR CONSIDERING THIS RESOLUTION

First, serious procedural irregularities along justify rejection of this resolution. Mr. Speaker, the difference between a democracy and an authoritarian regime lies principally in the procedural rules that are followed to reach decisions. In a democracy we have rules that assure that full, open and fair discussion and consideration are given to an issue before a decision is taken.

With great fanfare the Republican majority in this House adopted rules at the beginning of this Congress that were supposed to bring greater democracy to the House of Representatives. In practice, however, the Republican majority flaunts these rules and procedures. Today, we are considering this resolution on Bosnia without following House rules that call for committee deliberation before legislation is considered. We are supposed to have proper consultation with the minority before issues are placed upon the House calendar. None of these rules has been followed in this case.

Mr. Speaker, this resolution has not even been considered by the Committee on International Relations—the committee which has principal jurisdiction. The International Relations Committee and the National Security Committee have each held one initial hearing with the Secretary of State, the Secretary of Defense and the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Those two hearings were held last week. There has been no committee consideration at all of this specific resolution.

There has been no opportunity for the administration to review the text and make its position on this resolution known to the Congress.

The resolution itself was only added to the schedule late on Friday of last week, and until late this afternoon, we did not even have a resolution number or a text of the resolution to review. This is hardly the way a serious deliberative legislative body should be considering major issues of foreign policy and national security. The total of 40 minutes allocated for consideration of this resolution this afternoon hardly can be regarded as adequate deliberation of an issue of this importance.

Unfortunately, Mr. Speaker, this is not the first such flagrant breach of the rules of this body. Last week the House also considered legislation moving the U.S. Embassy from Tel Aviv to Jerusalem. That bill was brought to the floor without committee hearings or committee consideration. While I strongly agreed with that legislation, I cannot agree to the blatant abuse of power and the flagrant ignoring of procedure by the Republican leadership. Later today we will see yet another such example when the House Rules Committee will present a completely closed rule on the legislative branch appropriations bill.

If such an egregious violation of the rules of the House had taken place under a Democratic majority in this body, the shrieks of outrage from my distinguished colleagues on the other side of the aisle would still be echoing. This is the wrong way to conduct the serious business of the United States. These procedures are reminiscent of the regimes whose overthrow we celebrated just 5 years ago.

THE TEXT OF THIS RESOLUTION IS FUNDAMENTALLY FLAWED AND FACTUALLY INACCURATE

Second, Mr. Speaker, I am opposed to this resolution because it is flawed; it is a document that simply boggles the mind. It puts the House on record as making a statement of the views of this House that is blatantly and completely inaccurate. The resolution says that "there should not be a presumption, and it should not be considered to be a prerequisite to the successful conclusion of such a negotiation, that enforcement of such an agreement will involve deployment of United States Armed Forces on the ground" in Bosnia.

In fact, Mr. Speaker, there is such a presumption, and this resolution can and will do nothing to change that presumption. The truce agreement that was negotiated with the involvement of the United States, Britain, France, Germany, and Russia, as well as the parties to the conflict—the Bosnian Government, the Croatian Government, the Serbian Government, and representatives of the Bosnian Serbs—agreed to participate in the peace negotiations that are to begin later this week in Ohio because they received assurances that the United States and other partners would participate in a peace-keeping force.

If the House passes this resolution, it does not change that fact. To call black white or to call white black does not make it so—even if it is done by a resolution of the U.S. House of Representatives.

THE PURPOSE OF THIS RESOLUTION IS TO UNDERMINE THE PRESIDENT'S ABILITY TO CONDUCT FOREIGN POLICY

Third, the purpose of this resolution is to undermine the President's authority to conduct foreign policy. No final peace agreement is in place. The President and his representatives who are dealing with the festering problem of Bosnia have made clear in public hearings with members of this body and with members of the Senate as well as in numerous public statements that no American troops will be sent to Bosnia until and unless a peace agreement has been negotiated and accepted by the parties in question. Clearly we have not reached that point. The negotiations are not to begin until Wednesday and they will take some time to conclude, U.S. troops will not be a question until a peace agreement has been reached.

This resolution today is clearly intended to undermine the President's ability to deal with the problem of Bosnia. It is an effort to prevent the possible commitment of U.S. troops at some time in the future, regardless of the conditions under which they might be sent. It is an irresponsible and reckless effort to raise doubts in the minds of the participants in the peace negotiations and ultimately to undermine these negotiations.

This resolution is being rushed through the House in stark contrast to the way in which the Congress considered the involvement of U.S. troops in the gulf war. On that occasion, President George Bush sent 500,000 American troops to Saudi Arabia. These were not troops on a sight-seeking expedition; these were troops which were positioned on the borders of Kuwait with the clear intention of preventing an Iraqi invasion of Saudi Arabia. They were in harms way; they were in danger. The Congress considered the use of U.S. troops in the gulf area in numerous hearings and in numerous meetings with administration officials. When the President and his advisors had clearly defined the scope of what was intended in that conflict, the Congress was asked to consider the use of United States troops against Iraq. The House and Senate debated that issue for 2 full days, and then voted to authorize the use of U.S. troops.

The House of Representatives should reject this present ill-considered resolution because this is the wrong time to consider such an issue. The resolution is poorly worded and is solely intended to undermine the President's authority to conduct our Nation's foreign policy.

THIS RESOLUTION ARTICULATES THE WRONG POLICY FOR THE UNITED STATES

Fourth, Mr. Speaker, the resolution before us today articulates the wrong policy for the United States to follow. We are considering this resolution because 4 years ago the previous administration, in an incomprehensible and excusable fashion, failed to provide NATO the leadership that is now being provided. Let no one make a mistake about this. The 200,000 dead would still be alive. The million refugees would not now be refugees, but would be living in their homes. And the viable multi-ethnic, multi-cultural, multi-religious community of Bosnia would continue to be a thriving community. It is important, Mr. Speaker, to realize that we did not just arrive at this point yesterday.

It is vitually important for the United States to show leadership within NATO. As we have seen so clearly, NATO works when the United States exercises leadership. It is essential for the United States role in Europe and in the world that we exercise leadership. If we had shown the leadership 4 years ago, as I said earlier, we would not be facing the problems that we now face. Now that the administration is pursuing a policy that demonstrates U.S. leadership, it is important that we not undermine that effort.

I am one of those—and we are a vanishing breed—that does believe that politics should stop at the water's edge. I was one of the handful of Democrats in this House to support President Bush on the uses of U.S. troops in the Gulf war. It is my sincere hope that our Republican colleagues will also see fit to support a Democratic President who is pursuing the correct course of action.

Mr. Speaker, for all of these reasons, I urge my colleagues to reject the resolution before us today.

Mr. SPENCE. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of House Resolution 247, sponsored by Congressman STEVE BUYER, an able member of the House National Security Committee.

This resolution represents a sensible approach to a fast-moving, complex situation. It neither infringes upon the President's powers nor ties his hands in upcoming negotiations. At the same time, it preserves congressional prerogatives that ought to be carefully guarded.

This resolution represents an attempt by the House to put the administration on notice that it has failed to make the case for its proposed course of action. It also makes it clear that the administration's prior commitment of United States ground forces as a critical element underpinning a proposed peace agreement in the former Yugoslavia is an inappropriate and questionable premise for the upcoming negotiations in Dayton.

To date, the administration has advanced a number of arguments as to why the United States must provide ground troops in enforcing any peace agreement in Bosnia, but all of them seem to raise more questions than they answer.

For instance, the administration has failed to answer the basic question of how American forces can serve as neutral implementors of a peace agreement among parties that view the United States neither neutrally nor impartially. We crossed the line of impartiality in Bosnia quite some time ago by resorting to the effective use of force to compel the conditions that may now actually yield a cease-fire and a peace accord.

However, it is those capabilities and actions that the United States was uniquely suited to contribute that are also the reason why we are uniquely unsuited to serve as neutral peacekeepers. The first rule of peacekeeping is "take no sides, make no enemies." As a result of the application of airpower over the past several months, we have violated the conditions that would permit us to safely and effectively deploy as peacekeepers.

In response, the administration has advanced a number of alternative arguments.

First, we are told that European stability is in the balance. Indeed, Secretary Christopher has not been bashful about invoking the specters of this century's world wars and the role of "the Balkan tinderbox" in igniting those conflicts. But badly parsed history is not a substitute for hard analysis. There are no great powers ready to go to war over the Balkans, as there were in 1914. And we've been threatened with the prospect of a wider war now for several years—although it has not occurred. There is a strong burden of proof on those who argue that now, when at last the Balkans are moving toward something like a more natural balance of power, is the moment of greatest danger.

A second argument we have heard is that NATO solidarity is at stake. But many of the wounds inflicted upon the Atlantic alliance can be traced to inconsistent policy in Bosnia from both past and present administrations. These inconsistent policies have undermined any previous hopes for a cessation of hostilities in Bosnia without offering sustained leadership. And one may reasonably ask whether the solidarity of NATO—still our greatest strategic alliance—even ought to be put at risk to bring peace to the Balkans. The most important future test of NATO solidarity will come over the alliance's expansion. But if relations are being soured through mismanagement or mischance relative Bosnia, NATO will have been broken in pursuit of a secondary issue.

A third concern we hear concerns American credibility. Again, this must be regarded as a self-inflicted wound. Our President took office at the unipolar moment, with American global power unchallenged after victories of the Gulf war and the cold war. Now we are told America must salvage its credibility by bringing peace to the Balkans; how far have we fallen? And, more profoundly, what lessons will other nations draw about an America that has trouble distinguishing what is, and what is not, a vital national security interest.

Finally, we have been told that there will be no peace without American participation on the ground. This suggests that the warring parties don't have much genuine interest in making peace. Knowing that American participation will only last 1 year is more likely than not to undermine whatever commitment to peace they may have. Advertising, in advance, the short-term duration of any American ground presence in Bosnia may only undermine the mission and endanger American lives.

Mr. Speaker, in sum, this resolution is a manifestation of the growing concerns over unanswered questions concerning the administration's Bosnia policy. I believe it is the least we can do at this point, as we continue to work through the many important issues associated with the President's plan to send over 20,000 Americans into the Balkans.

Mr. CAMP. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of House Resolution 247, to express the House of Representatives' sense that we not rush into the midst of the Balkan quagmire without careful and measured congressional consideration. Peace in Bosnia and Herzegovina is of importance to Europe and to the world. But, as long-time observers of the Balkans will note, peace has never come easily to this troubled corner of the globe.

The ability of the Congress to conduct a national debate on questions of national interest is unparalleled. Look no further than the congressional debate of January 11–12, 1991, on the eve of the Persian Gulf war. Congress, and the Nation, debated whether the national interest called for deployment of military force against Iraq. Without that debate, Congress would have abrogated its constitutional responsibilities to give assent and legal authority to the President to meet his own constitutional responsibilities. I participated in that debate—a debate that I then believed, and today confirm, was absolutely vital to a successful U.S. mission.

I have grave reservations about the need for United States troops in the Balkans. The mission of 25,000 U.S. troops and up to 80,000 NATO troops is uncertain. The commitment of the warring parties to live in peace is questionable. Debate on those questions, however, is for another day—another day soon, I would hope. Today, the question is on whether that debate should happen at all—whether the Congress should debate the United States national interest in the Balkans. The Congress can do no less. Support House Resolution 247.

Mr. MORAN. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased that the administration—President Clinton—is taking an active leadership role in working to resolve the terrible conflict in the Balkans. I agree with many of my colleagues and the administration that we have reached a historical, defining moment in finding an effective strategy to the peace process. Together, the United States and the international community is resolved to press for an equitable, negotiated settlement between the parties to end this terrible war. I applaud the President for unequivocally demanding and working for this peace and for exercising strong U.S. leadership to realize it.

This dreadful conflict in the former Yugoslavia will not solve itself. Much is at stake. This conflict is a threat to our interests in the region: It undermines European stability, our efforts to promote democracy and fee markets, respect for human rights, and ethnic and religious tolerance. The war threatens to spread to other countries. I have visited the region, and can speak firsthand of the severe repression, the systematic rape, beatings, torture, and persecution of the non-Serbian ethnic populations by the Serbs. The torrent of inhumanity is numbing. Not since Nazi Germany has the presence of genocide been so apparent, or the need to stop it been so pressing.

Up until very recently, we have acted cautiously, and to my mind, too carefully throughout this war. This Congress, on August 1, by voting the arms embargo on the Bosnians, made a strong statement of support for strong United States leadership and intervention in the process toward peace in the region. Now, because of U.S. leadership and effective diplomacy, we have a cease-fire and a real chance to mediate a peace. What works is when this Government is willing to back up diplomacy with action—and that is what I see us doing now. The Serbs did not respect the U.N. safe havens, the embargoes failed, the U.N. peacekeepers were routinely fired upon and even taken hostage. The idea of peace talks were only taken seriously by the Serbs when NATO bombed Serbian heavy artillery sites and this was coupled with hardnosed negotiating by our diplomats. We have lost good men—diplomats who lost their lives in the pursuit of this peace. We are serious about helping all of the parties reach a peaceful settlement to the conflict. And, the Serbs, Croats, and Bosnians now recognize that they have an overriding interest in finding a peaceful settlement.

Now is the time to take these actions that can lead to peace and not to preclude the necessity of providing troops to the region. Without U.S. leadership there will be no peace. Thank you. I urge you to vote against any bill that would harm this historical opportunity for peace in Bosnia.

Mr. Roemer. Mr. Speaker, as a cosponsor of this important resolution, I firmly support House Resolution 247 in the interest of keeping the Congress and the American people fully involved in any decision regarding U.S. troop deployment. The presence of United States troops in Bosnia should not be a precondition to peace. Furthermore, no U.S. troops should be deployed to enforce a peace agreement until the Congress has enacted such a measure into law.

A deployment of American troops to Bosnia would be a major long-term commitment of our military personnel. It is our responsibility to debate this.

Last Week, Secretary Christopher and General Shalikashvili briefed Congress on the administration's deployment plan. After hearing their testimony, it is evident that the plan is developing into a situation which could cost lives. The American military position on this should be clear—are the troops keeping the peace or making a peace? What are the rules of engagement for our troops? What is our national interest in this region of the world?

Congress must have a stronger vice in whether our Armed Forces are deployed overseas to engage in foreign conflicts, particularly in peacekeeping situations. We should assert our constitutional authority before American lives are put at risk in Bosnia. Congress should have the opportunity to approve a troop commitment to the Balkans before the first soldier sets foot in Bosnia. A Bosnian Deployment would be a major long-term commitment of American military personnel. It should not be done without a debate and a vote in Congress.

We all agree that current policy has not worked and it is clear that we cannot accept the status quo. The killings continue while the number of refugees increases. The efforts of NATO, the United Nations, and the United States have not worked.

Introducing as many as 25,000 troops into the Bosnian conflict would severely intensify the situation, and immerse the United States in training and logistic operations for the foreseeable future. Intensified fighting will certainly risk a wider conflict in the Balkans with far-reaching implications for regional peace. We have worked hard to contain the conflict within Bosnia, and we have seen very limited success to date. However, if the fighting spreads as a result of our decision to escalate with the presence of troops, it will be our responsibility to deal with the consequences of our interference. If the conflict spreads to other parts of the former Yugoslavia, Greece, and Turkey, then other regional powers are likely to get involved, which is likely to damage the entire European security structure.

The majority of Americans are opposed to United States ground troops in Bosnia for a variety of reasons, and Congress should not be willing to overlook the concerns of our European allies who have the most to lose in an escalated conflict. American troops will be symbolic targets for those who oppose peace or the partition of Bosnia.

Mr. Speaker, I voted earlier this year against lifting the arms embargo for the same reason that I support House Resolution 247: to prevent the Americanization of the Bosnian conflict and the loss of American lives. I strongly urge all of my colleagues to support this resolution.

Mr. DEFAZIO. Mr. Speaker, I stand in support of the resolution regarding sending United States troops to the former Yugoslavia. The language makes a simple statement: no United States ground forces should be employed in Bosnia to enforce a future peace agreement until the Congress has approved such a deployment, nor should United States negotiators assume that United States forces will be committed. The constitutional principle is simple and sound: before the Nation commits its young men and women into foreign military adventures, Congress must act to authorize their presence.

I am appalled by the destruction and loss of life that has taken place over the past several years in the former Yugoslavia. Tens of thousands of people have been killed in the fighting and more than a million made homeless.

There are no easy answers to the bitter ethnic divisions in the region. As with any negotiating process, no solution will prove effective until the various military factions stand ready for a peaceful solution. It is my sincere hope that recent developments will move all sides in the conflict to a lasting ceasefire and eventual peace. I support U.S. efforts in facilitating the negotiations toward this goal.

However, I remain skeptical about the use of U.S. troops to enforce a peaceful solution in a conflict that has been raging for well over 700 years. We have seen all too often how placing U.S. soldiers into a conflict—even with the best of intentions—can easily become a nightmare for our country. Just as important, United States military presence in Bosnia could become merely a target for both sides to vent their anger.

Although I welcome and support this resolution, it is my hope that Congress will take a more universal approach to its constitutional role. For more than 40 years, Congress has allowed the Executive to continuously broaden its authority to put U.S. troops into harm's way. Congress' exclusive constitutional authority to initiate war is routinely ignored by Congress and Presidents alike.

Unfortunately, the current War Powers Resolution implicitly grants broad authority to the President to engage in wars of any size without advance congressional authorization. It requires the President to come to Congress only after he has put the prestige of our Nation and the lives of its soldiers on the line.

I have introduced a joint resolution (H.J. Res. 95) that seeks to reform the War Powers Resolution. The House of Representatives to address the balance of presidential and congressional authority to make war. Indeed, the Constitution demands the collective judgment of the President and Congress on the grave question of war. The time is ripe for a congressional debate on the need to restore the balance of powers between the Executive and Legislature as envisioned by the Framers of the Constitution.

Mr. DINGELL. Mr. Speaker, hearings have not been held on House Resolution 247. The chief participant in the Bosian peace negotiations, the administration, has not been consulted on House Resolution 247. The American public has not had the opportunity to discuss House Resolution 247 with their Representatives. Common sense tells me that evaluating the merits of a resolution—before passing it—is an essential step in crafting good legislation.

Under the cover of night, hidden away in a back room of the Capitol late last Friday, NEWT GINGRICH and his Republicans decided, once again, to abuse the legislative process for political purposes. This time they are risking peace in Bosnia with their behavior.

Simply put, the Republican leadership has crafted a political document. They are rushing it to the floor without proper consideration. If we are to interfere legislatively with the peace process, let's at least proceed with proper legislative process. Let's have hearings, let's let the people hear the administration and others, and let's hear from the people. None of this has been done.

I wish Serbian President Slobodan Milosevic, Croatian President Franjo Tudjman, Bosnian President Alija Izetbegovic, and Secretary of State Warren Christopher Godspeed in the negotiations. Their efforts can make the world a safer place, and can return peace and democracy to a desperately troubled area.

There will be a time when it is appropriate for Congress to enter the peace process. That time is not now—this resolution is not how. With serious constitutional and territorial questions for Bosnia hanging in the balance of the Dayton negotiations, Congress should not charge into the middle of the process demanding that all parties bend to our will, or weaken our President's effort to achieve a negotiated settlement.

I do not oppose this resolution on its merits. Peace, with congressional approval, is good. Military deployment, with congressional approval, is good. I oppose the resolution because of the process in which it is being considered. No hearings, no committee consideration, no adequate debate, or discussion.

Let us allow the negotiators to negotiate. If and when they are able to come to an agreement for peace in Bosnia, then let the Congress judge the merits of that settlement.

And in the meantime, let us process important business like this in a proper legislative fashion.

Mr. GALLEGLY. Mr. Speaker, as an original cosponsor, I rise in strong support of the resolution regarding the commitment of United States ground forces as a precondition to peace in Bosnia.

Two weeks ago, Secretaries Perry and Christopher as well as the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs testified before the International Relations Committee as part of their effort to consult with the Congress on this difficult issue of Bosnia.

Much to my surprise, all of the witnesses seemed to suggest that no peace agreement between the Serbs and the Moslems would be possible unless the United States agreed to send ground forces to the region.

To me, this was nothing short of international political blackmail and suggested that the warring parties were more interested in guaranteeing that U.S. soldiers would be sent into harm's way than they were in securing a lasting peace agreement.

It comes as no surprise that I share the strong skepticism and opposition of many of my colleagues in the Congress with respect to the commitment of United States ground forces to Bosnia. But to suggest that only the commitment of United States Forces to the area can guarantee a peace agreement is dubious at best. If we fail to send those forces will the Moslems and Serbs begin shooting again?

While I do not share the administration's position and do support this resolution today, I do appreciate the dilemma the administration faces as a full partner in the NATO alliance and the responsibilities which come with that partnership.

To me, however, there is absolutely no domestic political or military advantage to sending American troops into harm's way in Bosnia. Make no mistake, this is dangerous territory and lives could well be lost no matter what is written on the eventual peace agreement. If anyone thinks Bosnia will somehow be less dangerous if an agreement is reached they need only recall our experience in Somalia where the warlords were not nearly as organized or well armed.

This resolution before us today is very simple. It says that a peace agreement between the Serbs and the Moslems should not be conditioned on whether the United States will send troops into the region or not.

Peace in Bosnia must come because the two sides want to end the killing and to allow their citizens to resume a normal and risk free life. Peace should come to the region whether the forces helping to implement the agreement come from Britain, France, Germany, or the United States.

I urge a yes vote on the resolution.

Mr. DICKS. Mr. Speaker, at this delicate period of negotiations between the warring parties in the former Yugoslavia, I believe that it is extremely counterproductive for the House to be considering this resolution. The Administration is showing great leadership by bringing the factions together to attempt to resolve these ancient hostilities which, in their most recent manifestations, have devastated the region and left more than 200 thousand dead. I believe that if this House approves the resolution before us, it will hinder the peace process by shaking the confidence of the combatants in the ability of the United States to follow through on any commitments to which it agrees.

No one in this Congress wants to insert American troops into an ongoing conflict, nor do I believe that this is the desire of our President. Most in the House also agree that Congress should be consulted prior to the commitment of any ground troops to a peacekeeping effort in Bosnia. Many of us on both sides of the aisle have asserted this prerogative to the President and to Administration officials during recent months. The President and the U.S. negotiators know Congress's wishes on this issue; there is no need for the House to approve a resolution today to restate what has been made quite apparent by various Members of Congress.

If it is unnecessary to explain to the President the position of the House on this issue, what purpose will this resolution serve? I believe that the only function of this resolution will be to undermine the credibility of the Administration as it enters into negotiations which could have dramatic effects on the outcome of the peace process.

I understand that Members have widely differing opinions on the issue of utilizing U.S. troops in peacekeeping missions, and I respect the sincere convictions upon which these opinions have been formed. However, the peace process in the Balkans will suffer if this resolution passes. It vividly emphasizes the distinct possibility that the United States will not honor what it has agreed to at the negotiating table. I do not see how the conflicting parties can have faith in the peace process if the House causes them to question the commitment of the United States.

I have always believed that Congress must not deliberately undermine the ability of the President to conduct foreign relations. I have supported this policy for Presidents from both parties. If approved, this resolution will hinder the ability of this President to negotiate an end to the horrible warfare in southeastern Europe. I urge my colleagues to put aside their partisan sentiments and to support the process toward peace by opposing House Resolution 247.

Mr. CLEMENT. Mr. Speaker, after three and a half years of bloody conflict in Bosnia-Herzegovina, long anticipated peace negotiations will begin today at the Wright-Patterson Air Force Base in Dayton, OH. I applaud the efforts of President Clinton, Secretary of State Warren Christopher, and the participating leaders from Bosnia, Croatia, and Serbia, for these negotiations may be the last best chance for peace in this war torn part of our world.

It is unfortunate that Congress tarnished the optimistic spirit of this summit on Monday by considering H. Res. 247. Mr. Speaker, this resolution was a deliberate partisan attempt to undermine the President and call into question his credibility on matters relating to foreign affairs. With hardly an hour's debate and no hearings, on the eve of this historic conference, Congress has already tied one hand behind the President's back, and jeopardized the success of these talks.

I was the only member in the Tennessee delegation to vote against this resolution, which we only learned would be considered last Friday. Taking into account the short notice before voting on this legislation, lack of intelligent debate and investigation, and the premature timing for such an edict from Congress, I felt clearly this was not the right message to send to our President and the Balkan negotiators.

This vote was not the last vote regarding United States policy for deploying Armed Forces in Bosnia. Whatever proposals or agreements result from the Dayton peace talks, which involve the lives of U.S. servicemen, they will have to pass before the judgment of this body. This is inherent in our beloved Constitution. However, I pray this blatant, political attempt to embarrass the President, has not imperiled a peaceful resolution to this grisly conflict.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. All time has expired.

The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from New York [Mr. GILMAN] that the House suspend the rules and agree to the resolution, House Resolution 247.

The question was taken.

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, on that I demand the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 5 of rule I and the Chair's prior announcement, further proceedings on this motion will be postponed.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days in which to revise and extend their remarks on House Resolution 247.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from New York?

There was no objection.

REPORT ON RESOLUTION WAIVING POINTS OF ORDER AGAINST CONFERENCE REPORT ON H.R. 1905, ENERGY AND WATER DEVELOPMENT APPROPRIATIONS ACT, 1996

Mr. QUILLEN, from the Committee on Rules, submitted a privileged report (Rept. No. 104–297) on the resolution (H. Res. 248) waiving points of order against the conference report to accompany the bill (H.R. 1905) making appropriations for energy and water development for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1996, and for other purposes, which was referred to the House Calendar and ordered to be printed.

MOTION TO GO TO CONFERENCE ON H.R. 2491, SEVEN-YEAR BALANCED BUDGET RECONCILIATION ACT OF 1995

Mr. KASICH. Mr. Speaker, pursuant to House rule XX, and at the direction of the Committee on the Budget, I offer a motion.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Clerk will report the motion.

> Mr. KASICH moves to take from the Speaker's table the bill (H.R. 2491), to provide for reconciliation pursuant to section 105 of the concurrent resolution on the budget for fiscal year 1996, with a Senate amendment thereto, disagree to the Senate amendment and request a conference with the Senate thereon.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Ohio [Mr. KASICH] is recognized for 1 hour on his motion.

Mr. KASICH. Mr. Speaker, for purposes of debate only, I yield 30 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Minnesota [Mr. SABO] and I ask unanimous consent that the gentleman have the right to yield blocks of time for purposes of debate.

Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Ohio?

There was no objection.

Mr. KASICH. Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

□ 1800

Mr. SABO. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume, and I yield to the gentleman from Ohio [Mr. KASICH] to engage in a colloquy.

Mr. Speaker, I ask the gentleman if am I correct that will be five Republican and three Democratic conferees for all titles of the bill under current plans?

Mr. KASICH. The answer is yes.

Mr. SABO. Mr. Speaker, in the case of other committees, in most cases, except for those issues relating to tax, trade, and Medicare and Medicaid, there will only be two majority and one minority conferee?

Mr. KASICH. In most cases that would be correct.

Mr. SABO. So, the agreement in those conferences would really be governed by the general conferees, the five Republicans and three Democrats, and then the two from that particular committee of the majority and one for the minority?

Mr. KASICH. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is correct.

Mr. SABO. So that in an area like agriculture, where we are doing a major rewrite of agriculture policy, there would be 11 conferees; and 3 of them, 2 majority and 1 minority, from the Committee on Agriculture?

Mr. KASICH. Mr. Speaker, in the case of agriculture, the Republicans would have three, the Democratic Party would have two.

Mr. SABO. Then that's changed recently?

Mr. KASICH. Correct.

Mr. SABO. But, Mr. Speaker, I would still be eight general conferees and only five from the Committee on Agriculture?

Mr. KASICH. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is correct.

Mr. SABO. So, the general conferees, if they agreed, would outvote the Committee on Agriculture members 8 to 5?

Mr. KASICH. Mr. Speaker, I would not anticipate that happening, but theoretically that would be possible.

Mr. SABO. Mr. Speaker, as I think everyone agrees, this is a major rewrite of agriculture policy in this country then being done by five members from that committee.

Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Texas [Mr. DE LA GARZA], the ranking member on the Committee on Agriculture.

Mr. DE LA GARZA. Mr. Speaker, I come to protest the composition of the conference and to object to going to conference.

Mr. Speaker, the word I had, up until the distinguished gentleman from Ohio [Mr. KASICH] mentioned, was that we would have one conferee from the minority from the Committee on Agriculture. I am now informed that it would be two. Nonetheless, Mr. Speaker, there was a book written once by a great American called "The Arrogance of Power." We are experiencing that at this precise moment.

Mr. Speaker, the Committee on Agriculture debated and voted three times. None of the measures prevailed, therefore, the Committee on Agriculture did not submit a measure by a majority vote to the conference committee. But there is something called the Freedom to Farm Act that was then placed by either the Committee on the Budget or the Committee on Rules in the legislation without any contribution, debate, or participation of the Committee on Agriculture. It was done by the leadership; by the leadership of the Committee on the Budget and by the leadership of the Committee on Rules.

Mr. Speaker, I protest that move vehemently. I think it is an insult to American agriculture. I think it is an insult to the American consumers who are the ultimate recipients of the legislation enacted heretofore by the Committee on Agriculture.

Mr. Speaker, I want my colleagues to know that this is not only demeaning but insulting, that a revamping of the farm legislation is being done with only two members of the minority in the Committee on Agriculture and that they would be outvoted, nonetheless, by non-Committee on Agriculture general members of the conference.

Mr. Speaker, since the beginning of the Department of Agriculture established by President Lincoln, this has not happened. In our bipartisan handling of legislation, my experience here has always been that we come up with a bipartisan approach, consensus approach to the legislation by which agriculture, to some extent rural America, and the consumers would be serving under or receive the benefit thereof.

Mr. speaker, I protest. I know that I have heard it for so many years from our colleagues on the other side that we do not have the votes, so all we can do is expose, Mr. Speaker, the damage that has been done that can be done, that damage that it will do to the legislative system. I think that it basically begins the erosion of this great institution called the House of Representatives, which we once called, and still call, the people's House.

Mr. Speaker, no longer will it be the people's House, but rather it will be by ad hoc committees at the whim of whoever is in the leadership. And if this is the way that we will act heretofore, then the people have lost. The people have lost their ability to participate. The people have lost their ability to provide counsel to the members of the different committees. It is the people's loss, it will be if we go to conference with these numbers and this distribution. It will be the people's loss and the people are the ones that hopefully will rebel at the appropriate time.

But as of now, the dismantling of the people's House, this great institution called the House of Representatives, that is being nullified by what we do this evening. And I feel sad, really, and aggrieved that this would happen with such little ability to protest, to challenge, and the disruption that will happen in the future.

Mr. Speaker, I have the ability only to address this House for 5 minutes. This is not right. This is not fair. This is an arrogant abuse of power, and this is an insult to the history of this House and to the American people.

I have had my say, Mr. Speaker, but I hope that the people out there realize, all of those involved in agriculture, all of those involved in rural America, all of those that are looking forward to bettering their lives, to bettering the environment, to bringing water into the countryside, to continue bringing electricity, to continue bringing telephone, to continue providing these things that enhance the quality of life.

The American people are the best-fed people in the world for the least amount of disposable income of any major industrialized nation in the world. That has been done because of the system of this House, the system of the committee, and we have done and followed through with precedent that has been laid heretofore.

So, Mr. Speaker, it is with sadness in my heart that I make this statement that the people of the United States of America lose tonight. Especially those in agriculture and rural America lose tonight, because they will not have an opportunity to address the issues fairly, equitably.

Mr. Speaker, I understand the numbers, but the numbers are not what we are challenging per se; that there is a majority and that there is a minority. But the ability to represent the people has been denied, has been denied, and the people lose. The people will be the losers tonight. It is so said—the arrogance of power prevails and the people lose.

Mr. SABO. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman from Ohio [Mr. KASICH] want to yield to anyone?

Mr. KASICH. Mr. Speaker, I would like to say to the gentleman from Minnesota [Mr. SABO], that we are kind of reserving our time. Unless we hear something that we think we need to really make a point on, we are going to reserve our time and hold our fire until the motion to instruct.

Mr. SABO. Mr. Speaker, I would ask the gentleman if he is planning on a 30-minute speech.

Mr. KASICH. Mr. Speaker, right now we are not, but as the gentleman knows, these things are always subject to dramatic change. But at this point we are going to reserve our time.

Mr. SABO. Unless the gentleman gets motivated?

Mr. KASICH. Mr. Speaker, we are very motivated; we are waiting for some good points to be made by the other side. No, I am just kidding.

Mr. SABO. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Texas [Mr. DE LA GARZA].

Mr. DE LA GARZA. Mr. Speaker, now I am personally aggrieved that I would not even move the gentleman's inner feelings of his heart when he is preparing, here at Halloween, to dismantle American agriculture, to cut its throat, to bleed it to the last drop of blood, and it had no impact.

Mr. Speaker, that is what I call the arrogance of power. The gentleman has just demonstrated that very well.

Mr. Speaker, very respectively and kindly and with the admiration and respect that I have for the gentleman, I am personally aggrieved that I would not move the gentleman at this point.

Mr. KASICH. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself 30 seconds.

Mr. Speaker, I would say to the gentleman we are confident at the end of the day we are going to, of course, have a plan that will emerge from the conference committee that will be a plan that people across the country will continue to support, and we feel we are on the right track.

Mr. Speaker, the distinguished gentleman from Texas, I know, feels strongly about this area. He has been chairman of the committee that has been under the control of the Democratic Party for 40 straight years. I appreciate the points that the gentleman has made, but we really believe at the end of the day the farmers of this country will be happy with what we have.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. SABO. Mr. Speaker, I yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from North Dakota [Mr. POMEROY].

Mr. POMEROY. Mr. Speaker, I want to speak to the agriculture component of the conference committee as well, and I suggest straight out that a conference committee of five is an insult to rural America.

Mr. Speaker, the component of the Budget Reconciliation Act relating to agriculture has been handled in a way unlike any other for development of a farm bill in the history of farm bills in this country.

I represent more production agriculture than any other Member of this House. I also come to this issue as a member of the Committee on Agriculture and as a member of the Committee on the Budget. Mr. Speaker, let me briefly recap the very curious turn of events that has followed the development of this legislation.

Mr. Speaker, in August, not until August but in early August the chairman dropped a bill called the Freedom to Farm Act. We were told that was going to be the Budget component of the 1995 farm bill. The bill did not receive a single hearing in the Committee on Agriculture or the subcommittee. No hearings.

On the day of the markup, after a long day, protracted debate, the bill was defeated with Republicans and Democrats voting against the Freedom to Farm Act. The committee was reconvened the next morning and informed that there would be no more committee meetings on the agriculture component of the budget. In other words, the House Committee on Agriculture was to have nothing to say about the critical part of the budget relating to agriculture.

Mr. Speaker, it has never been like that. It is the House Committee on Agriculture that knows something about agriculture. That is why it ought to come through the House Committee on Agriculture, not go around it.

When the Committee on the Budget marked up the reconciliation act, there was something, by my eyes very important, missing and that was the agriculture part of the budget. It was nowhere to be seen. The chairman of the Committee on the Budget told us that he would get it added when he went to the Committee on Rules. Again no involvement of the Committee on the Budget at that stage.

We have the Committee on Agriculture excluded and the Committee on the Budget excluded. The gentleman went to the Committee on Rules and got Freedom to Farm included in the bill that was voted on last week as part of the Budget Reconciliation Act, but the morning papers the day of the budget vote said that a deal had been cut, and Speaker GINGRICH announced that this would be rewritten in conference committee.

In other words, Mr. Speaker, what was voted on by the House last week did not mean anything. Now we have excluded the House Committee on Agriculture, the House Committee on the Budget and the House of Representatives.

Mr. Speaker, we learned this afternoon that it will be decided by a committee of five representing the House; three Republicans, two Democrats. No hearings. No language. No legislative proposal.

Mr. Speaker, what are we talking about here? Agriculture in this country represents one out of six jobs involved in the production of food and fiber for all Americans. It is the single greatest component where we export more than we import. It is truly of vital interest to this country and the legislative process has at every stage of the game flowed solely from the Speaker's office and shut off all meaningful input from those of us representing rural America.

This is no way for the legislative process to unfold. It is no way to leave rural America tonight, wondering what in the world is going to come out of the conference committee, where the House position is at.

This thing reminds me of a fish. You put a fish in the sun. It starts to stink. You put some sunlight on the process that has involved the formation of agriculture policy in this budget, and it stinks to high heaven. Let me tell my colleagues, rural America deserves a whole lot better than this.

Mr. HERGER. Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. SABO. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentlewoman from Connecticut, [Ms. DELAURO].

Ms. DELAURO. Mr. Speaker, last week this House passed the radical Gingrich plan that will devastate essential services to millions of middle class Americans—all in the name of giving a massive tax break to the wealthiest few.

The Gingrich plan to cut $270 billion out of Medicare to hand out $245 billion to corporations and wealthy individuals is an outrage. The American people will not stand for this Gingrich plan.

But now the Republicans say they can't afford to pay the political price to kill Medicare outright. So the Gingrich plan will gut Medicare but will do it covertly so that it will as he says, "wither on the vine."

For millions of Americans, Medicare has stood the test of time as a sacred compact between our Government and our seniors. Medicare embodies the principle that citizens who work hard all their lives, raise their children, pay their bills, and play by the rules will not be thrown out into the streets in their sunset years.

We must not allow the Gingrich Republicans to balance the budget on the backs of America's seniors. We must not allow Medicare to become the political football it is in the Gingrich plan. I call on this House to support the motion to instruct the conferees and reject the Gingrich plan.

Mr. SABO. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes and 30 seconds to the gentleman from Virginia [Mr. MORAN].

Mr. MORAN. Mr. Speaker, I thank the Democratic chair of the Committee on the Budget for yielding time to me.

Mr. Speaker, I just noticed in an article in "Roll Call" magazine, it was just published today, the title of it is "SOLOMON Wants Rewrite of Three-Fifths Tax Hike Rule, After the GOP Has Waived It Twice." I want to put into the RECORD a statement by my good friend and the respected chairman of the Committee on Rules, when this rule was passed.

He said,

> Mr. Speaker, the tax and spend Democrats are at it again. Do you believe it? The Democrats are suing the Republicans to overturn our rules change that requires a three-fifths majority to raise taxes.

Now, this is the gentleman from New York [Mr. SOLOMON] speaking: "The three-fifths majority vote to raise taxes will stand as a hindrance to any Democrat's attempt to foist more taxes on the American people. There aren't going to be any more." He actually said "There ain't going to be any more," but I wanted to correct his language.

Mr. Speaker, that is the same chairman of the Committee on Rules that now wants to rewrite the rule that we passed on the first day of this session. I have 20 quotes from 20 different Members of the Republican leadership, such as "We required a three-fifths vote to pass any kind of tax increase." I've got the Speaker's quote on it. I will not bore you with all the quotes because they all pretty much say the same thing, that any time there is any kind of tax increase, there will be a requirement that there be a three-fifths vote to pass that.

There are actually five tax increases in this budget reconciliation bill that we will be taking to conference. The reason why we were able to take it to conference is that the chairman of the Committee on Rules decided to waive that rule that applied to the House as of the first day of the session. He waived that particular three-fifths rule as it applies to this reconciliation bill. That was the same technique that was applied to the $270 billion Medicare bill when it came before us a few days earlier.

Now, there was not a waiver when the original Tax Act came before us, the Contract With America Tax Act. I raised it at that time that it really should have required a three-fifths vote because of the tax increases in it. We got a ruling that subsequently has been reconsidered, and the Parliamentarian agrees that in fact the three-fifths requirement should have applied.

It should have applied here, too, because, when we pass rules for ourselves, we ought to abide by them. I do not think we ought to have the discretion to simply waive them when they are inconvenient. We passed a rule on the same day that says, when we write rules for the private sector, they ought to apply to us as well.

Well, it seems to me, when we pass any kind of Federal rule, we do not waive it for the private sector. We should not waive it for ourselves. There are actually five tax increases in this bill. One would increase for some people by 50 percent the tax on Medicare part B premiums. There is an increase for some on capital gains. There is a repeal of the 5-year income averaging for others. There is an increase in taxes on income for others. Three is an increase in taxes on income that Indian tribes receive. There is increased taxes on expatriates, which I happen to agree with.

But the biggest tax increase is on the people who can least afford it. There is a tax increase on those who qualify for the earned income tax credit. That is the most shameful. I wish that this House one day would apply the rules that it makes for itself consistently, and not hypocritically.

Mr. HERGER. Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. SABO. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the distinguished gentlewoman from Colorado [Mrs. SCHROEDER].

Mrs. SCHROEDER. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Minnesota for yielding time to me. I hope everybody votes for his motion to instruct the conferees.

What is this all about? Well, we have got the House with one position and the other body with the other body's position. What we are saying is at least on their side they showed that they have a little bit bigger heart than the Members on our side. We would like our conferees to go along with those provisions.

What are they saying? Well, in the other body, thank goodness, they stood up and insisted that Medicaid coverage be there for pregnant women and children. I believe that. I certainly hope this body does not turn its back on low-income pregnant women and their children. It also says Medicaid coverage should go to those who are disabled and low income. I believe that, and I think it would be terrible if we went along with this House's position.

They also in the other body came forward and said they insisted that they continue to apply Federal standards to nursing homes. Well, I hope we do not roll back to where we used to be; but, if we stay with our position, that is where we will be going. They can do anything they want to, to people in nursing homes, and there will not be a thing we can say about it.

Listen, there was a reason those regulations went in, and that was because we needed them. There was scandal after scandal. I think, if Federal money goes there, we ought to make sure that there are standards there.

The other issue that the other body did much better on was pensions. Do you realize that this body is going to allow folks to go play with your pension money? Now, let me tell you, if that does not get your attention, you deserve to lose your pension. It is just about that clear.

So let us get your attention. This is about your pension. People who vote no on this are saying they want to stay with our position and trust those moguls. They will do whatever they want with your pension. Wait until you try and go get it.

So vote yes, this is very critical.

Mr. HERGER. Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. SABO. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from West Virginia [Mr. WISE].

Mr. WISE. Mr. Speaker, indeed, perhaps since the inevitable was that this was going to pass last week, pass both Houses, and in some ways I welcome that, because it makes it real. There is something about the Halloween season where we do not really worry about these ghouls and goblins and whatnot because it does not really seem real. This is real. Now that it has passed, the American people have a chance to see firsthand what is in these packages and what can really be happening.

It was interesting, I remember this debate taking place 2 years ago on the President's budget deficit reduction plan and the other side making a lot of statements from some fly-by-night organization about the job loss that would result. They were dead wrong and, in fact, the economy did not get worse as a result of that package, it got better.

These are the same Members that are not bringing this plan, a plan with a $245 billion tax cut, over 51 percent of the benefits in the House plan going to people making over $100,000 a year. This is the same group that has now brought us a pension grab plan so that corporations can go and take assets from a pension plan while the stock market is high, but if that stock market fails or falls, then you are going to see a reduction in the value of that pension and it may be then undervalued. This is the same group that brought us relaxation, not relaxation, obliteration of Federal nursing home regulations.

In West Virginia, we did an analysis with the West Virginia State tax department to conclude that 85 percent of all West Virginians will pay more out of pocket with this plan. We like sacrifice. We appreciate sacrifice, but it needs to be evenhanded.

I guess what concerns me finally, Mr. Speaker, is this is not a plan that will balance the Federal budget. I do not think it will do that. Actually, I think it is going to worsen the economy, not make it better. But it is a plan that will definitely unbalance a lot of family budgets. Unbalance family budgets that depend upon student loans. Unbalance family budgets that are looking toward retirement and having that pension there. Unbalance family budgets that need assistance keeping a loved one in a nursing home or long-term care. Unbalance family budgets that are wondering how their loved one, senior citizen, is going to get medical care.

Bad budget, Mr. Speaker. I urge its rejection.

Mr. SABO. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentlewoman from Texas [Ms. JACKSON-LEE].

Ms. JACKSON-LEE. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Minnesota for yielding time to me.

I hope that we can be constructive this evening for we have failed to address the crisis that has been represented in the national discussion on this issue.

First of all, we have misrepresented to the American people that this budget deficit will be helped by $270 billion in tax cuts. In doing those tax cuts, we will find that those making over $100,000, $200,000, or $350,000 will be getting a tax cut which they have not requested. But those who are making under $50,000 and particularly low- and middle-income families will experience a tax increase.

We will lose the earned income tax credit and, in particular, some 60,000 families in the city of Houston will lose the benefit of receiving an earned income tax credit because of this budget reconciliation proposal out of the House of Representatives, those very working people who are working with children, one or more children in the family, who are trying to make ends meet with rent or mortgage payments, trying to cover their health insurance, and yet this Congress has now burdened them with a tax increase.

At the same time we have $270 billion taken out of our Medicare program in particular, denying many of our senior citizens choice, denying them the opportunity for good health care and subjecting them to long hours and long appointments and lack of care.

I would ask that we listen to the debate on this motion to instruct conferees that would ensure that we minimize the tax increases on those who are low and middle income and particularly cut the tax cuts for the wealthy, because as Members recall, in 1981, when under the Reagan administration those cuts came into play, we went into the worst recession that we could have ever imagined. That does not help budget deficits, when we can document from 1992 to 1995 that the deficit has been coming down.

Vote for this motion to instruct and support children, the disabled, and those senior citizens who need good health care.

Mr. SABO. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Illinois [Mr. DURBIN].

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. Speaker, for those who will not be able to stay tuned and follow this House debate, let me tell them how it is going to end.

My colleagues are going to hear a lot of comments and speeches from this side of the aisle pleading with the Republicans to show some moderation when it comes to the Gingrich budget bill which we passed last week. We will be urging the Republicans in all of our speeches to try to be sensitive to the needs of working families to try to make sure that any tax cuts go directly to real middle-class families and not to the wealthiest people in America. My colleagues will hear our speeches as we urge them to maintain standards for nursing homes so across America each of us with a parent or grandparent who may end up there one day has the peace of mind to know that they are at least going to be in an institution holding to some Federal standards. My colleagues will hear us plead with the Republicans, "Please protect the pension plans of working Americans. Don't go through with the Gingrich proposal to take away the protection of pensions." Once a person is retired, they are at the mercy of the people who manage the pension plans. Our Federal laws protect those people, and we will then be urging during the course of this debate that the people on the Republican side of the aisle come around and help these folks as well as the poorest among us, the children who depend on Medicaid for basic hospital care who will be disadvantaged by the Gingrich budget of last week.

Mr. Speaker, my colleagues will hear all these speeches, and let me tell my colleagues how it will end if they cannot stay tuned. We are going to lose. The Democrats are going to lose. The motion to instruct will do down. The Republicans who marched off the cliff with Speaker GINGRICH last week in the Gingrich Republican bill are going to stick with their Speaker even though they know what we are suggesting is reasonable to most Americans, it sounds like common sense. They are going to stick to their program.

Let me tell my colleagues this. Ultimately President Clinton will veto this terrible bill and we will finally get down to the business on a bipartisan basis of coming up with a commonsense solution to reducing this Nation's budget deficit.

Mr. SABO. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from New Mexico [Mr. RICHARDSON].

Mr. RICHARDSON. Mr. Speaker, what should be the goal of this conference? It should be to minimize both tax giveaways for the wealthy and tax increases on low- and middle-income working families. We should try to do something to preserve and protect the health and income security of senior citizens, and we should also avoid increasing the number of Americans lacking access to health care.

So what do we need to do in this conference committee? I think as a priority, accede to the Senate-passed provisions requiring continued Medicaid coverage for low-income pregnant women and children and for the disabled. At the very least what the gentleman from, senior Senator from, Rhode Island has proposed, a member of the majority party. We should agree to the Senate-passed provisions applying to Federal nursing home standards, and we should recede to the Senate position on pension reversions, continuing current-law protections for worker pensions.

What we have is a reconciliation bill that makes deep cuts in long-term care that is going to raise the costs of nursing homes and force seniors out of nursing homes or bankrupt their families who are trying to care for their parents and grandparents. It is also going to eliminate the guarantee of Medicaid by threatening the health care of over 36 million low-income children. Elderly and disabled Americans are most vulnerable Americans. It is going to curb the quality of nursing homes for elderly Americans by repealing the minimum, and I say the minimum, Federal requirements. But worst, it is going to cut the earned income tax credit a tax increase for working families, the working poor who had a modest tax break, and all of a sudden this is going to be severely dissipated.

Mr. Speaker, there is a good motion to instruct conferees. We should try to send a strong signal. The President should veto this bill, and then serious negotiations should start. Let us get rid of this bizarre atmosphere, bizarre and bazaar atmosphere, that is pervading this legislation.

Mr. SABO. Mr. Speaker, would the gentleman yield for a question on process and procedure?

Mr. SABO. Mr. Speaker, we do not intend to ask for a recorded vote on this, and I am curious. Is the intent to move to the vote on Bosnia before we go to the motion to instruct?

Mr. KASICH. No, I think we are going to move right into the motion to instruct.

Mr. SABO. So, for anyone who is interested, that vote then would probably come after the vote on the motion to instruct.

Mr. KASICH. That is correct.

Mr. SABO. We have 1 minute remaining, Mr. Speaker?

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. RIGGS). Yes, the gentleman is correct.

Mr. SABO. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Texas [Mr. DOGGETT].

Mr. DOGGETT. Mr. Speaker, this is again the final minute of our consideration of the "wreckonciliation," that is spelled "wreck" as in car wreck or disaster for the families that are most directly affected by this bill, those who will be impacted by the new sick tax; that is, Medicare recipients who will suffer under that aspect of the bill and those who will be affected adversely by the new work tax; that is, working families struggling, dependent on one of the tax provisions they have now that will see their taxes go up if they are a family earning $30,000 or less. Under either the House or the Senate bill they will be wrecked by the reconciliation bill, but, as we consider what will happen in conference, it is important to know that at least on the Senate side some of the more extremist provisions of this Gingrich House were rejected soundly in the Senate, and one would hope the same thing would be done by the conference committee.

For example, the proposal that while we are increasing a tax on work, we would eliminate entirely the alternative minimum tax for some of the richest corporations in this country; that has been removed by the Senate, and I would hope it would be removed by the conference.

Mr. KASICH. The only thing, Mr. Speaker, is I do not know what the gentleman from Minnesota [Mr. SABO] would say if I yielded myself 29 minutes to counter all that.

Mr. SABO. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. SABO. I listened to the gentleman from Ohio tell us that, after he had been in front of the Committee on Rules for 2½ hours, he was tired of hearing himself, so I assume he would not yield himself 29 minutes.

Mr. KASICH. All I want to know is, is the gentleman from Minnesota [Mr. SABO] going to kindly sit here and listen to a 29-minute harangue?

Mr. SABO. I notice the gentleman from Ohio did not listen through all the 30 minutes of speeches on our side.

Mr. KASICH. Mr. Speaker, on that lack of bipartisanship, I yield back the balance of my time, and I move the previous question.

The previous question was ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Ohio [Mr. KASICH].

The motion was agreed to.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

MOTION TO INSTRUCT OFFERED BY MR. SABO

Mr. SABO. Mr. Speaker, I offer a motion to instruct conferees.

The Clerk read as follows:

Mr. SABO moves that the managers on the part of the House at the conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the bill H.R. 2491, be instructed to do everything possible, within the scope of the conference, to minimize both tax cuts for the wealthy and tax increases on low- and middle-income working families, to preserve and protect the health and income security of senior citizens, and to avoid increasing the number of Americans lacking access to health care; and that the House conferees be further instructed to—

(1) agree to the Senate-passed provisions requiring continued Medicaid coverage for low-income pregnant women and children and for disabled persons,

(2) agree to the Senate-passed provisions continuing to apply federal nursing home standards, and

(3) recede to the Senate position on pension reversions, thereby continuing current law protections for workers' pensions.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Minnesota [Mr. SABO] will be recognized for 30 minutes, and the gentleman from Ohio [Mr. KASICH] will be recognized for 30 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Minnesota [Mr. SABO].

Mr. SABO. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker and Members, this is not an easy bill to devise a motion to instruct on because the reality is we have a bad House bill and we have a bad Senate bill. So most of the options are pretty bad. So our motion in some cases says, "If you've got a bad provision and there is a worse provision, please stick with the bad provision." It does not get us anyplace, but, as my colleagues know, what the House did with the earned income tax credit is incredibly bad. What the Senate did is much worse. So stick with the House provision.

There are some parts of the bill, Mr. Speaker, it is impossible to offer a motion to instruct on. Both the House and the Senate deal very poorly with low-income seniors who today qualify for having their premiums paid and their deductibles paid by Medicaid. Neither of them are adequate; they are the same. It is impossible within the scope of conference to say to improve it because they are the same.

But there are a few things, a few items, we might suggest to our House conferees: Do the Senate provision; they are not quite as bad. They slightly improve a bad bill. Do not do this dumb pension reversion that raises $9 billion temporarily, but takes $40 billion out of trust funds for pensions for American workers. The reality is, even to balance the budget, it does not do us much good because in the year 2002 it is scored as an asterisk that actually loses a little bit of money, so it gives us some temporary receipts, creates a raid on pension funds.

Mr. Speaker, as my colleagues know, Federal nursing home regulations did not happen just because somebody wanted to pass some Federal laws. They emerged because over the years there was very serious, fundamental problems in nursing homes as they dealt with the disabled and the elderly population of this country. They emerged because there was a clear need. If they need reform, reform it, but do not throw them out. My colleagues, stick with what the Senate said. Let us keep those Federal standards.

Mr. Speaker and Members, we are going to have a new Medicaid or medigrant program on which we are going to spend over a hundred billion dollars a year. Most certainly the Federal Government can say there are a few things we should do. Stick with the Federal regulations of nursing homes unless there are more comprehensive ones at the State level, but let us make sure that in structuring this program the States at a minimum keep coverage for low-income pregnant women, and children and disabled people.

That is not asking too much. Over $100 billion of Federal funds, and the suggestion is that we should sort of sit back and be oblivious of what any requirement of those funds are.

Mr. Speaker, I have spent many years in my life dealing with the question of Federalism. This kind of Federalism of this much Federal money, and no expectation that these basic requirements should be part of it, is just nuts. So our motion to instruct is very basic. Do not do that dump pension deal. Keep the Federal nursing home standards so our disabled and elderly can be in safe surroundings when they have to go to a nursing home.

As we provide over $100 billion a year to the States, let us simply say that low-income pregnant women and children and disabled people should be able to get health coverage.

Mr. Speaker, I urge a "yes" vote for the motion to instruct.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. KASICH. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, the motion to instruct conferees has good things, some not so good things, some inaccurate statements. I would argue, Mr. Speaker, that rather than picking and choosing, but beyond that, tying the hands of the conferees of the House as they move into negotiations with the Senate, that we provide, obviously, as much flexibility as we possibly can to our conferees, but we should keep in mind some of the issues that have been argued in this motion to instruct.

I think the gentleman makes a legitimate point. We will, in fact, spend time taking a look at a number of the provisions that have, up until now, been dictated by the Federal Government and we intend to turn over to the States. In the course of trying to decide how much of this we turn over to the States and how much of it we preserve, that is clearly going to be a subject of this conference committee. Nothing is ever done 100 percent.

For example, in our Medigrant program, I believe it is up to 85 percent of all the mandatory spending must continue to be spent on women, children, and disabled persons. That is one of the requirements that we have on the House side as it relates to the Medigrant program. I feel strongly that that be maintained.

As to whether that needs to be maintained, and at the same time call that an entitlement and have the folks here dictate even further to my Governor, the Governor of Ohio, that is a matter for debate and discussion within the conference committee.

Pension provisions, of course, get a little bit more complicated, because the pension provisions require that these funds that are in excess of between 125 and the maximum allowed at 150 percent, that the companies would be permitted to draw down those funds.

The chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means would argue that, in fact, giving companies flexibility between 125 percent and 150 percent would bring about additional defined pension plans, which we do not see much of now. Companies are worried they are going to lock their money in the box between 125 and 150 percent.

What is interesting is if you are at 124 percent of liability, you are not affected; only if you are between 125 and 150. However, we have concern on this side, and we want to talk about this as we get into the conference.

What I would ask the Members to do is to not accept the motion to instruct, because if we do, that is it. That is the end of the day. We would take the motion seriously. Frankly, as we move into discussions between the House and Senate, the House has some concerns about Senate provisions and vice versa. We need to work them out as part of a package, to be mandated in two or three specific areas. To lose the ability of the House of Representatives to drive the best program, to drive the best agreement, I personally believe would be a mistake.

I would ask the Members of the House to reject this motion to instruct, preserve flexibility on the part of the conferees here in the House. We will in fact pay attention to some of the suggestions in this motion, some positive suggestions in this motion, but I would ask that we defeat the motion to instruct. Let us have the flexibility to work out the best program we possibly can.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. SABO. Mr. Speaker, if I did not convince the gentleman from Ohio, the next person will.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentlewoman from Florida [Mrs. MEEK].

Mrs. MEEK of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I strongly support and ask the House with their strong sense of compassion and realism to vote yes on the motion to instruct. I think that the conferees need to broaden their knowledge of what is going on in this country with the poor and with the near-poor. I think the conferees need some up-to-date information and sensitivity as to what happens in many of the homes in this country.

Mr. Speaker, I feel very, very embarrassed that the Senate has been, certainly, more sensitive to the needs of the poor than has my dearly beloved House. What they have done, as my ranking Member said, they have not done the best, but they have done much better than we have in the House. They have required Medicaid coverage for nursing homes. That was not done just in a vacuum. There is a history behind that, the many horror stories throughout history of what has happened in the nursing homes in this country. We need Federal regulation, and we need Federal oversight of nursing homes.

The Senate went on further to take care of pregnant women and children. I do not think there is any Member of this House who would want to go back to their home State and say to their home constituents that we would leave it up to someone else to take care of poor children, nursing mothers, and Medicaid-protected children.

I have begged for some consideration for Medicaid not only in the Committee on Rules, but in my home committee that my chairman has turned me down several times on, but I know that I am right, Mr. Speaker, I know we must look out more for the poor children in this country through Medicaid, to be sure they get health protection and be sure that they are taken care of on Medicaid. We should be sure these nursing home standards stay. The Senate has at least guaranteed health care. Why can we not do it?

It is a situation now that nursing home reform did not just happen. We must keep it going. Our chairman must be sure and our ranking member must be sure that House Members are instructed to concur with the Senate recommendations. They have studied all this, the Committee on Commerce. Their committee has information which shows that there are certain States which will not be able to take care of their Medicaid patients if they were not to improve Medicare through the years it has taken this program to get as far as it is now.

Do you want to keep going? Do you want poor children to be handicapped by what we do in the House? Do you want the House to have that stigma? I do not. I am a Member of this proud House, I am a member of the Committee on the Budget. I know that we can do better by the children of this country.

Mr. KASICH. Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Ohio, [Mr. HOBSON].

Mr. HOBSON. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to this motion to instruct. Like the gentlewoman from Florida, [Mrs. MEEK], I spent a lot of time on the State legislature. I have served on the Committee on the Budget. I was chairman of the Committee on Health, Human Services and Aging for many years in the State Senate.

I can tell the Members that I had Governors tell me, other people tell me, "If we could just get the Federal Government off of our backs, we could do better, we will do better." This is a difference of philosophies here. We believe that there is a better way to do things for those children than is happening today. We believe in those children, and we want to help those children, but we do not think putting on burdens from the Federal Government time and time again and increasing costs as a result of duplicate regulations is the way to do it. We would be better, we think, in going back and to allow States to do that, and allow States to do it with a certain amount of regulation. There are some good things here and we are going to look at those, but we do not want to be tied into this particular type of instruction at this point on those things that relate to children.

There are some other things. We want to help pregnant women and children with disabilities. I think I have a good record of doing that. I think I will continue to do that.

Mrs. MEEK of Florida. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mrs. MEEK of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I would say to the gentleman from Ohio [Mr. HOBSON], we are both friends and members of the Committee on the Budget. Would the gentleman believe that I would never have been admitted to a State university if it were left up to the State? Would he also believe I would never have received some of the benefits if it were left up to the State?

Mr. HOBSON. I would tell the gentlewoman, Mr. Speaker, I would believe that. I think that was a number of years ago. I think the States have gotten better; maybe not Florida, I understand. I do not know about Florida. I could tell the Members about Ohio. The gentleman from Florida [Mr. GIBBONS] is laughing. Maybe he comes from a State where that is not true. In my State, that is true. I have until recently sat on the board of the oldest African-American university in the country, and on the board of the public school there, run by the State of Ohio. We have a good record. We have worked on it.

I am just saying we want to preserve these things, we want to do these things, and we are going to try to do that in the conference committee. We are going to do a number of issues where we will go in and we will work to try to get them better than what we have done here and they have done there, but we are not going to impose this particular restraint upon our conference committee at this point.

Mr. KENNEDY of Massachusetts. Mr. Speaker will the gentleman yield?

Mr. HOBSON. I yield to the gentleman from Massachusetts.

Mr. KENNEDY of Massachusetts. Mr. Speaker, I would say to the gentleman from Ohio [Mr. HOBSON], I think everybody respects the gentleman's stature in the House, but the truth of the matter is what we are doing is providing these block grants to the States and we are doing it with less money. Then what we are doing is eliminating standards, basic standards in terms of nursing home care, basic standards in terms of how we treat pregnant women, basic standards that go toward whether or not people can get the assurances.

The gentleman does not work for the State of Ohio any longer. He now works for the Federal Government. It does matter what happens in the State of Florida versus the State of Ohio. That is what we are doing.

Mr. HOBSON. Mr. Speaker, first of all, I would say to the gentleman, I do not work for the Federal Government. I work for the people of the Seventh Congressional District. I work for the people.

Mr. KENNEDY of Massachusetts. The gentleman is paid by the Federal Government.

Mr. HOBSON. The other inconsistency in the gentleman's statement is that we are not spending less money, we are spending more money. I know $1 trillion is an increase that is difficult for the other side to understand, but that is what we are spending.

Mr. KASICH. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. HOBSON. I yield to the gentleman from Ohio.

Mr. KASICH. Let me say, Mr. Speaker, that in our Medigrant Program, that 85 percent of all the money currently being spent on mandatory programs for women, children, disabled, is a provision that is contained in our bill. The interesting thing, though, is that 30 Governors across the States, 30 Governors across the country, have asked the Republicans to limit the rules and regulations and the dictates from Washington. Do Members know why? Because they are being required to comply with rules and regulations dictated by this city that get in the way of their ability to serve their needy population.

I will give one example. First of all, the Governors around this country have been begging bureaucrats in Washington to give them waivers to spend their people's money inside of their States to take care of their populations the way they see fit.

The Governor of Ohio believed if in fact he could have greater flexibility, he could not only attend to the poor population in the State of Ohio, but at the same time he could begin to cover people who do not have health care coverage. In fact, our Governor believes he can serve more people more effectively in the State of Ohio if he did not have to come down here on bended hands and knees to ask the bureaucrats, who do not even know what time zone we are in, as to whether he could deliver services to his own populations within the boundaries of the State of Ohio.

Frankly, I think the Governor of the State of Florida is a fine man, Lawton Chiles. He used to be a U.S. Senator. I do not believe Lawton Chiles will pass laws in the State of Florida that are not going to be designed to help the people of the State of Florida. It is really a matter of whether you have confidence in yourself, where you live. That philosphical point needs to be made here.

Mr. HOBSON. Let me say one thing about this, Mr. Speaker. The plan the gentleman is talking about is a plan that I worked on in the legislature with a Democratic Governor. It is called the Dayton area health plan. It started as a plan for ADC mothers and their children. That program had to come down here on bended knee to get an HCFA waiver in order to do that program for these people. It took months. We had to come back time and time again to do that program.

Right now as a matter of fact, in this bill is a provision extending that, because we are worried about a time factor on it. This Governor thought that the previous Democratic Governor did such a good job that that program is now, as John said, going statewide.

So the States can do things. The problem is, we want more money to go back to the States; the gentleman wants to leave it all here with some bureaucrat here that we have to come down and fight with all of the time. We do not want to do that.

Mr. SABO. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself 1 minute.

Mr. Speaker, we have talked a lot about State government. I spent 18 years in State government. The Federal Government at times frustrated me. There are rules and regulations that need revision, and we need to work on that.

I would have never dreamed of coming to the Federal Government and saying give me $100 billion, no conditions. That is what we are doing in this bill. Nursing homes, Federal standards, go, forget about history, forget about history. Those standards came because the conditions were atrocious. Those of us in State government did not do our job, so we got the Federal standards. We did not just throw them out in the wake of history of why they were created, of dealing with the most vulnerable people in our society.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from Florida [Mr. GIBBONS].

Mr. GIBBONS. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding time to me.

Mr. Speaker, the debate tonight is not about whether we have a balanced budget or not, or how it is done; the debate is really about who is going to carry the burden for this balanced budget. Is the product of the House and the product of the Senate the kind of product that we want to impose on the American public.

A great heavy vote in the House, a great heavy vote in the Senate have said no. Unfortunately, those votes were not quite enough to carry the day, but there were an awful lot of dissent in that. The President has said that he is going to veto what comes out of this effort that we are about to undertake of trying to reconcile the differences between the House and the Senate.

Mr. Speaker, the question tonight is a very fundamental question, which is, who shall carry the burden of this balanced budget? How do we get there? Every time you look at any analysis, outside analysis of who carries the burden in all of this, the burden of this balanced budget comes down on the backs of the sick, the poor, the aged, children, and low-income working Americans.

Now, that is not fair. Let us take a for instance. Let us take the crown jewel, the tax cut. First of all, there is no need for a tax cut today. All of us know we have an unbalanced budget, and why add to the burden of balancing the budget by adding $250 billion worth of tax cuts to it, particularly when you distribute the tax cuts as they are done.

Let us take probably the most expensive item in there, which is the so-many-dollars-per-child tax cut for families with children under 18 years of age. That is a very, very expensive program.

The first thing about it is that it is not $500, as has been so widely advertised, but $365. The second bad thing about the $365 is that only the upper income people get it. The lower-income, working people do not get anything. In fact, 33 percent of all of the people in the United States with children in their family less than 18 years of age get absolutely nothing, not a penny. Another 10 percent get less than the $365 that all of the upper income people get.

Now, that is not fair. If we were trying to balance this budget and to deliver a tax cut, we would never deliver a tax cut in that kind of manner.

With all of the other provisions in the tax bill, and the limited time does not permit me to go through all of the outrages that are in there, we would say, we can put this off, we will debate that at some other time, but let us get on with balancing the budget now. Let us get on with balancing the budget now. It we have to do something for those rich, political friends of my Republican colleagues over there, we will talk about that in a different time frame, a different environment than we are talking about now.

Mr. Speaker, we are talking about balancing the budget; we are talking about who is going to pay for this balanced budget. The sick, the poor, the aged, children, and the working poor are paying for this balanced budget. That is unfair.

This motion to instruct the conferees should be adopted, and the whole thing should be rejected. We should go back to the very beginning and get this done right.

Mr. KASICH. Mr. Speaker, I yield 30 seconds to the gentleman from Ohio [Mr. HOBSON].

Mr. HOBSON. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time.

Mr. Speaker, this is a philosophical difference, and I want to say that State government has changed since many of the Members came to this body; I think the State government was in trouble, and I think State government has improved dramatically.

In my State we had large institutions where we used to put the mentally ill. We reversed that, we changed that. Our State changed that. I think there is a different philosophical understanding between our two sides here. The Democratic side still thinks that the answer to everything is the Federal Government. We do not believe that.

Mr. SABO. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself 30 seconds.

Mr. Speaker, I have described my politics a little bit different. I describe myself as a liberal decentralist. There may not be that many of us around. The best memories of my life, the most fulfilling time of my life was the time I spent in State government.

On the other hand, fully understanding the capability of good State government, and most of them are good today, and they were 20 years ago. Still, for States to come and say, we expect to have a blank check of $100 billion, without the basic requirements that you take care of poor children and disabled people; that you throw out, with all the political pressures that exist, nursing home regulations, that is just crazy.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. KENNEDY].

Mr. KENNEDY of Massachusetts. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time.

Mr. Speaker, I think the world of my good friend from the State of Ohio, Mr. KASICH, but as much as I think of him, I do not think that he can perform the miracles of the loaves and the fishes, and that is what he is talking about doing.

What we are doing here is we are embarking on a process of saying that we are interested in balancing the budget of this country, which I am strongly in favor of and have been strongly in favor of for many years. What we ought not to do is balance the budget on the backs of the poorest, most vulnerable people in this country, and that is what this budget does.

The gentleman from Ohio [Mr. KASICH] made a wonderful speech about reconciliation the other day, but reconciliation implies caring for the poor. It implies a conciliation, a sense that we are going to get together as a people, not pick on the vulnerable. This budget picks on the vulnerable.

All we are asking the House of Representatives and the gentleman from Ohio [Mr. KASICH], who I am trying to have a conversation with, all we are trying to do is ask the gentleman to please pay attention to the Senate that is not picking on poor, vulnerable, pregnant women. We are just asking to please concede to the Senate in terms of cutting off pregnant women. We are asking to pay attention to the fact that when we say these Governors are going to be so careful in terms of their ability to provide these services at greater degrees than they do now for less money.

Mr. Speaker, the truth of the matter is, I got a letter from 24 Governors saying that they wanted to get rid of the spousal impoverishment protections that are contained in the current law. They are doing that because the Republicans are cutting their programs so much that they need the flexibility to be able to cut off senior citizens, they need to be able to cut off elderly widows in order to be able to maintain the Republicans' sense of how to get to a balanced budget.

Why not go after the F-22? Why not go after the B-2 bomber? Why not go after some of the rich pork that is in this program, pork that exists in the budget of the United States that the Republicans side is unwilling to go after.

Mr. KASICH. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself 2 minutes and 10 seconds.

Mr. Speaker, first of all, I did not know we were going to have to go back and start setting the facts straight again, but let me try.

In order to qualify for the Medicaid or the Medigrant program, the State will have to match just like they have. We are not going to take the money and spend it on something other than poor people. The question is, can the State of Ohio figure out how to spend it on poor people in their States better, better, than we have from here.

Let me just suggest to my dear friend from Massachusetts, Mr. KENNEDY, that the closest that we have come to eliminating the B-2 Bomber has been since the Republicans have taken control of the House. We could not get the votes, we could not get the votes to kill the B-2 Bomber when the Democrat majority was in charge.

Now we lost this probably by about 3 or 4 votes, and that is because, frankly, we got more Republicans than we have ever gotten before, and the simple fact of the matter is that we are the ones that have closed loopholes on large corporations. I mean the Puerto Rican 936 giveaway, the large pharmaceutical firms, the point is that we closed that loophole here in the first 9 months. It just took the Republicans about 9 months to close the loophole that corporations used on COLI, the Company Owned Life Insurance. The Democrats had 40 years to do it. We did it in 9 months.

Are there other improvements that need to be made? Dramatic improvements that need to be made. To argue, for example, that we are going to give Medigrant money to the States and they do not have to use it on poor people, that are not the facts. We have to have some semblance of facts to go with the statements.

I have already pointed out that 85 percent of all of the mandatory spending for women and children and the disabled have to continue to be spent, but the Governor of Ohio believes that if we give him the money that the people of Ohio sent to this city, and we give it back to him without all of the bureaucratic rules and regulations and redtape, he will, with great compassion, take care of the poor and expand the program to take care of people who currently, many of the people who currently do not have health care coverage.

So I do not want to get into a tit-for-tat of what we are doing, but the simple fact of the matter is it is having confidence in people where we live. I have confidence in people where I live. I do not think I have to pass this on to people who live 500 miles away to solve my problem. I like to solve the problem in my neighborhood, entrusting the people who I live in the neighborhood with. That is what the program is all about.

Mr. SABO. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. NEAL].

Mr. NEAL of Massachusetts. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding time to me.

Mr. Speaker, just a quick point of reference to a statement that was made by the gentleman from Ohio [Mr. HOBSON] before. The gentleman said that he did not work for the Federal Government of the United States, that he worked for the people of the Seventh District of Ohio.

Mr. Speaker, we all come here based upon the district we represent, but what the gentleman suggested represents the very threat to the national principle that many of us on this side of the aisle are fearful of.

Mr. Speaker, let me call to specific attention tonight to the viewing audience an issue that I think that they ought to be concerned about. Last Friday the other body overwhelmingly removed a corporate pension.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. RIGGS). The gentleman will suspend for a reminder from the Chair that the gentleman will address his comments to the Chair and not the viewing audience.

The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. NEAL of Massachusetts. Mr. Speaker, one of the most onerous provisions in this bill that is before us, and this motion to instruct corrects it, would take away, I think, an issue, if I might remind viewers of tonight, similar to the S&L issue when I first came here.

There is a threat to pensions across this country offered by this reconciliation proposal of the Republican Party. Simply put, their provision allows corporations to raid the pension funds of their hard-working employees.

We should not allow this to stand. Allowing corporations to use their excess pension funds is bad retirement policy, and pension funds would unnecessarily be put at risk. A corporation could take funds out of a pension fund that should be used to improve employee benefits. Some companies have excess current liability in their pension funds and cannot currently pay all of the benefits owed to their employees if the plan is terminated.

Ask yourself tonight what would happen if $40 billion came out of the stock market tomorrow. That represents a real threat to the pensions of hard-working Americans. The PBGC could be faced with a bailout of pension funds that not only would lead to a taxpayer bailout but it would be the ghost of S&L past.

We can protect the pension funds of American workers, as the gentleman from Ohio [Mr. KASICH] said, by taking this motion to instruct seriously and instructing the conferees to leave the pension benefits of hard-working Americans alone.

Mr. KASICH. Mr. Speaker, I yield 4 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Connecticut [Mr. SHAYS], a member of the Committee on the Budget.

Mr. SHAYS. I thank the gentleman for yielding me the time.

Mr. Speaker, we have a major task. Our task is to get our financial house in order and balance our budget, and we are going to do it with the help of our colleagues on the other side or without it, but we are going to do our job.

I would just like to reemphasize the fact that my esteemed chairman has made a point of, and that is that we have only had eight months to deal with a problem that has existed for a long time. I readily agree with my colleagues on the other side of the aisle that both Republicans and Democrats have their fingers in this problem that has existed with the deficits going higher and higher and higher.

The bottom line is, we had a Republican President, we had a Democratic Congress for much of that, and both sides simply could not agree. Republicans wanted to spend more on defense, and Democrats did not want to control the growth of entitlements, and they both agreed to disagree and end up with large deficits.

That was then, and this is now. Now is, we have a chance to deal with the problem. The way we are dealing with this problem is to slow the growth in spending so, ultimately, it intersects revenue seven years out. We are still going to have over a trillion dollar increase in our national debt, but it will not be $3 trillion or it will not be $2.5 trillion. We are going to slow that growth so, ultimately, in the seventh year, we have a balanced budget.

In the process, we are going to save our trust funds. Our trust funds are going bankrupt, particularly Social Security. It becomes insolvent next year. It goes bankrupt in 7 years. We are going to stretch that out so it does not go bankrupt in the year 2002. It is going to get up to the year 2010.

The third thing we are going to do, and the most important, is we are going to transform this social and corporate welfare state into an opportunity society. We know we have welfare that we focused attention on in the social side of our budget, but we also have corporate welfare as well that we are getting at, to the tune of $29 billion. When I hear things about cutting and I know we are spending more, I just do not know how you can keep saying that.

The bottom line to this issue is that we hear comments about how we are cutting Medicare, and I know we are not cutting it. We are going to spend 73 percent more in the next 7 years than we did in the last seven. I know we are going to spend over $674 billion additional in Medicare.

I also know, at the same time, that we do not have an increase in copayments. We do not have an increase in deductibles. I know the premium stays at 31.5 percent. It means the taxpayers are going to pay 68.5 percent; and as health care costs go up, as they have in the past, that 31.5 percent will go up as it has in the past.

I know we are not forcing people out of Medicare. They can stay where they are. They can get the traditional fee-for-service program they have gotten for the last 30 years. But if they want to, we have a plan that enables them to get private care and get better eye care or better dental care or maybe get a rebate, a refund in their premium, getting into the private sector plans. So I know we are not cutting Medicare. I know we are not cutting Medicaid.

Then I hear about school loans. School loans go up from $24 billion this year to $36 billion in the seventh year. I think about that, and I think only in this place and where the virus has spread, when you go from $24 billion to $36 billion in school loans, do people call that a cut.

What are we asking? We are saying that grace period that students will have to pay the interest when they get out of school for that next 6 months, that grace period, they are going to have to pay the interest. It amounts to $9 more a month for those students who have borrowed $17,000. So I am thinking, $9 more a month, and that is a cut. We are going from $24 billion to $36 billion. Replete in our budget, time in, time out, we are spending more, but you call it a cut, and it is not a cut. It is an increase.

Bottom line, we are going to get our financial house in order, we are going to balance our budget, we are going to save our trust funds with or without your help, and we are going to transfer this social and corporate welfare state into an opportunity society. It would be nice to have your help, but if it is not there, we will just have to proceed on our own.

Mr. DINGELL. Mr. Speaker, it is always fun to remind my Republican colleagues that in the last Bush budget there was a deficit of $290 billion. The budget deficit, having fallen 3 years running, is now down to a little over $164 billion.

Think of that, my Republican colleagues. But I do not rise to talk about that. I rise to talk about something else. It is something which will not save a nickel of money for the taxpayers of the United States but which will do irresponsible and unlimited harm and hurt to one of the most helpless groups in our society. I refer to the nursing home patients. This bill absolutely does away with the nursing home protections for patients who are incarcerated in nursing homes.

In the 1980's our Committee on Oversight Investigations conducted a lengthy investigation of this. We found nursing home patients lying in their own human excrement, covered with bedsores. We found them tied to their beds. We found them drugged. We found their assets stolen. And we found them impoverished improperly by raids upon their assets. We also found that they were in fire traps which burned, and they were burned to death in these fire traps. We found inadequate care. We found inadequate facilities. We found people who were not able to get the care they needed because there was neither an adequate number of employees nor properly qualified employees. These are the most helpless people in this country. We passed bipartisan legislation to do away with those abuses.

That bipartisan legislation is repealed by the legislation before us. This legislation is rich in hortatory language that, like the Tale of the Idiot in Shakespeare, is full of sound and fury but signifies nothing because it does nothing. It is long on hortatory language.

What this bill will do if the motion to instruct is not adopted is to return to those sad, unfortunate, unsavory days when the most helpless in our society were abused. That is the kind of legislation we have before us.

Adopt the motion to instruct.

Mr. KASICH. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. WALKER], the chairman of the Committee on Science.

Mr. WALKER. I thank the gentleman for yielding me the time.

Mr. Speaker, it is interesting to come here to the floor and hear that the Democrats are going to present some rational arguments against what has been done and then listen to them come on the floor and emote.

The fact is that what we have heard in a couple of instances has been kind of interesting here this evening. For example, the talk about the fact that middle-income and low-income people are having their taxes increased. The fact is that what they are doing is basing that on a calculation with regard to the earned income tax credit. The earned income tax credit is actually going up under our plan over the next 7 years by 40 percent. There is going to be a massive increase in the amount of money that people are going to get. This is not taxes that they are having to pay. This is money that the Government takes and hands back to them. It is low-income people who actually get money handed to them through a check handed to them by the Government. That is going to go up 40 percent over the next 7 years under our plan and so the Democrats seem to think that that is a cut. It is just kind of interesting.

The other thing I am interested in hearing them talk about is pensions. It is fascinating to hear them come to the floor and hear them talk about how we are doing something to pensions when the fact is that the greatest danger to pensioners in this country is being done by this administration that is trying to take the pension money and sink it into public housing and other public projects. Under Secretary Reich, the Democrats have put forward a plan that would have the money taken out of the pension plans and invested in high-risk, low-interest investments.

Mr. POMEROY. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. WALKER. I will not yield.

Mr. POMEROY. Your facts are not correct.

Mr. KASICH. Mr. Speaker, regular order.

Mr. WALKER. I am not going to yield. I am going to make my statement. I have heard a lot of ridiculous talk.

The Democrats are doing a job on the pensioners of this country. Now what they have found is that Republicans actually want to try to reform the system and do something better for pension plans in this country and guess what? It is going to take money away from where they want to put money in for public housing. The Democrats have figured out that we are lowering the amount of money being put into social welfare in these budgets and now what they want to do is they want to raid the pension funds and they have figured out that under our plans they are not going to be able to raid those pension funds for social welfare spending. It is absolutely amazing to hear what we are hearing on the floor tonight. The fact is the real danger is the social welfare philosophy of the Democrats.

Mr. SABO. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself 30 seconds.

Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. WALKER] is dead wrong. We increased the earned income tax credit last year. You are cutting it. You are raiding the employees trust funds, taking pension assets out of them.

Your characterization of what the President and others have suggested on pension funds is total distortion.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Texas, Mr. GENE GREEN.

Mr. GENE GREEN of Texas. Mr. Speaker, let me also compliment the gentleman from Pennsylvania for bringing that up and if he would look at what Secretary Reich has said.

That bill that we passed here, there is no mandate from the Department of Labor on any of those investments in housing. But the argument should be I would rather them invest in housing here than in Beirut, Lebanon where some of them may get the same rate of return they would instead of downtown Houston.

I rise tonight to support the motion to instruct. I support a balanced budget but not the effort that the majority is trying to do. It is ironic that our Speaker and supporters approved this budget plan just a few days before Halloween and here we are going to have it tomorrow.

When one looks at the facts, it is clear that their budget and their rhetoric are the ones that are scaring the American people. They are scaring seniors on Medicare, college students and the workers who are depending on those pensions instead of this raid on the pension plans.

Perhaps the single biggest trick is that the Republicans are cutting Medicare by $270 billion in order to pay for the $245 billion budget-busting tax cut.

The fact is that Medicare is cut to pay for tax cuts is highlighted by the Medicare cuts are 3 times greater than what the Medicare trustees have said they needed to do to ensure Medicare solvency to the year 2006.

If you do not think that is scary enough, listen to this from a distinguished Member from the other body:

I was there fighting the fight, voting against Medicare, 1 out of about 12 because we knew it would not work in 1965.

And from a Member of our own body: "Now we don't get rid of it," that is being the Medicare they are trying to save supposedly, "in round one because we don't think that's politically smart and we don't think it's the right way to go through a transition period. But we believe it's going to wither on the vine because we think people are voluntarily going to leave it."

Voluntarily leave Medicare? The budget plan will force seniors out of Medicare. That is not voluntary. It is forcing them out.

The promises from the Republicans to strengthen and preserve Medicare are scary Halloween tricks on senior citizens.

Let me remind Members what the gentleman from Michigan [Mr. DINGELL] said, that in 1990 we had a $290 billion deficit on a yearly basis. This last year without one Republican vote we had $164 billion.

Mr. KASICH. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. WALKER].

Mr. WALKER. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding.

I just want to point out again, under our plan, EITC goes up by 40 percent. The gentleman from Minnesota seems to think that is a cut. A 40-percent increase seems to me to be a pretty good increase.

Mr. POMEROY. Mr. Speaker will the gentleman yield?

Mr. WALKER. No. I am going to make my statement.

Mr. KASICH. Mr. Speaker, I want to just——

The SPEAKER pro tempore. [Mr. RIGGS] The gentleman from Pennsylvania will suspend so the Chair can get order.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. KASICH. Mr. Speaker, I want to make a parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Does the gentleman from Pennsylvania yield to the gentleman from Ohio?

Mr. KASICH. I want to make a parliamentary inquiry.

Under the rules of the House, is the Speaker supposed to maintain order in here?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Yes; the Speaker is to maintain order in the House at all times, and the Speaker will remind Members that the gentleman from Pennsylvania controls the time, and the House will proceed under regular order.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for his parliamentary inquiry.

I just wanted to also point out, I come back and say exactly the point again, that the President has issued an Executive order. Secretary Reich is in the process of implementing the Executive order that is designed to raid the pension system of this country, and take money out of productive investments where that money can actually earn real money and put it into public housing. I think the workers of this country would be absolutely appalled if they understood what this administration is about to do, and that is take their money out of places where it is actually leading to productive investment in the country and going into public housing.

Mr. SABO. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from North Dakota [Mr. POMEROY].

Mr. POMEROY. Mr. Speaker, I am happy to correct some absolute misstatements by the preceding speaker, the gentleman from Pennsylvania.

The administration has proposed nothing that involves the use of pension in any high risk venture. Nothing has been proposed in that respect.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. WALKER. Is public housing a high risk investment?

Mr. POMEROY. Reclaiming my time, I will explain it to you, so listen. No investment may be used unless it is equal in return and risk to any other investment to be made by a prudent investor. That is the only standard of consideration by the Treasury Department.

Let me proceed with what has been proposed in the budget that every member of the majority, with a few exceptions, voted for: a raid on pension plans that has been estimated to bring in 40, that has been estimated to allow $40 billion in pension fund assets to fly out of pension funds. During the 1980's we saw pension funds being used to finance hostile takeovers of corporations. It was the money of the pensioners that was used to finance these pensions.

On three different occasions Congress enacted safeguards so this could never happen again. Without a hearing, Ways and Means removes all of those safeguards for a windfall window for corporations to make a pension grab up until July 1, 1996, and a 6.5-percent penalty thereafter.

What will happen is one of three scenarios: Hostile takeovers kick in again, they raid the corporations, they use the workers' pension funds to finance the takeover; second scenario, a corporation wanting to fend off a hostile takeover, caring about their workers but wanting to fend off a hostile takeover, has to take out of the pension funds to remove themselves as a target; or, third, a corporation that is in financial trouble begins to dip in the cookie jar, the pension funds reserved for the workers.

I know about this. I for 8 years regulated the solvency of insurance companies. I am the only Member of this body that has spent 8 years regulating solvency. This is a solvency protection issue. It goes at the heart of the pension security of millions of working men and women across this country.

When this came before the floor of the Senate, in their budget debate, they rejected this ill-thought-out proposal by a vote of 95 to 4.

We urge this body to approve this and yield to the Senate position, restore worker pension security.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. At this point in the debate, the gentleman from Ohio [Mr. KASICH] has 8 minutes 50 seconds remaining, and the gentleman from Minnesota [Mr. SABO] has 6 minutes remaining.

Mr. SABO. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. PALLONE].

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I want to urge support for the motion to instruct offered by the gentleman from Minnesota [Mr. SABO].

Let me point out to my colleagues on the other side that all this motion does is to ask the conferees to recede to the Senate position on the pension reversions. So essentially what we are saying is these pension provisions in the House bill are not wise, and the Senate, to their credit, has essentially said they are not wise, and that was done by the majority party. I think that is a recognition of the fact that the concerns that we have over the pension provisions in the House bill are real and, therefore, the conferees should listen to what the Senate has done because of their concern.

I just wanted to go back and point out from the very beginning that the reason why I support this motion to instruct is primarily because it recognizes the fact that we should not destroy Medicare by providing tax cuts for the wealthy. What the motion said is that we can provide more money for Medicare, more money for Medicaid if we simply decrease the amount of tax cuts that are going for wealthy Americans. At the same time the motion also says do not increase taxes on poor people. The earned income tax credit, which has been the subject of much of the debate here today, put more money back into the earned income tax credit, the way the current law would provide, so that we do not have a higher tax in this budget bill on poor people; the same thing with regard to Medicare part B. Medicare part B is doubled in this legislation.

Let us avoid some of those increases. Let us avoid taxing poor people or poor elderly or elderly in general, who cannot afford to pay for that tax increase.

The other recognition I think that in this motion to instruct is that a lot of people may simply not get health coverage, may not have access to health care because of what is in this legislation, low-income seniors who no longer will be eligible for part B and have their Medicare part B premiums paid, States that may decide they are not going to provide the guarantee of Medicaid coverage in certain categories.

I urge support for the motion. It makes sense and takes away from some of the terrible things that are in this bill that are passed last week in the House.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair would remind the gentleman from Minnesota [Mr. SABO] that he has the right to close the debate.

Mr. SABO. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the distinguished gentlewoman from Colorado. [Mrs. SCHROEDER].

Mrs. SCHROEDER. Mr. Speaker, this is very simple, what we are talking about. We are talking about "wreckonciliation" and we have a little bit of progress tonight if we pass this motion to instruct.

If we do not pass this motion to instruct, we are going to wreck all of the regulations dealing with nursing homes. We are going to wreck the fact that Medicaid goes for women, children and disabled, and we are going to wreck the pension part.

The other body voted on these very strongly, and all we are saying to our side is, please, please go along with the Senate on what they strongly voted on.

Mr. FRANK of Massachusetts. Mr. Speaker, will the gentlewoman yield?

Mrs. SCHROEDER. I yield to the gentleman from Massachusetts.

Mr. FRANK of Massachusetts. Mr. Speaker, I am glad the gentlewoman mentioned pension. The gentleman from Pennsylvania made the preposterous statement we are putting pension money into public housing. That is, of course, literally impossible. Public housing is wholly public funding. What he may be talking about, and I have to say on this issue, if a little knowledge is a dangerous thing, the gentleman from Pennsylvania is quite safe, because he has none whatsoever.

This House voted, with support of Republicans on the Committee on Banking and Financial Services, to allow building trades to invest their own pension funds in housing, not public housing but assisted housing, which would help build housing and help their jobs. Some of those projects have already been built. He made that argument before; he was repudiated by the Republicans on the Committee on Banking and Financial Services, as well as over two-thirds of the House.

Some of that has been done, and there is not any evidence whatsoever that anybody is trying to put any money into public housing. It is a matter that involves poor people and so, therefore, it is one he is not familiar with.

Mrs. SCHROEDER. The gentleman from Massachusetts is absolutely correct. I think we ought to listen to that, because not only the vote in the Senate was 95 Senators agreed with the gentleman from Massachusetts and everyone else. So if you do not want your pension wrecked, if you do not want to do away with standards for nursing homes, and if you do not want to undercut Medicaid benefits for the disabled and low-income women and children, vote "yes" on this motion to instruct. It is time we show we have a heart larger than a swollen pea.

Mr. KASICH. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself the balance of the time.

Let me say, Mr. Speaker, that I do understand the emotional attachment that some in the House have towards believing that the only way to solve problems in this country is to send more money and influence and power to people in this city.

What I am a little mystified about is the fact that our philosophy simply is this: We think that if we send or if we keep our money and our power and influence and we invest it in our neighbors, our friends, our families, our local elected officials, that they frankly are capable of showing as much or more compassion than those folks who have been vested, with money, power and influence in this city.

Let me say, Mr. Speaker, if in fact we do not return power and money and influence back to our local communities, then in fact the country is on a road towards bankruptcy. I would say that the Democratic side here has made some legitimate points tonight that we, in fact, will consider in the conference. The conference is a matter of being able to take the provisions that we have passed in this body, to be able to sit down with those in the other body and work out the big picture in terms of what best is going to help solve the problems of this country.

As I have already pointed out, our Medicaid plan already has a requirement that 85 percent of all the mandatory spending that affects the children and the poor and the disabled be maintained, that a State match be maintained, and we are going to continue to have discussions in areas where we have some disagreement. But at the end of the day, we are going to pass a plan that gives increased flexibility, more money on entitlement programs, not less, more money on entitlement programs, and restores a big part of common sense. It is about the pendulum coming back from too many rules being dictated here to more decisions being made at the local level.

I would ask my colleagues to allow us to maintain this, the flexibility, as we go to the conference, reject the specific motion to instruct conferees, allow us to get on with our job. Within the period of hopefully 2 weeks, we will all be back up here with a wrapped-up reconciliation bill that will in fact accomplish our objectives.

Mr. Speaker, I ask for a "no" vote on the motion to instruct.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. SABO. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes, the remainder of my time, to the gentleman from Michigan [Mr. LEVIN].

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. Speaker, we have heard some sounds of reasonableness from the gentleman from Ohio [Mr. KASICH] and from a few others. But we have also heard tonight some notes of meanness.

Let me say a word about the pension issue, for example. Look, the Democrats have not asked that any fund be able to spend this money for public housing, as stated. All we have said is let management-labor trust funds spend money within the industry in which they labor, and we have said to you, do not let employers take back money that employees earned for their pensions. That is what we have said.

I sit on the Committee on Ways and Means, and why was the $40 billion proposed? In order to raise $10 billion in taxes.

I think it is mean to steal pension money from people who worked for it in order to pay for a tax cut for very wealthy Americans.

Let me say just a word about this corporate welfare suggestion to the gentleman from Connecticut. Look, there is not an attack on corporate welfare here. Sixty-nine percent of this is EITC pension and low income housing credit programs. EITC is not giving money back to people. They worked for it. It is not the Government's money. Now some are proposing to reduce it.

What we are trying to do through this motion is to bring some common sense to this process, and to take America back from the extremism that we have brought to these deliberations.

Vote for this motion to instruct. The Senate did better, but we have to send a message to the House and Senate conferees: Do not listen to the extremism in this budget. Vote for this motion to instruct.

Mr. SABO. Mr. Speaker, I move the previous question on the motion to instruct.

The previous question was ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. RIGGS). The question is on the motion to instruct offered by the gentleman from Minnesota [Mr. SABO].

The question was taken; and the Speaker pro tempore announced that the ayes appeared to have it.

RECORDED VOTE

Mr. KASICH. Mr. Speaker, I demand a recorded vote.

A recorded vote was ordered.

The vote was taken by electronic device, and there were—ayes 198, noes 219, not voting 15, as follows:

☐ 2025

So (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the resolution was agreed to.

The result of the vote was announced as above recorded.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION

Mr. YOUNG of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I was not recorded on rollcalls 745. Had I been recorded, I would have voted "yes".

Mr. Speaker, I was inadvertently delayed Monday evening, October 30, 1995, during the consideration of House Resolution 247, expressing the concern of the House about the possible deployment of American troops in Bosnia. Had I been present, I would have voted "yes" on rollcall No. 745 in support of this resolution.

PERMISSION FOR SUNDRY COMMITTEES AND THEIR SUBCOMMITTEES TO SIT TOMORROW DURING 5-MINUTE RULE

Mr. CANADY of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the following committees and their subcommittees be permitted to sit tomorrow while the House is meeting in the Committee of the Whole House under the 5-minute rule.

Committee on Commerce, Committee on Economic and Educational Opportunities, Committee on Government Reform and Oversight, Committee on International Relations, Committee on the Judiciary, Committee on Resources, Committee on Science, Committee on Small Business, Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure, and Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence.

It is my understanding that the minority has been consulted and that there is no objection to these requests.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. RIGGS). Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Florida?

There was no objection.

IN HONOR OF TOM EBERLEIN

(Mr. DELAY asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. DELAY. Mr. Speaker, on October 27, the Office of the Sergeant at Arms, in particular, and the House of Representatives as a whole, lost a friend and coworker.

Tom Eberlein was a valued member of the Sergeant at Arms Chamber security unit since 1992. Prior to that, Tom spent 20 years in the security field, including 17 years as a detective with the Metropolitan Police Department.

Those of us who knew Tom came to appreciate his genuine enthusiasm for his job. He was proud of the knowledge he acquired of the workings of this institution and eagerly shared it with others in order to better serve the House.

His most memorable trait was his unflagging good humor, through the long days and nights, that he shared freely with one and all. Anyone entering the Chamber through the main doors can't have failed to notice Tom's cheerful, yet professional presence. The long hours and constant pressure never diminished his ability to perform his duties while lifting the spirits of those fortunate enough to serve with him.

These words alone cannot adequately convey our sense of loss. His coworkers, especially will feel the loss as they must carry on now without him. Tom set a high standard for all of us. His smiling face and ready laugh will missed by all.

SPECIAL ORDERS

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mrs. SEASTRAND). Under the Speaker's announced policy of May 12, 1995, and under a previous order of the House, the following Members will be recognized for 5 minutes each.

TRIBUTE TO BONNIE L. HAYS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentlewoman from Oregon [Ms. FURSE] is recognized for 5 minutes.

Ms. FURSE. Madam Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to Bonnie L. Hays, of Washington County, OR, who has selflessly given of herself through 20 years of community service. From her days as a high school teacher to her recent 8-year tenure as the chairwoman of the Washington County Board of Commissioners, Ms. Hays exemplifies the virtues of commitment, hard-work, and compassion. Her extensive community involvement is testament to her belief in public service.

As Chairwoman, Bonnie oversaw the implementation of the Major Street Transportation Improvement Plan, overwhelmingly approved by voters. This program has allowed for Washington County to maintain its roadway infrastructure while dealing with incredible growth. Her work in mental health and juvenile corrections has resulted in streamlining and making more efficient those county agencies that deal with the complex issues related to community health and safety. Her service to El Centro Cultural and A Child's Place have brought greater attention to minority and children's needs.

Now, as Bonnie faces her toughest battle we remember her spirit and strength. She is in our hearts and minds today. I am privileged to have this opportunity to recognize her before this body and I am honored to call her a friend.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from California [Mr. RADANOVICH] is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. RADANOVICH. Madam Speaker, it is my sad duty to inform the House of the loss of one of our former Members, the Honorable Bernice Frederic Sisk. "Bernie," as he was widely and popularly known was first elected to Congress in 1954. His service began in the 84th Congress and continued for 11 succeeding Congresses. He was not a candidate for re-election in 1978, returning to his Fresno, California home where he lived and served the community in many ways until he went to his final rest on Wednesday of this week—October 25.

Mr. Speaker, I have the honor to represent today much of the area of California that Congressman Sisk served during his near quarter century in this House. Thus, I am familiar with his legacy and I know from countless constituents the admiration and respect in which he was held.

What was written by Capital commentators over time about Congressman Sisk is worth recalling as we honor his memory. In the 1972 Almanac of American Politics, reference is made to how his ingratiating personality and conservative record saw him, an important figure in the House, become a candidate for Majority Leader in late 1970.

I feel a kinship with my late predecessor, Mr. Speaker, not only because of geographical identity and his conservatism—even though my party was not his—but also because of his main legislative interest, namely, agriculture, and his sponsorship of major water projects for California's Central Valley. Indeed, the San Luis Dam of the Central Valley Project is named for him.

Our community also applauded "Bernie" Sisk's legislative leadership in 1977 when he moved to the fore in connection with health care cost control related to Medicare. According to Congressional Quarterly Almanac, he relayed concerns from his district about the effects of an administration plan. He said, according to CQ, "hospitals must have some way to control the cost of their supplies if they were required to control their revenues." The publication reports that Congressman Sisk said hospitals in his area had complained that Federal regulations had become too binding, preventing economy measures that the hospitals wanted to institute. "There must be more flexibility," he is reported as saying.

Probably no better statement of the legacy of Congressman Sisk could be expressed than that of our former colleague, Congressman Tony Coelho, who once served as Congressman Sisk's administrative assistant here on the Hill. Tony told me today, "No single individual did more to advance the economy and growth of the Central Valley than Bernie Sisk."

Mr. Speaker, Congressman Sisk's passing is a loss to our community and country. To his family, friends, and all he served with great distinction, I express my sincerest sympathy.

In further esteem for his memory, I ask that there be included with my remarks the published obituary from the Fresno Bee of October 26, 1995, entitled "Congressman Leaves Legacy."

CONGRESSMAN LEAVES LEGACY

(By Felicia Cousart and Michael Doyle)

Former Congressman B.F. Sisk, who emerged from a Dust Bowl childhood to become a longtime political power broker in the nation's capital, died Wednesday in Fresno after a lengthy illness.

He was 84.

Mr. Sisk, a moderate Democrat from Fresno who served in Congress from 1955 to 1979, worked with six presidents and four House speakers during his long tenure representing the Valley.

The one-time tire salesman was one of the most influential lawmakers to come from the region, benefiting not only Valley interests but shaping national policy as well.

"There's nobody who had a greater impact on the San Joaquin Valley than Bernie Sisk," said Tony Coelho, former House majority whip and Mr. Sisk's one-time administrative assistant. "You can go up and down the Valley and find the projects he put there."

But Mr. Sisk's story is much more than the legacy of a political mover-and-shaker. How he got there is just as fascinating, especially for a man who professed to never have any political ambitions until that day in 1954 when Mr. Sisk, then 43, decided to run for office.

He upset Republican Oakley Hunter in what was then California's 12th District and never looked back.

'POLITICAL ACCIDENT'

Mr. Sisk's years in Congress stretched from the laid-back days of Eisenhower to the turmoil of Vietnam and Nixon's Watergate to the early years of the Carter administration.

"I was a political accident," Mr. Sisk said in his easy Texas drawl in 1978 when he announced he would retire. He said he never caught what is called "Potomac fever."

For a "political accident," Mr. Sisk's work had far-reaching consequences, from his relentless pursuit of the San Luis water project in the Valley to serving on a committee that helped land the first man on the moon.

He showed a remarkable aptitude for the political game and became a consummate player. As a member of the House Rules Committee and House Administration Committee, he did for other lawmakers so that they could do for him.

"That gave him a very powerful place," said former Sen. Alan Cranston. "He'd start something in the House, or I'd start something in the Senate and then we'd work together."

Mr. Sisk's greatest single Valley contribution is the San Luis Unit of the Central Valley Project. Recently, the San Luis Dam was re-named B.F. Sisk San Luis Dam. The project includes the vast reservoir near Los Banos and 115 miles of canals that help irrigate farmland between Los Banos and Kettleman City.

At more than 2 million acre-feet, the San Luis Reservoir is the largest reservoir in the world without a natural stream.

"I'm not sure anybody else could have gotten it through," Coelho said.

And there are other projects that exist because of Mr. Sisk.

Communities like Sanger, Selma, Madera and others tapped into federal funds because of him. The huge Internal Revenue Service center in Fresno, with its 3,500 permanent employees, is in Fresno because of Mr. Sisk. The federal building in downtown Fresno is named after Mr. Sisk.

But his reach went far beyond the Valley. When the Soviet Union sent Sputnik into orbit in 1957, Washington went into a tailspin. Within hours, House Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas put together a blue-ribbon committee on science and astronautics and appointed Mr. Sisk.

The committee acted to create the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, a move that climaxed with the United States landing Apollo 11 on the moon in 1969.

In 1961, Rayburn again picked Mr. Sisk for another plum assignment: serving on the power-wielding Rules Committee.

The panel is for insiders only—its members set the rules for debate and decide which amendments can be voted on.

That committee in the early 1960's helped change history. President Kennedy pushed to add Mr. Sisk and five other members to dilute the power of the Southern Democratic chairman who was blocking Kennedy's agenda.

With the balance shifted, the committee moved ahead on more progressive Democratic proposals that included civil rights, minimum wage and education aid legislation.

IMPORTANT ISSUES

Not all of Mr. Sisk's efforts were of such weighty magnitude, but they were just as important to him.

A baseball fanatic who played the game in high school and college, Mr. Sisk campaigned fervently to keep a professional baseball team in Washington, D.C., when the Senators announced they were leaving in 1971. He and other congressmen even got a committee together.

In 1973, The Touchtown Club of Washington, one of the major athletic clubs in the nation, gave Mr. Sisk its "Mr. Sam Award" in recognition of his efforts.

Mr. Sisk had the ability to separate his personal relationships from his political positions. For example, even as he resisted Southern California's recurring bids for water, he maintained good relations with all sides.

"He used to hate my client but he and I got along great," said Bob Will, a longtime lobbyist for the Metropolitan Water District of Southern California.

"He was one of the fairest guys I ever dealt with. If he had a problem, he summoned me to his office and we tried to work it out," Will said. "Bernie was one of the real doers."

He did not always get what he wanted. He tried for the position of House majority leader once and failed. Then he tried for the chairmanship of the House Democratic caucus and failed.

He had his rivals for power in California, like the late San Francisco Congressman Phil Burton and they would maneuver for advantage against one another.

But Mr. Sisk was never short of admirers.

"Congressman Sisk helped establish a tradition of moderate Democrats from the Valley who are committed to furthering the cause of Valley agriculture," said Rep. Cal Dooley, D-Hanford. "His tradition is one that I and other valley legislators have tried to follow."

His Republican colleague, Rep. George Radanovich of Mariposa, said the community and nation lost a leader.

"Bernie Sisk's service and his special concerns for California's Central Valley set a standard that all of us respect and will long remember," he said.

"I wouldn't even call him a politician," said Tim Dillon, former lobbyist for the Westlands Water District. "He would never connive. Bernie was just a fine person from the standpoint of integrity"

HIS BEGINNINGS

He was born Bernice Frederick Sisk on Dec. 14, 1910, in a house in rural Montague County in Texas. It was a family of traditional Southern Democrats.

His father, Arthur Lee Sisk, was a farmer and his mother was the former Lavina Thomas. He was the oldest of three children.

It was a time when young Bernie rode to school on a horse named Beauty, and he remembered at the age of 7 "going with my parents in the Model T to the Baptist Church in Alanreed to listen to a new invention called a radio."

In school, history was his favorite subject. He finished high school in Meadow, Texas, where he was class valedictorian.

It is also where he met his first wife, Reta. It was not exactly love at first sight. Mr. Sisk had fallen for another and ended up on a double date. Reta was the date of the other fellow.

"Well, Reta and I soon found out we liked each other better and became engaged to be married before we graduated from high school," Mr. Sisk recalled.

They were wed on April 20, 1931, and were married for 54 years until her death in January 1986.

Reta helped keep him a down-to-earth man. She would play annual April Fool's Day jokes on him that rarely failed to get his goat.

After high school, Mr. Sisk enrolled in a business college and later attended Abilene Christian College.

The Depression and drought in Texas made times tough for the Sisks and everyone else. Their first child, Bobbye, was born in February 1932, and their second child, Marilyn, was born in February 1935.

Mr. Sisk found different kinds of jobs, like running a service station and working for his father at a cotton gin, but it got to the point where there "were just no jobs to be had." He managed to get work as a truck driver but it meant long hours away from the family.

By 1937, it was time to move and California seemed the best destination.

His first job paid 30 cents an hour to thin nectarines. From there, he picked other crops until he landed a job at California Growers Wineries near Cutler. He helped organize a union there and was its first shop steward.

When the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor in 1941, Mr. Sisk was 31 and volunteered for officer candidate school. He went to work as a flight dispatcher at Sequoia Field in Visalia.

After the war, the Sisks moved to Fresno, and Mr. Sisk found a job as a tire salesman, eventually becoming general manager for the General Tire and Rubber Co.

IN TUNE WITH VALLEY

It was this job that put Mr. Sisk in tune with what was happening throughout the county. As he visited with farmers on the Valley's west side, he learned of their water problems.

Mr. Sisk also noted there were few Democratic leaders in the area and complained about it.

Then one day in 1954, Mr. Sisk was invited by lawyer Ken Andreen and labor newspaper editor Charles Clough to meet at the old Sequoia Hotel on Van Ness Avenue.

Mr. Sisk thought he was going to make another tire sale. But they wanted to sell him on something—running for Congress.

"Man, I almost fell out of my chair," Mr. Sisk recalled, "I said, 'You people are mixed up. I work for General Tire and Rubber Company.'"

They said: "We understand that's the work you do, but we have been told that you're a Democrat and frankly we're needing a candidate."

The rest is history.

Mr. Sisk worked with some of the most powerful men in America's political history. He worshiped Rayburn, who appointed him to those prized spots on the Rules Committee and the aeronautics committee.

He said his favorite president was Kennedy. "I was a disciple of Camelot," he said. "I came to love that guy. I never felt more of a personal attachment for a president."

Once retired, Mr. Sisk returned to Fresno and threw himself into a number of projects.

After Reta's death, Mr. Sisk married again seven months later to Virgie Mitchell, whose late husband was a brother of Reta.

For Mr. Sisk, responding to thousands of constituents' queries was just as important as running in the high-powered circles of Washington.

Andreen, who became a justice for the 5th District Court of Appeals, would share a story at a 1978 testimonial dinner for Mr. Sisk about the farmer whose tractor was stuck in the mud because the Friant-Kern Canal was flooding his land.

Mr. Sisk, just elected, was in the process of moving into his Washington office. In 2½ hours, Mr. Sisk called the farmer back.

"He did not say, 'I'm going to get on it' or 'I told so-and-so to do something,'" Andreen said. "No, he told the farmer, 'The leak is fixed and your tractor is out of the mud.' Nothing happens that fast in government—unless it comes to the attention of Bernie Sisk."

TRIBUTES

And those who served with him, whether they agreed with him or not, will always remember him as a true gentleman."—John Krebs, former U.S. representative.

"His number one thing was to take care of the constituents. He never held himself out to be a world leader. What Bernie had, that very few folks have, was the ability to disagree with you without making you angry."—Gordon Nelson, Sisk's former administrative assistant.

MORE ON THE MOTION TO INSTRUCT

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. PALLONE] is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. PALLONE. Madam Speaker, I just wanted to take this opportunity to talk a little bit more about the motion to instruct the conferees on the budget reconciliation bill which we voted on just a few moments ago, actually.

I felt very strongly, I had a chance to talk a little bit about it, but I just wanted to elaborate a little more. I felt very strongly during the debate today on this motion that the motion really got to the heart of the issue on Medicare, the cuts in Medicare, the cuts in Medicaid, and the cuts essentially to our health care system in general and how this Republican budget has essentially targeted, if you will, Medicare and Medicaid in order to primarily pay for tax cuts for wealthy Americans.

The motion to instruct the conferees pays attention to that and essentially says that the conferees should try to do whatever they can to minimize both tax cuts for the wealthy and tax increases on low- and middle-income working families in order to preserve and protect the health and income security of senior citizens and to avoid increasing the number of Americans lacking access to health care.

From the very beginning of this debate on the budget, on the one side concern about Medicare and Medicaid, on the other side the issue of where tax cuts are going to go and how those two are going to interplay, from the very beginning I thought it was possible and the point needed to be made that there was a relationship, a direct relationship between the cuts in Medicare and Medicaid and the tax cuts that were going to be implemented for wealthy Americans. In fact, if you eliminate a lot of the tax cuts for the wealthy Americans or for those of us who happen to have higher incomes, if you eliminate those tax cuts or you cut back on those tax cuts, you could add more money into Medicare and Medicaid and not have the situation where both of those health care programs for seniors as well as for low-income people are seriously threatened by this Congress and by this budget bill.

The other thing that is in this motion to instruct that I thought was so important is that it pointed out that there are a lot of people who simply will not have any health care coverage if these cuts in Medicare and Medicaid go through. Let me explain why I feel very strongly about that.

First of all, right now Medicaid, which is the health care program for low-income people in this country, is basically an entitlement. In other words, if your income falls below a certain amount, you are entitled to Medicaid, to health care coverage. Well, no longer under this Republican budget bill is Medicaid an entitlement. In fact, it is left up to the States with money that they get in a block grant from the Federal Government to decide who they are going to cover in various categories for low-income people. So it is very possible that a lot of low-income people, seniors, children, disabled people, will simply not have health care coverage at all if the States decide not to provide it.

Now, on the Senate side, on the Senate side they decided to continue the entitlement for pregnant women, children, and for disabled persons. So one of the points that the motion to instruct makes is that we should agree with the Senate version to at least guarantee health care coverage for low-income people who fall into those three categories.

There are also a lot of people on Medicare. There are also a lot of senior citizens on Medicare who may not get health care coverage under this bill because you have to remember that part B of Medicare, which pays for your doctor bills, is not a guarantee. Right now if you are a low-income senior, part B of your Medicare is paid for by the Federal Government. But this bill has eliminated that guarantee. So if you are a low-income senior who is eligible for Medicaid, you no longer have the guarantee of part B, and you have to pay for it out of your pocket possibly unless the States decide to pay it for you.

Again, a large group, in this case low-income seniors, may not have health care in terms of having physician care.

These are the problems that we face unless in this conference an effort is made to try to cut back on this tax cut for wealthy Americans and put more money back into the Medicare Program and back into the Medicaid Program.

The other issue that came up, and I think it is a very important issue again, is on the pensions. In the Senate bill there is no change with regard to pension funds. But in the House-passed bill we have this provision that basically allows corporations to raid pension funds of their employees and use it for almost any purpose that they want, perhaps for a hostile takeover. Again, the Senate has seen that that language is not the way to go. Our motion to instruct, which did not pass today, urges that the conferees go along with the Senate bill to guarantee some protection for workers and for their pensions.

I think that is safe to say that some of these provisions where there has been disagreement between the House and the Senate, particularly when it comes to providing Medicaid-guaranteed coverage for a lot of low-income people, providing the protection for workers and their pensions and also with regard to nursing homes, right now the House-passed bill does not provide any guarantees that nursing homes are going to be up to standard, because the standards are essentially eliminated.

We hope that we will see the conferees adopt the better Senate language.

POSSIBLE VIOLATION OF HOUSE RULES

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from California [Mr. RIGGS] is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. RIGGS. Madam Speaker, I actually rise to inform my colleagues that lost in all the discussion in recent weeks back here in Washington over some very important and pressing issues has been the revelation that the House Inspector General, Mr. John Lainhart, who was appointed as House Inspector General by the former Democratic majority, in fact by the former Speaker of the House, Tom Foley, has indicated that he will soon be reporting to the House Committee on Oversight and the House Committee on Standards of Official Conduct the names of those Members of Congress past and present as well as House officers who may have violated either House rules or the laws of the United States of America in conjunction with the ongoing audit into congressional finances.

I just want to refresh the memory of my colleagues that back on January 4, the opening day of this session, in one of our first acts as the new majority party in the House of Representatives, we Republicans, joined by almost all of our colleagues on the minority side of the aisle, commissioned an independent audit of House finances. The international accounting firm Price Waterhouse, one of the Big Six accounting firms, was ultimately selected to conduct this audit. What they found, to put it simply, was a complete and total mess.

House congressional finances in fact were in such disarray that the Price Waterhouse accounting firm was unable to render an opinion on the financial condition of the House of Representatives. In fact, reading between their lines, I think one can conclude that, if any American business kept its records and managed its money the way the House of Representatives has for many, many years, under the previous leadership, that business would have been bankrupt and its owners would have been in jail.

In fact the audit, which again we promised to the American people and American taxpayers as part of the Contract with America, found 14 significant control weaknesses. These are internal management controls and financial records that were in such disarray that the auditors would not even issue an opinion on the management of House finances because of the gross lack of information.

This is the worst conclusion that an auditor can reach. In one example the poor financial management by the House under the previous Democratic control, Price Waterhouse found that handwritten ledgers were used in the House finance office which process $700 million in taxpayer funds for salaries and expenses.

So, as I mentioned in recent days, the Inspector General has informed the House, and this was reported in the Washington Times last week, the House Inspector General has informed the House that he is preparing to present findings that will identify Members and House officers who have abused travel and salary accounts.

I want to let my colleagues know that, at the appropriate time, I will press for full disclosure of all abusers. I am sure my colleagues here tonight agree with me that we have a duty and an obligation to the American people to identify those who have abused the public trust. I urge my colleagues to join me in this effort.

Again, I just want to point out that I will press for full disclosure of the names. The public has a right to know and a right to demand accountability. I do not want this to get lost in our efforts at other reforms and in our efforts to get a balanced budget plan enacted into law. But again, I think we have an absolute duty and responsibility to pursue this matter, again, given the report that has been presented to the House in phase 1 of the audit by Price Waterhouse.

I will just remind my colleagues that those auditors were professional auditors who conduct large-scale accounting or auditing efforts in the private sector. Those auditors would not even issue an opinion on the soundness of the House's finances or the reliability of financial statements filed by House Democrat leaders who managed the Congress' budget during the period of the audit, which was the last Congress.

So, I ask my colleagues to join me in demanding full disclosure of abuses of House finances. These are the taxpayers' dollars, and the American people have a right to know who is responsible for mismanaging their money and abusing the public trust.

H.R. 1833, THE PARTIAL-BIRTH ABORTION BAN ACT OF 1995

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the Speaker's announced policy of May 12, 1995, the gentleman from Florida [Mr. CANADAY] is recognized for 60 minutes as the designee of the majority leader.

Mr. CANADY of Florida. Madam Speaker, while every abortion sadly takes a human life, the partial-birth abortion method takes that life as the baby emerges from the mother's womb—while the baby is only partially in the birth canal. The difference between the partial-birth abortion procedure and homicide is a mere three inches.

Partial-birth abortion goes a step beyond abortion on demand. The baby involved is not "unborn." His or her life is taken during a breach delivery. A procedure which obstetricians use in some circumstances to bring a healthy child into the world is perverted to result in a dead child. The physician, traditionally trained to do everything in his power to assist and protect both mother and child during the birth process, deliberately kills the child in the birth canal.

This is partial-birth abortion: (1) Guided by ultrasound, the abortionist grabs the live baby's legs with forceps. (2) The baby's legs are pulled out into the birth canal. (3) The abortionist delivers the baby's entire body, except for the head. (4) Then, the abortionist jams scissors into the baby's skull. The scissors are then opened to enlarge the hole. (5) The scissors are then removed and a suction catheter is inserted. The child's brains are sucked out causing the skull to collapse so the delivery of the child can be completed.

Because we believe that this procedure is an inhuman act, the gentlewoman from Nevada [Mrs. VUCANOVICH], the gentleman from Ohio [Mr. HALL], the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. HYDE], and I introduced a bipartisan bill to ban the performance of partial-birth abortion. We now have 162 Members from both sides of the aisle who have requested to cosponsor H.R. 1833.

Opponents of H.R. 1833 now claim that the babies who are the victims of partial-birth abortion die, either before the procedure begins or shortly thereafter. But the "Partial-Birth Abortion Ban Act" does not cover a procedure in which the baby is delivered after he or she is dead. The definition of partial-birth abortion requires that the baby be partially delivered alive, then killed.

Our opponents' argument that the baby is already dead when these abortions are performed betrays their desperation. They support abortion at any time, in any manner, for any reason. But they know the American people do not support this extreme position. They realize that this inhuman procedure which we have seen depicted here and the results of which we see in this chart, this inhuman procedure in which a body is partially delivered alive, then stabbed in the back of the head, cannot be justified. So, instead of defending the procedure as the practitioners have described it, they change their story and attempt to conceal the reality of this terrible procedure.

However, the new claims of those who defend partial-birth abortion are directly contradicted by past statements of abortionists and by those who have witnessed the procedure. Brenda Shafer, a registered nurse who witnessed the procedure while working with Dr. Martin Haskell, an Ohio abortionist, wrote a letter to Congressman TONY HALL dated July 9, 1995 in which she described the procedure. Nurse Shafer wrote that witnessing the procedure was "the most horrible experience of my life." She described watching one baby and again I quote nurse Shafer:

> The baby's body was moving. His little fingers were clasping together. He was kicking his feet. All the while his little head was still stuck inside. Dr. Haskell took a pair of scissors and inserted them into the back of the baby's head. Then he opened the scissors up. Then he stuck the high-powered suction tube into the hole and sucked the baby's brains out. * * *

Dr. Haskell and Dr. McMahon, two abortionists who prefer the partial-birth abortion method, were interviewed by the American Medical News in 1993. These doctors "told the AM News that the majority of fetuses aborted this way are alive until the end of the procedure."

Dr. Dru Carlson—of Cedar-Sinai Medical Center in Los Angeles—wrote to Chairman HYDE in support of Dr. McMahon's use of partial-birth abortions. In the letter to Chairman HYDE she states that she has personally observed Dr. McMahon performing this procedure. She writes that after Dr. McMahon delivers the fetus up to the shoulders, he removes "cerebrospinal fluid from the brain causing instant brain herniation and death."

Once again, if the baby is not alive when it is delivered, H.R. 1833 does not cover the procedure. But the statements of the practitioners and eyewitness accounts make it clear that these procedures are performed on living babies.

Abortion advocates also claim that H.R. 1833 would "jail doctors who perform life-saving abortions." This statement truly makes me wonder whether the opponents of the bill have bothered to read the bill. H.R. 1833 explicitly makes allowance for a practitioner who reasonably believes a partial-birth abortion is necessary to save the life of the mother.

Of course, there is not a shred of evidence to suggest that a partial-birth abortion is ever necessary to save a mother's life. In fact, few doctors even know the procedure exists. The American Medical Association's Council on Legislation—which includes 12 doctors—voted unanimously to recommend that the AMA Board of Trustees endorse H.R. 1833. The Council on Legislation of the AMA said partial-birth abortion was not a recognized medical procedure and agreed that the procedure is basically repulsive, and anyone who has seen this procedure described, anyone who understands the way this procedure is performed, would have to come to that conclusion in the end. The AMA board, which is on record in support of abortion rights, decided to remain neutral on H.R. 1833. But it is indeed significant that the council of 12 doctors chosen by the AMA as an advisory board to the AMA Board of Governors did not recognize partial-birth abortion as a proper medical technique.

Proponents of the partial-birth abortion method have also claimed that the majority of babies killed by this method of abortion have disabilities. Focusing the debate on babies with disabilities is a blatant attempt to avoid addressing the reality of this horrible inhuman procedure. In a partial-birth abortion the baby is partially delivered alive, then stabbed through the skull. No baby's life should be taken in this manner. It does not matter whether that baby is perfectly healthy or suffers from the most tragic of disabilities.

Further, neither Dr. Haskell nor Dr. McMahon claims that this technique is used only in limited circumstances. In fact, their writings advocate this method as the preferred method for late-term abortions. Dr. Haskell advocates the method from 20 to 26 weeks into the pregnancy and told the American Medical News that most of the partial-birth abortions he performs are elective. In fact, he told the reporter, "I'll be quite frank: most of my abortions are elective in that 20-24 week range . . . 80 percent are purely elective."

Dr. McMahon uses the partial-birth abortion method through the entire 40 weeks of pregnancy. He claims that most of the abortions he performs are non-elective, but his definition of non-elective is extremely broad. Dr. McMahon sent a letter to the Constitution Subcommittee in which he described abortions performed because of a mother's youth or depression as "non-elective." I do not believe the American people support aborting babies in the second and third trimesters for reasons such as youth or depression.

Dr. McMahon also sent the subcommittee a graph which shows the percentage of, quote, "flawed fetuses," that he aborted using the partial-birth abortion method. The graph shows that even at 26 weeks of gestation half the babies Dr. McMahon aborted were perfectly healthy and many of the babies he described as "flawed" had conditions that were compatible with long life, either with or without a disability. For example, Dr. McMahon listed 9 partial-birth abortions performed because the baby had a cleft lip.

The National Abortion Federation, a group representing abortionists, also seemed to recognize that partial-birth abortions were performed for many reasons other than fetal abnormalities. In 1993 the National Abortion Federation counseled its members, "Don't apologize: this is a legal abortion procedure," and went on to state:

> There are many reasons why women have late abortions: life endangerment, fetal indications, lack of money or health insurance, social-psychological crises, lack of knowledge about human reproduction, etc.

Now the National Abortion Federation is emphasizing only one of those reasons. In fact, NAF sent a letter to Members of Congress with pictures of babies with severe disabilities urging them to support the use of partial-birth abortion.

I find it offensive to suggest that taking a baby's life in this manner is justified because that baby has abnormalities. The abortionist partially delivers the baby. Remember again this is the way the procedure is performed. The abortionist partially delivers the baby, stabs scissors through the baby's skull, and sucks the baby's brains out. Abnormalities do not make babies any less human or any less deserving of humane treatment. No baby's life should be taken in this manner.

Abortion advocates are claiming that by banning partial-birth abortion we are mounting a direct attack on Roe versus Wade. Yet, in Roe, the Court explicitly rejected the argument that the right to an abortion is absolute and that a woman is entitled to terminate her pregnancy at whatever time, in whatever way, and for whatever reason she alone chooses.

The question I would raise to my friends who support abortion on demand is this: is there ever an instance when abortion, or a particular type of abortion, is inappropriate? Abortion advocates' vehement opposition to H.R. 1833 makes their answer to my question clear. For them there is never an instance when abortion is inappropriate. For them the right to abortion is absolute, and the termination of an unborn child's life is acceptable at whatever time, for whatever reason, and in whatever way a woman or an abortionist chooses.

I do not believe that the American people accept that position. I do not believe that the American people wish to see this sort of procedure performed in this country. This is a procedure which should not be allowed. It is a procedure which is not necessary, it is a procedure which is an offense to the conscience of mankind, it is a procedure that this Congress should prohibit, and I am hopeful that when this bill comes to the floor on Wednesday of this week, we will see a resounding vote of support in favor of H.R. 1833, the Partial-Birth Abortion Ban Act of 1995. This is a bill that this House needs to pass, this Congress needs to pass, and President Clinton needs to sign into law.

Madam Speaker, now I yield to my colleague, the gentleman from Florida [Mr. WELDON].

Mr. WELDON of Florida. Madam Speaker, I would like to thank the gentleman from Florida [Mr. CANADY] for introducing this bill. I remember first reading about this bill in the American medical news. I am a physician. I practice internal medicine. I still try to practice, occasionally seeing patients; and when I first read about this procedure, honestly, I was quite appalled, though I must say, I have been appalled for years at the United States abortion policies.

As a physician, I took an oath when I graduated from medical school. It is called the Hippocratic oath: "Do no harm." I have always felt that performing an abortion procedure is a direct violation of that Hippocratic oath.

Probably nothing more graphically brings that to focus than doing the partial birth abortion. To take a baby, even if the baby has a disability, and I just want to touch briefly on this claim that these babies have disabilities. It is so ironic to me that some of the same people who would speak out against this bill and claim that it is used only on babies with disabilities, which has clearly been shown not to be true, are the same people who would seek so often to increase funding for programs for the disabled. I have found that to be so ironic, that so many of the liberal-leaning Members of this body, and people in government who are frequently some of the most vocal advocates for the disabled, are the ones who will say, This procedure is okay if the baby has a disability, which to me seems like the height of hypocrisy.

Actually, before I took my Hippocratic oath, Mr. Speaker, I became quite convinced that abortion was wrong when I actually had the opportunity to see an abortion as a medical student. It was a 15-year-old girl in her second trimester, and of course, this procedure had not been devised at that time. They were doing a saline abortion on her. To see that personally, for me, was absolutely moving and convincing that this procedure is wrong, it is morally wrong, it is ethically wrong, and there is no way to justify it. However, this particular procedure is horrifying.

I very much rise in support of this bill. Making this procedure illegal I think is mandatory. Even many people who advocate in support of abortion rights recognize that this is beyond the pale. To take a developed infant and partially deliver the child, where the baby has moving arms and moving legs, and is 3 inches away from being recognized by the Supreme Court of the United States as being a person and being protected by the full rights of the Constitution, and sucking its brains out so that it can be delivered through the undeveloped cervix, I think is just an outrage, a total outrage. To live in the United States, the land of the free and the home of the brave, the Nation that the rest of the world looks to for leadership, especially in the area of human rights and the dignity of human life, and to make a procedure like this legal I think is horrifying, and I very much speak out in support of the bill offered by the gentleman from Florida [Mr. CANADY].

However, I will say that I do that with a certain amount of grief in my heart, because when we make this procedure illegal, they will keep aborting these babies, but they will keep aborting these babies, but they will do it by a different procedure called dilation and extraction, where they dilate the cervix and then they tear the baby apart, limb by limb, and that, to me, is as evil as this is. But I very much, nonetheless, rise in strong support of the bill of the gentleman from Florida [Mr. CANADY]. I highly urge all my colleagues to support this bill, and end this ghastly procedure.

Mr. CANADY of Florida. Madam Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Florida. I now yield to the gentlewoman from Washington [Mrs. SMITH].

Mrs. SMITH of Washington. Mr. Speaker, I would like to thank the gentleman from Florida [Mr. CANADY] for taking on something that is not easy, because the American people do not want to talk about this subject. It takes brave people to stand and talk about what the Nation has not wanted to face.

This week we will be voting on the partial birth abortion ban legislation. I suspect the majority of the American people will never have heard of this heinous procedure. This is not surprising, because, as a Nation, we have created a veil of silence when it comes to the reality of abortion procedures. I know until about 10 years ago that I would not even talk about the procedure, saying it was the choice of a woman. However, tonight, if I had had this procedure before me, and had to be faced with the humanity of the baby, I would have changed to being for life sooner, because no woman who has delivered a baby, who has felt that baby inside of her and held a baby, could allow this procedure, whether she was for choice of abortion or adamantly against abortion.

Madam Speaker, I was a breech baby. I did not know that. I did not know what it meant. My mother said "You came out backward, and that meant you were backward for many years." It was a family joke. I just about did not make it. America needs to realize that this procedure we are talking about tonight, if it had been me, they would have stopped the birth. My mother would have gone into labor, my feet would have come out, and they would have stopped my head from coming out.

Because we were pretty poor at that time and my mother had physical problems, she probably would have qualified for this if she could get a doctor to do it. They would have been able to kill me and then deliver me, and say that I had never been living. This is what we are facing tonight, with this procedure.

Madam Speaker, I was thinking about America and how we have decided to hide from this. But I think tonight I am willing to stand here and say to the American people and to my colleagues, no matter where you are, the humanity and the inhumanity of man has to be reckoned with.

There is an example that I am going to use. It was Gen. Dwight Eisenhower. After the war he required the allied soldiers to walk through Buchenwald, to see the inhumanity, and to see the damage, and to see the hate, and what this had done. He said, "I made the visit deliberately and required my soldiers to, in order to be in a position to give firsthand evidence of these things if ever in the future there develops a tendency to charge these allegations merely to propaganda."

General Eisenhower was not discussing abortion or this particular procedure, but he was understanding the necessity to look death in the face and call it for what it was, and it is certainly timely. While we may prefer to look away from abortion, the reality demands otherwise. I call on my colleagues to look at the humanity of these babies, see the pictures—that is not a blob, those are little legs and feet hanging out, that is a head—and make a decision, is that a baby; and if it is, vote today to protect that baby's life at least in this procedure; if you cannot protect him in others, at least in this.

Mr. CANADY of Florida. Madam Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Oklahoma [Mr. COBURN].

Mr. COBURN. I thank the gentleman from Florida [Mr. CANADY] for yielding to me, Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker, I want to thank the gentleman for his efforts. On behalf of my profession as a physician, I am extremely disgusted that such a procedure would ever come about.

As I thought about this procedure tonight and the discussions that we would have about it, I thought it would be very important for us to try to get a mental picture of it. As a practicing obstetrician delivering babies, I delivered two babies this weekend, to think that at times we inadvertently have to deliver babies at 24 and 25 weeks, if we think about it, those of us who know what that is like, of holding a small infant, an infant somewhat larger than this model, somewhat larger than this model in our hands and see it struggle for life, and know that in institutions throughout this country that we see efforts, great strides being made to save those infants, and now infants at 23½ weeks have made it to living, fully functional, capable adults, and healthy children; to know that we hold in our hands a child that, through this method, would no longer be viable.

The difference is that we will spend untold hundreds of thousands of dollars when this accidentally falls in our lap to save this child, and then we allow a procedure such as this.

I think one of the important points that needs to be made about this procedure, this procedure does not have anything to do with women. It has to do with the convenience of a doctor. For us to lose sight of that point will be a tragedy. If we want to terminate a pregnancy at 20 to 24 weeks, there are many ways to do it. We do not have to do it this way. This way has been developed so that it is easy for the physician, it is easy for the operator to complete the task and collect their fee of terminating the life. I think it must not be lost sight of, as this was developed as a technology to make it efficient to kill babies.

Finally, I wanted to just comment on a Dear Colleague letter that I got today, which so misstates this bill that it somewhat disappoints me in our Chamber that we would try to confuse situations away from the truth.

This comes from one of our colleagues in California. It talks about how some of his constituents would not be allowed, because they had a trisomy 13 baby, a baby that had three 13 chromosomes, that their child, they would never have been able to abort their child should they have wanted to, if this procedure is banned.

Of course, as the gentleman knows, that is not the case. If in fact there is a medical indication for this procedure it can be performed, although nobody can think of a medical indication now, not the 12 doctors that are on the advisory panel, the scientific panel for the AMA, not anybody else out there can think of a medical reason why we should use this procedure.

I also wanted to share with you also, one of my patients, his name is Kelsey Goss, Kelsey is 47 years old. Kelsey has Down syndrome. Kelsey has lived a wonderful life. The last 20 years or so has not been great in terms of the stroke that he had, but he has been a joy to his mother, a joy to his father until he died. To say that he was not valued, to say that he, because he had three chromosomes in the wrong place, did not contribute to our society to me speaks at the very issue that we tend to want to cover up in our society.

I want to thank the gentleman again for bringing this forward. As a physician who has performed abortions to save the life of a mother, I can think of no other reason why we should ever participate in any type of effort to terminate a life that is so helpless, so innocent, and this cannot be allowed to happen anymore. I will just tell you that I will fight hard to see that this is banned, I will fight hard to make sure that we expose those that continue to do it afterwards, to make sure that it is not carried out, because in fact when we hold that little 22-week baby, we know it can feel, it is gasping for air, it has pain fibers, it knows and senses the very precarious situation that it is in.

Mr. CANADY of Florida. I want to thank my colleague, the gentleman from Oklahoma [Mr. COBURN], a doctor, for his valuable insight into this procedure and what it really means. I think the gentleman from Oklahoma brings a unique perspective to this as an obstetrician, and I am very grateful for his support for this important legislation.

Madam Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Tennessee [Mr. BRYANT].

Mr. BRYANT of Tennessee. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Florida. I, too, join in expressing my appreciation to the gentleman for introducing this bill.

As one who brings a different perspective to this podium, Madam Speaker, a practicing attorney in civil law, and also a former U.S. attorney, as a Federal prosecutor I am very familiar with the concepts of due process of law and when life begins and these kinds of things. It is amazing to me that you can talk about a number of very divisive and emotional issues in the debate of abortions, but eventually it comes down in all instances to the issue of when does life begin.

As a prosecutor, I was always amazed to see the most heinous of murderers, the John Wayne Gacys, the Ted Bundys, many of the people on death row today who were given years and years of due process of law, furnished with lawyers to represent them; they are furnished with the idea, the concept, of guilt beyond a reasonable doubt, a presumption of innocence, all of these processes of due process of law under our government, and years and years of appeal.

On the other hand, we have an unquestionably, undeniably innocent preborn baby who is given none of this due process of law, and in fact, is subjected in this instance to the type of procedure that your bill attempts to outlaw.

I believe the gentleman from Florida [Mr. CANADY] is a practicing attorney, and I would like to see if maybe the gentleman could answer this question for me, and I think I know the answer. If they brought a Ted Bundy into the electric chair or were about to execute him after these years of appeal and all of this, and the power failed and you had the media there and you had the victim's relatives there and you had the family members there observing this intended execution and the power failed, and someone came out and asked Mr. Bundy to put his head down and they hit him over the head with a screwdriver and knocked a hole in his head and drained out his brain, sucked out his brain, does the gentleman from Florida think that would be any cause for the civil libertarians in terms of cruel and inhuman punishment via this type of execution?

Mr. CANADY of Florida. Madam Speaker, I do believe that there would be a rush to claim that that was cruel and unusual punishment. I believe that that sort of procedure would be universally condemned by people who are concerned about civil liberties in this country.

Mr. BRYANT of Tennessee. Well, I think the gentleman is right. We know as attorneys and have studied cases in law school about cruel and inhuman treatment. In fact, there have been appeals in the past that have tried to hold the death penalty illegal, because of the type, the manner, of execution.

It just astounds me that we could draw the law into play like we do for someone like a John Wayne Gacy or a Ted Bundy or people on death row who have committed the most heinous of murders, and yet we somehow allow this type of procedure to exist.

I am pleased to see, and I will close my comments with this, that the fact that the American Medical Association, its council on legislation, as has been alluded to earlier tonight, has voted unanimously, 12 to nothing, after reviewing this procedure and has found that there is no medical need for this type of act to be done. I think that comes a long way, and I think that says a lot for the people in the medical field, the people who control the AMA, even though the AMA itself, as I understand, did not take a position on this. However, I am pleased that they have joined on with us and, in fact, look forward to a vote on this next Wednesday at a time when I understand many of our colleagues who are so-called pro choice will also join with us in outlawing this type of procedure.

Madam Speaker, at this point I will simply thank the gentleman from Florida [Mr. CANADY] for being the point man for us on this issue.

Mr. CANADY of Florida. Madam Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Tennessee for his helpful comments.

I would now recognize the gentleman from Oklahoma [Mr. LARGENT].

Mr. LARGENT. Madam Speaker, I first want to thank my colleague from Florida, Mr. CANADY, for his courage in introducing H.R. 1333 and I rise in support of it and encourage all of our colleagues to support it on Wednesday when it comes to the floor for a vote.

I would like to say first of all that I think there is no humane way to end the life of a preborn baby, and I know many of my colleagues agree, but certainly not this technique that we are debating or discussing this evening that H.R. 1833 would ban.

The folks in my district and in my State understand that this bill is not about health care, it is not about women's issues, it is not about the ability for doctors to practice medicine, it is about babies, and it is about a very inhumane way to end their lives.

What I would like to do is, it has been said that originality is when you forget where you heard it first, and I will not forget where I heard this first. This is actually a story that I would like to read that was printed in the Daily Oklahoman as an editorial. It is entitled, "The Littlest Angel" and it is regarding H.R. 1333.

It says:

> She remembers the baby. He had the most perfect, angelic face she had even seen. Nurses working in obstetrics see lots of babies, but this one stood out. Brenda Shafer still sees that face, nearly 2 years later.
> The mother held the infant, wrapped in a blanket, and cried, Shafer also cried. Tears come easily at births, but these were tears of grief. The child with the face of an angel had Down syndrome. "I never realized," Shafer says, "how perfect these babies really are at this point."
> Too perfect to die.
> In September 1993, Shafer went to work at the Women's Medical Center in Dayton, OH. Pro choice and proud of it, the nurse once told her daughters that if one of them got pregnant while a teen, she would see to it they aborted.
> On the third day of her new job, Shafer assisted with the delivery of the Down syndrome baby, who had gestated for more than 26 weeks. She saw his heart beating on a monitor. She saw him delivered in pieces, in chunks. He feet came out first, then his legs, and then his little belly and arms.
> He was moving, his fingers were clasped together. He was kicking his feet. But his head was still inside. Then the doctor stuck some scissors in the back of the baby's neck. Shafer almost threw up. The heart monitor went silent after the baby's brains were sucked out.
> The baby with the face of an angel was placed in a medical pan, but the mother wanted to see him. She insisted. Wrapped in the blanket, the child got the only cuddling he would ever have in this world. Later, a lab employee came by to dispose of his remains.
> On Tuesday, the U.S. House Judiciary Committee voted to impose jail terms of up to 2 years for performing the type of abortion described above. To a person, Republicans on the committee voted for a ban on these "partial birth" abortions. Democrats on the panel voted against it.
> How ironic. Her words perfectly describe the very procedure she seeks to protect.
> Had he been given another 12 weeks, the baby with the face of an angel could have survived outside of the womb. Had he been aborted 12 weeks earlier, he would have been just another fetus, courtesy of Roe versus Wade.
> But this baby stood out. "I still have nightmares about what I saw," Shafer said. It has changed her life. Now Shafer is trying to change the law. She needs your help.

Our colleagues, we ask you to vote in favor of H.R. 1833.

Mr. CANADY of Florida. I thank the gentleman from Oklahoma.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 5 minutes to the gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. SMITH].

Mr. SMITH of New Jersey. Madam Speaker, I thank my good friend for yielding.

Madam Speaker, we are here this week to debate what some might call a simple medical question. Specifically, whether a certain procedure known as partial birth abortion should be left alone as good and permissible medicine, or legally banned as brutality, masquerading as medicine.

This week the 22-year coverup of abortion methods is over. I applaud Chairman CANADY for his courage in bringing this very thoughtful legislation to the floor and for exposing this particular abuse of little kids.

For more than two decades the abortion industry has sanitized abortion methods by aggressively employing the shrewdest and most benign euphemisms market research can buy. They have engaged, without question, in coverup.

Throughout the country there have been proposals at the State legislative level for informed consent legislation to provide, before the woman submits to abortion, a clear understanding of the child's humanity. Pictures, anatomically correct, about the child in utero.

NARAL and the Abortion Rights lobby has opposed each and every one of those efforts to inform the woman about the humanity of the unborn child and about any possible deleterious effects that abortion could have on her life. Gov. Bob Casey recently told me that in Pennsylvania, where informed consent is the law, there has been a 13-percent drop in abortions, and Dr. Bernard Nathanson, a former abortionist himself, has said that if wombs had windows, women would run out of abortion clinics, because they would see that the child that they carry is a little baby.

Now we find ourselves in the midst of a sea change regarding how abortion is addressed by this House. This week, in addition to the debates on whether or not the Federal Government should fund abortions, we will, for the first time, begin to debate whether or not a particular heinous method of abortion, partial birth abortions, should continue to be legal in our land.

This is serious business, Madam Speaker. It is therefore especially fitting that this debate in particular should not be about philosophical abstractions like choice, the rights of women and privacy, all of them laudable when considered only in the abstract. This debate, if it is to shed any light on the serious question at hand, if it is to be honest and thereby worthy of this House, must be about the very behavior, the methods themselves, and that is why the descriptions of this type of abortion needs to go forward without being gagged.

Madam Speaker, as the gentleman from Florida [Mr. CANADY] pointed out earlier, Dr. Martin Haskell, a medical doctor who unashamedly performs these methods of abortions by the hundreds, unashamedly does this kind of abuse to children, let him describe it in his own words as he told the National Abortion Federation's risk management seminar a couple of years ago.

I quote him:

> The surgeon introduces a large, grasping forcep through the vaginal and cervical canals into the corpus of the uterus. Based upon his knowledge of fetal orientation, he moves the tip of the instrument carefully toward the fetal lower extremities. When the instrument appears on the sonogram screen, the surgeon is able to open and close its jaws to firmly and reliably grasp a lower extremity. The surgeon than applies firm traction to the instrument causing a version of the fetus and pulls the extremity into the vagina.

Dr. Haskell goes on to say:

> The surgeon uses his fingers to deliver the lower extremity, then the torso, then the shoulders, and then the upper extremities. The skull lodges at the internal cervical os. Usually there is not enough dilation for it to pass through. The fetus is oriented dorsum or spine up.
> The surgeon then takes a bear of blunt, curved Metzenbaum scissors in the right hand. He carefully advances the tip, curved down, along the spine and under his middle finger until he feels it contact at the base of the skull under the tip of his middle finger.
> The surgeon then forces the scissors into the base of the skull. Having safely entered the skull, he spreads the scissors to enlarge the opening.
> The surgeon removes the scissors and introduces a suction catheter into this hole and evacuates the skull contents. With the catheter still in place, he applies traction to the fetus, removing it completely from the patient.

Madam Speaker, that clinical description of child abuse is what is in the table and will be debated this week. Whether individuals should be permitted to pull a living child out of her mother's womb and stick a scissors through the back of her head and then suck her brains out until she is dead is the brunt and the crux of this legislation. Should that behavior be legal, or should it be criminal is what we must decide this week.

This week, this legislation will, for the first time ever in this debate in this House or in the Senate, finally say whether or not we will approve or disapprove of legalized abortion, particularly in this method.

It was mentioned earlier by my good friend, Mr. CANADY, and also by some other Members during this special order, that one particular nurse saw this and got deathly sick from what she saw. She saw that living child, the heart beating, the feet kicking, the hands grasping and making little fists, and she walked out of there never to go back, and now she has turned State's evidence to bring a witness to the Congress and to the American people about partial birth abortions.

It was pointed out earlier that the American Medical Association's legislative council saw fit to join in supporting this legislation, and shame on the American Medical Association when that recommendation came forward for not saying yes, we will stand for children as we have done so historically, going back to the 1860's and beyond, when they said that abortion takes the life of a baby. Unfortunately, politics intervened with its ugly head and unfortunately, they have now become "neutral" on this particular legislation.

The gentleman from Florida [Mr. CANADY] is a great leader, and he is bringing this debate to this House, and I hope many people who call themselves pro choice will take a good, hard look at the reality of what abortion actually is.

Madam Speaker, when you look at the methods of abortion, this is one of many that is a heinous act. If you look at D&C abortions where the baby is literally dismembered in utero, not so much different from this method. The suction methods which the other side likes to talk about with all kinds of euphemisms, suction curettage and all of those words they use, clinical words, to kill the baby, usually around the 12th week.

Those methods, too, destroy a living growing developing little baby boy or little baby girl.

This legislation is human rights legislation. I hope this whole House, and I know it is hoping against hope because some Members are under instructions from the abortion lobby to oppose it and to speak out against it, but in their heart of hearts, that small still voice will say, that is a crime. That is child abuse.

We need to speak out loudly and clearly because we have an affirmative obligation to protect children from that kind of abuse. I applaud the gentleman from Florida [Mr. CANADY] for his leadership. It is a good bill and deserves the support of every Member of this House.

Mr. CANADY of Florida. I thank the gentleman from New Jersey for his comments tonight. I want to also thank the gentleman from New Jersey for his long-standing leadership in defense of the unborn. There is no one in the Congress who has fought harder and more consistently to protect the rights of the unborn than our colleague from New Jersey, Mr. SMITH. We all owe a debt of gratitude to him for his leadership.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. CANADY of Florida. Madam Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks on the subject of my special order today.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. (Mrs. SEASTRAND). Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Florida?

There was no objection.

Mr. CANADY of Florida. Madam Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to my good friend the gentleman from Arkansas [Mr. HUTCHINSON].

Mr. HUTCHINSON. I thank the gentleman for yielding. I appreciate, CHARLES, your leadership on this very, very difficult subject. I know it is not pleasant and I know this discussion this evening has not been easy and this has been difficult for you and that you do sponsor this and take the lead on this out of a deep sense of conviction. I admire you for it.

Make no mistake about it, this hideous procedure should be outlawed and it should be outlawed now. It is a procedure that is predicated on stabbing the partially born baby's skull with surgical scissors and suctioning the child's brain out and it should not be tolerated in what professes to be a civilized society.

The description that Mr. SMITH from New Jersey gave is horrible but the reality as we know is far more horrible. Beyond the most important aspect of what we are doing in this legislation, in saving the lives of several hundred unborn children at least, the education benefit of this debate and what will happen tomorrow or Wednesday is also, I think, tremendously important. This method of abortion is simply indefensible, it is a late-term method used on unborn babies that can surely feel the pain of what is happening and are utterly defenseless. With an estimated 80 percent plus of these grisly late-term abortions being elective in nature, with hundreds of these repulsive procedures being performed in the United States annually, it is time for all people of decency to unite in passing this legislation.

William Wilberforce, the great 18th and 19th century reformer who spent his life fighting the horrors of the slave trade said concerning slavery in his day, "Our posterity looking back to the history of these enlightened times will scarce believe that it has been suffered to exist so long, a disgrace and dishonor to this country."

Madam Speaker, I believe someday history will look back to our so-called enlightened times and they will scarce believe that we have suffered to exist so long a disgrace and dishonor to this country. It is time that we pass H.R. 1833.

Mr. CANADY of Florida. I thank the gentleman from Arkansas. I now yield 1 minute to my good friend the gentleman from Missouri [Mr. TALENT].

Mr. TALENT. I thank the gentleman for yielding. I would like to add to my colleague's remarks my appreciation to the gentleman for his courage in bringing this difficult issue before the House now.

Madam Speaker, Mother Teresa said one time, "How can people say that there are too many children? That is like saying that there are too many flowers." I very much appreciated that remark. I think of it when we discuss debates like this.

I hope and look forward to a time when we can persuade America that there is room in this country for all of the souls that are created here. I believe that some day we will be able to persuade America of that. Until we can reach that point, at least we can take some incremental steps. At least we can outlaw procedures like this, the gruesome details of which have been discussed in specificity by some of my other colleagues.

I want to make this point and that is why I asked the gentleman to yield a moment to me. I understand that those who oppose this bill are going to oppose it on the grounds that if we outlaw this particular gruesome procedure, it will mean somehow that Roe versus Wade cannot stand. I hope that that indeed is the case someday. But I would like to ask them this question. If they cannot justify Roe versus Wade without justifying procedures like this, if they feel so intellectually insecure or morally insecure about that decision that they believe it cannot stand as the result of a chain of events that would be let loose by outlawing gruesome procedures like this, then maybe it is time for them to reexamine their position about Roe versus Wade. No American can look at this diagram, can read what it means to babies all around this country and believe that this procedure can be justified in a civilized society.

Mr. CANADY of Florida. I thank the gentleman from Missouri. I appreciate his comments.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from Arizona [Mr. HAYWORTH].

Mr. HAYWORTH. I thank the gentleman from Florida for holding this very important special order this evening. Indeed during the course of this I am reminded of something which I believe was said by Abraham Lincoln. To paraphrase him now, he said, I believe the American people once fully informed of the facts will make the correct decision.

Madam Speaker, as I have listened tonight, I have noted those speakers who have preceded me have made mention of the fact that in this debate, certain facts are ignored. It has been detailed here, some would say with perhaps great explicitness, the brutality and the violence of this procedure, and really "procedure" is almost too kind a word. It in itself is a euphemism.

As I stand here, Madam Speaker, tonight in this Chamber, with colleagues and interested bodies and indeed via the technology of television many fellow Americans looking on, I think it is also important to talk about other facts, because those who oppose our efforts to ban this type of procedure will use certain ad hominem arguments, they will suggest that somehow those of us on this side of the debate would champion violence at various clinics.

Let us go on record and be unequivocal about this point tonight. Madam Speaker, we, and indeed I think I can speak for all of us in this Chamber, abhor any act of violence toward any American. But we are talking about an incredibly violence act tonight. One of my colleagues called it child abuse.

We pride ourselves on living in the so-called information age. Those who may take exception to the details of this procedure being delineated during the course of this debate, I would simply ask this question. Is it not important that all the facts be known? Is it not important that we be fully informed as we make this decision? Because again as Lincoln pointed out, once we are fully informed of the facts, then we make the correct decision.

It is a very simple question, really, one that is often lost in the midst of rhetorical flourish, in the euphemisms that abound, in the abstractions of alleged constitutional rights, that indeed we champion, for this is the most basic of those rights, the right to life, the right that the innocent preborn be given an opportunity to live or at the very least through outlawing this heinous procedure, that this particularly gruesome method of extermination go the way of so many acts noted for cruelty and insensitivity and blatant violence.

It is important to look at the facts. It is important to end this violence. It is an action that I am confident that many, who may have varying degrees of disagreement on other aspects of this debate, in the final analysis will rally behind.

Mr. CANADY of Florida. I thank the gentleman from Arizona. I would now yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Indiana [Mr. SOUDER].

Mr. SOUDER. I thank the gentleman very much and appreciate his leadership on this bill.

I grew up in a very peace-loving family that would not destroy innocent children. I remember one time my mom said when I was little, I was worried about a spider that she wanted me to kill and I did not want to damage the spider, let alone a human life. But it was more kind of a general feeling than specific knowledge on the abortion issue.

I happened to be at graduate school at the University of Notre Dame when the Supreme Court decision Roe versus Wade came down and I got very involved in the pro-life movement and heard about the methods of the candy apple babies, so-called because they burn off their skin and you just see the red, or the method of cutting up the babies and the sheer horror of the pictures and the knowledge is just so overwhelming and that is where if the American people knew the truth about the abortion issue it would not be tolerated. You would not allow this type of thing. If you knew somebody in your neighborhood took their dog out in the street and did this to their dog, you would not want to associate with them. Yet people in your neighborhood do this to their babies.

How can this be happening in this country? As a father I do not understand how a people can take their children that we love so dearly and that we care and do this cruel and inhumane punishment to them.

We have heard all through this year about how speakers have come down here into the well and attacked us on our balanced budget proposals and say that we are heartless, that we are cold-blooded, that we are cruel, that we lack compassion, that we do not have human decency, that we are causing inordinate pain and suffering.

This is those things. You can debate how much money we should spend on different programs, but these partial-birth abortions, when you stick a scissors into the back of a human life and you suck their brains out, there is no debating whether this is compassionate or heartless. Let those who have been using those terms so loosely and throwing them around for political purposes defend this in their vote on Wednesday if they want to see compassion.

Even the AMA's Council on Legislation agreed that the procedure was basically repulsive. Basically repulsive? It is disgusting. It has been hard to sit down here and listen to people talk about this without getting tears in your eyes about the children and the little tiny defenseless babies in this country who are being treated worse than animals in this society. It is very discouraging that we have all of these humane shelters, all of these people devoted to protecting animals, yet there is this double standard for human beings. I do not understand how this country has tolerated this, particularly this most flagrant of procedures, the last step.

Many times they even want to suck out these brains in the name of science, they want to use it, the fetal tissue from these living babies to supposedly save somebody else's life or impact them. I do not know how we can stand here in this country, the land of freedom, and land where people died to have the right to life and the right to survive and do this.

I want to close with the story about my cousin. We have heard about people who are handicapped and my cousin Kalisa was born with one stub and without another leg and her organs were not able to keep her alive and they knew she was going to die, they did not know what year but they said maybe 8 years and she lived until she was 10 years old and she could not continue living.

But there is not one person who ever came in touch with my cousin who does not believe that her life brought more to this society than many of us who have all of our means, all of our arms and legs and all of our organs because Kalisa was always happy, she knew where she was going to go, she was a light to others, she knew that she was not going to live long and she was a positive influence on others. Those people who say that because somebody has a handicap or because somebody is less intelligent or something else deserve to die should be reprimanded, should be shamed in this House, and then to propose procedures like this, if they cannot stand with us on saying that we are not going to take the weakest in our society and destroy them with this most disgusting method, I am disappointed they would be reelected in this country and speak for the American people.

Thank you for your leadership on this.

Mr. CANADY of Florida. Madam Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Kentucky [Mr. LEWIS].

Mr. LEWIS of Kentucky. Madam Speaker, one of the great tragedies of our Nation is the practice of abortion. Since 1973, with the Roe versus Wade decision, we have seen a culture of death, as the Pope described it, brought about by over 30 million abortions. Thirty million abortions have cheapened the value of life in our Nation. But, Madam Speaker, if abortion is not bad enough, the procedure of partial birth abortions is the most hideous example of brutality that can be imagined. It is absolutely outrageous. The procedure is used in mid-term, or the mid-term point in pregnancy, and the American Medical News reported most fetuses aborted this way are alive until the end. In fact, evidence indicates the mother's anesthesia often does not put the fetus to sleep. Therefore, the baby would have to endure the horrible pain.

What are the pro-abortion arguments for this procedure? Pro-abortion forces say that procedure is used mostly on malformed babies or babies who would not live anyway. That is false. A doctor who performed more than 1,000 partial birth abortions said 80 percent are elective, that an even greater question is who should have the right to choose life and death for the other 20 percent.

Pro-abortion forces say very few are performed. In the Louisville Courier-Journal earlier this year, an ACLU member said partial birth abortions are primarily limited to the third trimester. These make up less than 1 percent of all abortions. By that projection, that is more than 4,000 each year, or three or 4 abortions a day, and two doctors alone reportedly performed nearly 500 a year.

Are we supposed to be reassured?

Madam Speaker, I think H.R. 1833 is a good bill. This horrible, brutal practice that destroys the most innocent should be stopped and stopped immediately.

Mr. CHRISTENSEN. Madam Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding. Although I am opposed to abortion as a matter of conscience, I was particularly shocked when I learned of the cruelty and callousness of this procedure. As one of the Members earlier stated, the AMA in their Legislative Council voted without dissent to endorse this legislation, with one of the members saying that a partial birth abortion "was not a recognized medical technique."

I think perhaps what is most disturbing about a partial birth abortion is how closely this comes to infanticide. While I respect the views of these who disagree with me on the matter of abortion, any validity their arguments may have surely disappears when discussing this grotesque procedure.

When this issue comes to the House floor this week for debate, they will drag out euphemisms, never once addressing the issue we are talking about here, a viable unborn little baby.

I believe the American people are solidly behind this legislation. I hope and pray that we can have a successful effort later this week.

Pass H.R. 1833.

Mr. LIPINSKI. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of H.R. 1833, the ban on partial-birth abortions. To me, there are two amazing observations surrounding this issue: one that it is legal and two, that there are people who are willing to stand up and defend it.

I was shocked, as I am sure many of my colleagues were, to find out that in this country it is legal to partially deliver a baby, insert scissors at the base of its head and suction out the brains. Some suggest that the baby is already dead during the procedure, but I submit to you the following interview between the American Medical News [AMN] and abortionist, Dr. Martin Haskell:

> AMN. Let's talk first about whether or not the fetus is dead beforehand . . .

This bill has the support of the 12 member American Medical Association's legislative council who unanimously agreed that this form of abortion should be abolished. One legislative council representative called the procedure basically repulsive, saying that it was not a recognized medical technique. And lest we forget what the American public has to say, I remind you that an overwhelming majority rejected any type of late-term abortions.

Unbelievably, there are a small number of people who defend this procedure by stating that it is necessary to provide the option to end the life of babies with severe abnormalities or to protect the life of the mother. What do you consider an abnormality? One abortionist has admitted performing this procedure on babies because they had a cleft lip. Dr. Haskell has stated, "I'll be quite frank: most of my abortions are elective in that 20–24 week range . . . In my particular case, probably 20 percent are for genetic reasons. And the other 80 percent are purely elective." With respect to a woman's health, no doctor is going to perform a 3-day procedure on a woman whose life is in danger. There are many other procedures available to a doctor to protect the life of the mother without killing her baby.

Mr. Speaker, I am amazed. I thought that pro-life and pro-abortion advocates would finally be able to find some common ground in this contentious debate. I thought that no one would be able to defend such an abhorrent procedure. Sadly, I was wrong. Luckily, there is still time to review the facts, and I urge my colleagues to do just that. Read over the procedure. Read over the AMA legislative counsel's unanimous decision. Read over the polls on America's view on late term abortions. Then do the only thing you can do and vote for the ban on partial-birth abortions.

Thank you.

Mrs. VUCANOVICH. Mr. Speaker, I would like to commend the following editorial which appeared in the September/October issue of the American Enterprise magazine. Maggie Gallagher does an excellent job of describing the brutal reality of an inhuman procedure known as partial birth abortion.

After you have examined the facts, I invite you to join with me in voting for H.R. 1833—the Partial Birth Abortion Act Ban of 1995.

A PERFECTLY LEGAL PROCEDURE

(By Maggie Gallagher)

She still has recurring nightmares—flashbacks, like a soldier back from Vietnam: "I see the baby, its hands and legs moving. Then the scissors jab, and the body goes limp. It haunts me."

Despite what you might think, Brenda Schafer, a 38-year-old registered nurse from Franklin, Ohio, is not a witness to a gruesome crime. She is an eyewitness to a perfectly legal procedure going on across America under the cover of abstract, pious words that all sensible people believe in—words like, "a doctor-patient relationship" and "a woman's right to choose."

The procedure is called a partial-birth abortion, and perhaps 500 to 4,000 of them are carried out every year. According to Brenda, it is impossible to exaggerate the procedure's horrors. Here is what she saw the day the temp agency assigned her to Dr. Martin Haskell's Dayton, Ohio abortion clinic: "The whole baby was delivered, except for its head. I could see the hands and legs moving. Have you ever seen a baby fling out its arms when it is startled? That's what it looked like. I saw Dr. Haskell insert a pair of scissors, then the baby flinched. He inserted a high-power suction catheter [to remove the brain tissue], and the baby went limp. I almost threw up all over the floor." The baby was not defective and, at a gestational age of 26-and-a-half weeks, was well past the 23 to 24 weeks doctors considered the point of viability; most premature infants born at that age do pretty well.

There were six partial-birth abortions that day in that clinic alone. Brenda assisted in three of them. One mother sought an abortion because her baby had Down's syndrome; the other two carried babies with no defects. One mother was a 17-year-old unwed woman. The other, whose partial-birth abortion is described above, was a married 40-year-old with a grown son who apparently decided, rather late, that she didn't want a change-of-life baby.

While the larger issue of abortion is of course enormously controversial, we know that practices like partial-birth abortions, abortion for sex selection, and late-term abortion are strongly opposed by large majorities of Americans. Aiming to bring some peace to the abortion wars by at least eliminating these most offensive procedures, the House Committee on the Judiciary recently approved a bill to ban partial-birth abortions. Abortion-rights advocates, however, have made it clear they will accept no limitations of abortion on demand, at any time or for any reason. NOW president Patricia Ireland has denounced the House bill, while Barbara Bradford of the National Abortion Federation sent out talking points for abortion defenders that urged: don't apologize, it's legal procedure.

Brenda says she once believed in the noble-sounding slogans of the pro-choice movement: "I have four teenage daughters. I told them if they got pregnant, I'd make them have an abortion." Like many Americans, she was fiercely committed to abortion rights in the abstract; it was the reality she literally couldn't stomach.

When it was over, the mother who underwent a partial-birth abortion that day insisted on seeing the results. So Brenda and the other nurses cleaned it up, wrapped it in a blanket, and put the corpse of a little baby in her arms. Face-to-face with what she had done, the woman began crying inconsolably, repeatedly pleading, "God forgive me."

ENDING WELFARE FOR LOBBYISTS

Mr. MCINTOSH. Madam Speaker, I am here to speak tonight on an issue that is continuing to be debated in the House and in the Senate, and that is our efforts to end welfare for lobbyists. As many of you know, last summer this House of Representatives passed a landmark piece of legislation that was added to the Labor-HHS appropriations bill, that said from now on anybody who receives a Federal grant has to make a choice. They can either continue to receive the Government funds or they can give up the funds and then continue to be lobbyists. But they cannot do both as long as they are receiving a Federal subsidy.

That bill, I think, strikes an important blow on behalf of taxpayers everywhere who no longer wish to be seeing their taxes used to finance some of the biggest, most powerful and influential lobbying organizations right here in Washington, DC, organizations who have continually over the last 40 years lobbied this Congress for more and more and more spending so that we have runaway deficits and the largest national debt in history.

This legislation, legislation that we referred to as ending welfare for lobbyists, I think is very important and strikes a blow on behalf of taxpayers everywhere for responsible Government. Tonight I wanted to discuss with you and several of my colleagues the nature of this problem and what our solution is and how we plan to go forward in implementing that reform on behalf of the taxpayers.

First, I have a chart here that gives you an idea of what is happening. We discovered that currently there are $39 billion that the Federal Government says it gives out in grants each year. Now, some of that money goes to very worthwhile causes and to groups who are not lobbyists, but the large percentage of that money goes to groups who turn around and lobby the Government for more spending and for various social programs. That subsidy for the lobbying activities here in Washington is exactly the area that we are targeting with this legislation.

Again, I want to emphasize what we will be doing is saying to the groups, "If you want to be a charity and do good works, that you are entitled to do, and we will support you under the various Federal programs. But if you want to be a lobbyist, you need to do it on your own time and on your own dime, because the taxpayer is not going to subsidize lobbying any longer."

Madam Speaker, at this point I yield to my colleague, the gentleman from Arizona [Mr. HAYWORTH], who is here to join us in support of this bill.

Mr. HAYWORTH. Madam Speaker, I thank my friend from Indiana for again introducing and really being the catalyst for this important legislation.

Madam Speaker, I think perhaps you were also in the Chamber the night this particular measure was first debated. I can recall, after all, this is known as the people's House, and as my good friend from Indiana joined me here on the floor, I guess it is safe to say that there was a particularly raucous response from one of our friends on the minority from California. Indeed, to read his comments the following day in the Wall Street Journal, I found it to be somewhat incredible; quoting him now, "It is a glorious day if you are a fascist; if you are a fascist, it is a glorious day."

My friend from California took great unbrage at the fact that through the efforts of my friend from Indiana this new majority was moving not to extinguish advocacy, but to say, as my colleague from Indiana did so quite eloquently, if you are engaged in lobbying, do it on your own time with your own dime. Would that it were just a dime being spent.

But as my friend from Indiana, in concert with my good friend from Maryland and our more senior colleague from Oklahoma have detailed, this is not penny ante here. This is $39 billion in money from the taxpayers of America, Madam Speaker, from you and I and other taxpayers out there working hard to feed their families and to provide a future for their children, or as seniors on a fixed income, to make ends meet.

Their money is going into a process that I think is fair to describe, and I am not exaggerating here, it can only be described as somewhat incestuous, where people come to the Hill and lobby for funds and, indeed, many of their endeavors are worthwhile, and yet even in receiving the taxpayers' largesse, they return, courtesy of those same funds, to again ask for more and more of the taxpayers' dollars.

Good people can disagree. I have often made that observation in the Chamber. And while I would never impugn the motives of my friend from California who on that particular raucous occasion perhaps it can be said chose to impugn our motives, could it be that as the Wall Street Journal editorialized, that in moving to correct this abuse we had tapped into a power source for those so willing to take the taxpayers' money in the advocacy of a certain social agenda?

Madam speaker, in the preceding special order I paraphrased the comments of Abraham Lincoln, and the message still applies here: The American people, once fully informed of the facts, will make the correct decision. There has been a widespread cry across this Nation for reform.

On the first day of this new Congress, this new majority passed the Shays Act, a simple but powerful notion that those who serve in this Chamber should live under the same laws as every other American. Now, indeed, if we are called to a higher standard, then a reexamination of where the hard-earned money of the American people goes is also in order, and I salute my friend from Indiana and, indeed, my good friend from Maryland who joins us here tonight in their efforts to fully inform the American people, because there is no place for the relentless assault on the pocketbooks of hard-working taxpaying Americans for continued subsidizing of big Government-orchestrated charities. We must make a change, and we, the new Members of this institution, stand united to make sure that change is realized.

With that, as I continue the dialog, I see our good friend from Maryland, and perhaps I should yield back to the gentleman who controls the time, my friend from Indiana, for the purposes of recognizing our friend from nearby Maryland.

Mr. McINTOSH. I thank the gentleman from Arizona [Mr. HAYWORTH]. Thank you for that very eloquent endorsement of what you have pointed out is, in fact, one of the leading reforms that our freshman class is really insisting that we include in this budget process as we send forward these spending bills to the President.

Let me now yield to one of the coauthors of this provision, who along with the gentleman from Oklahoma [Mr. ISTOOK] and now Senator SIMPSON and Senator CRAIG in the Senate, is the lead sponsor of this bill, and I yield to my colleague, the gentleman from Maryland [Mr. EHRLICH].

Mr. EHRLICH. I thank the gentleman.

I wish I could be as eloquent as our friend from Arizona, our freshman colleague. We appreciate your support very much on this very important initiative.

The only thing I can say to you, my friend, is I am sorry that you have been attacked at a personal level. That is a political culture I am not used to, and hopefully the American people will not get used to it either.

I bring some words tonight from across the hallway, from our friend, Senator SIMPSON.

We have not had an opportunity to talk about this, but as you know and the American people should know, he has been a wonderful friend during this entire process. His leadership in the other body has been unmatched, I am sure you would agree.

Mr. McINTOSH. That is correct.

Mr. EHRLICH. I thought his words on the floor of the Senate last week were just profound, and I would like to recite them for a minute or two. I see we have been joined by our friend, the gentleman from Washington [Mr. TATE], as well.

Senator SIMPSON, in taking the floor to rebut some of the more ridiculous charges our piece of legislation has had to undergo, made these statements.

> Hell hath no fury like an individual whose access to Federal bucks has been conditioned in any way. Because that is not what this issue is all about, access to the Federal Treasury. It is not about free speech or the First Amendment, or anything of the sort. Those are merely the terms which are being applied during the argument by those who wish to continue to ensure themselves of continued delivery of Federal money.

I have four statements, with the gentleman's indulgence, because they are so profound, they are so on point.

The second statement from Senator SIMPSON:

> I know that is a strange and even bizarre thing in this day and age, to talk about "responsibility," instead purely of "rights" or purely of "victims." We are all experts in our own rights, but rarely do we acknowledge that these rights confer responsibilities. And that is what this issue is about, the responsibility of those who receive Federal money.

The third statement by our colleague from the Senate, and this is a point we have discussed on this floor many times.

> Already in the law there are restrictions on the amount of lobbying that can be done by 501–C–3 organizations which take the 501–H election to identify themselves as charities.

These are the facts, the facts for the American people.

> In return for the benefit of tax deductible contributions, these organizations agree to limit their lobbying expense. They may spend 20 percent of the first $500,000 in lobbying, 15 percent of their next $500,000, 10 percent of their next $500,000, and 5 percent after that, up to a global cap of $1 million on lobbying.

The same point we have made on this floor time after time, that the gentleman from Indiana, the chairman of the subcommittee, Mr. McINTOSH, has made time and time again during the course of his public hearings.

Finally, Mr. SIMPSON's last statement, he made all sorts of wonderful statements in the course of his speech in the Senate,

> I personally will have my old bald dome battered, because I have stated all along that I would seek to protect true charities from the scope of any legislation, the 501–C–3 organizations which we all care so much about and should. Well, the amendment which hopefully will shortly be presented as the Istook-Simpson compromise, will indeed protect them. We will protect them not by creating a blanket exception for all charitable groups, but by leaving in place and spending restrictions formulas that already apply to charitable organizations.

I would ask my friend and colleague from Indiana, has not our friend Senator SIMPSON hit the proverbial nail on the head?

Mr. McINTOSH. I believe that is exactly correct. I see our colleague from Indiana, a good friend of mine is here, with some questions he had.

Let me take a moment to recite some of the provisions in the bill. In the debate, those are often lost, the facts people do not focus on. I think it is important to let the American people know what we are doing.

As the gentleman from Maryland pointed out, the core of this bill is to use the current IRS provision for 501–C–3 charitable groups and say that is going to be the limit of how much any group that receives a Federal grant can spend in lobbying activities. It is a small amount of their overall funding, starting out at I think 20 percent, going down to 5 percent totally with a cap. That is what they can do with their private funds.

With any government funds that the taxpayer is giving those groups, what we are saying is no taxpayer dime can be used for lobbying whatsoever. We are going to make that very clear. More importantly, we are going to put some real teeth into that provision and say first of all, it is a violation of the law to do so. Second, the taxpayer is empowered to be a watchdog, and if the taxpayer sees that a group is spending taxpayer dollars to lobby and engage in political campaigns, they have a right to bring a suit to stop that from happening.

Then, finally, we are going to force disclosure, because one of the things we discovered was that these groups will often hide behind various forms of organization, where the group that does the lobbying does not get the dollars directly, but there is an intermediate group that receives a taxpayer grant, and then they give another grant to the lobbyist organization.

So we are going to force everyone to disclose where the money comes from and where it is spent when they have Federal dollars at stake, and we are going to force disclosure of all lobbying activities by these groups to ensure that the taxpayer can have a full accountability for how the funds are spent.

Let me real quickly address two things we thought were very important. One was, as Senator SIMPSON mentioned, to exempt true charities from coverage. They will be covered under the IRS rules, but it makes it clear they are not the targets of this legislation. It is the lobbying groups here in Washington who have lived off of the taxpayer dollars for so long who are going to be chiefly affected by this.

Mr. EHRLICH. That point is so important. The true charities, and we have made this point time and time again as well, the charities actually interested in fulfilling their mission, rather than becoming lobbyists, the people actually out there doing good in the world and not interested in continually coming here and asking for additional moneys.

Mr. MCINTOSH. That is so true. Later in the hour I would like to talk about some of those groups who come to us and say we are doing the right thing, because we are preserving the true nature of these charities.

One final point is it was pointed out to us that some of these groups might inadvertently be caught up in the legislation. What we did was made a very clear statement we would create a de minimis exception. If a group writes to their city council and says "We really think you ought to think of a new program to help clean up the inner-city," we do not intend that to be caught up in this legislation. That is not a problem of lobbyists coming and asking us to spend more and more money each year. That type of thing will be covered by our de minimis exception that makes it very clear that all groups can spend a small amount, $25,000 each year, in stating their positions to the public. We thought that was fair as a way of preserving their first amendment rights, but not having them be corrupted and turned into lobbying organizations.

Those are the key elements of this bill. I think it is very fair, very well drafted, and goes directly to the problem, that the taxpayers are not being protected right now from their funds going to subsidize these lobbying efforts.

Let me now recognize my friend and colleague from Indiana [Mr. SOUDER].

Mr. SOUDER. Madam Speaker, I appreciate the gentleman's leadership on this and the beating the gentleman has been taking on behalf of all those who agree with him. Whenever he takes the lead, he becomes a target for personal smear and innuendo from people who do not want to debate the issue, but the side issue to distract from the main issue, with the gentleman's addressing some of the things that have come up to me in my district and many others. Let me see if I can clarify this question.

Organizations that receive Federal funds, are they now restricted from any lobbying? For example, if it is a large organization and they spend some time advocating any kind of Federal policies, does that mean they can no longer do that if they get any money?

Mr. MCINTOSH. No, the bill is not as absolute as that. What it says is they are now restricted to a limited amount of advocacy, using the IRS formula that charitable groups right now are supposed to follow but which is not codified into law. Some groups, such as the National Council of Senior Citizens, are not covered by that limit, so they can go out and set up a political action committee, which they have done. They can go out and take out television ads, which they have done. This would put them under the same limit that the charities have if they are receiving those Federal dollars.

Mr. SOUDER. One of the great honors I have had was to work with Focus on the Family over the years, and particularly as Dr. Dobson looked at developing and working with Gary Bowers to develop the Family Research Council, and I was working with them in some of the early years. One of the things that Dr. Dobson has to do in his radio addresses is balance how many times he talks about government issues and how many times he deals with political issues. Many 501–C–3's, all of them which deal with social issues, are already under these restrictions.

Why is it so shocking to the other groups that they have to behave the way most of these groups have to do already in this country? What makes them special? Why were they exempt in this process in the first place?

Mr. MCINTOSH. I think the gentleman asks a very good question, why is there this double standard. I think what happened is over the years, certain groups almost became an extension of the government. The National Council of Senior Citizens receives 96 percent of its funds from the Federal Government. Like the Government, they became arrogant and thought that they could be above the standard, there would not be anybody there to police them, and they did not have to be accountable to the taxpayer. So now that we are starting to hold them accountable to what is very accepted with groups, like Dr. Dobson and other groups, they are starting to scream about it, because they thought they had a free ride and a special privilege. What we are saying is now the taxpayer does not want to put up with that any longer.

Mr. SOUDER. What is their defense for saying in the funds directly coming to them from the Federal Government for use for charitable work, whether it is seniors, or low income, or people who are handicapped, or people being abused, why do they feel that those dollars that are being given from the taxpayers for those purposes should be used directly for lobbying? Is there a reason that they say that they should be allowed to do that, other than self-fulfilling, they want more money for their group?

Mr. MCINTOSH. The only reason I have heard some of them say is, "Well, it is already not allowed." But then my question to them is why do you oppose this bill, if you say it is already not allowed? I think the answer must be that they know that that is not being enforced. In fact, we have one example with where a government agency gave a grant to a group who held an entire conference teaching people how to go and lobby. When they were called on the carpet and the GAO investigated and said this is an abuse of this Federal grant, the agency sort of shrugged their shoulders and said, "Oh well, too bad."

Now what we are doing is putting teeth in it by letting the taxpayer be the enforcement mechanism for making sure that they have to live under the law as well.

Mr. EHRLICH. If the gentleman will yield, I know our colleague from Indiana will appreciate this as well, because I think being part of the process, attending the subcommittee hearings, reading the testimony, listening to the testimony, another part of the answer really is when you get used to something, it is very human, and you think you are going to have it forever. You believe it is going to increase forever. You get very angry, and you tend to call people names when someone takes it away from you.

We have had to endure the name calling. The gentleman from Indiana has provided wonderful leadership on this and has been attacked personally. We have all been attacked. I am tired of it. If they would just talk about the issues, we might get some progress made. But the fact is they are angry, and we have seen it played out time and time again. That is a very human element to this entire debate.

Mr. EHRLICH. Is it not true also, which I think is a very good point, that some people argue this is a chilling effect on public debate? Is it not true that, for example, if there is an organization that would, say, favor the National Endowment for the Arts or the Institute for Museum Services, that what we are saying is the organization itself that receives the funds will now have a cap on how much they can spend in lobbying. But it does not keep an individual member of a Chicago Art Institute or the Fort Wayne Art Museum or a supporter of the philharmonic from writing us as Members of Congress or speaking out in public.

It is just the group cannot use its funds for those purposes if they get Federal funds. It that not correct?

Mr. McINTOSH. That is correct. Each of us as individuals would have our first amendment rights to speak out. In fact, one of the provisions that our colleague from Maryland put into the bill was an absolute exemption for individuals, so that any person, as compared to an organization, who wants to exercise their first amendment rights would be totally protected under this statute.

Mr. EHRLICH. Most people I know who give money to a philharmonic or art museum expect that money to go to the philharmonic for music or for the art, not to lobbying Congress. I do not think that was the intent that they thought they would give it.

Mr. McINTOSH. I think that is right. If the gentleman would let me share with you an example that a reporter called up the other day and asked me about, and apparently there is a group in Washington State that is Big Brother-Big Sister. They raise a lot of their money by having nightly bingo games. People come and they pay to play bingo, and it is a fund-raising technique. It is a very successful one for them. But they also spend a certain amount of their money lobbying the State legislature to make sure that bingo continues to be an eligible fund-raising tool. They are entitled to that, and it makes sense they would want to do that. But they apparently spend more than 15 percent of their funds lobbying the State legislature, because they do not receive a grant themselves. But they were worried they would no longer be able to take money from someone who does get a Federal grant. The rule we put in there is if you lobby more than 15 percent, you cannot receive the money indirectly.

So my suggestion to the reporter was why do they not set up a separate organization as a lobbying group? One night a week they can have a bingo game and tell everybody, "We are raising money to lobby with this night's proceeds. The other 6 nights we are going to help people with the Big Brothers and Big Sisters." Then you have disclosure, and the people who give the money will know what they are giving the money for. They will know whether or not this is for lobbying, or to help people with a charitable good.

To me, I think that an ideal world. People know what their money is going for, and the groups have the freedom to enact their programs and proceed with those. If they want to lobby, they can set up another group that does not get taxpayer money, that they can set up for the lobbying purposes.

Mr. EHRLICH. I know there are others who desire to speak, our good friend from Washington, but I have one other question I wanted to ask you, and that is we have talked about this, but a representative of ARC, it used to be the Association of Retarded Citizens, came to me and was concerned they would not be able to advocate for people that they were working with as they go, say, to a housing authority to talk to them, and go along with that citizen for housing, or if they had a job training program, as we have in our legislation, for those who have special needs.

My understanding of this legislation is this is focused on lobbying to Congress, to legislatures, not for helping citizens who fall into their purview. Is that not correct?

Mr. McINTOSH. Madam Speaker, the gentleman is exactly correct, and we have clarified the language to make certain that that is very clear. The ARC came and testified in our committee, they did not like the bill as it was drafted, and I thought they had a very telling and important comment in that area about a possible problem that could be created where they help citizens who really do need help going to a government agency and applying for assistance they are entitled to.

So we went back and changed the legislation to reflect that concern and be able to make it very clear that they would still be able to engage in that activity.

Mr. EHRLICH. Madam Speaker, if the gentleman would yield. As my colleagues can tell, I am a little angry tonight because of the personal attacks against the gentleman personally.

Mr. McINTOSH. Madam Speaker, let me thank the gentleman, but let me just comment. One thing I have taken solace in is, a friend of mine reminded me of the saying President Reagan had, which is "It is dangerous any time you get between the hog and the bucket". And I think our legislation may be doing exactly that.

Mr. EHRLICH. Madam Speaker, I think our friend from Indiana asked a very good question, but the gentleman's answer tells the American people a lot about the process we have brought to this entire debate. I know myself and my staff, Representative ISTOOK and his staff, the gentleman particularly and his entire staff have spent hundreds of hours meeting with groups actually trying to get input, to secure input relevant input to make the bill better. A very open process, which I am told around here was pretty rare before we got here. The gentleman deserves credit for that and yet the attacks continue.

Mr. McINTOSH. I think I know what it is, Madam Speaker, I think they realize if the American people find out the truth of where their taxpayer dollars are being spent to subsidize lobbying they will not win. But if they make it a personal attack, they might distract enough people and actually end up winning in the ultimate vote. Fortunately, I think all of us freshmen here are committed to getting down to the truth and delivering on our promises to the American people and so we will not let them get us sidetracked with those.

Madam Speaker, I want to recognize now a colleague from Washington State who has been very active in our subcommittee in helping to craft this bill, Mr. TATE.

Mr. TATE. Madam Speaker, for the sake of not trying to sound like a broken record, I want to thank the Member from Indiana for taking all the arrows on our behalf on this issue. We all came here, all of us, to make real changes in Washington, DC. I do not think that is a surprise. I think we all knew going into this, from the git-go, that there would be attacks. The opposition would use every tool that they possibly had to stop the agenda.

The defenders of big government do not want to see things changed. That means less power in Washington, DC, and more power in Washington State. That means less power in Washington, DC, and more in Indiana. And less power in Washington, DC, and more in Maryland. That is what it is all about. But I never knew they would be using my own tax dollars to lobby against these changes. It is one thing to do it privately, it is another thing to do it publicly. That is what they are so-so concerned about.

Recently in the Washington Times there was an editorial titled "Federally Funded GOP Bashing, talking about the case study of what has been going on out in my State, and this is what they said.

> In the past knew months a variety of groups have spent monies that total in the hundreds of thousands of dollars. The problem is not that these activists are targeting Mr. Tate. That, after all, is politics. The problem is that many of these groups are engaged in very political, very partisan activities and receive big bucks from the Federal Government. The campaign they have mounted passes anyone's test of political activity.

That is the point. I want people to get involved in politics. I think all of us, we ran for office because we wanted to make changes. Everyone should gutted involved in politics, even if they disagree with us. But the difference is they should not use the public trough, lay sideways in the public trough, literally, and take that money and spend it trying to defeat some of the things we are working on. That is the thing I find outrageous, using the taxpayers' dollars.

Madam Speaker, the other attacks I have heard is this whole issue of free speech. I say this over and over. Free speech is not free if I have to pay for it. The taxpayer should not have to pay for this kind of lobbying. Imagine the outrage we would hear if the Christian Coalition was receiving money, or the National Rifle Association, or the National Right to Life. To me this is not an issue about left and right. I would be just as upset if it was the other side.

That is the point, it is wrong no matter what ideology it happens to be. We should not be funding these sort of activities.

Mr. EHRLICH. Madam Speaker, if the gentleman would yield for a point. The gentleman may have missed the colloquy we engaged in on this floor, I believe three weeks ago, with the Representative from Colorado and the Representative from Maryland. They even admitted on the floor that day that it is not a defunding of the left. We have been attacked as defunding the left. They actually admitted that day it is not defunding the left.

I wanted to gentleman to know that, because one of the principal charges against us, against this piece of legislation has been diffused by the main opponents.

Mr. TATE. Madam Speaker, that is exactly the point. This week it is the GOP. Maybe a couple of years from now it is the Democrat party. To me it does not matter. It is wrong no matter what party it is. It is wrong to use the taxpayers' money to fund these kinds of acts, no matter who or what organization it is.

So, Madam Speaker, I guess what I would tell these organizations that are running attacks against the gentleman from Indiana [Mr. McINTOSH] and the gentleman from Maryland [Mr. EHRLICH] and against other freshmen that are standing up against big government and their special interests and high paid lobbyists back here in Washington, DC, I would tell those organizations if they want to lobby, do it on their own dime, do it on their own time, not on the taxpayers' time.

So I appreciate the gentleman from Indiana once again taking a lot of heat, and he should be judged by his enemies. He should be judged by the work he is doing. I can tell my colleagues when I was home for town meetings this weekend, I had more people come up to me and say, "You know what, RANDY, don't give up. Keep on fighting. Because we know if these groups are attacking you, you must be doing something right; that you must really be making changes".

The louder they scream, the more effective we must be. So I just thank the gentleman for his work.

Mr. McINTOSH. Madam Speaker, I thank the gentleman for that. Let me tell my colleagues, however, it is more than me. It is the dedicated effort of all of us and our colleagues, and Senator SIMPSON and Senator CRAIG on the Senate side, who are working very hard to make sure we can win passage in that body and send it forward to the President.

I want to give my colleagues a brief update about what is happening with this bill so that the American people can follow it in the next couple of weeks and see what happens.

Our goal is to make sure that this provision, ending the welfare for lobbyists, is part of the spending bill that gets sent to the President that helps finance his White House staff, helps finance the IRS and the agents there, helps finance the Treasury Department and the law enforcement agents there. What we want to do is make sure that when the President signs a bill funding all of this operations over in the White House he has to also sign a bill on behalf of the taxpayer ending the welfare for lobbyists.

So what we are doing is negotiating with our colleagues in the Senate to make sure that that provision is part of that very important spending bill. There is a core group of approximately 60 Members here in the House who have all signed a letter to the Speaker urging that that bill not go forward unless this very important provision is included in it.

I do not want to take all the accolades. I think those 60 Members who have stood up and said, "We must do the right thing for taxpayers around the country before we take care of business here as usual and send the President a funding bill for all his White House staff," they are the heroes that will make sure that this, in fact, remains intact.

Now, Madam Speaker, there is some discussion that all these spending bills may get wrapped up into something called a continuing resolution that would allow the Government to continue business as usual. If that happens, I think the leadership is very determined to make it a bare-bones bill that does not include a lot of the fat that might otherwise be put in there. But, also, I think it is important that if we have that continuing resolution we say one thing that is business as usual, taxpayers' subsidized lobbying is going to end. We mean to make sure that happens in this body so that we can deliver on that promise to the American voters.

Mr. EHRLICH. Madam Speaker, if the gentleman would yield briefly, I know the gentleman from Arizona wants to pitch in.

Where would we be without the leadership? They have killed us about 10 times already, and we have come back every time stronger. The leadership in this House, the leadership in the Senate, Senator LOTT, I think we have to mention Senator LOTT as well, who has been a wonderful mainstay on our side with respect to this issue, our leadership, the Speaker, the majority leader, the majority whip have come and saved us time and time again because they know how important this provision is to the American people and their representatives here in Congress, particularly the freshman class so well represented here on the floor tonight.

Mr. McINTOSH. Madam Speaker, that is absolutely correct. They have done a tremendous job of shepherding this bill.

Mr. HAYWORTH. Madam Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Indiana, and I listened with great interest to my two colleagues from Indiana, my good friend from Maryland, and my friend from Washington State who preceded me here at this location.

Madam Speaker, I thought our friend from Washington State made a very valid point that needs to be amplified. Disagreement over political philosophies is not the issue here; but, again, dipping into the pockets of American taxpayers to fund that disagreement is absolutely the issue we are talking about tonight.

My friend from Washington State, lest he be accused of sour grapes, was far too modest to detail what has gone on against him in his home district. I just thought for the RECORD it would be good to analyze where some of the attacks on our friend from Washington State, from whence they have come, groups financed, oft times in large measure by tax dollars from the American public against our friend RANDY TATE in Washington State.

A radio advertisement in March dealing with lawsuit limits, this suit brought by Citizen Action and Trial Lawyers. $15,000 goes into that anti-RANDY TATE ad campaign.

Save America's Families. Gee, I thought we were trying to do that, but I guess in this Orwellian newspeak one takes on a title that works.

Save America's Families TV and radio ads in September dealing with Medicare or, in honor of tomorrow's holiday, we could daresay their attack as Mediscare, $85,000.

A Medi-caravan, $10,000.

Now, again, Madam Speaker, I will applaud anyone's right to come to the well of this House, anyone's right as one of our constituents, anyone's right through the first amendment to the courage of their convictions; but it is a far cry to talk about the courage of one's convictions and the convenience of taxpayer dollars.

To those again who would try to misdirect this debate, to those again who would cry that it is an effort to silence a particular political philosophy, I would just simply say once again the facts speak for themselves. Indeed, the efforts of my colleagues here in drafting this legislation, to take into account not only the legitimate concerns of charity but also another angle. If I daresay, on first amendment rights, to make sure that Congress does not absolutely prohibit or proscribe entreaties with elected officials on behalf of charities or on the parts of these organizations, the gentleman has included that in the legislation.

So, indeed this is to silence no one. But let the American people understand something that has been made painfully clear to those of us assembled here on the floor and, indeed to you, Madam Speaker, that in the midst of an historic shift to change this institution, sadly, arguments that come from those opposed to our changes have nothing to do with policy and have everything to do with power.

Who has the majority in this Chamber? Who has the opportunity to advocate certain policies? And, again, I say that political conviction is one thing, but political convenience is quite another. And in the case of our good friend from Washington State, and in indeed in the case of several others, again we draw this distinction. It is fine to have disagreements. It is fine to have at times what might be characterized as bare-knuckled comparisons and contracts in the political arena. But even rhetorically as you make your points, realistically do not pick the pockets of Mr. and Mrs. America to do that. Have the courage of your convictions, rather than the convenience of taxpayer largesse.

Let me close with this comment. Those who would say we are silencing a certain philosophy, I think, perhaps so championed that philosophy that they are the same type of folks who believe that electricity emanates from the light switch, that milk is found in a container, and that this money originates with the Government here.

The money does not originate with the Government here, Madam Speaker. It is in the pockets of every American who is working hard. And if those Americans choose to voluntarily give to an organization to advocate a point of view, that is their right. But involuntary servitude to a political philosophy must be stopped. That is what we are trying to do with this piece of legislation.

Mr. McINTOSH. Here, here. Let me commend the gentleman. As the gentleman was speaking, I realized that this is part of the large, titanic struggle that we are engaged in in this Congress. Because each of those issues that they were advertising against in our colleague's district in Washington State was a part of the Contract With America.

There was the effort to reform the legal system so that the lawyers do not continue to become richer and richer at the expense of the populace. There was the issue of regulatory reform to hold back the bureaucrats that are strangling our businesses and farmers in this country. And, finally, there is the issue that we considered last week of getting to a balanced budget and a tax cut in this country.

In each case, the opponents of our Contract With America were saying, "We want your taxpayer dollars to pay for our lobbyists, and we are going to insist that you give us funds to pay for our lobbyists out of the taxpayer's pockets in this country, and once again we are going to put that money to use to try to stop you from what you were sent here to do on behalf of the taxpayers; to once again give the Government back to the American people so that it is their government and not the government of the bureaucracies and the large lobbying groups who are resided here in Washington, DC."

So, the gentleman has inspired me in a way that I have not thought of being on this issue. That it is a part of this larger, overall struggle that this Congress is engaged in returning power to the people. I commend the gentleman for that.

I recognize my colleague from Indiana.

Mr. SOUDER. First off, I want to say that $230,000 is really an impressive endorsement of my colleague from Washington. It shows how committed he is to change. The people back in his home State, when they hear that, they ought to say, "Boy, RANDY is really out here doing things. They really want him out."

The problem is that we do not like it that they are doing it with our money or our tax deductions. If people want the tax deductions, they should follow the 5-percent rule. If people want to do it with our money, then they should not be doing it to defeat RANDY TATE. They have all the opportunity in the world.

In fact, every $10,000 that goes against RANDY TATE in his campaign should be considered a badge of honor that he is here reforming things. He should say, "Go get some more and come after me, because every dollar you are spending does it." But do not do it with the taxpayers' money and do not do it with our deductions.

Which really gets to a bigger question, which as somebody who boosts increasing the charitable deduction and who has made it a major part of what I came here to do, it has been frustrating to have some disagreements with the friends of mine in the charitable areas over this issue.

At the same time, the plain truth of the matter is that this is one of the things that we are fighting and what we are trying to deal with in this bill, and that is the corrupting influence that Government funds can have on the people who are caring for people who really need it. The people in Catholic social services and Lutheran social services and the tons of volunteer organizations dealing with people in prisons and child abuse, domestic violence, the terrible problems that we have in this society, feel the problem that we have in this country is a lot that many of us are ignoring those who are hurting and have not been taking an involvement.

They are struggling and they see these terrible problems and think, Boy, if we could just dip into the Federal dollars to solve this. But you start chasing your tail. First, you have to start compromising and start filling out paperwork and changing the nature of your organization. All the sudden there are religious restrictions and many of the most powerful groups have a very strong moral component that they cannot do with tax dollars.

They start chasing the Federal dollars and then they start to convert themselves and instead of spending their money on helping the people, the ones they could help, they are now trying to chase and get the Government involved. And the Government, who has been completely ineffective, tends to corrupt the influence of those groups in the first place.

So, there is a deeper question here, and that is not only are we trying to talk about the political ends and whether or not some of these groups have been using their funds to damage people in Congress who are trying to cause changes, but there is the core question of what this is doing to the organizations themselves and their mission and this society.

We need organizations in this country dedicated to values without the big hand of Government steering them and trying to control what they can and cannot say. Part of this is to say, If you want the Federal funds, then stay out of the lobbying. And if you want to be completely independent and raise your money, then you can follow and get the 501(c)(3) restrictions on the 5 percent, but do not go over that, because your primary mission is to be independent and to help those who are hurting. Your primary mission is not to lobby Congress and to turn into mini-politicians.

We are in danger in this country of watching our charitable end turn into another quasi-government and become corrupted and as ineffective as what we have seen. As one pastor in Detroit who was told that he had to do it the Government's way, otherwise he could not get government funds. He could not talk about religion. He was an African-American pastor. He said, "From what I have seen what the Government has done, every housing project you have touched is crumbling; every juvenile delinquency program you have does not work; every drug abuse program does not have good return. Everything my church has done in the community has worked. Our housing, our juvenile delinquency, our drugs, our child care.

Yet, you tell me unless I do it your way, I cannot have the money."

It is a sad day when our charitable organizations start to get into this web of Government. This is a great way, and really the undergirding of much of what you are doing, not the political. I thank the gentleman from Indiana for his leadership.

Mr. MCINTOSH. Thank you. Let me share testimony from one young man who came to our subcommittee, because it reinforces everything that the gentleman just said. Isaac Randolph is a former firefighter from Indianapolis, a black gentleman who is very dedicated to his community and that city.

He wants to help black youths who are in danger are being caught up in the gang violence and drugs and ruining their lives. He quit his job, a very good job with the city, and started a group called the St. Florian Society, named after the patron saint of firefighters.

He has been dedicating his life to trying to teach leadership skills and encourage young people from the inner-city to respect themselves, learn leadership, and make something of their lives. He receives a little bit of Federal grant money through the city, although most of it he collects really from the private sector.

He came and testified saying that he thought our bill was incredibly important, because he thought that the nature of the charitable activity that he was engaged in would be corrupted if it continued to be the goal of those groups to lobby and advocate for government programs, rather than getting in there and helping the inner-city youths in his neighborhood, helping the elderly, helping communities around the country.

It was very moving testimony from a gentleman who has dedicated his life to helping those around him. I think it is something we should take to heart very deeply as we move forward in this area.

So, the testimony in the subcommittee has been very supportive of exactly the point the gentleman is making about preserving and strengthening the true charitable activities that work in our country.

Mr. EHRLICH. Just a quick follow-up, I know the gentleman from Arizona [Mr. HAYWORTH] has some very important information to share, but we get so bogged down from time to time with the opposition to this initiative, with the organized way in which they have gone about attacking us across the country, particularly on the Internet. That is a subject for another day and hopefully we will have a colloquy on that as well.

But I think we get so bogged down with respect to the opposition that we lose sight of all the grassroots groups out there, the individuals, the organizations that have supported this legislation from day one. Just to name a few, because I have the letters right here and I know the chairman of the subcommittee has seen the letters: National Taxpayers Union; Citizens for a Sound Economy; the Association of Concerned Taxpayers; The 60-Plus Association, a seniors group; the U.S. Chamber of Commerce; the Seniors Coalition, another seniors group; the Association of Concerned Taxpayers; Americans for Tax Reform; the National Association of Manufacturers, and on and on and on and on and on.

Through the efforts of the gentleman from Indiana [Mr. MCINTOSH], we have been able to put together this coalition of people who know we need to change the law because it is broken.

I congratulate the gentleman from Indiana. I am proud to serve on his subcommittee.

Mr. MCINTOSH. Thank you so much. It is a great subcommittee because of the members, more than everything. Yes, Mr. HAYWORTH?

Mr. HAYWORTH. I thank the gentleman from Indiana. We detailed a few figures concerning taxpayer-funded opposition or taxpayer-funded advocacy in the political arena involving our friend from Washington State. Others, Madam Speaker, may be joining us tonight saying, Well, you are not giving us the entire picture. We need some more evidence, if you will. What else can you show us? you talk about abuses of the taxpayers' money. What else can you show us?

I think it is instructive to go back to Federal funding as it existed from July 1993 through June 1994, and take a look at what has gone on. And I dare say, given the fact that this Congress was controlled by those with another philosophy, perhaps these appropriations even increased in the last fiscal year.

But that fact notwithstanding, the AFL–CIO, July 1993 to June 1994, over $2 million in taxpayers' money. And, of course, big labor is operating a program called Standup designed to defeat the new agenda in Congress. But, again, it is not the disagreement, but the fact that over $2 million of taxpayers' money went into that endeavor.

AFSCME, the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, $148,000 of taxpayers' money going into political advocacy.

Perhaps most egregiously, the National Council of Senior Citizens, a whopping $68 million. I had to take a look at this to make sure I had this right. $68 million. Over 90 percent, as the gentleman from Indiana pointed out, 96 percent of this charitable organization's funding comes from the pockets of hard-working taxpayers. Yet, the same organization, taking over $68 million in taxpayers' money contributed $405,000 to 134 candidates for Congress.

Again, if people want to contribute to political campaigns, that is their right. But 96 percent of that $68 million and over $400,000 going into those endeavors? Madam Speaker, it appears it was charitable only to the candidates involved. It was charitable only to those ceaseless proponents of a welfare state where big government is the answer to every question and where they would will a veil of secrecy descend. And when that veil is lifted, the most amazing and, yes, the most vile epithets are employed.

As we began in special orders tonight, I invoked the words of outrage from our friend from California who said as we passed this bill, quote, "It's a glorious day if you are a Fascist. If you are a Fascist, it's a glorious day."

Madam Speaker, nothing could be further from the truth. It is a glorious day for the American taxpayers when we are willing to stand up and say no more of this abuse. Let us lift this veil of secrecy and more importantly, let us terminate this egregious action.

Mr. EHRLICH. Madam Speaker, was the gentleman in the subcommittee public hearing day, when we were referred to as McCarthyites?

Was the gentleman in the room?

Mr. HAYWORTH. Unfortunately, I was not there, but I have been treated as every Member of this institution. Every Member of this new majority has been treated to a ceaseless parade of epithets from those who see the gravy train about to come to an end. And it is a measure of their desperation, as has been noted here, that they will make any comparison, no matter how vile, no matter how reprehensible.

I have to say, with great confusion, I am surprised the fourth estate that so assiduously covers matters here does not respond on its editorial pages with outrage about these statements, but then again I guess we are new to this town and we have a lot to learn from those groups. But it is amazing to see those comments bandied about.

Mr. SOUDER. Madam Speaker, one of the things that we hear is, why are you guys picking on these groups? Why are you just doing this?

The plain truth of the matter is that, if there is any doubt about this freshman class and those of us who are here today, we are not picking on just this group. We are picking on everybody. We are going after this entire system, and we are not going to exempt any different groups.

We are looking at term limits. We finally got a commitment that we are going to do gift reform. We got a commitment finally that we are going to do lobby reform. We have a commitment that the freshmen are going to work on a week or at least a couple days or at least a number of initiatives this coming year on finance reform.

For 40 years, the other party was in control, and they did not do it. We have Members of this body, former Members of this body going to prison. We have others resigning in disgrace, getting long pensions and all sorts of things.

We came here to reform the whole system. We are not going to exempt one group because they look to be charitable corporations. If they are abusing taxpayer funds, they are going to get hit, too. If Members are abusing it, they are going to get hit. If PAC's are abusing it, they are going to get hit.

We were sent here to Washington to change this system. I commend the gentleman for his leadership on this issue. I commend the gentleman on other things and the other freshmen. It is not that we are just picking on this. We are, as I said, going to pick on everybody who is abusing the taxpayers' dollars and abusing this wonderful House and trying to return it back to the people. I am proud to be here with my fellow freshmen here tonight and those who came here really committed to reform.

Mr. McINTOSH. Madam Speaker, I find it ironic. I think the opponents of this measure are trying to make any argument to any group to try to stop us from going forward and protecting the taxpayer.

The most recent ones that I read in the mail today was that they were arguing that this bill that we have would be bad because it would limit businesses in their lobbying effort if they receive a Federal grant for research or other activities. So how ironic that people who have been attacking businesses all of their lives are now worried that we might be limiting the ability of businesses to lobby to a million dollars per business and that this could be a grave threat.

My answer is, it is not business, it is not charity. It is anybody who lives off of the Federal Government and the taxpayer funds who needs to realize we are serious. This is real lobbying reform. We are not going to subsidize your lobbyists anymore. We are going to put an end to it so that we end welfare for lobbyists.

Mr. EHRLICH. Madam Speaker, the bottom line is, if they do not realize we are serious by now, they will never realize it. As the gentleman well knows, because he has been the target particularly, and the gentleman from Washington [Mr. TATE], they know we are serious. That is why they are so scared because they know we have the facts and we have the votes and we have the leadership, your leadership.

Mr. TATE. Madam Speaker, if the gentleman will continue to yield, it has been referenced many times about the freshmen coming to this town. We brought fresh ideas. But it is amazing from the folks across the aisle, they want to do things the way they have always done it.

We can understand the mentality a little better when I think, well, why are you worried about this? This is $40 billion, billion with a B. This is a lot of money. I am not sure how much was spent on political campaigns last year, but I think those pale in comparison to $40 billion, to me if we can really reform the way things are done around here.

The other argument, as we are closing, is, how can we do this? How can we change this? How can they look into the taxpayers' eyes in my district, as they are working and struggling to get by to put food on the table, to buy shoes for the kids, to save money for education, to put a little money aside for health care, to maybe even save money to go on vacation and to find out that their own money is being sent to Washington, DC, to lobby for more of their hard earned money.

Basically, the taxpayer works hard, sends his money to Washington, DC, then some nameless bureaucrat writes a check to some group that turns around and lobbies for more of that hard earned taxpayers' money, which is what it really comes down to.

So I would challenge those across the aisle that oppose this to talk to the constituents in my district that work hard for their taxpayer dollars.

STANDING UP FOR THE AMERICAN TAXPAYER

Mr. MCINTOSH. Madam Speaker, let me come to a close here and say, no matter how much they attack us as individuals, I appreciate all of the efforts that each of you have put in in moving this bill forward and working with our leadership here, Speaker GINGRICH, Majority Leader ARMEY, Majority Whip DELAY, and the leadership in the Senate, from Senator DOLE to Senator LOTT to the Senators who have supported this, Senator SIMPSON and Senator CRAIG in making this bill a reality.

They can throw mud at us as individuals. They can run advertisements attacking us in our districts. They can impugn our motives and try to destroy our reputations in the press. But we were not sent here for any of those purposes. We were sent here to stand up for the American taxpayer and to do what is right.

We have now sent notice to this town that we will not rest until we have put an end to taxpayer subsidies for the bill lobbying groups here in Washington, DC. I think the American taxpayers will be relieved and heartened that we are willing to stand up and insist on this reform on their behalf.

I thank all of my colleagues for coming here tonight and working so hard to make this bill a possibility.

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, October 30, 1995

Mr. EHLERS. Mr. Speaker, after months of debate and thousands of meetings across the country, the House passed the Medicare Preservation Act [MPA] on October 19. Crafting the legislation, which generated strong feelings on all sides of the issue, was by no means an easy task. I am pleased with the hard work and sincere effort that was put forth by many people in developing a better Medicare system.

Reforming Medicare is an urgent matter that must be addressed. Because of the complexity of the issue and its widespread effect on our Nation, it is important to understand why the system needs to be reformed and what our reform proposal involves. In April the board of trustees of the Social Security funds reported that the Medicare part A trust fund, which pays for hospital-related services, will be bankrupt in 7 years. The part B trust fund, which pays for outpatient services, is not in danger of bankruptcy, because almost 70 percent of part B premiums is paid by the Federal Government, and the rest is paid by beneficiaries who choose this coverage. In 1996, for the first time since its creation, the part A trust fund will be paying out more in benefits than it collects in taxes. Why? Mainly because the costs of providing Medicare benefits have grown at more than double the growth of private-sector health care costs. If we fail to address this problem and control its excessive costs, Medicare will collapse. It is critical, therefore, that we make reforms to save Medicare because there are thousands of beneficiaries who depend on it. Medicare has served us well for 30 years, but its failure to incorporate private-sector innovations and to end waste, inefficiency, and fraud requires us to develop a better system.

The MPA will expand the types of coverage Medicare offers:

One, current Medicare coverage: A beneficiary can choose to continue the same Medicare coverage they have now. If they choose to do this, their copayments and deductibles will not be increased. They will also continue to pay the same percentage of part B premiums, 31.5 percent, with the Government paying the remainder of the premium.

Two, MedicarePlus: A beneficiary is given choices from a new category of coverage, MedicarePlus. This option will allow beneficiaries to choose the same types of health coverage available in the private sector, such as HMO's and other types of coordinated care, instead of traditional Medicare coverage. These plans will likely offer full health care coverage to beneficiaries, perhaps eliminating the need to purchase costly supplementary insurance plans. These plans might also involve coverage of additional services, such as prescription drugs and eye care, in exchange for a more limited choice of health care providers. Beneficiaries would get detailed information in the mail each year about types of plans available in their area.

Three, medical savings accounts: Beneficiaries could also choose coverage through a medical savings account [MSA]. This option would require beneficiaries to choose a high-deductible insurance policy paid by Medicare. The savings achieved through this policy will be placed in an individual MSA, which will be used to pay for health care expenses within the deductible, or to purchase long-term care insurance.

The reforms don't stop there. The new Medicare Program will also make significant reforms in payments for doctors, hospitals, and other health care providers, in order to control costs. Government-funded Medicare coverage for the wealthy will be phased out, starting with couples with incomes above $125,000 and individuals with incomes above $75,000. A special commission will be created to study the effects of the retirement of the large baby boom generation, when there will be only two workers to support every retiree. Mechanisms to detect fraud and abuse will be strengthened, and beneficiaries who detect any wrongdoing in their bills will be rewarded. Finally, the plan will install a failsafe mechanism to monitor the reforms and ensure that they are achieving the savings necessary to protect the system.

Unfortunately, during the long debate about the MPA some groups and individuals generated misinformation about the proposal. It is important to understand that these reforms were not introduced in order to offset tax cuts or balance the budget. If these reforms are not adopted, the system will simply collapse. This is not a quick fix; these changes are needed to protect and preserve the long-term health of the system.

As is the case with any change, glitches may occur as the plan is implemented. While it would be ideal if the reforms were perfect, it is likely some may need correction. Therefore Congress will monitor the implementation process and correct any mistakes that may occur.

Now that the House has given its approval, the MPA has been incorporated into a larger budget package. It will now move on to the Senate before it is sent to the President for his signature.

EGYPT'S ECONOMIC BIND

HON. LEE H. HAMILTON

OF INDIANA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, October 30, 1995

Mr. HAMILTON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to bring to the attention of my colleagues a recent World Bank study which highlights the economies of the Middle East in general and Egypt as a leader in that region in particular.

The study entitled "Claiming the Future" was the subject of an October 18, 1995 editorial by Thomas Friedman in the New York Times. Mr. Friedman summarizes portions of the World Bank study which show that in 1960 the Middle East had a per capita income higher than Asia, but in 1990, even with oil wealth, the Middle East per-capita income had only doubled while that of Asia had more than quadrupled. Economic reform, privatization, and development have eluded the Middle East to a larger extent.

These problems are acute in Egypt. The need for economic restructuring is enormous. Egypt and the entire Middle East region will need to focus on economic issues if the region is to catch up with the rest of the world. Egypt and the Middle East need economic reform if they are to generate jobs for the burgeoning youth population now entering the job market.

The excellent New York Times editorial follows:

EGYPT RUNS FOR THE TRAIN

(By Thomas L. Friedman)

John Page, the World Bank's chief Middle East economist, likes to say that the difference between the global economy of the 1950's and the 1990's is the difference between two trains. The global economy of the 1950's he says, "was like the old train from Heliopolis [a Cairo suburb] to Cairo. That train stopped at every station, and if you missed one, you could always catch another. It was so slow that if you missed the last one, you could ride your bike and catch up at the next station. If you couldn't afford a ticket, you could always ride on the roof. The global economy of the 1990's by contrast is like the bullet train from Tokyo to Osaka. If you miss it it's gone—goodbye—and you can't catch up."

That's a useful image to keep in mind when visiting Cairo these days because the Arab world in general, and Egypt in particular, is in real danger of missing the train, and the consequences could be catastrophic.

Consider some startling statistics from a new World Bank study of Middle East economies entitled "Claiming the Future," which will be released next month. In 1960, the seven leading Arab economies had an average per-capita income of $1,521, while the seven East Asian "tigers"—Taiwan, South Korea, Hong Kong, Singapore, Thailand, Malaysia and Indonesia—had a per capita income of only $1,456. The Arabs were slightly ahead. By 1991, however, the per-capita income of the Arab countries was only $3,342, while the Asian tigers were up to $58,000 per person.

Today the Arab Middle East attracts 3 percent of global foreign investment, while East Asia attracts 58 percent. Egypt exported and imported more goods and services 20 years ago than it does today, relative to the size of its economy. In other words, Egypt was more integrated with the world economy in 1970, under Gamal Abdel Nasser, than in 1990, under Hosni Mubarak. The Arab world lags far behind East Asia in spending on education, in the number of women in the work force and in every measure of productivity.

Why the difference? One explanation is that in East Asia leaders usually based their political appeal on economics—"Have I made you better off today than four years ago?"—while Arab leaders based their political appeal on fighting colonialism or Zionism, or on ethnic and religious bonds, or on sheer brute force. No Arab leader ever said: "Judge me on my G.D.P." So Arab economies existed to support the state, instead of the state existing to support the economy. Or, as the Egyptian intellectual Tahseen Bashir says: "Egypt was first a state, then the people were created."

A year ago 500 Egyptian businessmen gathered for the country's biggest-ever economic conference. They adjusted the date precisely so President Mubarak could attend. The day of the conference Mr. Mubarak canceled because of another pressing engagement—he had to receive the President of Mauritania.

No wonder Mr. Mubarak has failed to institute the structural reforms that could make Egypt attractive to foreign investors and competitive on the world stage—that is downsizing the bloated bureaucracy, privatizing state industries and reforming investment regulations. President Mubarak is terrified that downsizing will lead to unemployment and riots.

That is a legitimate fear. But even if Mr. Mubarak doesn't want to touch his bureaucracy, he could at least reform Egypt's antiquated commercial codes, arbitrary tax regulations and red-tape foreign investment rules (a foreign investor needs the signatures of 26 different officials to set up shop here) so that the private sector can provide the jobs the Government cannot.

Fact: Mr. Mubarak has more mummies in his cabinet than King Tut. His team of ministers is the oldest in the Arab world. It has not risen to the economic challenge, and so investors go elsewhere.

It is time for the U.S. to stop looking at Egypt as a pillar in the peace process, and start looking at it as an economic laggard badly in need of shock therapy. Egypt doesn't need a shuttle by the Secretary of State. It needs a shuttle by the Secretary of the Treasury. The World Bank estimates that the Arab states and Iran will have to create 47 million new jobs by the year 2010 just to accommodate the population boom that will enter the labor force by then.

If governments here do not reform themselves to meet that challenge, this region won't just miss the tram. The whole station will explode.

TRIBUTE TO GEORGE WALLACE

HON. PETER T. KING

OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, October 30, 1995

Mr. KING. Mr. Speaker, it gives me great pleasure to take this opportunity to salute one of my constituents for his role in the global struggle against tyranny during World War II. Mr. George Wallace, from Merrick, NY, is a member of the very best generation this Nation ever produced. Like millions of other men from all across the United States, when war came to America in 1941, he answered the call to duty and did his part.

His service record during the Second World War is both remarkable and typical. I would like to enter into the RECORD a brief outline of his military service.

George Wallace joined the U.S. Army in October 1942. After graduating Officer Candidate School he has commissioned as a 2d lieutenant of the field artillery. Shipped to England in 1944, he graduated Airborne School and was assigned to the 17th Airborne Division, 680th Glider Field Artillery Battalion.

Wallace served with this unit in the Battle of the Bulge and Operation Varsity, the largest airborne operation of the war. Fighting throughout, the Rhineland Campaign, Wallace took part in the capture of Wesel, Munster, and the Ruhr Valley complex.

After V–E Day, he transferred to the 101st Airborne for occupation duties and training for possible action during the then-likely invasion of Japan. Following the deactivation of the 101st, he transferred to the 82nd Airborne and marched with that unit under Gen. James M. Gavin during a victory parade in New York City on January 6, 1946. During the war years, he had had the honor of serving in three different airborne divisions.

Not yet through serving his country, George Wallace stayed on with the Army Reserve until April, 1953. Following his distinguished military service, Wallace joined the New York City Fire Department, where he served for 29 years before retiring as assistant chief of the department.

I was very proud on October 11, 1995, to be joined in Washington by Mr. George Wallace for the special joint meeting of Congress in honor of World War II veterans. We must never forget the courage and sacrifice of those millions of American young men, who like George Wallace answered their country's call during World War II.

HONORING FAROOQ KATHWARI

HON. GARY L. ACKERMAN

OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, October 30, 1995

Mr. ACKERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to join with my constituents and with the members of the American Jewish Committee as they honor Farooq Kathwari, who will receive the Institute of Human Relations Award on November 2 in Manhattan.

This prestigious award is presented annually by the American Jewish Committee to an individual who represents the bold and humanitarian beliefs and ideals that foster civil and human rights and promote democracy. The Human Relations Award embodies the practices of a pluralistic society and the belief that the goals of justice, freedom, and democracy for one group will be achieved only by guaranteeing them for all peoples.

Mr. Speaker, Farooq Kathwari is a most fitting recipient of this high honor. His story illustrates what our great country stands for, and the bountiful opportunities the United States offers its citizens. Farooq Kathwari came to America 30 years ago as a political refugee from Kashmir, and he now leads one of the Nation's largest home-furnishing companies. He arrived in New York City at age 20 armed with a BA in English and political science, and with a determination to live and grow in a free society. Two years later he earned an MBA, went to work for Newcourt Securities, where he rapidly rose to the position of vice president, and simultaneously launched his own importing business. Soon thereafter, Ethan Allen purchased an interest in his company. In 1980, the firms merged, and Farooq Kathwari became vice president of Ethan Allen. By 1989, he had risen to the post of chairman, president, and CEO.

While becoming a leader in the American and international business communities, Mr. Kathwari did not forget his origins. He enthusiastically undertook a variety of projects supportive of freedom and human rights. Of special note is his work as founder of the Council for Human Rights in Kashmir. Through this organization, Farooq Kathwari has dedicated himself to help foster a dialog for peace in this much-troubled region, and to promote human rights around the world.

Mr. Speaker, I ask all my colleagues in the House of Representatives to join me now in honoring Farooq Kathwari, a most compassionate and selfless citizen. May his good works serve as a model for countless others to follow.

HON. CARRIE P. MEEK

OF FLORIDA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, October 30, 1995

Mrs. MEEK of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I rise to pay special tribute to an outstanding young man in my district, Stephen Ward Tuttle II of Miami, a member of Boy Scout Troop 840 of St. Louis Church. Stephen has earned the highest honor a Scout can achieve, the rank of Eagle Scout.

Stephen Tuttle began his long, arduous climb toward the rank of Eagle Scout as a Cub Scout over 5 years ago. During that time, he has constantly striven for excellence in school, church, and scouting. He has consistently demonstrated discipline, leadership, commitment, and integrity and provided an outstanding example to the Scouts around him and to the community as a whole. He has earned the respect and admiration of his fellow Scouts, schoolmates, family, and those in our community.

Mr. Speaker, I want to congratulate Stephen Tuttle on a job well done. I join with his mother, Laura Tuttle, his scoutmaster, Capt. Roy Hamlin, his troop, and our entire community in recognizing his achievement and wishing him continued success in the future.

SECRETARY WEINBERGER SEES B-2'S STRENGTHS

HON. RANDY "DUKE" CUNNINGHAM

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, October 30, 1995

Mr. CUNNINGHAM. Mr. Speaker, among the many budget issues that Congress continues to work on is our effort to revitalize our national security. In these tight budgetary times, every spending decision we make must be cost and benefit justified.

The following commentary, written by former Secretary of Defense Caspar W. Weinberger in the November 6, 1995, issue of Forbes magazine, provides some of the many outstanding arguments for our Nation to continue to fund the B-2 Stealth Bomber Program. As Secretary Weinberger notes, "few people understand just how good, how revolutionary, this stealth bomber is." That said, I recommend that all of my colleagues in the House and Senate read this piece, and consider the value and benefit that the B-2 offers our national defense.

[From Forbes magazine, Nov. 6, 1995]

KEEP THE B-2 PROGRAM ALIVE

(By Caspar Weinberger)

Whether to continue production of the B-2 stealth bomber, the world's most advanced aircraft, is an issue that creates strange alliances. Many proponents of a strong defense favor terminating the B-2 program, leaving us with only the 20 aircraft already paid for. A second group favor making the required expenditures now (roughly $500 million) that would enable us to resume production of the B-2 should international conditions require it. This would be far less expensive than closing the production line and having to start it up later. A third group, small in number, believe we need more B-2s and should continue production on a low-level scale.

The second group's approach is the most reasonable, practical and necessary. The B-2—the world's only stealth bomber—is, as even one of its strongest opponents admits, "a technological marvel . . .widely praised by our highest-ranking military leaders." But few people seem to understand just how good, how revolutionary, this stealth bomber is and what it adds to our ability to keep peace and freedom.

Of course, the word "stealth" does not mean the plane is invisible. But when the B-2 is at high altitudes, where it flies when delivering nuclear or conventional bombs, it is virtually impossible for any existing or projected defense system to detect it on radar, and it therefore is invulnerable. Two B-2s with a total crew of four can deliver a bombload which, if dropped from conventional planes, would put the lives of 132 crewmen at risk. In the Gulf war's first hours, 45 sorties by stealth fighter F-117s struck almost as many Iraqi targets as did 850 sorties by conventional aircraft. In the first 24 hours of Desert Storm, we sent 1,263 conventional aircraft to strike 144 major targets. Thirty-two B-2s could have attacked the same number of targets— and more effectively because of precision weaponry—in less time.

The debate turns on whether we need this astonishing capability now that the Cold War is over. Senator John McCain (R-Ariz.), a skilled and effective advocate of a strong defense, believes that we no longer need a "large fleet of stealthy, long-range, nuclear delivery aircraft." He also views aircraft carriers, submarines and other weapons as better serving our national security needs because they are "visible, forward-deployed forces," enabling us to "put our capability on peaceful display"—a good deterrent in and of itself. McCain makes the point that, although the B-2 can carry conventional weapons, having it do so is not cost-effective at a fixed price of $556 million per aircraft. Each additional B-2 will use scarce defense budget funds, precluding necessary modernization and replacements for the trucks, tanks, other aircraft, artillery and ships that will be needed shortly. These are understandable, reasonable arguments.

It seems to me, however, that events over the last several years have demonstrated conclusively that we are going to need the B-2's capabilities. The Gulf war exemplifies why we need to be able to project our military power over vast distances quickly and effectively. It would be nice—but scarcely safe—to believe that there will be no more Gulf wars or events that will require such capabilities. But, for example, we are committed to the defense of two other potential hotspots: Taiwan and South Korea. Should the U.S. be called into action, the B-2 would be extremely useful. It serves us well to remember that the more strength we have, the less likely it is that we will have to use it.

In any event, the ultimate question of whether we need to buy more than the already-ordered B-2s need not be decided now. What we do need now is the option to acquire more later and the ability to exercise that option without the staggering costs of restarting production. If we terminate the B-2 production line now, we virtually preclude securing any more of those remarkable aircraft in the future.

We should instead agree to use the funds in the Defense appropriations bill to procure some of the parts necessary from the B-2's nearly 3,400 suppliers, thereby keeping the line open for later low-level production. General John Loh, former commander of our Air Combat Command, sums it up well: "I see the B-2 as the centerpiece of . . . [a] strategy that places increasing importance on projecting immediate, responsive power from the U.S. to a regional crisis anywhere in the world."

INTRODUCTION OF THE STATE WATER SOVEREIGNTY PROTECTION ACT

HON. MICHAEL D. CRAPO

OF IDAHO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, October 30, 1995

Mr. CRAPO. Mr. Speaker, I rise to introduce a bill to preserve the authority of the States over waters within their boundaries, to delegate the authority of the Congress to the States to regulate water, and for other purposes.

Since 1866, Congress has recognized and deferred to the authority of the States to allocate and administer water within their borders. The Supreme Court has confirmed that this is an appropriate role for the States. Additionally, in 1952 the Congress passed the McCarran amendment which provides for the adjudication of State and Federal water claims in State water courts.

However, despite both judicial and legislative edicts, I am deeply concerned that the administration, Federal agencies and some in Congress are setting the stage for ignoring long established statutory provisions concerning State water rights and State water contracts. The Endangered Species Act, the Clean Water Act, the Federal Land Management Policy Act, Endangered Species Act Recovery Plans, rangeland reform, and proposed wilderness legislation have been vehicles used to erode State sovereignty over its water.

It is imperative that States maintain sovereignty over management and control of their water and river systems. All rights to water or reservations of rights for any purpose in States should be subject to the substantive and procedural laws of that State, not the Federal Government. To protect State water rights I am introducing the State Water Sovereignty Protection Act.

RECOGNITION OF JUDE HARRINGTON

HON. BUD SHUSTER

OF PENNSYLVANIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, October 30, 1995

Mr. SHUSTER. Mr. Speaker, far too often the work of the men and women who are charged with preserving our Nation's natural resources goes unnoticed. These individuals, many of whom dedicate their lives toward maintaining America's treasures are rarely recognized for the importance of the service which they provide.

Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to such an individual from my own congressional district, Mr. Jude Harrington of Huntingdon, PA. A native of Pennsylvania, Mr. Harrington began his career with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers in 1980 as a student intern with the Pittsburgh district. He received a bachelors degree in parks and recreation from Slippery Rock University in 1982. After graduating from Slippery Rock, Jude has served the corps at several different locations and in the process has earned a solid reputation as a man of integrity and conviction.

Since 1992, Jude has served as the supervisory ranger for Raystown Lake. His work at the lake has enabled it to become one of the largest tourist and recreation attractions in my district. In fact, last year 1.3 million people traveled to rural Pennsylvania to visit Raystown Lake. Mr. Harrington's primary responsibilities at Raystown are centered upon the management of the lake's natural resources and recreation programs.

Recently, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers selected Jude Harrington as the national resources management employee of the year. The corps handpicked Jude out of a field of a possible 1,200 candidates from across the Nation. They recognized what we in the Ninth District have known for years, that Jude Harrington is the best of the best when it comes to natural resources management. His work on behalf of Raystown Lake is a testament to both his love for the area and his commitment to the preservation of natural resources. I will close by thanking Jude Harrington for his service to Raystown Lake and congratulating him on being recognized for this honor which he richly deserves.

NO WELCOME MAT FOR MILOSEVIC

HON. CHRISTOPHER H. SMITH

OF NEW JERSEY

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, October 30, 1995

Mr. SMITH of New Jersey. Mr. Speaker, instead of rolling out the red carpet this week for Slobodan Milosevic, the Clinton administration should hand over the Serbain President to international investigators for his alleged role in war crimes perpetrated in the former Yugoslavia. Having ignited the firestorm of extreme Serb nationalism which has consumed most of Bosnia and part of Croatia, Milosevic is now being enlisted as a member of the Clinton administration's fire brigade assembled to douse the smoldering ashes in its aftermath.

Milosevic, who has earned the title "Butcher of the Balkans," has reincarnated himself, in the eyes of the Clinton administration, as a peacemaker despite the fact that he was named a suspected war criminal by Secretary of State Eagleberger during the final days of the Bush administration, and that he heads a government being sued for genocide before the International Court of Justice. The Clinton administration views the Serbian leader as the one who can deliver the Bosnian Serbs in support of a United States-brokered peace plan which will effectively divide Bosnian-Herzegovian along ethnic lines.

Is he really a new peacemaker or is he after something else? I fear the latter is true. Reeling under the devastating impact of economic sanctions imposed in 1992 by the U.N. on Serbia for its role in the wars in neighboring Croatia and Bosnia, Milosevic is keen to cut a deal which will pave the way for the sanctions to be lifted. I am not convinced he has given up on his dream of creating a "Greater Serbia."

The Clinton administration has embraced Milosevic as part of its full-court press to conclude a Bosnian peace accord, at almost any cost, as the presidential campaign season nears. Mr Speaker, I welcome the fact that the President has finally begun to focus on the crisis in Bosnia. At the same time, I have reservations about the conduct of the current negotiations and am vehemently opposed to allowing Mr. Milosevic into the United States.

Despite the hype and new spins, one fact is abundantly clear—Milosevic was the mastermind behind extreme Serb nationalism which spawned mayhem in Bosnia and Croatia and ultimately has led to the murder of tens of thousands of innocent civilians in these countries. Warren Zimmerman, the last United States Ambassador to Yugoslavia has observed "nobody in Belgrade doubts that the war in Bosnia is being masterminded by Milosevic in collusion with his Bosnian Serb henchman, Radovan Karadzic." Zimmerman has characterized the Serbian President as a liar "almost totally dominated by his dark side." The genocidal campaign unleashed by Milosevic has included the rape of tens of thousands of women, the destruction of thousands of mosques and Catholic churches, and the forcible expulsion of hundreds of thousands.

Mr. Speaker, the Bosnian Serb political and military leaders, Karadzic and Mladic, wouldn't dare step foot on United States soil following their indictment as war criminals by the U.N. War Crimes Tribunal in the Hague, earlier this year. There is a cruel irony in the fact that, with his lieutenants largely out of the picture, Milosevic has returned to center stage as the perceived linchpin to peace in the Balkans following a 4-year war of armed aggression and genocide which he, himself, set in motion.

In a speech launching a week-long commemoration at the University of Connecticut of the 50th anniversary of the Nuremberg trials, President Clinton solemnly declared "there must be peace of justice to prevail, but there must be justice when peace prevails." Apparently, the Clinton administration is prepared to put justice aside in their quest for peace in Bosnia which it believes hinges on Milosevic.

Mr. Speaker, I would submit that peace and justice can and should be pursued simultaneously. I agreed with President Clinton when he said, "By successfully prosecuting war criminals in the former Yugoslavia * * * we send a strong signal for those who would use the cover of war to commit terrible atrocities, that they cannot escape the consequences of such actions." But what signal is the Clinton administration sending by welcoming Milosevic to the United States?

Even those who accept Milosevic's participation in the current peace talks—for whatever reason—must acknowledge that the Serbian leader will garner a degree of credibility and prestige by being allowed to enter the United States. Furthermore, Mr. Speaker, by willingly admitting Milosevic, the Clinton administration calls into question its determination to see all war criminals, regardless of rank, brought to justice.

Mr. Speaker, the arrival of Slobodan Milosevic in the United States is repugnant to American principles and is an affront to the memory of the tens of thousands of innocent victims of the Balkan war.

For the RECORD, Mr. Speaker, I wish also to include a disturbing article which was published in the Christian Science Monitor on October 24, 1995.

SERBIA HELD RESPONSIBLE FOR MASSACRE OF BOSNIANS

(By David Rohde)

Officers from Serbia participated in the attack on the UN-declared "safe area" of Srebrenica, according to credible eyewitness accounts obtained by the Monitor. And senior Western diplomats and UN officials say Serbian President Slobodan Milosevic is responsible for the attack and the subsequent executions of thousands of Muslim civilians.

Muslim witnesses say that an officer from Serbia was directing the roundup of Muslim prisoners in the village of Konjevic Polje, and that a Serb officer captured by Muslim forces was following orders issued from the Serbian capital, Belgrade.

"The Serb officer said they were under orders from Belgrade not to allow any men to escape from Srebrenica," says Bosnian soldier Dzemal Malvic.

"All Muslim men were to be captured or killed," said Mr. Malovic, one of three Bosnian soldiers who say they spoke to and looked at identify papers of the captured Serbian captain.

In a separate interview, a Muslim officer confirmed that the Serbian officer had been captured. The Serbian officer's whereabouts are unknown, and he may have been killed later by Muslim forces.

Western diplomats have long suspected that the Bosnian Serb attack on Srebrenica in mid-July was approved by Belgrade, but the government of President Slobodan Milosevic has vehemently denied it.

Mr. Milosevic's involvement would be an embarrassment for the Clinton administration, eager to portray Milosevic—who will be attending peace talks in Ohio next week—as a peacemaker in the Balkans, not a war criminal.

"Whether by commission or omission, [Milosevic] is responsible, no question," says a senior UN military official based in Zagreb, Croatia. "He had plenty of sources on the ground there. He had to know what was happening, and either approved of it or did nothing to stop it."

A senior Western diplomat in Zagreb also says Milosevic is responsible for what is quickly emerging as one of the darkest hours of Bosnia's 3½ year conflict.

"I have no doubt he directly approved or tacitly approved of the taking of Srebrenica," the diplomat says. "Whether Milosenic knew [about the executions] or not, he knows what kind of man [Bosnian Serb Army commander Gen. Ratko] Mladic is and how he operates."

REPORTS OF MASS EXECUTIONS

Over 2,000 Muslim men were executed by Bosnian Serb forces following the fall of Srebrenica, according to nine survivors interviewed by the Monitor last month.

War-crimes investigators now have evidence that as many as 3,000 to 4,000 men were executed by the Bosnian Serbs, according to a senior UN official close to the investigation. "Wait until everything comes out," he says. "Then, people will understand how big this is."

The UN official close to the International War Crimes Tribunal in The Hague said mass graves ring the area around Srebrenica, and confirmed the existence of a new set of United States spy photos showing a new group of apparent mass graves near the village of Karakaj, as reported by the Boston Globe on Oct. 3.

The photos confirm the accounts of five men interviewed by the Monitor who say over 2,000 Muslim prisoners were executed near the town of Karakaj on July 18. The photos may be the basis for new indictments against General Mladic expected to be issued by the Tribunal.

Bosnian Serb officials have said that mass graves in the village of Nova Kasaba captured in US spy photos and visited by the Monitor in August contain the bodies of Muslim soldiers who were killed in combat and not executed.

But the Karakaj site is too far from the route that Muslim men would have followed to escape from Srebrenica, according to the UN official.

Mevludin Oric, a survivor of the Karakaj execution, said in an interview that one of the officers directing the roundup of prisoners in Konjevic Polje was a 40- to 45-year-old officer from Serbia. Mr. Oric is considered by war-crimes investigators to be one of their most credible witnesses. The Serbian officer was not present at the later execution, Oric added.

Who gave the order to execute thousands of prisoners remains unknown.

But evidence of Milosevic's involvement in Srebrenica has been mounting for months, and it is not known if Mladic would execute such a large number of men without at least the tacit approval of Serbian leaders in Belgrade.

Mladic, who eyewitnesses interviewed by the Monitor said was at Karakaj and three other executions sites during or just before executions began, had been visiting Belgrade regularly for weeks prior to the attack.

The Washington Post reported seeing Muslim soldiers driving a jeep with Yugoslav Army license plates on July 17. The Muslims said they had captured the jeep from forces involved in the attack on Srebrenica.

SERB DENIALS

Yugoslav officials have strenuously denied the accounts, but the Yugoslav Army and Arkan are believed to be tightly controlled by Milosevic, who holds an iron grip over Serbia's military.

Despite the growing evidence, Srebrenica survivors remain skeptical that Milosevic—whom the Clinton administration is depending on to force the Bosnian Serbs to agree to a peace deal—will be tied to or punished for Europe's worst massacre since World War II.

"It all depends on the politicians," Malovic says. "They could punish them, or reward them, for doing this."

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE GOVERNMENT OF PANAMA

HON. BILL RICHARDSON

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, October 30, 1995

Mr. RICHARDSON. Mr. Speaker, I had the privilege of meeting President Ernesto Perez Balladares of Panama for the first time last week. The occasion was a meeting hosted by Enrique Iglesias, president of the IDB, at which many senior level representatives of the U.S. Government agencies that closely follow the affairs of our two countries were present, as well as senior officials from the international financial institutions.

The feeling around the table was unanimous that the structural economic achievements obtained by President Perez Balladares' administration, after only 1 year in office, were considerable, particularly in terms of modernizing and opening up Panama's economy to private domestic and foreign investment.

These include modern legislation to streamline and level the playing field in terms of tax regulations and incentives; considerable flexibilization of heretofore rigid labor laws, and increased participation by the private sector in the key areas of telecommunications, energy, water supply, and ports. Increased investment in these areas are crucial for the successful implementation of the Panama Canal Treaties to which our two governments are fully committed.

Indeed, we heard as well from the Under Secretary of the Army, who is also Chairman of the Panama Canal Commission, a very positive report regarding the growing participation of Panamanians in the management and operation of the canal. I also took note of ongoing major capital investment projects designed to guarantee the future of the canal, in particular the widening of the Culebra Cut. It is fully financed from increases in revenues from canal operations that have taken place made over the last few years.

By treaty rights, Mr. Speaker, these revenues belong to Panama, and could have easily been used by the Panamanian Government for other much needed investments in social and economic development projects; instead, they have been allocated in a conscious and, in my view, responsible decision by the Perez Balladares administration, to maintain and improve the viability of the canal well into the next century.

I wish to share with my colleagues my personal congratulations to the Government of Panama, and particularly to its President, Mr. Ernesto Perez Balladares, for its courageous and decided leadership in the hemisphere; particularly on such difficult issues as the war on drugs; for I also note from very recent media and intelligence reports of continuing and large seizures by his government of shipments of illicit substances destined for our shores. These actions and other strong measures to control and prevent money laundering, I might add, are being carried out in full cooperation with U.S. Government agencies and those of other governments.

I am confident that the United States and Panama will continue to strengthen their relations as we enter delicate exploratory talks on some sort of presence of our military in the Isthmus after the year 2000. I took the opportunity to tell the distinguished President of Panama that I support such a presence, Mr. Speaker, and that the Congress will do its part to support any efforts to strengthen the ties that bind our two nations.

BUDGET CONFEREES SHOULD SUPPORT THE HOUSE-PASSED 2-YEAR EXTENSION OF JET FUEL EXEMPTION

HON. SAM JOHNSON

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, October 30, 1995

Mr. SAM JOHNSON of Texas. Mr. Speaker, over the past 5 years our airlines have posted losses of over $13 billion. This has caused almost one-half of those to file for chapter 11 bankruptcy with three of them closing their doors completely. Because of these financial setbacks and heavy Government mandates, over 120,000 U.S. jobs have been lost.

Therefore, I believe that budget reconciliation conferees should support the House-passed measure that extends for 2 years the exemption of the aviation jet fuel tax. This new tax was supported by the Democrats and the Clinton administration and passed as part of the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1993. I believe that this new tax will further burden the airline industry by imposing an additional $500 million in new taxes in addition to the $6.5 billion in excise taxes they already pay. To deny this extension could prove detrimental to the future of our airline industry when for the first time in 5 years they are showing slight improvements.

That is why it is so important that our budget conferees support the House-passed jet fuel extension that would give the airlines 2 years, not 17 months, to get back on the road to prosperity. The airlines are already facing a huge tax burden that affects their ability to operate and increases, by a substantial amount, the cost of traveling for all passengers. By delaying this tax, and eventually its repeal, we will help the airlines recover from a disastrous 5 years of losses, create more jobs, and decrease the travel cost for their passengers. I hope that my colleagues and the budget conferees will support the House position and eventually push for full repeal of this devastating tax.

THE WHITE HOUSE CONFERENCE ON TRAVEL AND TOURISM

HON. VICTOR O. FRAZER

OF THE VIRGIN ISLANDS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, October 30, 1995

Mr. FRAZER. Mr. Speaker, today I would like to welcome the 1,700 delegates attending the White House Conference on Travel and Tourism to Washington, DC. It is with great price and honor that I also welcome Mrs. Angela Belfon, co-owner of World Wide Travel of St. Thomas, a small business person, as my delegate to the conference.

Small businesses represent the largest creator of jobs in the Nation. The travel and tourism industry is a major employer in the Virgin Islands, consisting primarily of small businesses. This vital segment of our economy must be supported.

Government can play a major role by fostering a partnership with the private sector. This partnership recognizes the importance of the industry as well as the Government's role in monitoring and promoting the travel and tourism industry.

The White House Conference on Travel and Tourism is a good example of how Government and businesses can work together to build a stronger economy.

TRIBUTE TO GENE YODER

HON. TIM ROEMER

OF INDIANA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, October 30, 1995

Mr. ROEMER. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay special tribute to Mr. Gene Yoder of Goshen, Indiana. Gene is retiring this year as Chairman of the American Association of Homes and Services for the Aging, a position he has held since 1993.

No one has done more to care for older Americans in northern Indiana than Gene Yoder. For the past 25 years, Gene has served as President and CEO of Greencroft, Inc., a campus of senior housing and long-term care services in Goshen.

Greencroft has provided high quality housing and health care to hundreds of senior citizens over the years. In addition to his work at Greencroft, Gene has touched the lives of thousands of older Americans who reside in more than 5,000 long-term care facilities around the country which he has represented as AAHSA's leader.

Most recently, Gene led an AAHSA delegation which met privately with President Clinton to share concerns about the future of health care and social programs for the elderly. In addition, he served as a delegate to the 1995 White House Conference on Aging.

Gene has also taken an active leadership role on the State level, having served as President of the Indiana Association of Homes for the Aging in 1986, and as a member of the Elkhart County Council of Aging from 1982–83.

Gene's impressive career in services to the aging is clearly a labor of love. He consistently strives to raise awareness about the issues facing the elderly. In his 2-year tenure as Chair of AAHSA, he has helped lead the fight to reduce the use of physical and chemical restraints in long-term care facilities, and has championed the establishment of ethics committees in nursing homes.

Although Gene is stepping down as chairman of AAHSA, he will continue his service to senior citizens through his work at Greencroft and other endeavors. It is a great pleasure for me to pay tribute today to this truly inspiring American, whose lifetime of service to not-for-profit aging services organizations and older Americans is an example for all.

HON. BOBBY L. RUSH

OF ILLINOIS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, October 30, 1995

Mr. RUSH. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to the South Street Journal, a community-based newspaper on Chicago's South Side, on the occasion of their second anniversary.

The South Street Journal has always prided itself on social responsibility-providing objective and insightful news while keeping in mind the welfare of the residents of the communities it services. It has built a strong foundation of not only disseminating information but also encouraging communities to become involved in the current events and politics that affect them.

For 2 years, the South Street Journal has provided Chicago's South Side with an informative and relevant community newspaper that fosters open dialog on current events and helps to strengthen community relations. They have helped register voters and have provided a voice to communities that are sometimes overlooked.

South Side communities such as Washington Park, Hyde Park, Douglas, Oakland, Kenwood, Woodlawn, Fuller Park, Armour Square, Grand Boulevard, and the Gap have all seen the benefits the Journal has provided.

Mr. Speaker, today I stand here to formally recognize the South Street Journal for their contribution to the South Side of Chicago, the State of Illinois, and the United States of America.

I am pleased to enter these words of commendation into the RECORD.

THE DEATH PENALTY

Mr. REID. Mr. President, almost 2 years ago, Senator BRYAN and I traveled with a mother to Arlington Cemetery. We traveled there because her son, just a month before we went to Arlington, had been gunned down on an interstate near Lovelock, NV. He thought a car was stalled, and as he approached the car to offer his assistance, the driver of the car came from the car and brutally murdered this Nevada highway patrolman. What the police officer, officer Carlos Borland, did not know was that the man driving the car was an escaped convict from North Carolina.

It was one of the saddest occasions in which I have ever participated. It was a cold winter day. The entire attendance at the funeral was Senator BRYAN, Senator REID, and the mother of this young man, her only child. She was very proud of him. He was an exemplary student in high school. He had had a great record in the military and chose as his life's profession that of a police officer. She was devastated.

Mr. President, the story does not end there, however, at least for his mother. A week ago, in a Reno newspaper, the Reno Gazette-Journal, wrote an article on the status of various death row cases. Officer Borland's mother is quoted in this news article as saying, "My son gave his life for his State and his country. Give (Sonner)"—the man who killed her son—"the death penalty and he lives for 40 or 50 years. That's not a death penalty. They lie to us."

"We have a death penalty and it's being thwarted by murderers," the article goes on to say.

Mr. President, the reason I mention this is because Nevada has the highest per capita death row population in the entire Nation, more than double that of Texas. The State of Texas has recently executed its 100th inmate since 1977.

It does not matter whether you are for or against the death penalty. The fact is we are a country of laws and the laws should be carried out, and it is wrong what is happening throughout this Nation and in Nevada. People get the death penalty, and as the mother of this executed highway patrolman says, "My son gave his life for his State and his country. Give (Sonner)"—this is the murderer—"the death penalty and he lives for 40 or 50 years. That's not a death penalty. They lie to us." She goes on to say he will probably live longer than she will. Why is this going on?

Let me give you the death sentence appeal process in Nevada, and it is similar in a lot of different places. First, automatic first appeal before the Nevada Supreme Court. If it is denied, you have a petition for a rehearing before the Nevada Supreme Court. If that is denied, you have a petition before the U.S. Supreme Court. If that is denied, you have a postconviction relief petition in the trial court, and if that is denied you appeal again before the Nevada Supreme Court. If that is denied, you petition for rehearing before the Nevada Supreme Court. If that is denied, you go to the Supreme Court.

This is the second time. If that is denied, you petition before a Federal court. If that is denied, then you petition for a rehearing in the same court. And if that is denied, you go to the ninth circuit, or whatever other circuit if it is not in Nevada. If that is denied, you have a petition for a rehearing. If that is denied, you go to the U.S. Supreme Court. If that is denied, then you go back to the Federal Court and take each step over and over again.

This is simply not right. As everyone is aware, this body passed comprehensive habeas reform earlier this year as part of the Antiterrorism Act. We must see to this legislation being signed into law.

It is time to put an end to the endless appeals. Why do I say that? Take the small State of Nevada. In Nevada, a man by the name of McKegue, in August 1979, killed William and Irene Henry during a robbery. He entered prison in August 1971. He was sentenced to die. He is still there. Edward T. Wilson stabbed to death a Reno police officer, Jimmy Hoff. On June 25, 1979, he was committed to be executed. He is still alive. Robert Ybarra, in 1979, murdered a girl outside Ely, NV. He is still alive even though he has been sentenced to death. Ronnie Milligan, he murdered a 77-year-old woman on July 4, 1980. He is still alive even though he has been sentenced to death. Mark Rogers murdered two women and a man outside of a mining camp near Lovelock, NV. He is still alive even though he has been sentenced to death.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that this entire article be made a part of the RECORD so that we can spread on the RECORD of this Congress what is taking place in Nevada and is taking place in almost every State in the Union where there is a death penalty, which is far the majority, and as this newspaper article indicates that people are laughing at the law because it is farcical.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

TRIMMING TIME ON DEATH ROW

(By Bill O'Driscoll)

It's been a year since the parents of slain Nevada Highway Patrol Trooper Carlos Borland heard a Lovelock jury give his killer, Michael Sonner, the death sentence.

Sonner, who once said he wanted to die, is now appealing. And Maria Borland says she may die of old age before the North Carolina escapee is executed by lethal injection for shooting her son along Interstate 80 in late 1993.

"My son gave his life for his state and his country," she said. "Give (Sonner) the death penalty and he lives for 40, 50 years. That's not a death penalty. They lie to us."

Her husband says Sonner's execution won't bring back their son, but until it happens, justice won't be complete.

"(Sonner) is in confinement with three meals a day, free dental and medical—somethings that people on the street can only fantasize having," Jimmy Borland said.

The Borlands are not alone. The number of inmates on Nevada's Death Row stands at 76, including Duc Cong Huynh and Alvaro Calamboro, both convicted for the January 1994 killings of Peggy Crawford and Keith Christopher at a Reno U-Haul rental.

But just five inmates have been executed since the death penalty was reinstated in 1977, none against his wishes.

A state lawmaker is creating a committee to draft recommendations for Congress and the 1997 Nevada Legislature on how to shorten the distance from conviction to execution.

"We have a death penalty and it's being thwarted by murderers," said Sen. Mark James, R-Las Vegas, who hopes to gather 25 to 30 lawmakers, judges and law enforcement officers on the panel.

"I see no reason why we can't get a finality within two years, even with safeguards," said Washoe District Attorney Dick Gammick, who will be on the panel. "There has to be a time when we say, 'That's enough.'"

Keith Munro of the attorney general's office said the biggest problem is the turnover in attorneys along the way. Each usually tries to return the appeals process to the beginning so as not to inherit the previous lawyer's work.

"Death sentence cases are very complex. Attorneys get tired of them and want to get off. But you can't address that in legislation," he said.

The dizzying appeals process is one that always allows an inmate to try again, Munro said, but with each repeated step, the excuse to get there cannot be used anew.

Still, "You can litigate these cases until they wheel the inmate out of the death chamber," he said.

But there are some time-saving measures already in place. James and others applaud the Nevada Supreme Court for its rule several years ago requiring daily transcripts in capital murder trials to keep lawyers abreast of the cases.

James said two bills that are bogged down in Congress would expedite appeals where they clog the most: the federal courts.

On the other end of the table, State Public Defender James J. Jackson admits the process is a long one, but often necessarily so.

"A lot of the reason why cases get hung up in the federal courts are concerned about a lack of effective counsel," Jackson said. "Yeah it could be more expedited, but when you're talking about the ultimate penalty, yeah, it'll take more time.

Nevada has the highest per-capita Death Row population in the nation, more than double that of Texas, which recently executed its 100th inmate since 1977.

But Texas is the exception, due largely to the lack of attorneys for inmates even up to the time of execution, said Michael Pescetta of the Nevada Appellate and Post-Conviction Project, a Las Vegas-based non-profit agency for the defense of Death Row cases.

"In a 'giddyap' state like Texas, it's not uncommon for a lawyer to see a case for the first time three weeks or a month before the scheduled execution," Pescetta said. "Justice is geared to denying cases and getting on with it, It's not pretty. In Nevada, at least there's an attempt to take more care."

In fact, he said, Nevada is typical of most of the 38 other states where the death penalty is allowed.

But Pescetta senses changing winds in Nevada, saying, "The political landscape has gotten considerably meaner."

James denies any political motivation in forming an ad hoc committee to study reforms.

"The people have said they want the death penalty. We have to do something," he said.

Jimmy Borland agrees.

"They're technically entitled to two appeals. But we're not playing a baseball game here," he said. "If you're going to have a death penalty, then do it."

DEATH SENTENCE APPEAL PROCESS

Automatic first appeal before Nevada Supreme Court. If denied:

Petition for rehearing before Nevada Supreme Court. If denied:

Petition before U.S. Supreme Court. If denied:

Petition for post-conviction relief in trial court. If denied:

Appeal before Nevada Supreme Court. If denied:

Petition before U.S. Supreme Court. If denied, either:

Petition before federal court; if denied, then petition for rehearing in same court; if denied, appeal to 9th Circuit Court of Appeals; if denied, petition for rehearing; if denied, appeal before Supreme Court, if denied, then back to federal court and each step thereafter may be repeated, but at each step inmate must explain why he didn't use excuse before. Or:

Petition for post-conviction relief in trial court; if denied, then appeal to Nevada Supreme Court; if denied, then appeal to U.S. Supreme Court. If denied, back to trial court and each step thereafter may be repeated, but at each step inmate must explain why he didn't use excuse before.
